HARVEST TIME IS YOUR PAYOFF!

To keep your machinery on the job — use RED INDIAN AVIATION MOTOR OIL

A year's work lies behind you, Mr. Farmer. Make it count by giving your machinery the lubrication that will ensure its efficient operation during harvest time—that will safeguard it against breakdowns during this precious period.

Ask the McColl-Frontenac Representative in your district for Red Indian Aviation Motor Oil—the oil that helps to ensure full power with economy under all operating conditions—the oil that stands up under highest engine heat—that combats corrosion, friction and wear—the oil that flows and lubricates the moment the engine starts.

TOURS AIR OBSERVER SCHOOL IN EDMONTON

While on a holiday in Edmonton last week R. B. Spencer and son Raymond had the good fortune to be shown through the No. 2 plant of the Air Observers school, seeing the men's quarters, control tower, hangars and different types of planes. To top off an exceedingly interesting visit, they were given a flight out to Sedgewick and return. Reg speaks very highly of the courtesy extended by officials of the plant, meeting Sgt. A. Pickering who conducted them on their tour, Sgt.-Major Scott, a veteran of several wars, Ginger Coote former well known boxer, flier, and assistant manager. Playland.

All of these air officials were deeply interested in the Vermilion landing field which pilots in training make a continuous use of now, and they are very anxious to see all the proper facilities installed here. They are prepared to support all representations to that end made to the Minister of Transport. Mr. Spencer explained the field lay-out in detail and several officials from the A.O.S. plan on paying an inspection visit very shortly. As you know we believe.

ALLOWANCE OF JAM, JELLIES UNDER RATION IS ANNOUNCED

The Prices Board have announced ration allowances for jams, jellies ...ngs canned fruit and similar pro ducts. Sales of these goods were suspended until Sept 2, when "D" coupons from the No 3 ration book be come valid for spot-priced and other goods of this type. Two "D" coupons will become good each month. For each coupon the purchaser will have the choice of,

1. Six fluid ounces of jam jelly, marmalade, extracted honey, apple butter maple butter or honey butter.

2. Two fluid ounces of molasses or maple syrup or

3. Two fluid ounces of corn syrup, cane syrup or any blended table syrup or;

4. One-half pound of maple sugar or comb honey in squares.

As an alternative to any of these commodities the consumer may obtain for his "D" coupons one half lb of sugar

The ration plan is similar to that used for meats since the consumer may "spend" a coupon for any one of the commodities rationed . . . depending on his choice and upon what is available," the board's announcement said.

The "D" coupons will become good on the same dates as sugar coupons The board said the plan will make for a more equitable distribution of commercially packed preserves and home-made preserves, as well as providing the alternative of the extra sugar for "D" coupons. There will be no restriction on the use or sugar obtained in this way.

"It is possible to make more sugar available because of the substantial reduction in the commercial pack of jams, jellies and canned fruits or cornered by the short fruit crop and the consequent reduction in sugar used for their preparation," the board said.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Canteens for African troops are being opened in Accra, Kumasi and Takoradi in the Gold Coast.

Three thousand tons of military supplies were rescued by South African engineers from a freighter stranded less than 100 miles from Cape Town.

The number of French prisoners of war still held in German prison camps is 872,475, on the basis of a report from the International Red Cross at Geneva.

Italian priests in Palestine, who were interned when Italy entered the war and later were released under supervision, now have been freed of all restrictions.

The Stokesby, a torpedoed British 7,000-ton steamer, has been reclaimed and is on active service again after lying at the bottom of the sea for 26 months.

Alberta's coal production for the nine months ended June 30, 1943, increased 286,976 tons over the like period last year. Total output was 3,673,097 tons, compared with 3,-406,121 tons.

For the first time since General Franco assumed power in Spain, theatres in Madrid recently showed English newsreels and Spanish newspapers published the time schedules of American broadcasts.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported the number of persons insured under the terms of the Unemployment Insurance Act at the end of August, 1942, totalled 2,438,-917, of which 1,730,572 were male and 708,345 were female.

Tons Of Rubber Tires For Salvage

Two tons of rubber tires, worth their weight in wartime utility, this truck-load went as a gift from the Central District, Canadian Pacific Air Lines, Winnipeg, to the Patriotic Salvage Corps, August 10. The load is made up of Fairchild, Fokker, Super Fokker and WACO 'planes of the C.P.A. which have clocked all the mileage possible in the interests of safety and are now ready for still more defiants war jobs. The gift was handed over to salvage headquarters by Dale S. Atkinson, supervisor of stores and equipment for the central district of C.P.A., Winnipeg, where his office was set up last January to serve C.P. Air Lines stores and equipment needs for all of Canada. Mr. Atkinson appears in the foreground.

Making A Speech

Pausing For Emphasis One Of The Elements For Effective Speaking

One of the characteristic elements of effective speaking is the use of the pause. There is nothing like a good stop. It implies the significance of what has just been said and induces curiosity for what is to follow. It permits a natural and welcome change of pitch. Young speakers are sometimes afraid that a pause will be mistaken for hesitation. Audiences instinctively know the difference, but a little clumsy or dubious hesitation is better than an unvarying, breathless hurry. "Take your time and keep your thought well ahead of your language," is sound advice. Silence is an important part of speech.—From "The Speaker's Notebook," by William G. Hill.

Welded ships weigh about 13 per cent. less than riveted ships, because welded steel plates do not have to overlap.

Fewer Flashlights

Torch Batteries Are No Longer For Careless Use

Because of the shortage of metal, fewer flashlight batteries can now be made in the Dominion. Flashlight batteries are doing important jobs overseas and here in Canada. Thousands of them are being used every night not only by the men in the armed forces, but by workers in industrial plants. Many of these workers need flashlights to perform their tasks in dark, cramped quarters where other light is not available.

Don't waste flashlight batteries by using the flashlight continuously. Snap it on only when it is needed, then snap it off just as quickly. Needless use of a flashlight wastes "juice" and shortens the life of batteries.

Keep flashlights well out of the way of the youngsters. They are fascinating play things but are also invaluable aids in emergency and should be kept in good working order.

Married Men

Statistics Show They Have The Best Chances Of Survival

The chances of survival are greater for the married than for the single, much more so among men than among women. Not only does marriage select the healthier lives, but it also creates more healthful environment. The marked advantage of married men over bachelors in respect to mortality persists throughout life, and is greatest at ages from 30 to 44 years, the period during which they are raising their families. At these ages the death rates among the married men are just about half those for the single. —Metropolitan Life Bulletin.

Editors Are Having Hard Time With Correspondents' Style

Editor & Publisher tells this story: Among the casualties on the home front in this war are the tempers of small town editors who find it necessary to draft high school boys to replace printers, some gone into the armed forces, others to better paying jobs.

One of these neophytes was setting ads in the office of Somerset (Pa.) American the other day. The copy called for "½ inch of white space all around."

"What's white space?" the pseudo-printer asked the Plant Supt. Howard Brougher, who took the count, almost.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SEPTEMBER 5

ISRAEL CALLED TO BE A HOLY PEOPLE

Golden text: Ye shall be holy; for I am holy. 1 Peter 1:16.

Lesson, Book of Leviticus.

Devotional reading: Leviticus 26: 3-12.

Explanations and Comments

Reverence of Parents, Hallowing of Sabbath, Avoidance of Idolatry Emphasized

Leviticus 19:1-4. Chapters 17-26 of Leviticus record laws which deal mainly with moral and ceremonial matters. Sixteen times in our chapter 19 are repeated the words, "For I Jehovah your God." "I am Jehovah your God," "I am Jehovah," a solemn reminder of the higher authority of the words which are addressed to the whole people.

Ye shall be holy; for I Jehovah your God am holy. To be imitators of God, as dear children, exhorts Paul (Eph. 5:1). Like as he who called you is holy, be ye yourselves also holy in all manner of living; because it is written, ye shall be holy; for I am holy, 1 Peter 1:15.

"The primary and fundamental idea of 'holiness' is 'separateness'. In God this implies its transcendence, his remoteness from everything earthly and wrong. In us it means separation in the sense of consecration to God. Practically speaking consistency is the basic truth wherever holiness is found in the Scripture. Then follows a natural and necessary consequence, that the separateness in God indicates his unique character, while in us it means purity of heart and life."—H. Bushnell, Thomas).

Ye shall fear every man his mother, and his father. Here "fear" evidently stands with "respect," honor," and recalls the fifth commandment. And ye shall keep my sabbaths. Keep the fourth commandment. Turn ye not unto idols, nor make yourselves molten gods: I am your God.

Attitude of All Parts of Personality Should Be Spiritual

Leviticus 19:11, 12. Ye shall not steal, nor deal falsely, nor lie, nor swear falsely. Here we have the eighth commandment expanded. And ye shall defame the name" of Jehovah refers to the third commandment.

Considerate Treatment of Helpless Is Emphasized

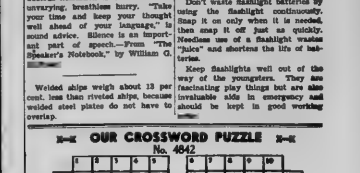
Leviticus 19:13. Ye shall not oppress thy neighbor, nor rob him. The Rights of All Must Be Considered. Leviticus 19: 15, 16. Your court of judgment shall judge righteously, showing no partiality to the poor man just because he is poor, and no deference to the powerful man just because he is powerful: neither the poor nor the rich are to be wronged because of their poverty or their wealth.

THE TWO SIDES

An employee, guiding a guest through a Detroit newspaper plant, was explaining the city room layout.

"On this side are the reporters. They write, but can't spell. On that side are the copy-readers. They spell, but can't write."

Welding Flashlights



Welded flashlights are the way of the youngsters. They are fascinating play things but are also invaluable aids in emergency and should be kept in good working order.

THE HUMAN COMEDY

Adapted from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture by BEATRICE CANNER

CHAPTER VI

The door had opened and closed Tom Spangler was there. He was touching Mr. Gregor. He knew in a minute how things were. He telephoned for the doctor. Then he picked Gregor up in his arms and put him on the office couch.

Homer sat still, on an island of terrible quiet. The telegram was crushed in his hand.

Spangler, misunderstanding, spoke softly. "I feel bad Homer. He was an old man. He had a bad heart. He knew he would go suddenly. This is the way he wanted it to be. Come on now." The telegraph box started again and Spangler leaped to it. His face changed as the unfinished message came through—complete this time. Marcus Macauley was gone. He had met death in action.

The doctor and the relief operator arrived.

Spangler put his arm around Homer and took him out.

Going along the street, anywhere, nowhere, Homer's feet dragged heavily. He held up the telegram. "I can't take this home . . . I can't tell Ma and Bess and Mary yet. How am I going to go into the house and look at them? They'll know. The minute they see me. I don't want to tell them till they'll know."

Let's walk awhile," Spangler said.

They kept on, towards the courthouse, through the park. "He said he might go in his letter," Homer said dully. "He said he was ready." Then he broke out fiercely. "I can't figure it all out. All I want to know is, what about my brother? Nothing like this has ever happened to me before. When my father died it was different. He had lived a good life the way he wanted to. He had a family. We were sad but we weren't sore. I'm sore. What's a fellow supposed to do?"

Spangler tried to find the words that would say the right thing. He fought within himself to find those words. "I'm not going to try to comfort you Homer. I know I couldn't. Your brother didn't want to go. He wanted to stay. He will stay in the love you have for him."

Homer's body shook with a frustrated fury. How could the world do this to him? What was good about it? "But I want to see Marcus. I can't help it. I want to see him walking around. I want to touch him I want to talk to him. I even want to have fights with him the way we used to. Where will I find him? If I look everywhere I won't find him. The world is different now. People are different. Everything I touch is changed because my brother won't be here again."

Spangler again searched for those right words. "Try to remember Homer that the best of him will never die You will see him many times in things that will remind you every day. In your home, in the streets, places where he has been, in the vineyards and orchards where he worked, in the river he knew and the clouds that float over it. The greater part of a good man stays. It stays forever." He pointed to the green "Any good at pitching horseshoes?"

Out of his bleak heart Homer replied. "I'm not very."

"Neither am I. Would you care to pitch a game with me before it's too dark?"

"I'm air." The game began. Homer knew that his hand was picking up the horseshoes, flinging them in their mark. His whole body hurt as if somebody had beaten him up. But he kept on for a while. Then he stopped back. "Mr. Spangler I don't feel like playing any more. They're waiting for me at home now. I know they are. I said I'd be home for supper."

Spangler's eyes pleaded with him. "Homer, please! Don't go home yet. Wait just a while."

Homer passed past him. "You needn't be afraid. I remember—I said Mr. Gregan that if my brother was killed I'd spit at the world. I'd be the meanest bit of ever lived! A flash of shame stained his face. "Pitch a fellow talks that way but I guess you never know what you'll do until it really happens." His shoulders sagged a little. "Maybe I'll get it straight somehow after a while." He sat down on one of the benches.

Spangler nodded. "I think you'd like to be alone just now . . ."

Homer and Dawn in the soft light of the street lamp. It was very quiet. The world and its doings seemed far off. Then, in that suspended moment, he felt lighter as if a weight were rolling off his back.

Up on high Matthew saw him. "It will take a little time my son, a little time . . . for the pain of the Marcus that died, to die in you too, the part that is only Sean and the part that comes and goes. They are dying is hurting you now but wait a little while. When it leaves you will find new strength."

For the moment Homer sat straighter now. Courage and faith were flowing into his veins.

"This strength will bring you closer than ever to the best that is in all men. You remember what he said. 'You must go on . . . you are what we are fighting the war for.' Yes Homer, you are what we have left behind, in the house that we have only dreamed, the matchless dreams of what man can be. . . ."

Now Matthew saw someone else, a lone soldier who had been wandering around the town. The soldier was talking to himself.

"Yes, this is Ithaca with the Ithaca sky over it. There's the Public Library—the Presbyterian church. There' Ithaca High—and that's the Athletic Field. "There's the Court-house Park . . ." He had reached the Macauley house. Through the window we could hear him mingled with the sonorous drone . . . sonny of a harp and piano. "And here's the house. . . . here's home. Ma and Bess. Ulysses. I am home at last."

All of this was his inheritance from Marcus. His friend had left him his birthright, his place in the world. He would be worthy of it. He turned as a boy came running down the street.

It was Homer. He looked at the soldier unbelievingly. Then he hesitated. For a moment, I thought I knew you. Is Ithaca your home?"

"Yes. I mean, I hope it is."

"Then you don't have to go home!"

The soldier looked at his injured leg. "They've got me home for good. I just got off the train."

"Well your family must be waiting for you. . . . The soldier didn't answer. "Is his own surprise Homer said, "Won't you come in? I live here." Something had made him shy it, some voice.

Now the soldier's face lighted up "Then . . . you're Homer. I've been looking for you."

"How did you know my name? Who are you?"

The soldier's smile was sweet and wide. "I don't know who I am because I'm an orphan. But I know who you are. And your mother and Bess and your brother Ulysses. You see, Marcus was my friend." He reached into his pocket. "He sent you this Homer," his class ring. He always said — if anything happened to him he wanted you to have it."

Homer slipped the ring on his finger. "Then—you are Toby! You must be—"

"Yes."

Marcus' friend. Homer and Toby smiled at each other with the tender pain of remembrance. Then Homer put out his hand and Toby took it Comradeship and brotherhood flowed from one to the other like the stream of life.

Homer brought out the telegram "This came awhile ago."

"What are you going to do?" Toby asked.

Slowly, Homer tore the message into shreds. His chin was up, his eyes bright with tears. "We'll go in together." He called. "Ma, Bess, Ulysses. Open the door. The soldier's come home."

The family came to the door but the music seemed to continue on and on and on. The kindly lamp light illumined them all. It was as if they knew about Marcus already and were welcoming the stranger in his place. They all went in.

Outside, in a radiant Heavenly light, were the spirits of Matthew the father and Marcus the son. Together they passed through the door to join the others. Now the family was complete again.

To music in the Macauley home rose exultantly. To any who heard it was a song of human love

Absence Of Christmas Tree May Make Day More Real

A statement issued recently from a government department at Ottawa says that owing to shortage of labor and transport, no Christmas trees will be cut this year.

That will cause a lot of dismay throughout the land.

Apropos this matter, note what verses there and four chapter 10, of Jeremiah, say:

"For the customs of the people are vain: for one cutteth a tree out of the forest, the work of the hands of the workman, with the axe.

"They deck it with silver and with gold; they fasten it with nails and hammers that it move not."

Jeremiah was the greatest of the Hebrew prophets, and as he is traditionally believed to have been the author of Lamentations he is spoken of as a gloomy man. Christmas trees were not known in Bible times, so Jeremiah was neither prophesying about them nor lamenting over them. He was speaking of trees being cut and fashioned into idols of wood.

But there is a link in thought between these verses and the decree from Ottawa.

At Christmastime many people think far more about their Christian Saviour than they do about Christ. Old and young, they give themselves up more excitedly to the choice, erection and decoration of the tree, and subsequently to the contemplation of the gifts surrounding it, than to any other feature of the Christmas season. Literally it has become an object of worship. It is made the fulcrum of the Christmas celebration.

If there are no Christmas trees next December, their absence may remind many people of something they habitually neglect giving a thought to.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

WHY endure SORE FEET? JUST RUB IN MINARD'S LINE OF PAIN LINIMENT

SALADS

We should have at least one fresh, raw, vegetable each day. Salads are the answer.

In a salad you can serve an endless variety of the fruits and vegetables which are so rich in minerals and vitamins. Because you can use almost any kind of food in the making of salads, they may solve the problem of using left-overs.

If you include generous proportions of meat, fish, poultry, cheese or egg in your salad, you may serve it as a main dish. Salads consisting chiefly of fruits and vegetables may be served as an accompaniment to a meal or in the case of fruit salads as a dessert.

If you follow the simple rules advocated by the Women's Institutes Branch, you will have an appetizing salad.

(1) Use clean, crisp, tender greens.
(2) Keep all salad materials dry and well chilled.
(3) Cut the ingredients in attractive shapes and suitable sizes.
(4) Use foods to make good flavour and colour combinations.
(5) Add sufficient dressing to season well but not enough to make the salad watery.
(6) Add the dressing just before serving.
(7) Use strong flavour, such as onion, sparingly.
(8) Make an attractive arrangement, avoid a flat effect.
(9) Select a suitable garnish, preferably one that may be eaten.

When making salads the ingredients use a spoon or fork and toss them together lightly with the dressing. Almost any proportion of ingredients may be used.

To serve with your salad you may choose one of several things. Hot cheese biscuits, hard rolls, crisp crackers, toast fingers, melba toast or cheese straws You could spread crackers with butter and brown in the oven or add grated cheese. Toast fingers are made by cutting stale bread in slices ½" thick, spread the slices with butter and then cut into ½" wide strips Bake in hot oven until browned.

SELECTED RECIPES

BIRDS' NEST SURPRISE

3 cups broken uncooked macaroni
1½ cups cooked tomatoes
½ small green pepper, chopped
1 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 small or ½ medium onion (chopped)
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 cups ground uncooked meat
2 tablespoons fat

Cook macaroni in a generous amount of boiling salted water until tender. Drain and add salt to taste. Combine cooked macaroni, tomatoes, chopped green pepper and parsley, onion, salt and pepper. Turn into well-greased 1½-quart casserole. Shape meat into tiny rounds and fry quickly in hot fat until evenly browned. Bury in macaroni mixture and bake in a slow oven (300-325 degrees F.) until meat is thoroughly cooked and the mixture is fully flavoured (1 to 1½ hours). Serves 6.

BAKED CUP-CUSTARDS

2 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup like Blue Golden corn syrup
1¼ cups hot milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Beat eggs (or 4 egg-yolks) slightly with the salt. Add corn syrup. Stir in hot milk and add vanilla. Strain into moistened custard cups and if desired sprinkle with a little grated nutmeg. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in rather slow oven, 325 degrees F. about 35 minutes or until set so that a knife inserted in the centre comes out clean. Chill and if desired, unmould for serving.

WEDDING BELLS

HILDEBRAND—BLAKE

A quiet wedding was solemnized in the Lloydminster Presbyterian church on Sunday August 22nd, when Miriam Blake, youngest daughter of Mr. C. Blake of Lea Park, Alberta, was united in marriage to Vera Hildebrand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hildebrand of Vermilion. The Rev. Andrew Walker officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated with summer flowers for the occasion.

The bride was lovely in a crepe dress of Queen's blue with white accessories and wore a corsage of tea roses. Her only ornament was a gold locket.

Mrs. Laura Veory, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Florence Plinke, sister of the bride, acted as matrons of honor. Mrs. Veory wore a beige crepe afternoon dress with white accessories and a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Plinske was dressed in a pink crepe afternoon frock with a corsage of orange blossoms and rose buds.

Following the ceremony the happy young couple motored to Vermilion where they will reside until Vera returns for duty with Canada's armed forces.

At a reception held at the home of the groom, some 50 guests called to wish the newlyweds a long and happily married life.

RATION BOOKS DISTRIBUTED

Several thousand ration books were distributed by the ladies of the Canadian Legion W.A. from the Legion hall last week. The hall was just about the busiest spot in town and only the first class organization carried on by the ladies could have done the job they have, under the distribution possible.

JUNIOR CLUB PROGRESS DURING THE WAR

It is interesting to note that in spite of certain difficulties during these war years, the membership of the Alberta Junior Farm and Home Clubs continues to be well maintained and compares favorably with that of the past several years. Mr. S. H. Gandier, Director of Junior Activities, advises that there are at present more stock and crop clubs in active operation than in 1938, the year before the war began. In 1938, the stock and crop clubs numbered 153 with a membership of 2,984. This year there are 180 stock and crop clubs with a total membership of 3,200. The present list of stock clubs shows 30 in the beef calf project, 18 in swine, 9 dairy clubs and 8 in poultry. In the crop projects there are 29 in oat clubs, 22 wheat, 20 feed barley, 19 malting barley, 7 fodder crops, 3 potato and 1 flax. In addition to the above, 7 girls' garden clubs are operating in the Brooks and Olds districts and approximately 40 Home Economics clubs for girls are also on the active list. The Junior Farm and Home Clubs are under the direction of the Extension Branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

INDIAN CHIEFS AWED BY AVIATION WONDERS

WINNIPEG.—"Lots of white men say there is no God," observed Chief Henry Pidler, head of the Indian reserve at Island Lake, visiting Winnipeg's airport today, "yet they see the gifts He gave them to make all these wonderful things." He was on his first trip to Winnipeg and he was thrilled by the electric lights, the street cars and the big buildings. Then he saw the Trans-Canada Air Lines hangar and the aircraft he saw coming in from the East.

Chief Pidler expressed his astonishment in Cree, for he speaks no English, but Chief Prince of Hodgson, great-grandson of the famous Peguis, interpreted for him. With them was Chief Thomas Pidler, a cousin, of Fairmable Lake, Ontario.

The three Indian chiefs, who attracted a great deal of attention at the airport with their blue uniforms, embellished with gold braid and brass buttons and red stripes down their trousers, were taken to the airport by Roy Snyder, Commissioner for the Red Cross, on a treat for the work they have done for the Red Cross. Largely through their efforts, the Indians of Manitoba and Ontario have made generous contributions in the Red Cross in money and furs. D. R. MacLaren, superintendent of passenger service for Trans-Canada, attended the chiefs in an informal welcome in Cree.

DEATH OF PONOKA PIONEER RECALLS VERMILION TRAGEDY

The death of Jonas Henry Myer at the age of 70 years in Ponoka recently recalls a tragedy which took the lives of his three little daughters early in the history of the Vermilion district.

The Myer family were living south of Vermilion in 1907, and the three little girls were killed by flying logs from their home when a tornado swept a path across the country. They were attempting to reach a place of safety from the storm when the logs blew on them. The three little graves of the Myer children can still be seen in the local cemetery.

The weather this week reverted to the cool showery type, which is very definitely not what is needed now. A very slight frost, on Sept. 1st, did no damage to crops, was registered in the low spots on Wednesday night.

"WHITEY" RETURNS

J. L. Wilson, pioneer Vermilion oil driller returned this week from Dawson Creek where he has successfully completed the drilling of a big natural gas well for the Alaska Highway Oil and Gas Company. This well is located 36 miles north-east of Dawson Creek and has a reported flow of 9½ million cubic feet per day. The well was drilled to 2,170 feet.

33-YEAR-OLD TICKET PRESERVED BY MOTHER EARTH

Certain cleaning out and excavating operations in the basement of the Imperial Bank of Commerce when gas was being installed recently unearthed an admission ticket to a lecture which was held in the Anglican church on Tuesday, Feb 22, 1910 at 8 p.m. Admission was 25c. In spite of a sojourn in Mother Earth which must have been of many years duration, the condition of the card was excellent with the printing clear and card unworn in any way. In fact it was in much better shape than the average card carried round in an ordinary pocket for a few days.

The ticket was found in the dry earth near the furnace which accounts for its extraordinary state of preservation.

CALL FOR WALKER EDUCATION HERE

Need of pedestrian education in Alberta has again been brought to the forefront by the report that there were 24 fatalities on the highways in the first seven months of this year, an increase of seven over the similar period of 1942.

In the great majority of cases, the victims were pedestrians. Some were bicycle or motor cycle riders.

Proper pedestrian education, such as has been advocated by the Alberta Motor Association, would serve to reduce this toll substantially and it is something that should no longer be delayed by the provincial authorities.

Also, it is suggested that a series of warning signs at dangerous curves would help improve the situation with a sharp police check on dangerous or reckless driving on Alberta highways.

Despite the federal 16-mile per hour maximum speed law for highways, there are violators that deserve to be checked up, according to officials.

Vermilion Has Full-Fledged Oil Industry

"Grown Up"

An oil industry which started from scratch in 1939 when the Vermilion Discovery well on L.S.D. 13 of Section 20-50-5 was placed on production, and to date has produced over 52,353 barrels, now has assumed such proportions that it is arousing the attention of substantial oil interests across Canada as well as in the United States.

Since 1939 there has been spent in the Vermilion area over $2,000,000 in drilling, pumping equipment, buildings, lease rentals, road maintenance, transport equipment, steel and wood ex tanks, reserve earthen pits, pay rolls and oil conditioning equipment.

This is a formidable sum of money and the results obtained are not out of proportion to the intrinsic values in oil now serving Canada's rapidly expanding industry and immediate future needs.

Similar to many other newly discovered oil fields being placed on a production basis the Vermilion area for a time remained almost static, until a drilling and production technique had been achieved. With this discovery and method in the armoury of tool for oil, those who are acquainted with the art are presently taking a lively interest in the field.

So far this year 31 wells have been drilled. Since June 1943, 152 cars or 32,830 barrels have been shipped by the Vermilion Refinery Company Limited which company has brought its equipment up to date. A substantial drilling program during the balance of this season is yet to be completed.

It is known that Vermilion crude has many properties yet to be considered beyond the limits of strictly fuel oil. That this factor has long been given consideration and study and is on the agenda for action is generally accepted.

Capital coming from investors of reputation along with their experienced management has given a solid safety to its continued development not to be expected in the early stages of operations. There also obtains a spirit of good co-operation and understanding in the field which has done much to facilitate the exchange of ideas. This has been helpful in eliminating expense and doing much to assure satisfactory completions.

From its initial start in 1939 the Vermilion area has now definitely established itself as a shallow producing field. Certain directional production trends have been established and a long list of disappointments are rapidly being overcome by an ever increasing flow of crude oil.

The soundness of the whole enterprise, starting on a shoe string in 1939, now has moved a long way from its humble beginning. Not only is Vermilion crude giving timely assistance during these days of declining discoveries but will be of inestimable value in Canada's post-war plans. Vermilion oil field has at last come of age.

SGT. JACK BIRMINGHAM WOUNDED IN SICILY

Sgt. Jack Birmingham, well known Vermilion boy, and a son of Cpl. and Mrs. Birmingham who now live at Camrose, has been wounded in the fighting in Sicily. Jack enlisted here in 1940 and went overseas in June of the same year, reaching the rank of sergeant in Britain.

The two other Birmingham boys are also overseas, one with the Calgary Highlanders, the other in the Seaforths. All are non-coms. Jim Calder, a veteran of the Great War, enlisted again three years ago and is an instructor at Camrose training centre. Previous to enlisting the family farmed in the Island Hill district just north and east of Vermilion.

Public Works Minister and Airmen Entertained

Town business men were hastily called together last Friday to meet A. N. Westergaard, assistant general manager and D. C. Dyck, operations manager of Canadian Airways (Training) Ltd., who operate the No. 2 Observer school in Edmonton and where training planes are seen daily and heard, nightly over the town. The two airmen were accompanied by the Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works.

The officials were here to inspect the Vermilion airfield with a view to effecting certain improvements thereon, after which considerably more use will be made of the field. The visitors came by plane, landing just shortly before noon. They were met at the airfield and taken to luncheon at George's Lower Deck where 23 men from about town gathered. Each of the visitors gave a short talk while E. M. Stewart who acted as chairman of the gathering. Mayor Morrison and Ashley Cooper, president of the board of trade, did the honors for the local boys.

Following the luncheon the party was driven over the airfield and spent some time there. Before leaving Mr. Westergaard and Mr. Dyck made arrangements for the night lighting of the runways by the placing of 36 flare and also for the parking of the planes in winter time. Mr. R. B. Spencer was placed in charge of the work and night lighting of the field has already commenced.

CARD OF THANKS

May I again sincerely thank the different organizations and the men and women who gave of their time and energies in the recent distribution of some 18,000 No. 2 ration books throughout the district. It was a work well and carefully done and deserving of the appreciation of the committees served as it meant a saving of time and trouble to the holders who otherwise would have to deal with head offices at Edmonton. Thanks, again, ladies and gentlemen, on behalf of the Local Ration Board

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SEPTEMBER 12

ISRAEL MARCHING TOWARD CANAAN

Golden text: Come then with us, and we will do thee good. Numbers 10:29.

Lesson: Numbers 10:11—12:16. Devotional reading: Psalm 122.

Explanations and Comments

The Start From Sinai. Numbers 10: 11-28. The account of the sojourn of the Israelites in the Wilderness of Sinai extends from Exodus 19:1 to Number 10 10. The object of their encampment there having been accomplished, the legislation of Sinai completed, the tabernacle rebuilt, and the religious and social life of the people organized, the time came to resume the onward march to the Promised Land. The Samaritan Bible introduces at this point the words which we find in Deuteronomy 1: 6-8: the Lord our God spake unto us in Horeb, saying: Ye have dwelt long enough in this Mount, turn and take your journey."

It was the second month of the second year of their journeying, the twentieth day of the month, the cloud was taken up from over the Tabernacle of the testimony. The cloud was a symbol of God's presence; they were guided by the will of God. As to the nature of the cloud, who shall say?

It was an undisciplined rabble that had left Egypt, but now it has become an orderly host. Leaving the wilderness of Sinai they set forward "according to their journeys," that is, they advanced in an orderly procession, first the camp of Judah, and then the other tribes in their prescribed order, the ark and the furnishings in the care of those appointed for this service. Verses 15-27 give the details.

The cloud abode in the Wilderness of Paran, and there they rested (Numbers 12:16). They were on their way to the place of which the Lord said, "I will give it to you," moreover that more than 20 years would pass before their descendants to not they themselves, would enter that Promised Land.

Circumstances of the Forward March. Numbers 10:33-36. The Egyptians and the Assyrians had the ark, wooden chests, which were carried with great pomp in processions at national festivals. In their arks was some image of the deity they worshiped. The ark of the Israelites is called the ark of the covenant, because, instead of an image, it contained the covenant of the law, the tables of stone. The Israelites begin their march, going a three days' journey (which may have been one day and parts of two others) from Mount Sinai, "the Mount of Jehovah," and the ark was carried before them to seek out a resting-place for them. And the cloud of Jehovah was over them by day as they marched.

During the Battle of Britain one out of every six air-raid wardens was a woman.

Wooden Wheels Save Rubber

It was a bright lad in the Winnipeg shops of Trans-Canada Air Lines who thought of beating the tire shortage by using wooden wheels on cargo trucks. The carpenter shop went into production, and the photograph, top, shows Carpenter John Pearson at work. The whirling saw cuts thin sheets of wood into semi-circles. These are glued together on the wheel frame and then the wooden tire is shaped on the lathe, a strip of canvas applied to it, and the wheels painted. The finished job is shown below. Much admired by one of T.C.A.'s girl cargo handlers. The trucks carry baggage, mail and express to the planes.

The Eiffel Tower

May Be Scrapped To Provide Needed Metal For Germany

Demolition of the Eiffel Tower in Paris because of the urgent need for metal for armaments is considered by the Germans, reports from Vichy said.

It is estimated 200 men could dismantle the tower in six months. If the plan is approved, work is expected to begin in October.

The Germans already are dismantling the steel tower at Lyons and the suspension bridge at Marseille.

Singing Is Fun

You miss so much in life if you can't join in the fun of singing with your friends. Lots of get-togethers feature singing, and if you don't sing, it isn't very much fun for you. You don't have to have a beautiful voice to be able to sing, because everyone enjoys it if they trust to.

So many people are afraid to be heard because their voices are not exceptional. You don't have to be an opera singer to enjoy singing. Try it and find out!

Once you have lost your timidity of singing with others you will realize what enjoyment you have been missing.

Anyone who wants to sing can do so, provided, of course, that he really wants to. He must have musical sense, patience and a willingness to go slowly. Voice, in itself, is less important. Many a good singer has had nothing exceptional to offer in voice, but has trained it well.

This applies especially to the more serious singer too, of course, who may not want to try for the professional, but simply to develop your voice for your own enjoyment. Our 32 page booklet gives step-by-step exercises showing you how to use your voice and how to sing.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "French Canada Sings" to Home Service Dept. Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E. Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Twin Brothers Who Have Been War Guests Join R.C.A.F.

Nearly four years ago, when Donald and Stanley Rawlins were 14, they came to Canada as war guests from bombed London.

Now the twins are in the R.C.A.F., Stanley in air crew and Donald in a ground job because his eyes didn't measure up. They think their enlistment will help pay the debt they feel they owe Canada.

After they enlisted they received a cable from their family congratulating them on their decision.

A TOWN LESSENS

It takes seven pounds of corn to make a pound of pork on the hoof. But you can make 238 muffins from seven pounds of corn. The lesson in this is that civilians must eat more grain and vegetable products than meat. The idea is to substitute direct consumption of field crops for indirect consumption in the form of meat.—Vancouver Sun.

Beau Jonathan

by J. D. Ryan

CHAPTER I.

His grandmother Hale was only five miles beyond the village of Winnset and it was still early in the evening, but young Jonathan Hale knew that he would arrive home at the expected hour only at the cost of a thorough drenching. Already the black thunderheads rolling in from the west had darkened the sky, and jagged lightning foretold that the gathering storm was about to break. The British spring was late in that year of 1675, but already it had promise of full measure in lashing rain and electrical fireworks.

Young Hale had no desire to acquire an unnecessary soaking. His voice and heel increased the pace of the roan gelding, not to get out of town, but to reach Kneeton Inn as soon as possible. Like Jonathan himself, most of the people at the innkeeper was a Puritan, who entertained an orderly establishment. Grandfather Hale would not object if Jonathan put his horse at the hostelry for the hour or so that the storm would probably last.

The first drops of rain were spattering on Hale's cloak and wide-brimmed conical hat as he rode into the Knowles' courtyard. "Dusk inside, Master Jonathan!" cried the ostler, a stableboy met the rider and reached for the slackened reins. "It'll be pouring buckets'ulls in about a minute!"

Knowles, the innkeeper, was shuttering the windows against the storm when Hale pushed his way in. "Greetings, Jonathan," nodded Knowles. "Spring must be here at last. This is the first thunderstorm of the year."

THE rain was drumming against the stout walls and roof. Thunder boomed and the gloom of the public room was lessened by a whitish glare visible through the interstices of the casements. In that brief flash of illumination Jonathan saw that others beside himself had sought refuge from the unleashed elements. A man and two women were seated at the table nearest the unlighted fireplace. The room brightened as Knowles applied the taper to the successive candles. Once again the shadowy trio at the other table took on sharper outline. One woman was seated with her back to Jonathan, cutting off his view of the other girl, but the man was placed where young Hale could observe him without hindrance.

They were, it was obvious, people of quality. The man's garb—velvet doublet, satin breeches, silken hose and fine linens were a sharp contrast to Jonathan's dull homespun and leather. And the clothes of the two women—lace, jewels and more silk—no Puritan maid or matron in his wide world ever sees, much less wears, such habiliments.

JONATHAN HALE had just returned from Southampton, a town of some consequence, but even in that populous seaport the Puritan country man had never gazed upon people like these—creatures from another world. They must be from London, against which Grandfather Hale had warned as a city of sin destined to share the fate of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Knowles was at the table now, setting down a great platter heaped with chicken and bowls of vegetables. A tankard was placed beside the man. Jamieson?" he inquired, glancing at the girl whom Jonathan had not yet seen.

She smiled as she shook her head at Knowles. The movement turned her face toward Jonathan and the young Puritan was aware that she was holding his breath in amazement.

The beauty of Mistress Jamieson was perfect. Every detail of her features was perfect—the oval of her face, the roundness of her chin, the curve of her lips and the straightness of her nose. . . . The shifting candlelight revealed highlights of gold in her brown hair; her eyes were a deep gray and Jonathan was prepared to swear that her hair was white; her lips a rich, soft red.

Hale found it necessary to draw a deep inhalation. She must be a great lady, the Mistress Jamieson—the daughter of some nobleman, perhaps, moved freely in and out of the court of King Charles.

ALL at once Hale realized that his almost rude stare had attracted the attention of the girl. The gray eyes turned in his direction and he dropped his gaze. Even with lowered head he was conscious of her glance; his cheek began to burn uncomfortably and he rose abruptly, calling up his hat and cloak. As he strode toward the door he was aware of his awkward length of limb, his great feet and large hands.

Pat and Ned met him at the stable, driving the pack animals. Jonathan returned to his table. "Master Knowles," he said, "bring me something to eat and prepare a room for me. It appears that the rain will continue indefinitely."

Though he was famished Jonathan finished his meal sooner than did the gallant at the other table. The conversation and laughter engaged his neighbors as equally as grand and free. The grey-eyed girl, Jonathan could not help overhearing, was named Anne, and the other girl was addressed as Estelle. The latter young man had hailed and as small in body as his two feminine companions. What was he to Mistress Anne? There was no trace of resemblance between his features and those of either lover of Anne or her sister Estelle.

LONG after in his room later, Jonathan pulled a chair beside the open window, propped his feet and watched the wash of water down the pane. He was reluctant to retire, for he knew that in that chamber he could ride on to the Sirm where Mistress Hale, his grandmother, and Faith Wood, the motherless girl he loved with the tenderness of a brother, would be awaiting his return.

That night he the last Chanukkah storm Jonathan Hale would ever witness in England. A week hence would find him on the high seas, bound for America with Faith, bound for America with Faith, bound for America with Faith

Moved by Mr. Waterfield that the following resolution be submitted to Mr. Maxwell for consideration and presentation to the Annual convention Cd.

"Inasmuch as there is a lack of continuity in the Administrative authority of many municipal hospitals due to changes of staff and board personnel, and inasmuch as the possibility of overlooking important periodical inspection of equipment and facilities exists, and inasmuch as the problem exists of competent and unprejudiced technical advice being lacking in many smaller places; be it hereby resolved:

That the Dept. of Public Health be requested to consider the instituting of a suitable full time service whereby such equipment as water system, heating system, electrical installations, X-ray, sterilizer, septic tank, sewage disposal system, etc., etc., of the various municipal hospitals be inspected by competent technicians, and that charts of such inspections be kept as a record of the regularity of such inspections."

THE CHARTERED BANKS

of Canada keep abreast of the Dominion's expanding needs.

Six times since 1870 the Bank Act under which the Chartered Banks operate has been revised by parliament—six times in that period the activities of the banks have been carefully scrutinized by the people's representatives.

Every ten years the Bank Act has been thus revised. Each one of the six decennial revisions has contributed much to the evolution of the banking system to meet the expanding needs of a developing Dominion.

In 1934 the sixth revision of the Bank Act was made. Fifty members of the House of Commons made up the committee, which examined witnesses—among them bank officers, government officials and reformers—and studied exhibits filed by various individuals and organizations. Findings were submitted to the House, and later that year the Bank Act was revised in many important particulars.

Through democratic enquiry and decision, the Canadian banking system has grown and been adjusted to meet the needs of the people, providing a depository for savings and a sound basis for Canada's free economic development.

ISLAY

On Monday evening Aug. 30 a large crowd of friends gathered at the home of David Martin to bid farewell to Rev. and Mrs. A. T. Bell. With Mrs. Roebuck at the organ we had a grand sing-song. There was much old time visiting—a lovely lunch, then the men waxed strong and fluent on the speeches.

Not far off now is the annual auction sale for the church. You'll want to come and hear Mr. Gillies sell. It is a real afternoon. Mr. Gillies comes from the same country as Rev. W. T. Crumb—Scotland—and they are great friends since childhood.

Rev. R. K. Lemkay will arrive the first of October to take up duties of the Islay church. He will be ordained sometime late in September.

The clang of the school bell was heard Tuesday, but not to call the children. It just announced that Harry Young was there shining up the walls etc., for next term.

Mr and Mrs. Neil McLennan removed Sunday after a week's holiday in the north country, gathering blueberries. Came home with a fine catch. We envied Faye with a new color lipstick at least.

Painters are busy painting the outside of the Pool Elevator Co. house occupied by C. C. C. Mitchell.

1ST MEMBERS C.W.A.C. GRADUATE THIS WEEK-END

Fifteen Are From Alberta

Proud of the fact that they pill release men for more active duty, one hundred and seven members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps will graduate Saturday from No. 2 C.W. A.C. Basic Training Centre, Vermilion. Of the class, 134 girls are from British Columbia, 15 from Alberta, 21 from Saskatchewan, 26 from Manitoba, eight from Ontario and three from the United States.

Prior to the girls' postings to various military districts, they were inspected by the Commandant, Major Daisy I. Royal.

Graduates included the following girls from Alberta:

Janet M. Karr, Acadia Valley; Anne Gerk, Brownville; Margaret E. Boughton, Helen W. Herron, Drumheller; Gertrude Sala, Erkville; Wilmetta V. Ditchburn, Bernice M. Garding, Norma W. Measor, Marilyn L. Quigley, Edmonton; Mary A. M. Rear, Erskine; Doris Hilgartner, Gwynne; Madora J. Payne, High Prairie; Marceline K. Servello, Hazel Johnson, Orion; Mildred Knezevich, Prestville.

The Week in Legislative Circles . . . In Edmonton

RELIEVE FOR THE SOIL

Applications for "nearly all" of the soldiers available to help on Alberta farms have been received. This was the statement by Mr. R. M. Putnam in a recent broadcast as secretary of the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labour Committee for Alberta. Mr. Putnam explained however, that some of the men allotted to Saskatchewan and Manitoba have come to Alberta it may be that other provinces do not make use of the soldiers under the Farm Duty Plan.

Soldiers may also obtain leave to return to farms operated by members of their immediate family, Mr. Putnam explained, in which case the soldier himself applies to his commanding officer.

It was pointed out also, that the objectionable feature of the plan, by which the farmer had to pay the daily rate whether it rained or not, has been changed. Soldiers will not be paid $4 per day for the days they don't work.

Southern Alberta Equipment May Be Moved to Good Crop Areas

Further details about the movement of harvest equipment have been revealed by Mr. Putnam. Transportation charges will be paid by the Provincial Department of Agriculture, he said, to owners or operators of equipment "in Southern Alberta who move their machinery north into other districts." Equipment must not be moved less than 50 miles Mr. Putnam pointed out, and moves over this distance must be authorized by the Department so as to qualify for the subsidy.

The broadcast was closed with an appeal to town and city people to assist with harvesting. Assistance is urgently needed concluded Mr. Putnam, and those who can spare the time will not only rendering "a great service to the farmers and the nation but they will also enjoy some healthful outdoor work and will receive reasonably good pay in return".

Manning Deals With Enlarged M.D.s & Tax Consolidations in Address

Announcement of a Dominion-wide series of addresses was made in a recent broadcast by Premier Ernest Manning. In outlining the work of the government, Premier Manning stated that a system of tax consolidation had been arranged whereby farmers who had fallen into arrears could pay off a reduced amount over a gradual period.

Premier Manning dealt at length with the enlarged municipal district. He said the size of a municipality should be small enough so that "the people in it can exercise effective control over their local governments . . . and sufficiently large to ensure the maximum efficiency in administration."

He said the results of the enlarged units "have already demonstrated the advantages to the people concerned."

The new plan would mean cheaper and more efficient administration, the Premier stated, and added that better roads on a more extensive scale throughout the entire new district would be possible. Many places of low assessment are being subsidized by grants from the Department of Public Works, said Mr. Manning.

BROADCASTING NEWS

Did you know that you can get C.B.C. news broadcasts at 12 o'clock noon? It comes over CKUA, 580 kilocycles. This is the only Alberta station to carry the program.

Then from 12:30 to 1 o'clock, Monday through Friday, CKUA carries C.B.C. feature "Prairie Farm Broadcast." This program will continue regularly throughout the fall and is providing a real treat for listeners. Watch for it

A really unique program is "Har mony House" — opening from CJCA Monday Sept. 6th at 9.30. Music-lovers will appreciate its distinctive stylings—featuring the four charming young "Nabobettes", and the new singing star Suzanne, with arranger Winifred Bambrick at the piano. Easy-to-listen to musical stylings of modern melodies will enchant listeners to "Harmony House" — and the program will also offer favorite classical selections. On top of this a regular feature will be "Question of the Week", offering $200 in cash prizes—half to some fortunate listener, half to a studio participant in uniform. "Harmony House" will be heard every Monday night from CJCA at 9.30.

The story of John and Judy picks up again on Tuesday, Sept. 7, at 7 o'clock. One of the most informal and charming of the network programs, "John and Judy" has always had an enthusiastic group of listening friends throughout Northern Alberta. The story will be heard every Tuesday evening at 7.

Virtually all listeners will be delighted to hear that the "Happy Gang" — now a household word throughout Canada—will begin their fall and winter season on Sept. 13th. This cheery and versatile group of entertainers will be heard every week day except Saturday at 11.15 in the morning, on and after Sept. 13, from CJCA

FARMERS MAY KEEP DRUMS

OTTAWA.—Farmers may now keep steel drums containing gasoline, oil or grease on their farms so long as they are required to store their contents, R. CHAPTER I

You've got to be a fellow who has come out of our country to get the drift of what I'm going to tell you because if you haven't been around to watch the sun a-setting over the foothills you won't know how it will set a fellow to thinking.

For two years I've been working on a ranch in the foothills and I wouldn't trade my spot for any in the country.

The other night was just like any other. We'd had a hard day rounding up strays in the bush and now we're headed homeward. In some of the coulees a little snow still hung — a dirty white — but generally it was spring and the sun during the day was warm and pleasant.

Now as the purple shadows were starting in drift back from the hills, and the sun dropped behind the Rockies, I watched the doofies drifting down the coulee and sat back to roll myself a smoke.

Right then I got to thinking.

Maybe I'd been listening to too many of those news broadcasts telling of war and such but as I looked out over the hills I got to figuring that maybe I wasn't doing my part in it all.

I got to thinking that life out west was just about rope but if those goose-stepping sons-of-so's from across the pond ever got over here I'd probably find myself with a lot tougher task than riding herd, doing a little fencing and topping off a few tough broncos.

I figure that those fellows who have been making it tough for the Allies rate in about the same class as a bunch of flea-bitten coyotes and about the best thing for a fellow to do is help clean out the whole pack of them pronto.

Cavalry Would Do

Right now, I figure, I'm just about the right age to make a fighting man, but I sure wish those bosses in the Army hadn't got this mechanized boy, because I'd be right at home in a cavalry unit.

I sit thinking so long that I get right down to the end of my fag, and after a last drag 'bout' it on the saddle horn and start out after the boys with the herd.

It's getting right dusk but on ahead I can hear the cattle and in no time at all I catch up.

Well, I'm pretty quiet on the way but because I've got a powerful lot of time to figure out. When we hit the cook-shack it's just the same and because I'm not holding up my end in the conversation the boys start to rib me.

"Bet he's got a girl," the Swede grins and that starts things going and the boys really kid me naming everyone from the schoolma'm to the boss' niece.

Finally I get around to telling them that I guess I'll be pulling stakes on account of a new job I've got lined up.

Just then the boss comes in and hears me.

"What's the matter, Johnny?" he asks. "You're getting good pay and the work isn't too hard. What's eating you?"

So I tell him I figure it's about time I joined the Army.

Right off he comes around the table and puts his hand on my shoulder.

"Son," he says, "I'm mighty glad that you've figured things out that way. I was over last time. That's how I got that limp so I can't be riding with you. There's a job to be done in the Army alright and the sooner it's done the better. We can sure use you here but the Army needs you more. When it's all over just high-tail it back because there'll always be a place at the table for you."

Good Luck, Boy

"Good luck, boy," he finishes and shakes my hand and leaves.

Right away all the other boys come over and slap me on the back and I feel pretty proud that I've finally figured out something that makes everybody feel good.

That night, after we turn in, I can't get to sleep for thinking of lots of things. It isn't going to be too easy leaving this life of mine and then too the boys weren't all wrong when they were kidding me about the school-ma'm. She and I have been getting along right well at the dances and I

"Boss," I tell him. "You've got it figured up wrong. I've got nowhere near that coming."

He just grins and says, "Well, I sort of figure you have. I'm giving you a couple of months salary extra because I'm mighty proud to have one of my boys in the Army especially when I haven't a son of my own to go."

After that he drives me in our station to catch the train but on the way he pulls up in front of the schoolhouse and says, "I think you have a little job to do here. I'll be waiting."

I go up and rap on the school house door and Miss Edith looks considerably surprised when she sees it's me. I tell her I'm headed to Calgary to join the Army.

Right off she tells the class that it's recess and they go piling out into the yard.

"Johnny," she says. "I don't want to see you go but I'm proud of you. I'll write to you all the time. Good luck." —

Then she puts her hand on my shoulder and kisses me.

I guess I'm blushing a little as I leave the school house and I'm no sooner out in the yard than freckle-faced Jimmy Henry yells "Johnny loves teacher."

I'm feeling so happy I want to say, "Sure, so what!" but I just grin and pile into the car.

As we reach the top of the hill I look back and there is Miss Edith on the school house steps awaiting to bid. I wave my hat and the car takes us over the rise.

I figure that just about marks the cross-roads where I'm leaving the old life behind, and starting a brand new one—in the Army.

The World Of Tomorrow

THE URGENT NEEDS of a world at war tend to bring about great scientific, economic and social improvements which might take many years to develop under normal, peace-time conditions, and the effects of these changes on our daily lives and on the whole future of civilization may be greater than is generally realized at this time. It is not in the realm of prophecy to sketch the bold outlines of what our world may be like after the war, for they have already been traced. Developments which have taken place since the beginning of the war make the world as it was in 1939, antiquated from many viewpoints, and projects which would then have appeared fantastic are now being accomplished to meet the requirements of war. Because the majority of the new discoveries are used solely for military purposes at present, and because many are being kept secret from the enemy, it is possible to predict only a few of the many innovations which civilians will enjoy in the post-war world.

New Plastics Are Versatile

More than a century was required to bring the crude rubber production of the world up to a million tons a year. The United Nations, chiefly Canada and the United States, are now planning to produce that quantity of synthetic rubber after only two years. In the realm of plastics, sensational developments have taken place since the beginning of the war. In the future the newest and most versatile of plastics will be available on a scale never dreamed of before. We are told that there will be glass which is unbreakable, glass which will float, and wood which will compete with structural metals. Hosiery, manufactured from air, water and coal, a wonder of the pre-war days, is only a forerunner of many new products from the same source, ranging from shoes which contain no leather and window screens which contain no wire, to machinery bearings which contain no metal. Fuels, metals, and plastics are now ready to finish the revolution in transportation started early in the century. Light, low-priced cars will be manufactured with many of the mechanical improvements developed for wartime uses, and it is predicted that they will travel many more miles to a gallon of fuel than the cars of the present day.

Housing To Be Much Improved

The war has driven home to us the need for wide-reaching changes in our present housing system. Lack of vision and initiative in home building is apparent in almost every Canadian community, where crowded and undesirable housing conditions are increasingly difficult problems. Engineers and scientists have been studying this situation, and already in some places on this continent pre-fabricated homes, made from the newest types of materials including plastics, plywood, fire-resistant wood, an' synthetic finishes of lasting durability are being produced. It is said that stainless steel may be the roofing of the future and that lighting may be governed by electric "eyes", sensitive to outside variations in daylight, and that air conditioning will be improved in many ways. These new homes will be inexpensive according to present standards, and they will be moveable. These are only a few of the material improvements which men may enjoy after the war, and many other inventions and discoveries, developed for use in combat, will be turned to peacetime uses in the world of tomorrow.

All-Bran Jammies

1½ cups sifted flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup All-Bran
½ cup shortening
½ cup cream
⅔ cup raspberry jam

Sift flour, baking powder, sugar and salt together; add All-Bran. Cut in shortening until mixture is like cream cornmeal. Add milk and mix just until dry and liquid ingredients are combined. Turn onto floured board, knead lightly a few seconds; roll into oblong about 12 x 7 inches and ¼-inch thick. Spread jam over dough and roll like jelly roll beginning at long side. Slice in about 1-inch slices and place cut side down on greased baking sheet or in large muffin pans. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 to 30 minutes. Serve warm with thin cream.

Yield: 10 to 12 servings

CANADIAN PRESS NEWS

Weekly Paper For Overseas Servicemen. Supplied News From Home.

Majority of Canada's overseas servicemen would give a week's pay, or more, for a home-town newspaper. Many of the lads and some of the lassies have been overseas nearly four years now and they find home news as important to the full flavor of service life as cream is to strawberries.

The Canadian Press News, weekly newspaper for the overseas forces, was established at instance of the Dominion Government to meet the demand for home news, and generally content of the paper is dictated, through questionnaires, by service readers whose suggestions have meant inclusion of news pictures, pin-up girls, cartoons, feature columns and, just recently, a chess column.

Cost of production is paid by the Government, but the paper, published in London, England, is edited solely by The Canadian Press, which supplies its news free. News is supplied also for editions in Newfoundland and the Mediterranean zone.

The West has a personal interest in the production of this newspaper, Scott Young of Glenboro, Man., started cabling copy for the original four-pager in the days when headings, type-size and all details were transmitted from this side. At London, Winnipeg-born Allan Sandal, sorted out the cables and put them in form for the battle with the hide-bound English printers who hated to do anything they hadn't done before. The early days were tough.

Six months after the start, Young went to England to handle the production end and was replaced by another Winnipegger, Charles Edwards, who also took over the only national daily sports column, (CP's Sport Snapshots) which Young had been writing. Now the copy for The CP News is marshalled at Toronto, cabled and mailed. Young marks it for size, selects pictures, writes headings and generally does a news desk job.

Evolution of The CP News to its present size was rapid. First published May 1, 1942, the paper was expanded from four unillustrated, unheadlined pages to eight-page tabloid, its six-column pages enlivened by pictures and other features. Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express Publishing Company does the printing.

There's a story behind Beaverbrook's name as publisher of the Canadian forces. The Canadian-born publisher was responsible for establishing the "Canadian Daily Record", issued during the First Great War by the Canadian War Records Office to all units of Canada's overseas military forces.

That paper was published from Jan. 16, 1917, to July 31, 1918, and, in its final issue Beaverbrook wrote: "The venture was a curious experiment justified by its success. For the first time a newspaper has been brought into existence to give the army at the front the news of its folks at home and to tell the folks at home the news of the army. . . .

"Canada was first in the field because she was most prompt to realize that in modern wars waged by whole nations the Army and the People are one, and that each needs news of the other. . . ."

Speaking with this background of experience, Beaverbrook terms The CP News "a very fine production," adding: "The whole service is due to the newspaper's direction and a pattern for the guidance of those who manage overseas publications for the troops."

Primarily, the paper is designed to give the overseas forces a summary of the week's home news in two categories—general news of Canada and items of purely home-town interest. These latter are gathered from all sections of Canada and grouped under five headings—Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, The Prairies and British Columbia.

Replies to questionnaires show that the home-town items are the paper's most popular feature. The boys skip over reports of major political or economic developments to read first that Joe Clods' cow has another litter of pigs at Plum Hollow or that John Smith of Appleby Corners is fencing his back quarter section.

First issues devoted the final page to general news, with one page of home-town news in English, one of Province of Quebec news in French and one page of sport.

A forward step was taken Dec. 19 when the paper was increased to eight pages. Two pages of pictures were added with an extra page of general news and a second sport page. Guest columns by outstanding Canadian sports writers became a weekly feature.

Newspaper members of The Canadian Press loaned their picture engravings. Full pages of pictures were made up in Toronto, and sent to London in page form by air through an arrangement with the Royal Air Force ferry command.

In January, mainly as a questionnaire expressed approval of the larger paper but there were requests for a greater number of home-town items, inclusion of news about Canadians in the service overseas, and use of cartoons.

To make room for more local news and the new features, one page of pictures was dropped. Cartoons were supplied through the courtesy of Canadian publications. In alternate weeks the paper carried two pages of home-town news or one page of home-town items and a page of service news.

Another questionnaire established the popularity of the new features and there was demand for still more local news. A humor column and more cartoons were suggested. Replies recommended reduction in the space given to sport and sport pictures. On one subject there was almost unanimous approval: the boys wanted plenty of pin-up girls, a feature introduced occasionally in earlier issues.

Obviously more space was needed. With the July 5 issue, page width was increased from four to six columns. Engraving of pictures was undertaken by The Evening Standard so pictures could be scattered throughout the paper to improve its appearance.

Scott Young began a weekly humor column, "Canny Pungle". Three pages of home-town news and one page of service news became a regular feature. Sport news was reduced to one page. As many as three or four cartoons appeared in the paper.

The pin-up pics was not overlooked. Almost every issue now is brightened by a picture of a lovely Canadian girl.

Then, two weeks after the first issue of the enlarged paper, the Canadian 1st Division formed part of the forces invading Sicily. The Dominion's servicemen left in Britain were eager for more news of their mates in action than was available in the English newspapers.

This new demand could be met because full reports of the Canadians' activities were following through London Bureau of The Canadian Press from Ha five war correspondents in the Mediterranean zone—Ross Munro, Louis Hunter, Bill Herbert, Maurice Desjardins and Douglas Amaron.

Munro's eye witness accounts of the Canadian smash into Sicily received top play in The CP News. Human interest stories came from the other correspondents. Toronto Bureau cabled reports of the reaction at home as the Dominion's fighting forces moved into action at last after nearly four years of preparation.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

IMMUNIZATION WEEK

National immunization Week, during which Canadian parents will be urged to avail themselves of measures to protect their children against dangerous communicable diseases, will be held November 14 to 20, The Health League of Canada has announced. The nation-wide health education effort is being sponsored by the Health League, in co-operation with the provincial departments of public health.

Attention will be directed especially to the importance of immunizing children for diphtheria, smallpox and whooping cough, which continue to take a needless and preventable toll of child life and health in Canada. In at least two of the provinces preventive measures for scarlet fever also will be emphasized.

National Immunization Week will be a development from National Toxoid Week, held last year, when immunization for diphtheria alone was urged. There were almost 3,000 cases of diphtheria in Canada last year, and while mortality from the disease has been reduced with the use of anti-toxin, many children recover with complications, such as heart demage, the league points out.

Public health authorities fear that if a large proportion of the growing generation of children are not vaccinated, an epidemic might spread rapidly, with disastrous results. Canada's present freedom from the diseases is no justification for relaxing efforts that have been stressed.

Whooping cough is an important cause of child death and ill-health, and is not sufficiently appreciated, the league said.

Canadian parents will be warned to have immunization done by their family physicians or local health departments. The only reason why these communicable diseases do not cause widespread suffering on the scale of past experience is that prudent parents have protected their children against them, the league stated.

Fodder Supply Shortage Will Be Felt In The East

OTTAWA.—The agricultural supplies board, in a recent statement, served warning that Canada's immense grain stocks "probably will be none too great for safety in view of the anticipated need for animal and poultry feeds on this continent."

In a detailed survey of the feed situation, the board said it is vitally important that eastern Canadian farmers may expect to need grain for feeding purposes should not only place orders early but also be prepared to accept whatever kind of grain they can get—whether it be wheat, oats or barley—when they can get it.

The statement reviewed transportation difficulties and the immense demand for feed-grain stocks. It warned that protein feed ingredients definitely will be short.

Canadian feeders, while having the bulk of flour mill by-products reserved for them, cannot count on getting all the millfeeds they want and should use ground grains in their livestock rations when wheat millfeeds are not available in desired quantities, the board said.

One favorable factor in the feed situation, however, was the abundant supply of grain in eastern Canada, since a good grazing fall would ease the feed situation.

An immense demand for Canadian food products, both at home and from other United Nations, had brought agriculture into the classification of "war industries".

"Basis to the production of these needed supplies of animal and poultry products is the whole problem of adequate supplies of feed," said the board.

Fodder supplies for the coming season were adequate in most parts of Canada. Another factor of "immense value" was the ample supply of feed grains in western Canada.

"Immense as this store of feed grains promises to be, however, it will probably a none too great for safety in view of the anticipated need for animal and poultry feeds on this continent during the coming feeding season.

"The tremendous growth of the livestock and poultry industries in the prairie provinces themselves will call for the feeding on farms in the west of much larger quantities of wheat and coarse grains than have been fed in the past.

"Short grain crops in eastern Canada, particularly in Ontario and many parts of Quebec, coincident with increasing numbers of livestock and poultry, necessitate the movement east of western grains on a scale never before attempted in the history of this country, while British Columbia again will require some grains from the prairie provinces to supplement home-grown supplies.

"Finally, the United States, facing a problem of grain feed shortages, is likewise looking to our Canadian west for as much grain as can be exported after our Canadian feed needs have been satisfied."

The statement described plans already announced to provide financial assistance in the movement of grain eastward, and reviewed steps taken to facilitate the physical movement.

The Canadian wheat board has arranged delivery quotas to encourage early shipment of coarse grains, and additional labor had been provided at the head of the lakes to facilitate handling of grain cars.

CANADIAN WHEAT

May Be Shipped To California If Transportation Available

VANCOUVER.—If adequate means of transportation can be found, about 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat will be shipped from Vancouver to California, George McIver, chairman of the Canadian wheat board, said in an interview here.

"It is all a question of transportation," he said. "American cars wherever available, are now hauling feed wheat from Alberta to Utah, Wyoming, Washington and Idaho."

Some supplies of feed wheat have been shipped to California by barge.

MONSTER PLANES

Battleships Of The Air Will Blast Axis From Skies

WASHINGTON. — Battleships of the air with half-carload bomb capacity and flying range for a round trip to Europe, soon will blast the Axis from the skies, Gen. Henry H. Arnold said here.

The chief of the United States Army Air Forces, writing in "Army Ordnance," a magazine of the Army Ordnance Association, said automatic fire control for numerous, powered gun-turrets, similar in effect to the systems which lead deadly accuracy to ground and ship artillery, was another early air development foreseen by the general.

Gen. Arnold foresaw protective and offensive cannon fire heavier than anything new flying, for the new bombers.

"The bombers . . . will carry half a carload of bombs across the Atlantic and fly home without stop," he said.

"The plane will have 'eyes' that help guide it to its target, or warn and plot the course of interceptor aircraft. It will carry bombs of an entirely different design."

R.A.F. Sorties Against Enemy Coastal Convoys

LONDON.— Coastal command of the Royal Air Force has developed its destructive technique for sorties against enemy coastal convoys by forming a wing of Beaufighters.

As in most coastal command squadrons, Canadians are serving in these Beaufighter outfits, among them Sgt. D. H. Pengelly of Delburne, Alta., and Sgt. A. Edwards of Hamiota, Man.

These specially trained squadrons have been operating in coastal command for some months but only now is it permitted to mention their activities. They were decided upon prior to last spring.

Up to that time enemy shipping in the North sea was attacked by bombing aircraft and although many ships were sunk or damaged the transport of goods was not sufficiently hindered to satisfy coastal command authorities. So they turned to the Beaufighters.

Already, so the air ministry says, there is abundant evidence that the Nazi shipping traffic has been seriously disrupted by this wing. One reason is that the Beaufighters can destroy more vessels than high level bombers and in addition the Beaufighter attacks are more terrifying and adversely affect the morale of the ships' crews.

These Beaufighters, protected by squadrons of fighters, sweep in at low level to bomb, gun and torpedo their targets. Their work has been so effective that the number of enemy convoys has been reduced by one half and one convoy consisting of two merchantmen had as many as nine escort vessels.

The German reply to the Beaufighter wing was to provide fighter cover for their ships but lately they have been using aircraft as well as ships when important war cargoes have been on the move.

There is evidence of confusion and delays at the ports of loading and discharge," said the air ministry.

MOTOR ROAD

Completion Of New Jasper Road Is Planned For This Year

EDMONTON —J. M. Wardle of Ottawa, director of surveys and the engineering branch of the Dominion department of mines and resources, said in an interview here that completion of a motor-truck road from the western boundary of the Jasper National park to Blue River, B.C., to Edmonton, is planned this year.

"We are hoping to finish this year if 12 spots of Japanese labor is maintained," he said. "There are some 150 Japanese now working there."

Mr Wardle said that of the 130 miles from the Alberta boundary to Blue River, all but 12 miles has been constructed as a motor-truck road. Some fairly heavy side-hill construction has been encountered in the course of grading operations, he said.

Seen above is one of the giant twin-motored transport planes being used by the R.C.A.F. for casualty transportation. The plane is fitted to accommodate 18 stretcher cases and has all facilities necessary for the work of this kind. Recently, a plane of this type was used to transport 11 R.C.A.F. casualties from the Hospital Ship at an Eastern Canadian port to Rockliffe station hospital near Ottawa. The ship carries trained medical personnel, usually a doctor and a nurse, and when not in use as an ambulance can be fitted for no-illness transport work in a very few hours. Here an ambulance is seen drawn up beside the open doors of the ship ready to rush the injured to hospital.

GRAIN FOR EAST

To Speed Up Shipments For Feed For Livestock

OTTAWA. — The agriculture department announced that to speed up the movement of wheat, oats and barley for feed for livestock in eastern Canada, such grain containing up to one per cent. dockage now may be shipped direct from country points in western Canada without stop-off for cleaning at Port William or Port Arthur.

The department said the concession was an emergency one only, intended to help relieve the bottleneck due to congested facilities at the Lakehead terminals. Such grain will be eligible for free freight and other subsidies which now are in effect.

WOMAN MEMBER

Australia Will Have At Least One And Maybe More

SYDNEY, Australia.—Excitement of the Australian federal election is almost over. The final results are not yet known but there is one feature already established that the commonwealth has never known before. There is certain to be at least one woman in parliament for the first time and there may be three or four.

In all, 23 women were candidates for the house of representatives of the senate. The one certain to go to the parliament house at Canberra is Dorothy Tangney, a teacher in western Australia. She will be a member of the Labor team her state is sending to the senate.

CHRISTMAS TREES

B.C. Industry To Be Curtailed By Wartime Restrictions

VANCOUVER. — William McKinstry, regional superintendent of the national selective service, announced orders indicating the once-flourishing British Columbia Christmas tree industry will be virtually eliminated by wartime restrictions.

Selective service officers will refuse work permits for cutting trees, making it impossible for contractors to hire labor for this purpose, McKinstry said, while the department of transport will sharply restrict the use of railway cars which might carry trees.

Need For Air Force Recruits Is Now Urgent

OTTAWA. — Developments during the next few months on the battle fronts and elsewhere, may largely determine the pattern for recruiting into the Canadian armed forces for the balance of the war.

While the army's need for men may be revised downward in the future, the needs of the air force, now urgent, are expected to continue unabated until the end of the war.

The R.C.A.F. in common with the army and navy, experienced a boom in recruiting recently following the lowering of the compulsory call-up age to 18. The boom in air force recruiting for a couple of weeks was such that some recruiting centres had difficulty keeping up with the applicants, but it has slackened off somewhat.

So far, however the intake has not been sufficient to fill the shortage of aircrew in training schools, particularly marked in Ontario and in the Montreal and Vancouver areas but not so noticeable in the Maritime provinces or on the prairies.

The navy is the only one of the three services which has not yet had a recruiting problem. Naval officers anticipate they may have to think about one soon.

Last May Defence Minister Ralston placed the over-all manpower requirements of the three armed services at 177,000 for the 12 months starting April 1—100,000 for the army, 24,000 for the navy and 53,000 for the air force

With no official figures available, the situation after five of the 12 months have passed appears to be that the army has made satisfactory progress towards getting its 100,000; the navy has kept up to its requirements; but the air force has not obtained enough recruits to keep its training establishments running at capacity.

Best Medical Care Given To Canada's Men

OTTAWA. — Wounded Canadian soldiers overseas get the best medical attention of any army in the world at Canadian general hospitals, Col. W. P. Warner of Toronto, consultant in medicine at defence headquarters, said in an interview following his return from a trip overseas.

Just before leaving England Col. Warner saw the first Canadian casualties evacuated from Sicily about 12 men He expressed satisfaction at the speedy arrangements made by British authorities for moving them to a Canadian hospital in England.

The men were flown directly to North Africa, carried part way through Africa by air, brought to England on a British hospital ship, and transferred to the Canadian hospital.

It had been feared there might be delay in getting men from the port of embarkation to the Canadian hospital but British authorities undertook to clear them in 24 to 48 hours and kept their word.

A number of Canadian general hospitals have been established in England each fully staffed with surgical and medical personnel drawn from among the finest doctors in Canada and as well equipped to treat diseases and injuries of all kinds as any civilian general hospital in the Dominion.

While the hospitals are established in semi-permanent locations, it was demonstrated they could be moved efficiently when No. 5 general hospital with its staff of hundreds and its full equipment, was shifted to Sicily not as a Canadian but as a British 5th Army unit.

FINE ACHIEVEMENT

German Reconnaissance Plane Was Destroyed Over Britain

LONDON An anti aircraft battery of three male gunners and three women brought down what is believed to be the first ME 109 reconnaissance plane destroyed over Britain. And they got it with a direct hit at 38,000 feet, officially described as "a remarkable achievement at such a terrific height."

The plane, a new type brought out by the Nazis, was escorted over England by two fighters.

SPOILS FINE CAR

Poor visibility by rain on the wind shield was the cause of Pat Cummings wrecking a nice looking car on Saturday night. The car ran off the grade on the 500-N highway just a mile west of town on a curve and turned over several times. Beyond being shaken up and bruises the four occupants escaped serious injury but the Plymouth car was badly damaged.

A wallet containing some cash has been found and left with Chief of police F. G. Harrington. Owner may obtain same by proving property and paying for this advertisement

DEATH AND FUNERAL OF EDWARD RUUD

People of the Triangle district were shocked to learn of the sudden death at his home on Tuesday August 31st of Edward Ruud who had resided there since 1917. Death was caused by a heart attack. The deceased was 66 years of age.

The late Mr. Ruud was born in Norway but came to Canada in the year 1906 when he made his home at Stettler. In 1917 he and his family moved to the Triangle district south east of Vermilion where they have since resided.

Left to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father are his sorrowing widow, one daughter Mrs. W. I. Newman of Auburndale and four sons, Per, who is overseas with the Canadian forces, and Ernest, Arnold and John at home.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon, Sept. 3 at the United church, Vermilion and interment was made in the Vermilion cemetery. The Rev. Sinclair Reikie conducted the services.

Pall bearers were Thos. Wilson, Aubrey Rendell, Wilson Ford, Arthur Beckman, Chris Thompson, Fred Simons.

Beautiful floral offerings were received from:

Sorrowing Wife and Family; Buster and Elsie; Fred, Ruth, Ives and Carol; The Wilson Family; Tolland F.P.A.; Mr and Mrs. J. W. Ford, Dan and Uncle Ben; Adam Smith Family, Mr. and Mrs. A. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard, Mr and Mrs. Geo. Cruthers, James Kennedy, Thomas Ness, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wilson, George Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cairns, Mr and Mrs. H. Cruthers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wener and Mr. Ostrey; Mr. F. Wolters, Gladys, Otto, Rose, Herman and Freda; Mr. J. Isley, Ken and Elmer; The Webber Family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lewis and Brookes; Mr. and Mrs. A. Rendall, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilbert and Mr. and Mrs. J. Bather; Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallington, Mr. and Mrs. Lysons and Family; The McGrath Families; Chris Thompson and family.

WILDMERE WINKS

The whole community was deeply shocked to hear of the sudden passing of Mr. Ed Ruud of Triangle, on Tuesday morning last, Aug. 31st. While he has been in ill health for sometime, no one thought his time on this earth was so nearly over. He was a devoted husband and father and the entire district's sympathy goes out to the sorrowing wife, his daughter Mrs. Newman and four sons, Peter in Sicily in the armed forces, Ernest, Arnold and Johnny at home, and a nephew Segnar Soberson, also of Triangle. One daughter Stella, predeceased him over a year ago. There was a large attendance at his funeral showing the deep respect in which he was held. Lovely flowers covered his casket, and the pall-bearers were T. Wilson, Art Beckman and Aubrey Rendell of Triangle and Chris Thompson, Fred Sloan and Wilson Ford, of Tolland, all old friends of the deceased. Two of his favorite hymns were sung during the service and the Rev. Mr. Reikie gave a very touching sermon. Many carloads of old and new friends accompanied the remains of one who was truly a friend to all to his last resting place.

We must not forget to mention a few words about another old timer who passed away at Pendon a short time ago. Mr. Henry Myer, who lived not in our district, but was well known here as he owned a horse ranch along the Battle river. His son Lloyd still resides on the old place. We well remember a good time Mr. Myer did in the winter of 1908-9. The writer was a small girl trying to cut a water hole on a bear with the ice five feet thick and 58 below zero. Mr. Myer was moving some horses so stopped and helped, a deed we have never forgotten—but it was only one of his many kindly acts. We extend our sympathy to his family who mourn his passing.

The B.W.B club held its meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Bathe, Beaucoup, on Wednesday afternoon last. A nice crowd attended with several visitors, Mrs. Gilholme and Mrs. Howson of Edmonton, Mrs. Tillapaugh of Mrs. Frank Ibbson and Sylvia, Rosewood and Yvonne Morand of our district. A nice quantity of finished work was turned in even though it is a busy time. More work was given out. A good number of things were on hand for the kitchen hope chest the members are making to be raffled off to raise funds to carry on our good work. It is to be on display in town by awhile when completed. Mrs Garnett was given a hearty clap for her work on the blankets. After the business was over the hostesses, Mrs. Bathe and Mrs. Frank Gibson served a very tasty lunch. It was nice to have Mrs. Gilholme with us again as she was a member we also moved away. She, Mrs. Howson and Mrs. Ibbson donated articles to be our hope chest. Next meeting is to be held at Mrs. Cliff Cruthers on Wednesday, Oct. 6th.

Mrs. Gilholme returned to the city on Friday with Mrs. Ibbson, Ivawn and Roy. Mrs. Ibbson went up to see a specialist about her eye. We have not had any report of her trip but hope for the best. Eyesight is a precious thing.

Miss Cora Larsen, Cummings, who has visited at the home has now been taken a position with a construction firm in the city.

It's been very poor harvesting weather the past few days. Threshing will be late again from the looks of things but everybody is busy so a good long open fall with fine weather.

Mrs. Gilholme visited at the Cairns home last week before leaving for her home again. Mr. Gilholme had a spell at running a binder again for Johnnie Bathe before returning to the city.

Cheteau Frontenac Houses Momentous Conference

LONG famous as a meeting place for world travellers is Quebec City—where sea lanes and rail lines converge—its stately Chateau Frontenac, one of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's fine hotels was taken over by the Government for one of the most important international gatherings in history when Prime Minister Winston Churchill, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King conferred there on the conduct of the war. Dominant feature in the landscape of the Ancient Capital, as illustrated here towering above historic Lower Town, the Chateau accommodated the staffs which prepared the material for the decisions taken and provided the main assembly and committee rooms. Helping to house the leading figures at the conference, who are shown in the insets, was the Citadel which is on the extreme left of the picture on the same level as the Chateau Frontenac. From left to right: Mr. Churchill, Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. Roosevelt.

TOLLAND

The deepest sympathy of the community is extended to the family of the late Mr. Edward Ruud, on the loss of a loving husband and father. It was with sincere regret that his many friends learned of his passing away on Tuesday Aug. 31.

Herman and Rose Wolters went to Edmonton last Friday to visit their sister Mrs. J. W. Coward and her son baby daughter, Donella Arlene, who are patients in the hospital there. Herman intends going on to Moon Lake for lumber.

The McQuid home is getting a new coat of paint.

Beverly Lewis is home for a vacation for a month. She has been working at St. Stephen's college, Edmonton, all summer.

Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Lewis received word recently that their son Bob had arrived safely overseas.

There will be a dance in the Ganton school on Sept. 17th in aid of the Red Cross.

Art Lysons is home from his training at Wainwright on furlough.

R. R. Emerson is Elected President Of Line Elevators

R. R. Emerson, prominent Winnipeg grain man, was elected president of The North-West Line Elevators Association, at the thirty-ninth annual general meeting held in the Grain Exchange Building, Winnipeg, Tuesday. Officers appointed for the ensuing year at a subsequent meeting of directors were: J. G. Fraser, secretary - manager; Fauset Seaton, assistant secretary; Dr. R. C. Nesbitt, director of the agricultural department; Cecil Lamont, executive vice-president.

R. R. EMERSON

The North-West Line Elevators Association is comprised of the owners and operators of 3,600 country grain elevators located throughout the prairie provinces and terminal elevators at the Head of the Great Lakes and on the Pacific Coast with a total storage capacity of approximately 274,000,000 bushels. The association was organized in 1899 "for the purpose of formulating rules to govern transactions between its members in the handling and shipping of grain, with the object of reducing expenses of handling the crop of the country to a minimum." Since the formation of the Association charges for handling grain have been reduced to a point where Canada is recognized as having the most efficient and economical grain handling system in the world. The Association has extended its activities to act as a service organization for prairie farmers and operates its own agricultural department for the benefit of the farming community.

Islay and Peat Boys Killed In Action in Sicily

Two Local Boys Wounded

Pte. Norman Charles Mitchell, son of Mrs. Margaret Smith of Islay, and Pte. Williams Clements Diamond, son of Mrs. Mary Diamond of the Peat district, north of Derwent, have been killed in action in Sicily.

Among the wounded is Pte. Noel Gabriel Solway, known here as Gabe Solway. He enlisted from Vermilion shortly after the outbreak of the war.

Although the fact that he has been wounded in the Sicilian fighting has been known here for some time, the name of Acting L.-Cpl. Harold Hall has appeared in the casualty list as wounded. Harold is a former Vermilion school boy, a son of Wm. Hall now of Winnipeg.

PILOTS APPRECIATE NIGHT LIGHTING OF AIRFIELD

Word from Canadian Airways (Training) Limited indicates that pilots flying over Vermilion are quite enthusiastic over the night lighting of the field, which undertaking is in the hands of R. B. Spencer. The full number of flares and lanterns have not yet arrived but in the meantime the very best use is being made of those available. Night lighting of the field makes it visible from quite a distance and gives a pilot with engine trouble every chance to make a good landing.

WHEATLEY WELLS ON PRODUCTION IN JULY

Output Takes A Big Jump

According to the last report of the Alberta Natural Gas and Petroleum Conservation board issued for July, the number of producing wells jumped to 19 as against 18 for June, and the volume of production hit an all-time high for the field of 9,396 barrels. June production was 6,093 barrels.

August will probably see another big increase as both the Alberta-Southern and the Elmore are on pump, and several more of the Canmar wells may be in the production list.

Well production in barrels for July is as follows:

CLANDONALD CHURCH VACATION SCHOOL WELL ATTENDED

Closed with Concert—Need of Parent Support Stressed

The Church Vacation school held at Clandonald during the past week was brought to a close with a well attended concert and demonstration on Friday evening. The attendance during the week was excellent with a minimum of 36 children on the opening day rising to thirty-nine by the middle of the week.

The concert included a patriotic musical drill and the singing of three choruses, the latter by the very young. Among the musical items was the "Evening Prayer" from the opera "Hansel and Gretel".

At the close of the proceedings the Vicar, the Rev. F. A. Peake, presented the certificates for punctuality and satisfactory work and spoke briefly about the school and its relation to religious education. He pointed out that any success or failure rests upon the parents. If they are really interested in the work of the school, or in summer schools such as this, could only attain to full effectiveness if it was loyally supported by the parents.

FIRST LOAD NEW WHEAT AT A. P. ELEVATOR

Don Logan reports that the first load of 1943 wheat received at the Alberta Pacific elevator was delivered early Wednesday morning Sept. 15 by Pat Cummings. The wheat had been swathed and combined. It was tough sledge, graded No. 2 and weighed 48½ pounds to the bushel.

Asks Cemetery Care

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

The following letter has been sent to the town council with a copy for publication to this paper.

Sept. 14th, 1943.

The Mayor and Council,
Town of Vermilion.
Gentlemen:

At a meeting of the Vermilion Branch of the Canadian Legion, held on Monday evening last, the condition of the local cemetery came up for discussion and members generally expressed a desire that an endeavor be made forthwith to have present unsatisfactory conditions remedied.

With this in mind the Canadian Legion urges that the Mayor and Council establish a cemetery commission or committee on which the Council would be represented by one member, other members to be named as found desirable or as may be decided at a meeting of all interested parties, such meeting to be called and sponsored by the Council.

It is suggested that such commission be granted powers to solicit funds for the proper maintenance of the cemetery and to make such expenditures as may be found necessary; there is little doubt but that ratepayers would strongly favor the granting, by the Town, of an annual sum not approximating $250, for the care of the cemetery and sentiments expressed in discussions of this problem create the impression that substantial sums could be added to such grant from other sources.

For your information, financial statements of the Town of Vermilion for several years past, indicate that revenues accruing to the Town from the cemetery have not, with the exception of one year, been wholly expended on maintenance of this sacred resting place of former residents.

For instance, in —

1937 Town received $65; spent $0.30
1938 Town received $81; spent $11.85
1939 received $120; spent $0.30
1940 received $18.50; spent $0.50
1941 received 125.00; spent 14.40
1942 received 100.00; spent 12.92

It appears that in 1938 a road was graded and gravelled into the cemetery and this would account for the only substantial expenditure on the

Changes In Interim Programme

5 P.C. Bonus Eliminated on Alberta Made Goods—2 P.C. On All Purchases

The following statement has been issued by Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial Treasurer.

"To remove certain misunderstandings which seem to have arisen in its development, the attention of the Alberta Treasury Branch Interim Program, now entering a new phase of development, is drawn to the fact that Alberta people is directed to the following facts:

1. Distinction between Alberta Trade-Marked Goods and other goods will cease.

2. The 5% bonus on Alberta Trade Marked Goods is hereby eliminated. After Sept. 15, the Consumers' Bonus will be paid at the flat rate of 2% on all classes of goods purchased with Transfer Vouchers by Consumers from Retail Merchants. The maximum purchases upon which bonus will be paid during a month in any one account will be limited to $100.

3. Trade Claims and the Trade Claim Control Board to be [illegible] entirely.

4. All restrictions on the [illegible] of funds now standing [illegible] of accounts except [illegible] Transfer Vouchers will be drawn upon to the full extent of [illegible] credit to such accounts or such portion of the [illegible] continues.

5. The use of non-negotiable Transfer Vouchers will not be discontinued. Those will not entitle the [illegible] legal tender or cheques, but must be deposited as at present. Accounts will contain a small balance and will be built up by the use of deposit or Transfer Vouchers [illegible] orders, cash, etc. If desired, cash may be withdrawn from the account regardless of the nature of the [illegible] made.

These are the main revisions of the Interim Program as they affect the public. It was felt that they will be welcomed both by the public and by the personnel of the Treasury Branch system. They are the first steps towards simplifying the [illegible] procedure of the Interim Program, with a consequent cutting in [illegible] administration costs."

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES

The airfield and possible air passenger service here was the chief topic of discussion at an interesting meeting of the board of trade held on Wednesday. Representations to this end will continue in various powerful bodies.

The board was informed that the territory between Vermilion and Lloydminster and the Saskatchewan and Battle Rivers would be shortly re-organized into two enlarged municipal districts. A resolution was passed urging that the dividing line run north on 11 south from Vermilion Valley, Elnora and Grizzly Bear into one large unit and that this mission, Morton and Britannia into the other. The resolution was forwarded to the number of interested parties.

There were 22 members present and the vice-president Jas. D. Adam was in the chair. Jean Stack, secretary-manager has recently returned to Vermilion from Kelowna, and welcomed to the board of trade meetings and to Vermilion.

Carmen Long had the Mayor draw up a letter of ten war savings certificates but only two or three passed hands. F. M. Stewart and Billy Pitt who were fortunate enough to be among

Home Front Appeal By Salvation Army

Canvassing Committee Organized; Drive Starts Sept. 20; Objective is $1,500

The Salvation Army annual "Home Front Appeal" will start on Monday Sept. 20th and the town and district of Vermilion is fully organized for this effort. W. S. Cash and J. Reid are directing the duties of canvassing the town committee and C. L. Whitby is acting as treasurer. Canvassing committees have been arranged and it is hoped to visit every person in town during the week commencing Monday Sept 20th.

Chairman of district committees are as follows: Derwent—P. Hachway (Islay)—Miss M. Stone. Myrnam—Carl Novakowsky. Mannville—C. H. Torrance. Dewberry — Joe Blaikwaite; Clandonald— Tom Sauder

When the canvassers visit you treat them kindly and as generously as possible so that the work may proceed with unhindered zeal. The "Army" is well and favorably known for the work it is carrying on and there is little doubt but that a ready response will be made to the appeal.

Importance Of Geography

THE STUDY OF GEOGRAPHY has gained new importance as modern developments in communication have brought distant parts of the world into closer and closer contact. In the past, many facts concerning the geography of foreign lands were of little interest to the average person, but it is now generally realized that there are no longer any remote parts of the world, and that events in what once may have seemed to us a far-off place, may deeply affect the course of the lives of us who live in Canada. Cities, mountains and rivers in distant countries, which were once only names to us, are now as familiar as those of our own country. Canadians, many of them from the West, have fought in the shadow of Mount Etna. We have followed the fortunes of the gallant Russian Army across the wide stretches of that country. The names of their cities, villages and rivers are well known to us, as are many islands in the Pacific which were once unknown dots on the map.

* * * * *

Germans Planned Global Warfare

We are told that German strategy, which was so successful at the beginning of the war, was planned with the help of clever Germans who had made intensive studies of the geography of the world. This close association of geography with military strategy was believed to be new, and it was thought that it would contribute to the annexation by Germany of all the vital places and resources necessary for world domination. The destruction of the German armies in Africa, and the inability of the Axis to nullify British sea power, marked the beginning of the failure of this version into the field of geopolitics, but there is still much to interest us in the realm of global warfare, and in the close association of the study of geography with our well-being now and in the future.

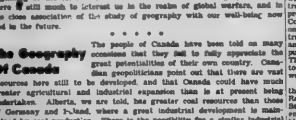
The Geography Of Canada

The people of Canada have been told on many occasions that they should try to fully appreciate the great potentialities of their own country. Canadian geopolitisians point out that there are vast resources here still to be developed, and that Canada could have much greater agricultural and industrial expansion than is at present being undertaken. Alberta, we are told, has greater coal resources than those of England, and when these coal deposits are developed in many instances, will be tained by coal production. There is the possibility for a similar industrial development in the Canadian West, were its coal supplies to be fully utilized. There are also great possibilities in the North, relatively unpopulated and undeveloped, where farm lands, water, and water power are available. The opening up of all these resources is linked with the question of immigration and there are many problems involved, but it is clear that a close study of the geography of our country might open up many interesting possibilities, worthy of consideration.

Double This All-Bran Recipe Double Your Muffin Delight



Do you know there are two delicious uses for your All-Bran muffin batter? The old, favorite muffin recipe is the familiar one—but you can turn the batter into a moist and delicious All-Bran Bread instead! Spread your slices with butter, jam, cheese. Then you have something different to pop up anytime meals. Good for in between snacks, too. Better still, why not double this recipe and enjoy both?

ALL-BRAN MUFFIN BREAD

3 tablespoons shortening	¾ cup milk
¼ cup molasses	1¼ cups flour
1 egg	½ teaspoon salt
1 cup All-Bran	2½ teaspoons baking powder

Blend shortening and molasses. Add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together, add to first mixture and stir just until liquid and dry ingredients are combined. Fill greased muffin pans two thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 25 minutes, or turn batter into greased loaf pan and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 45 minutes.

Yield 10 muffins (3-inch diameter) or, 1 loaf (9½ x 4½ x 3-inch pan).

Your Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By Ottawa Observer)

THE female of the species of the armed forces had their innings last week with the CWAC's being honored on the second anniversary and the Wrens (Navy) celebrating their first birthday. Thousands of people in Ottawa on Sunday, August 29, watched Vice-Admiral Percy Nelles take the salute under the Peace Tower on Parliament Hill as smart platoons of Wrens and officers marched past in review. The khaki clad CWAC's are now well over 13,000 strong and the girls from all over Canada are doing a swell job in this war effort. Do you know that your soldier lad in the Aleutians are approximately on the same parallel of latitude as Saskatoon, and Berlin in Nasty Land, seven hours behind our time in Ottawa. They might as well have been a hundred hours behind the Japs at Kiska, who were a step and fight-untrue to their "honorable" tradition.

What a family record! Mrs. Ida Cline, mother Mrs. William Culligan, of Watson, Ont., has five girls and a son on the fighting front. There is Lt. Olive at Calgary, Alta.; Lt. Ruby at Ottawa; Sgt. Mary Cline at Trenton, Ont.; AW1 Pearl at Cornwall, Ont.; Private Ethel Cline and son Cpl in the U.S. army in Oklahoma.

Here's a grand program for listening-in tonight. It's a conversation version of "Comrades in Arms", a weekly report of the Canadian Army Overseas over the CBC national networks each Sunday at 8:30 p.m.

Our Canadian army fills cavities in the Aleutian Islands, Scotland, but it is interesting to know that Lieut. Col. of the lads have little trouble they sure could get it fixed when they get home. The Medical Corps war right up their army dentist vans, lined up against the sand cold, and even with facilities for supplying water in special tanks. That's service de luxe, not bad as tough as finding a dentist ready to work on you right in Canada.

They have been saying lots of nice things about Wing Commander Robert F. Turnbull, D.F.M. of Ottawa, ace for his fine work with a four-engine bomber in the Nazi-directed Continental "Festung" four years ago he won a flight sergeant on November 30, 1941, a wing commander in November, 1943. One of his gunners ever mentioned is S. Ross Irwin, Ont., lad, Corporal M. J. Prince.

Looks like saturation for awards with the closing of three officers training camps at Chilliwack, B.C., Three Rivers, Que., and Gordon Head, B.C. In future, officer ranks will be filled mainly from ranks with overseas experience. Up to July 31, some 17,000 young officers have been trained for service here.

Folks around Islington, Ont., should be proud of Flying Officer Ian Simpson, navigator of a big bomber who got into difficulties in a heavily defended area. Four of the crew were ordered to bale out and a full load of bombs had to be abandoned. With F-L. T. T. Marsh, of Toronto, they got the machine back safely to a home base after getting rid of the bombs on a practice area.

The Reserve Army gets a variety of persons, and they could give a good account of themselves if the emergency arose. For instance, at the camp which was attended by Infantry by the 31st Field Regiment Can. R.C.A., two of the gunners were Tom Buck (not Tim), who was campaign expert for right in '37 at Guelph, and none other than Mayor Courtney of Neepawa.

The widespread ramifications or the diversified extent of the Canadian army crops up in surprising casually lads even thought that isn't a pleasant thing but we have to be realistic about things. I was looking at the official release of the 13th campaign of the Sicilian campaign and among the casualties I found men from such scattered parts as Prince Rupert, B.C.; Wolfville, N.S.; South Bay, Ontario; Reads, Lancashire, England; Consort, Alberta; Nairn, Inverness, Scotland, Grenadine Barbados, British West Indies; Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, Canadians all.

Gibraltar Plot

Spy Plan To Blow Up Ammunition Steamer

A Gibraltar dispatch to The London Daily Mail said that authorities had uncovered a plan to blow up an ammunition tanned at the Gibraltar docks yards.

The attorney-general referred in the plot, it was said, while presenting a gift to Sergeant Luis Lopez-Cortes Cuesa, on a charge of intending to assist the enemy and having a bomb for the purpose of sabotage.

Cuesa's arrest was said by the attorney general to have averted a disaster of the first magnitude. He was accused of delivering a German-made bomb to a house in Gibraltar. He faces life imprisonment.

A Better World

A Lasting Peace Must Subordinate Self For The Good Of Others

A reminder has come from one of our religious leaders of the importance of "counsel-of- operation" in planning the world after the war.

He explained that this should consist of close collaboration between statesmen, scientists and economists and the vast army of workers and Christian leaders of our land.

This is a happy simile, signifying as it does a vigorous attack, leading to a sealing of the beggars. If it is not exaggeration to assert that we shall never win a lasting peace without the lofty idealism which subordinates self to achieve the common good.

In this campaign parents can play a vitally important part by honouring their obligations and privileges. And, as this leader insists, in their guidance counsel of a positive, joyous teaching rather than a series of grim prohibitions.

WAGE WAR ON WASTE!

War Production Costs Reaching Large Figures

OTTAWA.—Expenditures on war construction and production in Canada since Sept. 9, 1939, total $6,500,000,000 — approximately $900 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion, the munitions department announced.

As Canada enters her fifth year of war, the record shows more than $730,000,000 in new factories, machinery and land sites financed by the government to speed the output of munitions. This cost would average approximately $65 for every person in Canada.

The completed munitions themselves have cost the people of Canada nearly $2,000,000,000, or about $455 out of every $600 spent by the department. War goods not produced in Canada but purchased here on account for approximately $25 of every $600 spent, or a total of $350,000,000.

To help house workers engaged in essential industries more than $65,000,000 has been invested in Crown companies, a sum representing an estimated $3 out of every $600.

In the construction field, Canada's biggest single item is airports more than $315,000,000 was expended, about $50 out of each dollar.

From every $100 invested in the construction of new plants and equipment, $16 was invested in aircraft construction industry, $16 in the chemicals and explosive industry, $17.50 in the gun industry, $1 in the machine tools and engine builders and $4 in the automotive industry. $35 to industries producing raw materials, $1.50 to the small arms instrument industry, $10 to the aircraft industry, $4.50 to shipbuilding and repairs, and $8.50 to buildings.

Canadian war production has reached a peak of $50,000,000 worth of munitions a week as the dominion enters its fifth year of war, Munitions Minister Howe said in a statement.

Reviewing the war production program, Mr. Howe made public new figures of what at $5,000,000,000 expenditures in the year ended Sept. 1, 1943, on war production and construction, services of labor, metals, timber and other materials produced for war purposes but not under munitions department contracts.

Persons directly or indirectly employed in war work at that date were estimated at 1,100,000 and services of the production of specific war materials showed new highs.

"More than $800,000,000 has been spent on hundreds of new plants and thousands of new machines. Since peacetime industries have expanded to two, five and even ten times their former size," the statement said.

"By the end of this year Canada will have launched approximately 750 ships and delivered more than 10,000 aircraft," Mr. Howe said. "Military vehicle production will have passed the 600,000 mark and armoured fighting vehicle output the 35,000 level.

"The nation will have turned out nearly 100,000 guns, barrels and mountings as well as 1,000,000 small arms.

"It will have manufactured more than 1,000,000 tons of explosives and war chemicals; some 80,000,000 complete rounds of heavy ammunition and well in excess of 2,600,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition. The total dollar value of the instruments and communications material output will be nearly $300,000,000."

United Nations Agree On Plans For World Peace

WASHINGTON.—Britain and the United States have reached a virtual agreement to maintain military collaboration and co-operation in the immediate post-war period, in order to block aggression and keep the peace, by force if necessary, it was learned from a high Allied source.

The combined chiefs of staff committee, the top-level military organization of the two countries, will be retained in the transition period that will come between the firing of the last shot and the signing of a comprehensive peace treaty. The military leaders of other United Nations probably will be added to the chiefs of staff committee to make it more representative and embracing.

This is the background, it was revealed, for Prime Minister Churchill's speech at Cambridge, Mass., in which he said "it would be a most foolish and improvident act on the part of our two governments, or either of them, to break up this smooth running and immensely powerful machinery (of the combined chiefs of staff committee) the moment the war is over.

"For our own safety, as well as for the security of the rest of the world, we are bound to keep it in being. It is running under after the war, probably for a good many years . . . "

Commenting on Mr. Churchill's words, a high Allied source said that, too many people are under the impression that a peace conference and a peace treaty will follow immediately after the armistice. That, he said, is not being contemplated by those directing Allied military and political strategy.

There would be a good guess, he continued, that a period of transition, or a cooling-off period, will come between the firing of the last shot and the formal signing of a peace treaty.

It will be a good thing for humanity in general if the peace can be written in temperate language.

During this transition period, he continued, it will be necessary to maintain peace by the victorious countries and the best medium for that is the retention of most of the combined chiefs-of-staff committee, watching the international situation as it develops, ready to apply force if necessary.

PLAN FOR EMPIRE

Australia's Prime Minister Thinks Pacific War Council Good Pattern

SYDNEY, Australia.— Prime Minister Curtin has elaborated on his suggestion that some sort of permanent imperial consultative body be formed for the management of the common economic and political interests of Britain and the Dominions.

He now has made it plain that he contemplates a council with a much less time similar to that of the present Pacific war council, on which Britain and the Dominions could consult regularly.

PLANS AIR SERVICE

British Shipping Company Will Place Proposal Before Shareholders

LONDON.—The first move by one of the big British shipping companies to supplement sea services with air lines after the war is expected to be taken at an extraordinary general meeting of the Cunard Steamship Company at Liverpool, Sept. 27.

Before shareholders will be placed a proposal that part of the company's postwar expenditure be switched to air transport. They will be asked to sanction an alteration in the company's memorandums of association to permit the building of transport airliners and airfleets for passenger and freight services.

The proposed new terms indicate the company is preparing to run its own air services to all parts of the world independently and in conjunction with other air lines. It is also suggested the company should establish its own repair and maintenance depots and if necessary obtain shares in aircraft interests.

Italy Occupation Culmination Of Considered Plan

WASHINGTON.— Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt, partners in the planning of Anglo-American military strategy received the news they had been expecting and waiting for—the announcement that the Axis had been split asunder with the capitulation of Italian armed forces.

The news, tersely flashed to the world from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's North African headquarters reprecipited the culmination of brilliant military operations conceived, in consultation with the two chiefs, by Churchill and Roosevelt in conference begun here in December, 1941, and climaxed—as far as the Mediterranean theatre was concerned—in the historic meeting at Casablanca—early this year.

That Italian unconditional surrender was imminent was surmised here because of Churchill's prolonged stay in the United States after conclusion of the Quebec conferences last month.

It appeared probable that the prime minister and president had laid down the general terms of Italian capitulation—terms consonant with the "unconditional" surrender formula announced at Casablanca—but had left him with a relatively free hand to deal with Italian affairs

Almost the first speculation after the news arrived here was that other of Germany's satellite states would follow Italy in surrendering speedily in the near future. The example of Italy, for example, might encourage Finland to make a separate peace with Soviet Russia, some sources believed.

In any event, Italy's disaster is bound to be received with great joy in the various conquered countries of Europe.

At one war department the news, packed with portents as the most tremendous single break in the Axis war front to date, was received with official silence.

RATIONING RULES

Prices Board Has Issued New Order For Bread

OTTAWA. — Provision for the holder of a ration book to leave his book, card or a sheet from the book with his retailer is contained in a consolidated order covering rationing rules issued by the prices board.

The order provides that the book, card or sheet left with the retailer must include the stub signed by the consumer. Every time a sale is made to the consumer, the retailer must detach enough coupons to cover the quantity delivered.

It was learned this provision applies to cash as well as to charge account customers. It applies to many housewives who deal steadily with the same retailer, in addition to those who order by telephone from one retailer and do not wish to take in ration books every time they intend to purchase rationed goods.

Canada Plans To Ship Huge Flour Order To Britain

OTTAWA.—Canada has started a determined effort to provide the United Kingdom with about 1,000,000 tons of flour—an order twice as large as that announced as having been granted to Australia, Trade Minister MacKinnon said.

He told The Canadian Press that Canada now is "working on" the order, to supply the flour to Britain as speedily as possible. Every effort is being made to increase production of Canadian flour mills to meet the unusually heavy demand.

It appeared Britain is building up large stocks of flour, and some authorities speculated that these supplies will be held available for use in feeding the liberated countries of Europe as the war proceeds.

As part of the British flour purchase price will be covered by the $1 000,000,000 "mutual aid" bill approved by the Canadian parliament at its last session.

Officials said arrangements have been completed under which, effective Sept. 1 British purchases of Canadian wheat will be paid for in Canadian dollars. This means that Canadian offers of wheat will be quoted in Canadian dollars instead of in sterling as in the past, and the price will be on the dollar basis

This step makes it possible to finance the British wheat and flour purchases under the mutual aid plan since the amount voted for this purpose by parliament is in dollars.

Authorities said there can be no estimate what portion of the wheat or wheat flour shipments will represent actual grain from Canada, since the amounts will be determined from time to time by the mutual aid board.

There was no indication of the price to be paid for the flour, but it was assumed by informed sources it will be no less than the price based on the Canadian wheat board price for No 1 Northern wheat at Fort William—80 cents a bushel.

Some officials said it appears probable Canadian wheat or wheat flour soon will find its way into Italy, where the people have been on short bread rations for almost two years. Following the Italian capitulation it was expected food supplies would follow the United Nations' armies entering Italian territory

Negotiations for the provision of 1,000 000 tons of flour from Canada were completed between the British and Canadian governments, Mr. MacKinnon said.

President Of U.S. Chamber Of Commerce Praises Britain's War Effort

SPOKANE, Wash. — High praise for the people of England was voiced by Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who said he was "tremendously impressed" by their war effort.

Recently returned from a trip to England, Johnston said in an interview that England, previously known for high-grade, hand-made goods, "is mastering the art of mass production."

"The part women are playing in this achievement cannot be overemphasized," he added. "Some factories have as high as 93 per cent. women on their pay rolls. . . . Their cheerfulness and their spirit is laudable."

CAUSED DAMAGE

Army Manoeuvres In England Have Cost Country Over $12,000,000

BOURNEMOUTH, IN ENGLAND.— Damages amounting to approximately $517,500 were caused by Canadian and British government commission on national expenditure said that in view of the large area of agricultural land required for manoeuvres by formation of troops and tanks, damage was kept "on the whole within reasonable limits."

Since November, 1940, the war office claims commission dealt with 419,706 cases and more than £12,000,000 were paid to claimants. The report did not say what proportion was the responsibility of Canadians.

PREPARING FILMS

MRS. ANNA NELSON DIES IN 91st YEAR

Mrs. Anna Nelson, well known resident of Vermilion for the past eight years and of the district for many years prior to that, passed away at the Vermilion hospital on September 12th in her 91st year.

Funeral services were held from the Salvation Army hall on Sept. 14 and interment took place in the Vermilion cemetery. Capt. Hustler conducted the services.

Pall bearers were A. M. West, R.B. Spencer, W. P. Pilkie and Harry Fitzlott.

J. Waring had charge of funeral arrangements.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from Her Old Friends of the Imperial block, Members of the Red Shield Friends of the Salvation Army Corps; The Sellman Family; Mr and Mrs. D. Klaschinsky and family, Mrs. Reid and family, Mrs. D. Edwards and Patricia, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. West, Miss Crain, Ladies of the Red Shield Auxiliary, Friends of the Imperial block, Mrs. Bellingham and Amy, The Bellingham Children; Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Minard and Mrs. Baker.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

Cutting of grain is well advanced with several threshing outfits plan to start this week. It is to be hoped that the lovely sunny weather of the past Saturday and Sunday will continue for a few days so to complete harvesting this fall.

We experienced several light frosts last week but very little damage was suffered to gardens. There is a very heavy yield of all kinds of vegetables and potatoes.

The tattoo is now is undergoing regrading this past week.

Mrs. Barnwell and George Nesbitt motored to Edmonton last week end. They went up by train early Saturday morning and were driven back by Mrs. Shanks in her car on Sunday. Mrs. Shanks returned to the city that same evening.

Sgt. Reginald Ferguson has joined the Navy.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cameron are visitors to Vermilion and district.

Mr. J. C. Hamilton, an old-timer of Chatsworth visited the district recently.

Back from Overseas—Under Age

OTTAWA —Private H. G. Scott, a 17-year-old Stratford, Ont., youth, home from overseas because of being under-age doesn't like it one little bit. "All I can say is that I'm sorry to be back," he told reporters. "There's something that gets you once there and I want to go back overseas with the rest of the boys. When he enlisted he was five feet six inches in height and weighed 126 pounds. Now he is five feet eight and a husky 150 pounds.

THE ARMY CARRIES ON

Brass bands marching men'd to war may clank its music with harsher, martial strains, shuffling feet on cow-sod pavements may muffle its trumpets, many-colored uniforms of hail the world now on the sidewalks of Nova Scotian towns may subdue its once unique uniforms — but the Salvation Army band, like the great force it symbolizes in the public mind, still carries on.

In war, as in peace, it announces its Thought: It is the outward evidence of a great work that silently and ceaselessly goes on in the world — among men broken by adversity until their own weaknesses, among children who are waifs, among mothers, the aged, the sick or the hospitaling.

The Salvation Army is an amazing organization, though today its achievements, no longer unexpected, may often be overlooked. It is backed by no church, but it is possessed of faith. It boasts no titans or tinsmen or industry among its leaders, but is built, instead, upon broad shoulders of common Christian folk.

Started in a London slum's degradation, it reaches today to the topmost levels of a thousand communities in a hundred countries.

Survivor of One Great War, it finds in this second world conflict new fields yet greater opportunities to serve.

With all it is doing for men and women in the armed services of the United Nations—in enemy lands it is banned because Christian democratic—it has not neglected the field to serve which it began; the moving of many apocryphies wherever and wherever found with an understanding and compassion born of experience and with practical measurable help.

WILDMERE WINKS

We are sorry we forgot to extend congratulations to the following in our last week's news items — Mr. and Mrs. Abe Dick of Wildemere on the birth of a baby daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alexander, Battleview on the birth of a son.

Cutting grain is going ahead fast these fine days. The next sound we will hear will be the hum or threshing machines on all sides.

Sgt. Norman Smith and Miss Mary Sawley were at the former's home over the week end. Norman has remastered and is going to be a pilot now. Best of luck Norman in your new adventure.

Mr. Brace held his last church service for this field on sunday last. We were able to pay him up in full the day he left. Anyone wishing to give to this fund may do so yet, it will be greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Robert Bethke is to hold Communion service here next Sunday morning—but look in church column to be sure this.

We are pleased to hear that Walter Alexander who underwent an operation last week at Vermilion hospital is doing nicely.

The writer and Graham children spent Sunday visitors to the Clift Cruthers' home.

Mrs. Nash, Mrs. Russell Cruthers, Mrs. Hattie and Billie were Sunday afternoon visitors to the Geo. Cruthers' home.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Smith, Billie, Mrs. Cliff Cruthers and Jeanette took Yvonne Morand to her home in Tisdale on Sunday evening. Her sister Ardis is now staying with her grandmother for a few weeks.

News is scarce folks and if some appears next week it's because the writer is too busy to write them.

J. Wallington has an Ontario man helping him harvest, Fred Boyce, from near Lucan Ont., also a soldier from Vancouver, Gar. Frank Godwin although together now a vast amount of land separates those two men's homes.

MORE CREDIT UNIONS

Healthy growth in the credit union movement in Alberta is shown by the figures supplied this week by Mr. F.J. Fitzpatrick, Superintendent of Co-operatives and Credit Unions for the Province. The new Savings and Credit Unions organized at Boyle a few days ago was No. 122 on the list since 1935 and the 68th in 1942.

Remarkable add-light on Alberta Credit Unions is that interest is spreading most rapidly in rural areas. So far, this year of the total Unions organized 21 were at country points as compared with only 14 in urban centres.

WAR...
..What is War?

To our children, war is something they read about in the comic strips, something Superman and Joe Palooka are looking after. What the war is doing to their world —their future—has a meaning for them. They're interested in fun—not fr ect.

But you know we can't have the war to the Joe Palookas and the Supermen any more than we can leave the future to blind chance. You can help WIN THE WAR and you can build for the future by investing in . . . .

BOWTELL BULLETIN

The last B.B. meeting was held at Mrs. Gould's and was attended by 15 members and 15 visitors. Among the latter were Mrs. A. Gillies, Mrs. L. Bowser, Mrs. J. Gould, Mrs. J. Millar, Miss B. Gilse, Mrs. George Capstan, Miss L. Bowser, Miss L. Gould. The ladies decided to hold a dance in the Bowtell school and details are advertised elsewhere in this issue of the Standard. The next quilting bee will be held at Mrs. Gow's and lunch will be served by Mrs. Penton and Mrs. P. Robinson. At the close of the meeting a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Gould which was greatly enjoyed by the ladies. A vote of thanks is due to Mrs. Gould for her kindness.

Mrs. Perkins received a cablegram on Saturday saying that her husband has arrived safely overseas.

Our Editor must have a grudge against us as the last three items in last week's bulletin were mixed up a bit. We hope that you could make them out alright.

We are pleased to have Mrs. McIntyre in our midst and to learn that she is to stay until Xmas anyway—so mother says, Evelyn.

Word received from Mrs. Walsh states that she has secured a position in the Edmonton City bakery.

Charlie Dolford was noticed kindly driving a carload of ladies to the recent quilting bee.

CHAPTER II

There is sure a change in Calgary to what there was a couple of years ago when I came up to see the stampede and I notice it as soon as I'm out of the raitler.

The place is just overrun with soldiers, sailors and airmen. They're everywhere and seem to be having a mighty fine time.

I see a soldier with three stripes on his arm and asks him where a fellow goes to join up in this man's army.

"Cowboy," he says. "You can't miss. Just a block north and you can figure you're as good as in."

Well, I go down to the building with a big sign "Recruiting Depot" over the door and climb up three flights of stairs to the office.

Right off a fellow says, "What can I do for you?" So I tell him I figure on joining the army.

He smiles and starts asking a lot of questions about me and when he gets done he tells me to sit on a long bench where a lot of other fellows are parked.

I sit down and roll a smoke and a quiet little lad sitting next to me smiles and says, "What are you joining, lad?"

"The army," I tell him.

"Aren't we all," he grins. "What I mean is what branch of the service? I want to get in artillery."

I tell him I hadn't thought about that angle, and ask him what branches there are.

IT'S ALL DUTCH

He spells off a list of initials—R.C.A., R.C.O.C., R.C.A.M.C., R.C.A., R.C., C.D.C., and a heap of others I can't remember.

"Sign down, chum," I reply. "It's alright to be coming up with all those but it's just like trying to identify names by bands when you never heard the name of the spreads."

Well, this little guy seems to know quite a bit. He tells me he became he has three brothers serving in the army, and he explains all about the different things they can get a job in.

"I didn't tell you about the infantry before," he continues. "Those are the foolishest but they don't march like they used to in the last war. There are plenty of trucks and they move you right up to where you can get in with the enemy."

He goes on to say that the infantry are the boys who can get to close grips with the other side — right in at hand-to-hand fighting.

I opine that is where I want to be. No long range fighting for me. I left the ranch to fight and gol-ding it, I'm wanting to be right up there where a man can get a good lick in.

Well, we sit there for quite a spell and a fellow comes through a door and tells us to come in.

We traipse through into another long room and this fellow says, "Go aboard and strip off."

Some of the fellows don't seem to be wanting to get down to their birthday suits but I figure if that's what they want I might as well get it over with.

JUST LIKE SWIMMING HOLE

In no time at all we're all sollting around like the gang used to do at the swimming hole down at the creek.

Right off they whip us into a little room where they weigh us and measure us and then back in our hoochies we go. In a little time the fellow whose running the show tells me to go into another room.

I wander through the door—still in my birthday suit—and see a fellow behind a desk.

He starts right off to ask me if I've had any diseases and before he gets through it seems he's asked me about most everything in the book except probably hoof and mouth infection.

Between him and a couple of other fellows who come along they give me a proper going over. They check my eyes and my teeth and whisper then ask me prtner they said.

One of the fellows cracks me below the knee with a little mallet affair and then they test my lungs and then make me do a couple of those exercises like you do when you're taking physical jerks at school.

Finally one of the fellows says, "You'll do. You can get dressed now."

I'm just getting my boots back on when the little fellow I'd been talking to joining the army.

He smiles and starts asking a lot of questions about me and when he gets done he tells me to sit on a long bench where a lot of other fellows are sitting.

I sit down and roll a smoke and a quiet little lad sitting next to me smiles and says, "What are you joining, lad?"

"The army," I tell him.

"Aren't we all," he grins. "What I mean is what branch of the service? I want to get in artillery."

I tell him I hadn't thought about that angle, and ask him what branches there are.

IT'S ALL DUTCH

He spells off a list of initials—R.C.A., R.C.O.C., R.C.A.M.C., R.C.A., R.C., C.D.C., and a heap of others I can't remember.

"Sign down, chum," I reply. "It's alright to be coming up with all those but it's just like trying to identify names by bands when you never heard the name of the spreads."

Well, this little guy seems to know quite a bit. He tells me he became he has three brothers serving in the army, and he explains all about the different things they can get a job in.

"I didn't tell you about the infantry before," he continues. "Those are the foolishest but they don't march like they used to in the last war. There are plenty of trucks and they move you right up to where you can get in with the enemy."

He goes on to say that the infantry are the boys who can get to close grips with the other side — right in at hand-to-hand fighting.

I opine that is where I want to be. No long range fighting for me. I left the ranch to fight and gol-ding it, I'm wanting to be right up there where a man can get a good lick in.

Well, we sit there for quite a spell and a fellow comes through a door and tells us to come in.

We traipse through into another long room and this fellow says, "Go aboard and strip off."

Some of the fellows don't seem to be wanting to get down to their birthday suits but I figure if that's what they want I might as well get it over with.

JUST LIKE SWIMMING HOLE

In no time at all we're all sollting around like the gang used to do at the swimming hole down at the creek.

Right off they whip us into a little room where they weigh us and measure us and then back in our hoochies we go. In a little time the fellow whose running the show tells me to go into another room.

"You sure make that saying of all army clothes being too big or too small sound awful wrong," the stranger continues.

Then he insists himself up from his bunk and reaches out with his hand. "We're probably going to be together quite a spell," he says, "so we might as well get acquainted. I'm Tom Gilbert from Irricana."

I shake hands with him and tell him who I am.

About that time a fellow comes along and tells us it's time to eat and to bring our eating tools along with us.

We follow the crowd over to the place they call the mess hut and there I'm in for another surprise.

It's a mighty big place, as clean as a pin and there are several hundred fellows all sitting down to a meal that would really make our old Chinese cook, Too Foog, work his darndest.

WE CAN GO OUT

After we've eaten we wander back to our hut and the corporal who is in charge says we can have passes to go out and see the town if we want to.

Tom says it sounds like a good idea and asks me if I want to come along so I say yes.

After we get out of the barracks Tom suddenly stops me if I know how to salute and I have to aphe that I've got a general idea.

"We better learn right away," he says. "Let's duck in this alley and try it out a few times because we might be meeting officers and we don't want to look bad for a start." Well, we do just that. Tom tries a few salutes till I figure he's got it down pretty well then I do a little practicing.

From there we wander off down the drag and sure enough we meet plenty of officers.

I'm sure glad we did that little bit of practicing because as I tell Tom after we're in barracks, I'll bet there wasn't an officer who we met who would believe you only been in the army a couple of hours.

That is if they didn't get close enough to smell the disinfectant they put on soldiers' stores and which I learned later was a sure sign of a new recruit.

Planning Necessary

To Deal With Conditions After The End of The War

One of the reasons why after winning the last war we lost all its fruits was that during the war itself there wasn't sufficient general discussion or forming of public opinion as to what should happen after. We all thought rather vaguely of going back to the good old days. This time we all know we can't go back to the old days because they weren't good enough, with their mass unemployment and economic wars and breeding of new military wars. We must go forward to something better than the old days Sir William H Beveridge The Pillars of Security.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SEPTEMBER 19

THE SIN OF MOSES AND AARON

Golden text: Be ye angry, and sin not. Ephesians 4:26.

Lesson: Numbers 20.
Devotional reading: Psalm 86:1-4, 14-16.

Explanations and Comments

The Arrival at the Wilderness of Zin. Numbers 20:1. We have come in our study of the history of the Children of Israel to the first month of the thirty-ninth year of their wilderness life. The people are back again at Kadesh, and there Miriam dies and is buried.

The Rebellion of the People. Numbers 20:2-5 "It is worthy of remark," observes Milton, "that those who are the most unworthy of liberty are always the most ungrateful and fully forsaken their deliverers." The new generation of the Children of Israel rebelled against their leaders, Moses and Aaron, just as their fathers had done, saying, "Would that we had died when our brethren died before Jehovah."

Moses and Aaron Seek Help from Jehovah. Numbers 20:6 8. Without trying to argue with the people the leaders turn to God and fall upon their faces at the door of the tabernacle, "as if crushed and helpless in face of the heart-breaking proof of the persistent obstinacy of the old Adam." Moses is directed to assemble the people, take his rod (Ex. 4: 17; 7:17; 14:16; 17:5, 9; Num. 17:10) and "speak" to the rock that it give forth water. It should then furnish water for the people and their cattle, and Moses took the rod as commanded.

Moses' Sin and Sentence. Numbers 20:10-13 Moses and Aaron assembled the people, and Moses cried, "Hear now, ye rebels; shall we bring you forth water out of this rock?" He spoke unadvisedly with his lips. Ps. 106:33. Note the pronoun "we." there is no reference to God. "His angry scolding betrays wounded personal importance, and annoyance at rebellion against his own authority rather than grief at the people's distrust of God, and for all distinct clouding over of his own consciousness of dependence on God for all his power.

"Because ye believed not in me, to sanctify me in the eyes of Israel," he denied the power of God to bring forth the water by sacrificing the power to himself—"therefore ye shall not bring this assembly into the land which I have given them," was the sentence imposed upon the two leaders.

THE JOLLY EJECTION

The sergeant halted the new sentry opposite the man he was to relieve.

"Give over your orders," he said.

The old sentry reeled off the routine instructions with confidence, but one of the special orders baffled him.

"Come on, man!" said the sergeant impatiently.

"On no account," stammered the sentry, "are you to let any countenance chatterers through the hinge, except the colonel's wife!"

Of the thousands of parcels sent through the British Red Cross to British war prisoners in Germany and Italy only one in 750 is lost.

Was Well Done

Camouflage Fooled Overbearing Officer In Spite Of His Criticism

Bennett Cerf, in the Saturday Review of Literature, says:

The rarest tale of poetic justice comes from dusty Texas, where an erstwhile New Yorker cartoonist is laboring in a camouflage unit. A loud-mouthed and overbearing officer drove up one day last week and bawled the daylights out of the entire company. Their efforts, he informed them, wouldn't befuddle a Jap with one eye missing entirely and the other closed by a cataract.

"Take down this claptrap," he bellowed, "and start all over again."

The officer then climbed into his jeep, and drove smack into the camouflaged headquarters hut.

Average Paraguayan eat a half-dozen or more oranges daily, that fruit being plentiful in their country.

Hitler's Synagogue

Nazis Given To Church in Dublin Built By Germany

Two years ago a couple of German planes got lost and bombed Dublin under the impression that it was an enemy target. Several buildings were damaged including a Jewish Synagogue.

De Valera protested to Berlin. Hitler apologized and said he would pay for the damage in full.

A complete new Jewish Synagogue was built with the German money. In Dublin it is known as Hitler's synagogue.—London Calling, in Piscatorial Post.

Could Handle Boes

British Pastor Able To Free Bomber Plane Of Swarm

It happened on an airfield in Britain. Suddenly a big Halifax bomber at its dispersal point, the ground crew suddenly heard a strange buzzing noise, and saw a great procession of bees entering and leaving a small hole in the tail of the plane.

The Hal ax was due to bomb Germany that night, bees or no bees A frantic search throughout the district ensued until a local clergyman was discovered who said he would handle the unwelcome passengers. Gingerly the ground crew stripped part of the fabric off the tail, and the clergyman, wearing gloves, found the queen bee—where to bare of followed by the rest of the colony.

The ground crew patched up the fabric and a few hours later the bomber took off for Cologne.

CHAPTER II.

ANNE JAMIESON attempted to slam her bedroom door in the nobleman's face. But a booted foot planted itself against the wood, tearing the door from her grasp. At the other stride and the tall man had clamped a hand on the girl's arm.

"Damnation!" he snarled. "You have fooled me long enough."

"Denys" The word tore from her throat. With blind fury she fought to break his hold. Her head reached to sink teeth into his arm, but the thick cloth of the greatcoat protected the man.

Out of the room came Estelle, flinging herself upon the man. The fellow staggered and before he could recover himself Anne had writhed out of his grip and darted under his arm.

He clutched at her, tearing the silken robe from her shoulders. Instantly, the hell was a maelstrom of action. From the shadows sprang the tall man's confederates to bend off the girl rescuer for the stairs. Jonathan Hale was in the hall above, and so, too was Mona Denys, emerging in a fury from the room, she had shut of the two girls.

The French nobleman had a sword in his hand and its expert flourishes quickly cleared the way for Mistress Anne. By this time Jonathan, who had seen the fantastic affair, reached the scene of conflict. He sighted a man with a pistol at Denys who was in the act of turning to face the other foes in his rear. Jonathan's right arm was raised. His descending like a club on the neck of the man with the gun.

The blow sent the man crashing forward with a force that splintered the door railing, but had been delivered too late to prevent the discharge of the pistol. The gun roared and Monsieur Denys sagged and sank slowly to the floor. Jonathan caught one of the balusters below the broken hand-rail, ripped the pillar from its fastenings and with that improvised weapon found himself facing the blade of the tall man.

The advantage should have been wholly on the side of the swords man. But his lordship raging at the miscarriage of his plans, and perhaps acornful of such opposition, made the mistake of lunging furiously, driving his point at Jonathan's chest. Jonathan, shifting quickly, knocked the length of steel aside, then almost in the same motion, swung the cudgel a second time The knobby oak landed indiscriminately on the hand and wrist. Two nails on the end of the baluster, bent like claws, raked through flesh and bone from wrist to knuckles, became ensnared in the carvings of the guard and the sword was jerked from the grasp of his lordship.

The tall man attempted to regain the weapon as it clattered to the floor, but another sweep of the nail-fanged club drove him back. From either side rushed the nobleman's two remaining henchmen to take up the battle with bared daggers and then, dropping the baluster, stooped again, catching the rapier and rising in time to meet the additional menace, properly armed for the first time.

The steel stopped the servants flat footed. They retreated warily, saw that they were about to be hemmed in by a corner of the hall, and backed instead into the doorway of a convenient room. With them went his lordship, equally anxious to avoid the blade which so expertly for all that a the man who now possessed it was an unschooled rookie.

JONATHAN, his lips in a grim smile, knelt again, digging his fingers into the collar of the man he had knocked senseless at the beginning of the fray. Before the room bunched in the doorway had divined his purpose he was upon them dragging that limp lady-after him and forcing the trio further into the room with the swing of the sword.

Across the threshold himself, he heard the scrambling within him of the room and closed the door with a movement of his foot. One of the servants stirred uneasily as Jonathan fingered the key in the lock.

"You," Jonathan said. "If you will surrender those knives I shall merely lock you in here and take my leave."

The two knives were tossed at Jonathan's feet. His lordship said sourly, "You shall rue this night's work, my country bumpkin. Look us in here if you will, but I shall be downstairs and after you before you are out of earshot."

"Now remove your clothes," said Jonathan. "Strip yourselves to the skin."

Slightly mystified, but willingly, the servants obeyed, making a pile of doublets, shirts, breeches, hose and even their shoes. "Now," said Jonathan, "toss everything into the fireplace and start a blaze."

The tall man had not uttered. "You, too, my lord," reminded Jonathan.

The bony face was livid. "I'll see you in hell first!"

JONATHAN'S arm straightened and the rapier bit into the thigh of the stubborn man. "Undress yourself, my lord, or I shall shred your fine clothes from you in ribbons."

The tall man, his faced twisted in pain from the severe prick, turned suddenly and swept his cloak into the smoke of the fire eating into the clothes of his servants. As the master removed his garments one by one the servants performed a like task on the man on the floor.

Jonathan turned toward the door, but at the threshold paused to snap the blade of the nobleman's sword and toss the broken weapon back into the room. Then he locked the door and pocketed the key.

SOMETHING stirred in the shadowy hall. Monsieur Denys pushing himself up steadily from the floor near the wrecked balustrade. Jonathan dropped beside the Frenchman as the fellow was fingering the bloody gash across his forehead.

"You are not badly hurt, sir?"

"Just a scalp-wound." Denys shook his head, then peered intently at his questioner. "Who are you?"

"I am a friend," smiled Jonathan, helping the smaller man to his feet. "You have nothing to fear. Everything is all right, provided no harm has come to Mistress Jamieson."

They found her at the foot of the stairs, a huddled, crumpled heap in a white nightgown. Anne had tripped on the hem in her headlong flight. Denys knelt beside the girl and looked up at Jonathan said. "She's all right."

Then Knowing the innkeeper appeared with a light the girl Estelle behind him with a jar of water

A MUMMUR indicated that Mistress Anne was recovering Beside she was able to swallow from the vessel Estelle held to her lips. It was Denys who informed her that the entire party had been saved by the tall young Puritan The girl thanked Jonathan no warmly that the youth was quite embarrassed.

Jonathan feared him. "I Mistress Jamieson will permit me" he ventured awkwardly

The brown haired girl smiled and lifted her arms

A peculiar sensation coursed through him, as he took her in his arms, a sort of giddiness that almost made him fear he would mangle this exquisite burden no better than would the injured Denys

But his feet did not fail her. In fact the giddiness turned to exhilarating as he followed Estelle and the gentleman to wait the door of the tavern and into the yard At the stables hostlers were already hitching horses to a carriage as Denys opened the carriage door Jonathan could hear Anne f thanking him, as he helped her

"Thank you, Jonathan the girl whispered gratefully, as he tucked in the shawl for the journey. "So strong."

WEDDING BELLS

FURNESS—COLLETT

The Peace River church, Calixta, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, September 4, when Margaret Phyllis, only daughter of Mrs. Georgie Collett, was united in marriage to Mr. George Furness of Vermilion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a soft blue crepe ensemble and carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Nora Hand was the Matron of Honor, with Mrs. Harry Reeves as the best man.

Mr. Elmer Roberts played the wedding music and, during the signing of the register, Miss Betty McFarland sang "My World".

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T.R. Rose, where a three-tiered wedding cake, embellished with pale shades of sweet peas, formed the centrepiece.

The Rev. Mr. C. Bartell pronounced the bridal toast.

Mr. and Mrs. Furness left for Regina where they will honeymoon prior to taking up residence in Calgary.

Stagette Notes

The first meeting of the Stagette club for the 1943-44 season was held in the clubroom on Tuesday Sept. 14 with Lucie English in the chair.

Plans are underway for the "Harvest Ball" which is becoming an annual event. The elaborate decorations of last year cannot be carried out due to fire restrictions but the girls promise to plan a good time for all. So will be seeing each and every one at the Elks hall on Tuesday, Sept. 21th.

The club will aid the Salvation Army in their drive for funds early in October by canvassing the business girls for donations.

STAGETTE CONVENTION

The annual convention of the National Association of Stagette clubs was held in the Dorchesterough hotel in Montreal Sept. 5-6. Three delegates from clubs from Montreal to Vernon, B.C., attended.

Also present at the 10th anniversary of a club which started with four members in Saskatoon and now has 17 clubs in Canada.

Organization this year will be carried out to a greater extent and it is hoped to have numerous more new clubs in the coming year.

The main discussion of the convention was the Maidstone St. school which is the project of the Association of Stagette clubs. It has been very successfully handled and by all the girls quite large amounts of goods have been sent directly to the school. Letters have been received acknowledging these items. Miss Georgie Collett, was united in marriage to Mr. George Furness of Vermilion.

Plans rushed sladdins and palms were used to decorate the altar.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a soft blue crepe ensemble and carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Nora Hand was the Matron of Honor, with Mrs. Harry Reeves as the best man.

Mr. Elmer Roberts played the wedding music and, during the signing of the register, Miss Betty McFarland sang "My World".

WOODVALE

After the rainy Labor day week and when everyone felt gloomy at the prospect or another wet fall for harvest, blessings have been coming from early to late, specially the latter. Another heavy crop is being cut and fields that left off and 3 grades of binder twine per acre are no exception. It will take a lot of nice weather and hard work to get all the grain safely into the bins.

Light frosts on several nights did some damage to the gardens, but most of us still have fine crops of corn, beans, and other deliveries for the dinner table.

Though most schools do not open until October Cecile Goutier went back to Vegreville where apparently the first three years are the hard ones taught, so that the little ones will not have to stay in school during July 1944. Evelyn Graham Breville is taking Grade 12 in Lloydminster and has left for that town, as the schools there also started in September.

Woodvale school will be closed again this year, which is surely a pity as there are at least half a dozen very young children who are unable to follow the correspondence courses and who are apparently too young to travel the five miles to the nearest school.

The sincere sympathy of the community goes out to the Rund family of Triangle district in their recent bereavement. Mr. Rund had many friends here who were very sorry that the news of his death, mainly through some telephone connections, did not reach them until after the funeral.

There are at least three more applications for telephones, but it is hard to get new boxes. We wonder what happened to the line man this year. Will we have to wait a number of farmers fixing their lines near their homes as requested, there is not so much line left for repair as in other years and still it seems mostly out of order. But we hear the same complaint almost every where line. Too much work and not enough hands to do it, is the biggest reason.

Mrs. Gutteridge spent a week with the McLaughlin family near Mannville while Ruby and Hazel Rankin visited the Pierman family north of town.

Mrs. B. Van Hoff of Edmonton and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hole of Vermilion were visitors at the Van Waggenegen home over the Labor day week end.

Roger Watt lost most of his young pigs with septicemia and it might be a good thing to remember, that vaccination for it is very effective and very cheap for young pigs.

OBITUARY

SIDNEY R. SCOTT

Funeral services of the late Sidney R. Scott of Heinsberg, who passed away in Edmonton, August 29, were held Thursday, September 2, at the Greenlawn hall. Rev. T. Harrison of Marwayne, assisted by Rev. Marshall Heinsberg, officiated.

Interment took place in the Heinberry cemetery. Pall-bearers were R. Thomson, C. Grist, F. Bell, W. Morris, A. Stone, J. Jones.

Four Bungalows and Warehouse Going Up

Building continues at a high rate of speed in Vermilion and the present time sees four new bungalows in various stages of construction, while the Vermilion Co-operative are planning to build a new warehouse immediately.

The bungalows under construction include those of Miss A. Smyczek, who is having a 28 by 30 foot building erected on Lot 18 Block 3 in the west end of town. It will consist of five rooms and work is well started under contractor C. P. Lloyd.

Bill Lippert has already moved into the new home immediately south of the tennis courts in the west end, but still has some work to do on it.

Work has been done on Mr. Lippert's in the story and a half home being built by Mr. Jas. Crowell. It measures 18 by 30 feet and contains five rooms.

The fourth bungalow is being built in the east end of town by A.L. Cornish. It will have 6 rooms and overall measurements are 26 by 30 feet.

The Vermilion Co-operative also plan on erecting a concrete warehouse for flour and feed immediately behind their store on Main street. The new building will be 14 by 22 feet and will cost in the neighborhood of $1000.

Besides these complete building projects there are numerous additions and alterations being made including Father O'Sullivan, garage; Charlie Spencer, verandah; Missionary Alliance, two additions to rear of Mission, value $900; Foundry addition to blacksmith shop; Haliburton Oil Well Cementing Co. alterations.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS WANT BOARD AND ROOMS

Residents of Town Asked to Help Out

In addressing the Board of Trade on Wednesday Principal L.H. Bossard spoke of the pressing need for living accommodation for the high school students coming to town from outside districts. He pointed out that it was very desirable to have these students here and that they were now coming to town every day looking for board and room, or light housekeeping rooms, and are finding quarters of any kind very hard to obtain.

There is hardly a house among the larger homes of the town that has not a room not now in use, and residents are urged to do all they can to make living quarters available to those boys and girls. If you can and are willing to help, list your name with Mr. Bossard. There is only a short time before school will re-open for the fall term.

TEXAS COMFORTS for SOLDIERS

A meeting to discuss the sending of Christmas parcels to our boys Overseas will be held in the council chamber at 8.30 on Tuesday evening Sept. 28. All organizations are asked to send representatives.

Bible Society Canvass To Open

The annual canvass for funds for the British and Foreign Bible Society will commence next week, and according to the report through the first week of October. Despite war conditions the work of the Bible Society is continuing in ever increasing measure. During the past year the Scriptures were printed in seven new languages. Distribution continues to increase tremendously. Vermilion and district made a most showing last year, but it is hoped that total contributions will go over the top this year. A house to house canvass will be made, as well as the business establishments.

COMPLETE MATRICULATION AT VERMILION HIGH SCHOOLS

Choice of Many Subjects

Owing to changes which the Department of Education is making in the Grade XI course, it is impossible at this time to decide what subjects will be offered at the Vermilion high school this year. However it is the probability Grade XII students will have the following subjects from which to choose: English 2, Social Studies 3, Chemistry 2, Physics 2, Biology 2, French 3, Latin 3, Algebra 2, Trigonometry 1, Economics 1.

This program will permit a student to obtain complete matriculation to any university in Canada and to Alberta Normal schools. There will be an increase in the number of commercial subjects offered. This should be of assistance to those who wish to prepare for business vocations.

Judging from advance registrations the enrolment should be as high as last year. Outside students are experiencing some difficulty in finding living accommodation.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS STOCK AND THRESH

Four Vermilion high school girls stooked up 114 acres of crop on the farm of Mr. Gibson, south-east of town and not content with that they now plan on taking their place on a threshing crew. The girls are Bobbie Richardson, Shirley Cooper, Peggy Pilkie and Madelon Knoll. After the completion of the stooking Madelon gave up her place on the crew as Norma Williams who is now doing her bit to alleviate the labor shortage.

The girls thoroughly enjoy the work and the farm life and so far have not been at all anxious to return to town.

Town Mourns Passing of Philip Castle

Philip Henry Castle, elevator supervisor for the Alberta Wheat Pool, and a well known and esteemed citizen of Vermilion, passed away in the Vermilion Municipal hospital shortly before midnight on Thursday, September 16, from internal injuries suffered in a fall from a ladder at the Pool elevator annex at Clairmore that morning.

Seldom have the people of the town received a greater shock than the news of Mr. Castle's accident and death. Living here for the past seven years he had made a wide circle of friends, and had won universal respect by his honesty, his clear logical thinking and frank expression, and his thoroughness in whatever he undertook. Although the nature of his vocation kept him away from his home and the town for a considerable part of the time, he put was greatly interested in the welfare of Vermilion and the activities of its various governing bodies. Keenly attentive to his home, he took pride in modernizing his home and beautifying his home grounds.

Mr. Castle had reached the age of 46 years and 4 months, being born in the city of Liverpool, England, on May 16, 1897. When he was eight years old the family came to Canada and Phil grew to young manhood in Saskatoon and on a farm near Dundurn. He received his education in Saskatoon public and high schools. At the outbreak of the first world war in 1914, although but 17 years of age, he joined the Navy and served for the duration on minesweepers out of Halifax. Although he left the navy after the war he loved the water and was never happier than when camping, boating and fishing.

In 1921 he arrived with a firm of chartered accountants in Calgary, serving three years with them before deciding against continuing the indoor life. He then commenced buying grain in southern Alberta.

In 1927 he was married in Calgary, and he and Mrs. Castle moved to Lethbridge. It was there that he became connected with the Alberta Wheat Pool in November of 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. Castle lived in the Grande Pool and Pool Silver Key country for over eight very enjoyable years, during which time there was plenty of opportunity to indulge in the pastimes of hiking, camping and fishing which both enjoyed so much. Many trips were made to remote places, which they somewhat reluctantly known by the advent of the Alberta highway.

In 1936 Mr. Castle was promoted from grain buyer to elevator supervisor and was appointed to this district. Mr. and Mrs. Castle moved to Edmonton where they lived for a year, locating a more central place in his territory at Vermilion where he remained until selected and in 1937 they moved here. Proving good citizens a home was purchased which has since been enlarged and modernized and the grounds greatly improved and beautified.

The deceased was the type of citizen who can ill be spared in any community, and the town and district and the company for which he worked are much the poorer by his passing. Deep and sincere sympathy is extended to his widow and two children.

Left to mourn his loss are his sorrowing wife and two children, Phyllis aged three years and Fred, nearly six. There is one brother William, a mining engineer in Southern Rhodesia, South Africa, and a cousin Mrs. William Walker of Saskatoon.

The funeral services, under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge No. 96 A.F. & A.M., were held on Sunday afternoon, September 19th at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, from St. Saviour's Anglican church, the large attendance by people from far and near, testified to the high esteem in which Mr. Castle was held. The Ven. Archdeacon Lovegrove conducted the services. Burial was made in the Vermilion cemetery and at the graveside the truly beautiful ritual of the Masonic brethren was carried out.

The pall-bearers were R.W. Bushell, J. D. Adam, F. Scott, L. Amos, L. McFadden and G. H. Stewart.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Fred, Phyllis and Mummie; All at 9r2; Mother and Dad, Iola and Viscount, Ethel and Cyril, Brenda and Alice; May and Jack; Ray, Mabel and family; A.P. & A.M. Lodge No. 96, 1887. When he was eight years old the family came to Canada and Phil grew to young manhood in Saskatoon and on a farm near Dundurn. He received his education in Saskatoon public and high schools. At the outbreak of the first world war in 1914, although but 17 years of age, he joined the Navy and served for the duration on minesweepers out of Halifax. Although he left the navy after the war he loved the water and was never happier than when camping, boating and fishing.

In 1921 he arrived with a firm of chartered accountants in Calgary, serving three years with them before deciding against continuing the indoor life. He then commenced buying grain in southern Alberta.

In 1927 he was married in Calgary, and he and Mrs. Castle moved to Lethbridge. It was there that he became connected with the Alberta Wheat Pool in November of 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. Castle lived in the Grande Pool and Pool Silver Key country for over eight very enjoyable years, during which time there was plenty of opportunity to indulge in the pastimes of hiking, camping and fishing which both enjoyed so much. Many trips were made to remote places, which they somewhat reluctantly known by the advent of the Alberta highway.

In 1936 Mr. Castle was promoted from grain buyer to elevator supervisor and was appointed to this district. Mr. and Mrs. Castle moved to Edmonton where they lived for a year, locating a more central place in his territory at Vermilion where he remained until selected and in 1937 they moved here. Proving good citizens a home was purchased which has since been enlarged and modernized and the grounds greatly improved and beautified.

The deceased was the type of citizen who can ill be spared in any community, and the town and district and the company for which he worked are much the poorer by his passing. Deep and sincere sympathy is extended to his widow and two children.

Left to mourn his loss are his sorrowing wife and two children, Phyllis aged three years and Fred, nearly six. There is one brother William, a mining engineer in Southern Rhodesia, South Africa, and a cousin Mrs. William Walker of Saskatoon.

The funeral services, under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge No. 96 A.F. & A.M., were held on Sunday afternoon, September 19th at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, from St. Saviour's Anglican church, the large attendance by people from far and near, testified to the high esteem in which Mr. Castle was held. The Ven. Archdeacon Lovegrove conducted the services. Burial was made in the Vermilion cemetery and at the graveside the truly beautiful ritual of the Masonic brethren was carried out.

The pall-bearers were R.W. Bushell, J. D. Adam, F. Scott, L. Amos, L. McFadden and G. H. Stewart.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Fred, Phyllis and Mummie; All at 9r2; Mother and Dad, Iola and Viscount, Ethel and Cyril, Brenda and Alice; May and Jack; Ray, Mabel and family; A.P. & A.M. RED CROSS WORKERS ARE URGENTLY NEEDED

Will YOU Help?

Extract from letter of the National Chairman, Mrs. G. E. Campbell, to all convenors of Red Cross committees:

"We hope you are putting every bit of pressure possible on knitters to produce Air Force, Navy and tuque-and-sweaters, Army sweaters and gloves.

The calls are overwhelming . . . realize the difficulties but beseech you to put forward the strongest appeals.

Again in a bulletin to all convenors personal needs are quoted as follows:

Turtle-neck sweaters with long sleeves Navy and Grey are asked for in large numbers for Capture parcels. Survivors bundles. Overseas Patient and Canada

V-neck or round neck sweaters with long sleeves are asked for particularly for Capture parcels. (The Capture parcel is the first parcel sent to a man after he is taken prisoner.)

Recently a most appreciative letter was received from Edmonton on receipt of a shipment of woolen stuff we quote

"All the work is most useful and gratefully appreciated by the officers upon Vermilion shipments. The ... list of such a variety of work. Some ... for the officers and civilians also. The knitted articles to babies were especially attractive and of course we can use any quantity of quilts. The greatest rush is on now for clothing to be for our Capture parcels to ... men who have been taken prisoner.

Please thank all the ladies of your branch for the time they gave to this work".

Surely such a letter of appreciation following the appeal set forth at the beginning of this article cannot fail to spur our willing workers to greater efforts but we must have results and we do most earnestly appeal to those to come forward with offers of help.

SIX DRILLING RIGS OPERATING IN VERMILION OIL FIELD

A record number of drilling rigs are now operating in the Vermilion oil field with six being hard at work all this week. ELKS SET DATES FOR FALL CARNIVAL

At their regular meeting held last week, the local Elks lodge set the dates for their annual fall carnival, which event is looked forward to each year with keen anticipation by the public generally. Dates set are Friday Saturday and Monday, Oct. 29, 30 and Nov. 1st. Various committees were appointed and are already at work on plans for this year's event.

In addition to dealing with a large amount of lodge work which has accumulated during the holiday months, the Lodge voted a donation to the Salvation Army Home Front appeal. Previous to alterations to the Elks hall was reported and tender was received on re-decorating of the whole interior.

HOME FRONT DRIVE STARTS THIS WEEK

Salvation Army Asks Your Support

All across Canada from September 20 to October 2, the people are being asked to support the Red Shield Home Front of the Salvation Army

Communities have been formed in every section of the Vermilion district, and the quota is $1500. This is a high mark to attain but this area has never yet failed to respond to the support of a worthy cause

The Salvation Army is doing a wonderful work throughout the Dominion. Here are just a few of the services: Emergency homes for women, general maternity hospitals, homes for boys and girls, summer camps for poor children, rest lodges for aged ladies, overnite homes for soldiers. The Army also operates 14 industrial departments, where men who have lost their jobs in life are given opportunity to start anew

The Salvation Army is doing a wonderful work among Canada's armed forces, as it did in the first World War

To continue the work the home front must be kept stabilized. If the home front crumbles, then the International Army's war effort also crumbles. It takes money to keep the home front going and the people of Canada are asked to see that this does not happen.

Canvassers will call at your home or place of business. Treat them courteously, and give all you can.

The Fifth Victory Loan

CANADA'S FIFTH VICTORY LOAN has an objective of $1,200,000,000. This is the minimum cash objective, but it is anticipated that like the four previous loan objectives, it will be greatly over-subscribed. The sum which is asked from individual subscribers is $535,000,000, while the remainder will be solicited from a special list composed of large business firms and corporations. This is the largest objective yet set for a Victory Loan drive and it exceeds the last one, held last spring, by $100,000,000. It will mean, as it did in the four previous loans, that a maximum effort should be put forth by each individual, if the loan is to be a success, as it is sure to be. Canada's armed forces have increased steadily in numbers and strength, and to maintain them there must be full financial support from the people at home.

• • • • •

Severe Struggle Is Still Ahead

Finance Minister Ilsley in announcing the Victory Loan campaign, warned the people of the Dominion against complacency, because of recent Allied victories. In this connection, he said: "Although recent war news has been encouraging, I am sure that Canadians know that a severe and costly struggle is ahead. Our fighting forces are at full grips with the enemy and I am confident that Canadians at home will lend their full support by the purchase of Canada's Fifth Victory Loan bonds." Canadian troops in action have shown themselves to be of the highest calibre and they have received unreserved praise from all sides. Much of their success is due to their splendid training and equipment, all of which depends financially on the people on the home front.

Canada Praised By Churchill

In his recent historic radio address from Quebec City, Prime Minister Churchill dwelt for some time on Canada's contribution to the war, and gave some facts and figures which many have surprised some of us who were not fully aware of what is being done here. In relation to the size of her population, Canada's war effort is amazing, and to reach the proportions it has, whole-hearted financial support has been necessary. This has been supplied by the people of Canada, chiefly through increased taxation and the Victory Loans. We now have a further opportunity to show to ourselves and to the world, that this Dominion is prepared to support to the limit the mighty effort which is now being made to restore peace and order throughout the world.

DESSERTS

You may use the dessert course to include some of the protective foods especially milk, fru ' eggs and whole grain cereals. These are important sources of vitamins, minerals and flavour as well as energy.

If yo.. main part of the meal is light such as soup, salad or sandwich then you should serve a substantial dessert. This group includes batter puddings with sauce, pastries, preserves and cake, unified, rich frozen desserts. You can use this basic recipe for biscuit dough.

2 cups flour	4 tbsp. fat
4 tsp. baking powder	½ tsp. salt
½ cup milk or water

Mix, sift dry ingredients. Cut in fat. Add liquid gradually to make a soft dough. Knead 30 seconds on floured board and pat to ½" thickness. You may use whole wheat flour or a mixture of ½ white flour.

To make a fruit roly poly spread the above with jam or preserved fruit, mince meat and roll up. Bake in moderate oven. You may also use this recipe for fresh fruit short cake by baking the biscuits first then adding the fruit.

Meat you have the medium desserts, which include cheese and crackers, cornstarch, tapioca, sago and rice puddings, simple frozen desserts, simple fruit puddings. These desserts are lighter luncheon or supper meals. When you use cornstarch, flour or cocoa you must be sure the individual particles are separated from each other before heat is applied, otherwise lumps in the finished product will be hungry. A basic recipe for cornstarch pudding includes:

1½ cups milk	½ tsp. salt
2-3 tbsp. cornstarch	½ cup sugar
	½ tsp. vanilla

Mix cornstarch, salt and sugar. Add ½ cup of cold milk and mix thoroughly. Scald rest of milk. Add this to cornstarch mixture carefully. Cook in double boiler 15 minutes or longer until there is no taste of raw starch, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Add flavoring, turn into moulds and chill. You may alter the flavouring by adding fruit, caramel, maple or chocolate syrup, almond or lemon extract.

Custard: Custard sauce, custard, junket, fruit, water ices or gelatin after a heavy dinner We will consider custards today, they are likewise used in two groups, soft and baked custards. You will find the difference is in the consistency which depends on the proportion of egg to liquid and the method of cooking. I will give you a basic recipe for custard in which you may add chocolate, butterscotch or coffee if after dinner.

Soft Custard
2 cups milk	2-4 tbsp. sugar
2 whole eggs or 4 yolks	½ tsp. vanilla
	Salt

Heat eggs, add sugar and stir until blended. Add hot milk and strain. Cook in double boiler stirring until the mixture coats the spoon. Cool, add flavouring

Baked Custard

The same ingredients are used but if the custard is to be turned into a mold cut the milk down to 1¼ cups.

SERVICE CHEVRONS

Each black service chevron on a soldier's sleeve means 3 months' good year of service in the present war. A silver "stripe" below them means that the soldier or man was wounded or enlisted before September 10, 1940.

"City of a thousand steeples," Montreal, Quebec, is also famous for its towering St. Josephat Shrine, situated on the slopes of Mount Royal.

Obscene Literature

B.C. Druggists Refuse To Handle Publications

British Columbia druggists, who are also, in quite a large way, dealers in periodicals, are to be congratulated upon their decision not to sell salacious literature. There are a lot of magazines that depend for their circulation upon the sexy nature of the stories and articles they contain. They skirt the edge of obscenity and so succeed in escaping the law, but the harm they do is practically as great as though they overstepped the bounds.

These periodicals appeal mostly to the immature, and, as the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association found, are purchased largely by boys and girls of high school age—the very people who can be most harmed by their suggestiveness and nastiness.

The law can hardly touch these vile publications. They know how to slither along inside it. But if dealers refuse to handle them their means of contacting their patrons will be gone and they will wither away. The druggists are showing the way. If other merchandisers would only follow they would be conferring a favor on the rising generation.—Vancouver Province.

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By Ottawa Observer)

IT'S a different war the navy boys find. Before going ashore to keep a date nowadays a fellow has to get the approval of the officer of the day as to appearance. Shoes must be shined, faces must be properly groomed, and if you don't believe us, ask Richer Massey Bernard of Toronto, Ont. He was ready to hop into port somewhere, and after he called and checked him over, he had to scurry around and find a barber first.

Something new has been added. A number of CWAC's are to get a course of instruction in Vision Testing and Training at McGill University. Some from every military district and some from basic training centres.

Flight Sergeant Jack Hughes, a former laid driver of Dauphin, Man., will always remember his last flight in Sicily before being off to Blighty. The R.C.A.F. man was over his target when a wing of his plane was blown off by ack-ack, and he went into a deadly "roll". How he did it he can't answer, but he should have been a "goose goose", but darned if he didn't bring the one armed ship into a landing at an unheard of speed of 90 miles an hour. He's now back in Blighty after thumbing his nose at the old man with the scythe.

She dashed wildly into the crowd, but imagine, her brother was away in the underground (subway) before she got to him. Tough luck that.

Among the many deserved decorations recently awarded Canadian Fliers, were Distinguished Flying Medals to Flight Sergeant H. E. Patch of Vegreville, Alberta, and Flight Sergeant A. F. Soon to be sub-lieutenants in the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve is the first class of young Canadian Officers to graduate from H.M.S. Cornwallis in Nova Scotia. They will be going to sea in various stations in the battle of the North Atlantic, and will probably give as good account of themselves as their young predecessors. Among the graduates were a number of Navy lads. Ordinary Seaman Ross McIlhargey of Wetaskiwin, Alberta, and Ordinary Seaman Ross McIlhargey of Wetaskiwin, Alberta, and Ordinary Seaman Fuller of Rosetown, Sask. Navy officials in Ottawa never hesitate in telling of the fact that boys from the prairies make good Canadian sailors. Fellows who have had very little, if any, chance to get their feet wet, as a matter of fact, some of them had never been on a boat before joining the Navy, quickly become gilt sailors, too, specifically the boys. They who couldn't get on the troop ship fast enough, and off fast enough to the Navy, signed up. Stoker Reta Clemenia of Pine Falls, Man., wrote home to her local newspaper with a big paper mill there, and Dorothy Hill, of Meadow Lake, Sask. Dorothy is a Wren, and the first draft of Wrens to get across the ocean.

Keep writing the boys and girls from home. That's the best present you can send them. Remember to love the cigs, candy and stuff. Individual cigs can also help with morale. One firm we know of which has 71 former employees in the forces, sends out a regular "communique to them weekly on the doings around the shops. Why, they get more kick out of that than the newspaper headlines.

Many of you will want to know what this "risk training plan" for the army is, now that all army basic training centres in Canada are being reorganized to release the maximum of men. Briefly, recruits will receive their B.T. at a centre designed for their particular branch of the service, instead of to a general centre with recruits from every section of the army. B.T. centres will be specifically associated with or "linked" to the advanced training centres of the service concerned. Hence the announcement that men will join reinforcement units in future. Men not of combatant rank or standards will be discharged from the army.

Empire Study

British To Supply Special Courses In School For Empire Affairs

British school children are to learn more about the Empire. More than 100 teachers from state schools are spending their holidays in York, where they are attending a special course on Empire affairs. The Board of Education plans to hold these schools on the Empire for teachers in all parts of the United Kingdom, so that they will be able to pass on to their pupils a more vital outlook on Empire affairs. Lieutenant Colonel Mr. L. S. Amery, Secretary of State for India, was present at the opening of the talk on India.

I STOPPED "DOOLEY" BY CONSTIPATION AND CORRECTED THE CAUSE!

If I'd been busy days of one you can be sure I'd have corrected the cause, not just "dosed" on the fruit. That's why I say to all who suffer from the common type of constipation caused by lack of "bulk" in the diet, don't do it by getting right at the cause instead of "dosing" with harsh laxatives that give only temporary relief. Just follow this simple plan. Eat

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day! It's delicious as a cereal or in bran cooky confections. Drink plenty of water. Then see if you don't agree ALL-BRAN is the "better way" to natural regularity. Just remember, eat ALL-BRAN every day!

Insist on Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in two convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

Sisters Receive Their Commissions

Miss Ruby Super, who enlisted in May, 1942, and was recruited in Northern Alberta in August, 1943, was detailed to Ste. Anne de Bellevue for the N.C.O. course in March, 1943. This was followed immediately by the cadet course, and she received her commission on June 3, 1943, at the final graduation ceremony held at Ste. Anne's this year. She was promoted to Platoon Officer in Montreal, Que. 2nd. Lieut Super, although a registered nurse, preferred to join the ranks as a private and work up the hard way. Both girls enlisted in Edmonton, Alta., and started their army career in Calgary.

Working their way up through the ranks of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, the above sisters recently received their commissions.

Miss Bernice Super, among the first girls to volunteer for service in Sept., 1941, and having served in all ranks, received her commission in Sherbrooke, Que., in March, 1943. She followed a cadet course at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., and was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant in July, 1943. Lieut. Super has been a member of the Instructional Staff at the Basic Training Centre, Kitchener, Ont., since the training centre opened, and returned to that centre on August 14th, after spending her annual leave at Carlyle Lake, Sask., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Super.

Cover Wide Range

Great Variety Of Goods Found In "Small Letter Parcels"

Post office officials have sorted and packed a great accumulation of carpets and cutlery, cigarettes and cosmetics, silk stockings and boot studs in preparation for the sale of "dead letter parcels."

The sale is held every two years, after every bit of ingenuity has been used in attempting to locate either the person to whom the parcel was addressed or the sender.

Officials who sorted materials to be sold said the accumulation was sufficient to start a lingerie shop, equip several automobiles apart from the heaviest equipment, supply a kitchen or two with all the hardware needed and keep a tobacco store in cigarettes for a considerable period.

The money from the sale goes to the receiver-general of Canada in the same way as cash and money orders from letters whose owners cannot be traced.

"We've had everything from a small ship anchor to a safety pin," said one official. "We've had mummified dead animal—and an tation mink coat. Commotion every kind have been found, with razors, fountain pens, food of all kinds, every variety of tobacco, skis, skates, hairpins, manicure sets and pills and tonics in immense array."

For Mechanized Troops

Don't Say "Hello" To Soldiers Who Are Driving Army Vehicles

In official military matters it's a very long story, outlined in terminology that is as legal as it is specific, but, in short, it's: "Don't say "Hello" to a soldier driving an Army jeep, truck or motorcycle—that is, while it's in motion."

That's the rule—for soldiers, the drivers in particular. Says the pointed paragraph:

"No driver of a mechanical vehicle will ... while actually: (a) Driving ... or (b) acting as instructor to a learner who is driving."

Those are rules for mechanized troops. The moral—Discipline. The effect—nobody speaks but the instructor. Result—efficiency.

Sugar was regarded only as a medicine in the English speaking world before the middle of the 18th Century. Then, it was hard to take. Now, it is hard to get.

PENICILLIN PRODUCTION

Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto, said research on production of penicillin, new drug for the treatment of blood poisoning, has been proceeding at Banting Institute of the University for more than a year. He said penicillin produced at Toronto at the present time is reserved for use in the armed forces.

More Ships Are Available For A Second Front

LONDON.—Naval success in the Mediterranean appeared to have put the Allies in a position to realize by November their goal of 10,000,000 tons of shipping to support a second front in Europe.

Turning the Mediterranean into an Anglo-American lake also had a subsidiary effect—the possible immediate release of a dozen capital ships and accompanying cruisers, carriers, destroyers and other vessels for the Pacific.

It was estimated unofficially that the Allies need at least 10,000,000 tons in the shipping pool for establishing and keeping a second front in western Europe.

Based on published construction and loss statement, the Allies probably gained about 2,500,000 net tons over losses since May 1 through the building program alone.

Another estimated 3,000,000 tons was made available through opening of the Mediterranean shipping route, eliminating longer hauls to Cairo and India. The shipping improvement in Italy's capitulation alone may run between one and two million tons but it was not all clear profit since the bulk will be needed for supplying the Italian people.

But the release of warships from the Mediterranean should reduce the margin between losses and building by reducing sinkings by Nazi U-boats in the Atlantic. Thus, on these calculations, the Allies already were within a million or two tons of the goal.

The Mediterranean victory probably removed the last chance for a major fleet engagement in European waters in this war. The only two Axis weapons remaining, outside of the Pacific, were U-boats and the planned Up Channel fleet, which the British home fleet was assigned to keep under blockade.

In all major Allied naval strength from the Mediterranean became available for the Pacific with the exception of lighter units which press duty would be kept for protection of convoys in the Mediterranean and Atlantic.

REACH BRITAIN

Canadian Midshipman Will Soon Be Serving In Royal Navy

A BRITISH PORT. — Canadian midshipmen are now arriving here from the new Royal Naval college at Royal Roads, B.C., have arrived at the Canadian naval establishment here and soon will be serving in battleships and cruisers of the Royal Navy.

This is the first class of midshipmen to be sent over from Canada during the war. They are under the years of age and come from all parts of the Dominion.

The two prize-winning midshipmen in the party are R. W. J. Cocks, of Victoria, who was chosen best all round cadet and H. L. Hopkins of Regina, who graduated highest in his class. Both were presented with watch-keeping lanyards, gift of the Canadian naval department.

Engineer sub-lieutenants have been added to Canada's ever-increasing complement of officers serving with the Royal Navy.

Products of the Dominion's universities and representing every section of Canada, three latest arrivals will undergo a period of training in warships of the Royal Navy. They average 23 and they have already undergone a term of initial training at a Canadian naval college.

They include: Alan Malcolm Cameron, Saskatoon; George Irvin Lamche Inverness, Sask., and Francis William Carson, Saskatoon.

[illegible] LINE

LONDON. Anti aircraft batteries along Britain's south and southeast coasts have been reorganized to meet Germany's switchover from sneak raiding to light mass attacks. Light anti aircraft guns [illegible]ally mounted the lip-and-run raiders and now it is the heavies that deal with high flying aircraft and fighter-bombers.

AIR RAID CASUALTIES

LONDON Civilian air raid casualties in Britain in August totalled 1,917 killed or missing, believed killed, and 164 injured and drained in hospital.

PUT UP BIG FIGHT

LONDON.—Hundreds of Germans and Coat Quislings were killed in a big five-day battle at Karlovasis in Croatia before the Italian garrison of 10,000 was disarmed, a Reuters news agency despatch datelined Cairo said.

MEN NEEDED

Enlistment For General Service in RCN Very Necessary

OTTAWA.—The Canadian army needs men and will continue to need them right up until the war ends, The Canadian Press has been informed on high authority.

Any conclusions drawn from the announcement of a reduction in the home operational establishment of the army to the effect that fewer men may be called up for military service in future or that fit men may be discharged from the forces are understood to be without foundation.

In announcing disbandment of the 7th and 8th and partial disbandment of the 6th divisions, Defence Minister Ilsley said:

"It must be emphasized that the fact that there is to be a reduction in requirements for operational troops in Canada does not mean that the demand is reduced for overseas."

And later in the statement:

"The consequence is that there must be no let-up in the enlistment and training of recruits. The flow into the reinforcement stream must be steadily maintained to provide as planned for present and future action."

STABILIZING SICILY

Banks All Over The Island Are Open For Business

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa.—The Allied military government for occupied territories announced that banks all over Sicily have reopened, supported by special military currency brought in by occupation authorities.

Each depositor was given the right to withdraw up to 5,000 lire ($50), but no bank runs marked the opening. Officials said they believe unlimited withdrawals could be arranged soon.

It was announced that steps were being taken to overhaul Sicily's price decrees and rationing system to combat the black market which rules for industrial and commercial rehabilitation are being made.

Italian People Are Reported To Be Starving

WITH THE CANADIANS IN THE CENTRAL MEDITERRANEAN. — The Eighth Army invasion of the Italian mainland confirms previous reports that the people of Italy are definitely hungry.

During the course of the campaign in Sicily the near-starvation conditions under which 3,500,000 Sicilians lived astonished Anglo-American-Canadian liberation forces. Reports from the southern mainland, where the Eighth Army, including Canadians, are now in control, show that things are not much different there.

Normally Sicily exports its wheat surplus to the Italian mainland, but this season there was not enough for Sicily itself, let alone the rest of Italy. Long queues of breadlines have been in evidence in all liberated cities.

The allied occupational government is trying hard to aid people whom two decades of Fascism would not feed.

Your reporter has seen children at the family table making a complete meal of the kernel of hard green figs. Figs are plentiful in the rural regions, which is a welcome addition to the very low diet of the people.

It is a pathetic sight to see old men trying to sell souvenirs to scrape up a bit of money to buy some food. Corkscrews, brushed-up family spoons, postcards, cameras, watches and numerous trinkets are the items they generally try to pass off on allied soldiers. Mussolini's Fascism never did properly feed these people and food is still their major lack today.

TERROR CAMPAIGN

Nazis Would Undermine Any Resistance in Switzerland

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa.—The Nazis were reported to have circulated rumors that German troops from Switzerland and French patriots were said to have embolized the main railroad between Italy and France.

The Nazis apparently had started a terror campaign to undermine resistance in Switzerland should the German army be forced to send men and war materials across the neutral state from Italy.

The French underground was reported to have broken the railway into Italy about 18 miles from Chambesy and it was expected that this would interrupt traffic between the countries for some time.

QUOTAS INCREASED

WINNIPEG.—New quotas, increasing wheat deliveries from three to five bushels at 180 points in the prairie provinces, were announced by the Canada Wheat Board.

Thirty-seven of these points are in Manitoba, 52 in Saskatchewan and 71 in Alberta.

The British have liberated 300 prisoners of war, including two Greek generals in the Taranto area, it was also revealed.

EDUCATION OF YOUTH

Suggest Setting Up Of Advisory Council On School Broadcasting

QUEBEC.—Education should become the key to post-war reconstruction, Dr. J. S. Thomson, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, said here in an address to the Canada and Newfoundland Education Association convention.

"This will involve the expenditure of money, but in a democratic society, the final control and direction of public spending is a reflection of what the people count as valuable."

R. S. Lambert, educational adviser of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, asked the approval of the convention of a plan for the setting up of a national advisory council on school broadcasting. The council, he said, would consist of 14 members: one for each province except Quebec (which would have two) —one French and one English), one for the Confederation of Canadian Universities, one for the Canadian Teachers' Federation, and one for the National Federation of Home and School. In addition, the CBC would nominate a distinguished educationist as chairman.

After discussion the suggestion was approved by the delegates, with the amendment that the number be raised to 16, adding a French-speaking representative of the university group and a second representing the Parents' Association.

"There is no need to elaborate on the future importance of school broadcasting in Canada," Mr. Lambert said. "Radio is admirably suited to be the instrument for strengthening national unity in the rising generation in our country. It is up to experts to prepare the plans—experts in education and experts in broadcasting."

PEACE PROPOSALS

Japan Is Constantly Offering More Liberal Terms To China

WASHINGTON.—China is constantly receiving peace proposals from Japan and the terms become more liberal as the Japanese war effort is more hard pressed, T. V. Soong, Chinese foreign minister, said.

Soong said the Japanese are ready to get out of China (except for Manchuria and Formosa) if China will leave the United States and join Japan in a racial war against the white man.

He said that on the day the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor such a proposal came through, but that China had never wavered.

"I know of no conscious political group who sees in this any solution," the foreign minister said.

ADVERTISING CANADA

WINNIPEG.—R. A. Pronds of Ottawa, in charge of theatrical distribution for the national film board said in an interview here that more than 7,000 theatres in the United States are being serviced with films about Canada by the board. "There is a great need for publicizing Canada in foreign countries," Mr. Proulx also said

Great Mistake To Regard The War Near End

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY.—Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery told a group of Canadian officers and non-commissioned officers that the war will be carried into Germany itself but until then it was premature to say that the end is in sight.

The 8th Army commander, paying tribute to the Canadians for the "great part" they played in defeating Italy out of the war, said it was a "great mistake" to regard the war as nearly over.

"North Italy is under German control," he said. "We won't be able to say the war is nearly over until we have carried it into the homeland of the Germans. That we shall do, without doubt. Then will be able to say the end of this part is in sight."

Gen. Montgomery spoke to the Canadians in a hilltop group in the Canadian headquarters area in southern Italy. Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, commander of the Canadian 1st Division, was at Gen. Montgomery's left and the latter's left was a major and a half ago a Canadian corps formed part of his command in Southeastern England.

"I like to feel I played some small part in fitting that corps, of which you formed a part, for battle," he said. "I used to hope the Canadians, when they got into battle, would do so under my command. It was a great day for me when the Canadians came to the 8th Army.

(The Canadian 1st Division fought as part of the 8th Army in Sicily and is understood to be operating with the 8th Army in Italy.)

"One day we stepped ashore on the mainland of Europe Italy unconditionally surrendered. When we shall land over the last year or so there is no doubt the activities of the 8th Army played a great part in knocking Italy out of the war.

The last two months have changed the whole picture of the war. The Germans have been put on the run in Russia. The Germans are on the run here. Italy has been knocked out of the war. The Canadians have played a great part in that."

RUSSIAN SCIENCE

When Poverty Is Defeated World Will Progress

LONDON. — Field Marshal Viscount Wavell, viceroy-designate of India, told the Pilgrims Society that, "we shall really be making progress when we are willing to spend money against poverty, ignorance, unemployment and sickness at the same rate as against Hitler — when we buy our schoolmasters at a much higher rate and our lawyers perhaps at a somewhat lower rate."

Advocating a return to the Pilgrim spirit," he called lend-lease the "first attempt on a large scale for many years to put principles and men's lives first and money second."

The viceroy-designate told the Anglo-American luncheon audience that the establishment of Vice-Admiral the Lord Louis Mountbatten's East Asia command "will make Anglo-American co-operation even closer in India, which is one of the principal bases for our common effort against Japan."

"There can be no military or economic security for the East, for ourselves and for the world," he said, "until Japan is as thoroughly defeated as Germany."

He said, "we are approaching the end of the struggle with Hitler. We are only beginning the struggle to save civilization. . . We shall many of us seen, I hope, be taking off our uniforms, but we must not cease fighting or let the sword sleep in our hands."

MAIL CHRISTMAS PARCELS OVERSEAS BY NOV. 1st

Christmas boxes will have a much longer distance to travel, entailing more handling and readjustment to reach many members of Canada's fighting services this year. To enable all the Dominion's men and women overseas to receive their gifts from home in time for Christmas Day, the Postmaster General, Hon. Wm. P. Mulock, K.C., M.P., calls on the public to Mail Early for Xmas Overseas—now and during October—the earlier the better to ensure the timely arrival of the anxiously awaited gift. The more distant our Forces may be from Canada, the earlier their Christmas mail should be sent. If Soldiers in Alberta are assisting farmers in harvesting the 1943 crop. The latest figures show that 550 are working on the farms under special leave. Special leave has been given, too, to members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps to do their bit.

WILDMERE WINKS

Fall has commenced in 1943—how fast the year has slipped by. One thing to be thankful for above all else is that Victory is coming closer day by day, even if yet it looks a long way off.

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fridsell of Triangle on the birth of a son at the local hospital on Wednesday last.

Don Gibson from the Walsworth training camp was home over the week end to visit his parents and brothers Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Gibson, Frank and Howard of Basswood. He looks the perfect picture of health.

A number of town high school girls have been stooking grain at Gibson's and now we hear they are going to try their hand at driving stook teams and threshing. Good luck, girls, for your pluck when help is so scarce.

Car. Frank Godwin, who finished stooking at the writer's, is now helping Mr. Murphy of Cummings district get his crop up.

Haines Bros. are the first to start threshing in our corner. They report threshing 2 acres of pure seed oats that yielded over a 100 bushels to the acre.

Old Jack Frost sat on us in earnest Saturday night, luckily most of the wheat is now all in stook and very thing outside of late grain is ripe.

The oil well being drilled on the Andy Carlson farm is progressing and was down around 1400 feet at time of writing.

Our road is being repaired these days. When finished it will look like a highway minus the pot holes. The new board at Mrs. J. Wilson's while working on it.

Mrs Mary Sander returned to her home at Bon Accord on Monday morning after visiting with Evelyn Howard and at the home of Mrs. Adam Smith for ten days.

Sgt. Norman Smith spent the week end at his home here.

Rev F. Sinclair Rettke held a Communion service at our school on Sunday. A nice crowd attended to hear the splendid sermon he gave. Mrs. Rettke accompanied him, as she was a former teacher at our school we enjoyed the visit very much. We hope that Rev. Rettke can come again to hold church ere the snow flies to shut us in.

We understand where Bowtell scribe said that Burney was busy knitting socks these days. Don't you think Burney is old enough to get some one to do his sock knitting for him or would they be for the Red Cross?

We are pleased to hear of the fine that health has been restored to Mr. George Monaghan of Islay, who has been on the sick list nearly a month now, and that Mr. Boulton's arm is improving.

BABIES MAY HAVE EXTRA CORN SYRUP

OTTAWA.—Canada's bumper crop of babies comes in for special consideration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. An extra can of corn syrup could be baby's ration book, for extra D coupons for corn syrup, may be made at the Local Ration Board.

For infants who need more than the 17 fluid ounces of corn syrup per D coupon provided under the ration, the exchange will allow one sugar coupon for two D coupons. This will give a maximum of 68 fluid ounces of corn syrup per month in addition to the regular ration, to infants requiring corn syrup rather than the sugar formula.

MORE CHILDREN'S TOGS

EDMONTON. — More children's clothing is to be manufactured according to J. A. Klein, administrator of women's misses' and children's clothing, WPTB, when he addressed trade meetings here this week.

Apparent shortages in clothing are due to excessive buying said Mr. Klein, and such buying sprees are usually due to rumor. "Those who know don't talk, and those who talk don't know" said Mr. Klein.

Bees for Next Year's Honey Crop

W. H. Le Maistre, Provincial Apiarist writes that perhaps bees will be difficult to obtain in Alberta next spring. The supply is limited and there is an unprecedented demand. In order to maintain honey production it is essential that we winter as many colonies as possible. Now is the time to prepare hives for winter. They should all be fed and packed away by the middle of October.

Beekeepers intending to winter their colonies and who have not left sufficient honey on their hives may obtain sugar to feed them by filling application form which can be had from the Apiculture Branch, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton. When this form has been completed and sent in a beekeepers sugar certificate will then be issued.

Information on wintering bees may be found in the Department of Agriculture bulletin No. 58, "Wintering Bees in Alberta."

IN WARTIME, the girl or young woman alone in the city faces new problems and perils. To her, The Salvation Army offers understanding, compassion and practical help.

The receiving and maternity homes of The Army keep open door. Last year, 17,187 women received its care. In its hospitals there were 11,437 births and 6,611 operations.

This is only one phase of the many-sided work of The Salvation Army on Canada's home front. To the needy, the homeless, the afflicted, The Army brings material aid and spiritual hope. YOUR dollars make this possible. The work MUST go on.

WOODVALE

Mrs. Edna Ross plans to build a house this fall on the farm of Mr. Jim Ross and there await with her two little boys the end of the war and the return of her husband, who is over seas.

We were very pleased to see Mrs. Wm. Machell out to visit some of her friends in Woodvale on that lovely Sunday, a week ago, when for once this summer, we enjoyed a perfect week end. At time of writing it feels very much like snow in the air and winter looking around the corner.

The binder is still going strong on almost every farm, but weather permitting, threshing outfits should be busy this week too. Mr. Van Waeyenberge threshed a small field of barley running 60 bushels per acre and 7 acres of crested wheat grass seed, filling a big wagon box.

Mrs. C. Young received word from her brother, who escaped from or copied France this year and who is at present working in London, England.

Little Margaret Watt and Sylvia Turner both got their tonsils out this week in the Vermilion hospital. Mrs. Turner, who has been working in town this summer, is home to help Glenna for a couple of weeks.

Jean Rankin visited the Pierman home last week and Ruth is a guest there this week.

Usually there are too many girls at the dances but they had one in Gadsten last week with only ten ladies present. At only the boys are leaving these days but most of the girls too.

Junior Club Judging Contests Week of October 18th

The week commencing Oct. 18 has been set for the junior club judging contests to decide the champion judging teams for the Province. Zone contests will be held at several points at which time representative certain districts will compete. Winners of the zone contests will enter a final contest in the city of Edmonton. Full particulars will be released at a later date. Teams winning the Provincial Championships will be eligible to compete in the National Contests at Toronto the week of Nov. 22. CHAPTER III

If there is one thing in this man's army that it is mighty hard for a beginner like me to get wise to it's figuring out how every man stands according to what he wears on his arm or his shoulder.

Now with the little fellows—that is the corporals, lance corporals, the sergeants and even staff sergeants, a fellow doesn't have much trouble.

One stripe is the lance corporal, two a corporal, three a sergeant and three stripes with a crown above it's a staff sergeant.

After that, brother, you run into trouble.

Just to show you how it goes—and I read a book on it so I wouldn't be making any breaks—I'll sort of try and list some of them.

The regimental sergeant major wears the royal coat of arms. Then a regimental quartermaster sergeant and a company sergeant major wear a crown surrounded by a wreath on the forearm.

They're the fellows you see most often—that is all the one's I've mentioned and they're known as the non commissioned officers.

QUITE A STORY

The boys have quite a story they tell and they claim it happened to one of our servants here.

It seems a staff sergeant was walking down the main drag and was stopped by an old lady who claimed she was mighty interested in the army and wanted to know what the three stripes and a crown stood for.

The fellow in question sort of likes to kid people on he said, "Well, ma'am, it's like this. When we get married they give us a crown so everyone will know we have been hitched."

"After that when each child is born we get one stripe to go under the crown."

"This business on my arm means I'm a married man with three children."

The old lady thanked him and went on her way until she saw a sergeant coming on the street. She took a look at him and saw just three stripes and no crown.

She was just a little old gal but she strode right up to him, looked him in the eye and said, "My man you ought to be ashamed of yourself."

An' poor old sarge still doesn't know what it is all about.

But that's enough for the N.C.O.'s and maybe if you want to know how we tell the officers apart it would be a good idea if I let you in on what I read in the book.

Working up you start off with the second Lieutenant who wears one "pip"—a sort of star-like affair. A lieutenant wears two, one above the other on the shoulder tabs, and a captain has three.

The next in line is the major, who wears a crown and he is outranked by the lieutenant colonel who has a crown with one pip beneath it.

The colonel has the crown above two pips—all in a straight line, and next comes the brigadier who has three pips and like the corners of a triangle with the crown above them.

THEY RATE "TOPS"

The brigadier is just about the highest ranking officer you are likely to see for quite a spell, and when he or any of the others like the major-general, lieutenant-general, a general or field marshall come around you'll hear about it because there's almost certain to be a parade and inspection, and perhaps even a guard of honour out.

There's one thing about this way of telling rank that is mighty fine—that is after you've learned it—and that is that you can't make a mistake.

I'll never forget about being out on the ranch one day when a fellow came bell-hoss for election out of a coulee on a saddle pony and starts a bunch of cattle to scattering into the brush.

I promptly give him a piece of my mind and tell him it might be a good idea if a guy so stupid stuck around to help round up the dogies.

He doesn't say a word and though he's mighty green he gets himself pretty well scratched up chasing the critters out of willow brush and I figure it's because I gave him such up to noon on the 29th day of September, 1943.

SALE OF FARM PROPERTY PURSUANT TO ORDER OF THE COURT

Pursuant to the Order for Sale directions of the Honourable Mr. Justice O'Connor sealed tenders will be received for the purchase of the North West quarter of Section Two (2), Township Fifty-three (53), Range Seven (7), West of the Fourth Meridian.

Tenders must be enclosed in sealed envelopes marked "Tenders re Whiteley vs. Kosicki No. 3117", addressed to R. P. Wallace, Clerk Supreme Court, Court House Edmonton.

Each tender must be accompanied by a marked cheque or certified cheque for 10% of the amount of the tender and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid, unless other arrangements are entered into, within sixty (60) days after acceptance, without interest or in the alternative, the purchaser shall pay such loan thereof of the purchase price in cash and shall execute a mortgage for the balance of such purchase moneys which shall be the first charge on the land, and shall be payable within ten years in equal annual instalments with interest at 5% per annum from the date of acceptance of the tender.

The deposit of 10% shall be forfeited by the successful tenderer if he refuses to carry out the purchase after acceptance of his tender. Cheques of unaccepted tenderers shall be returned to them immediately after rejection thereof, the highest or any tender not necessarily accepted and in all other respects terms and conditions of sale shall be the usual the conditions of sale of the supreme Court of Alberta so far as the same are applicable hereto.

The said land consists of 160 acres, of which 155 acres are cleared and 150 acres are cultivated and 25 acres are brush. There are no buildings on the said land but there is one and one quarter (1¼) miles of two-wire fencing and an 18 foot well with 10 feet of water. The land is located within 3 miles of the village of Innisfree and one half a mile from the post office at Mayhurst.

For further particulars apply to Whiteley Cairns & Company, Barristers & Solicitors, 21 Dominion Bank Chambers, Edmonton, Alberta.

The Willing Horse

The elevator agent's job is busy. Starting and stopping grain, he must also keep the elevator and its equipment clean and in good running order. For a large part of the year, this is a full-time task requiring knowledge, skill and experience.

We both and read a lot about the contributions made by this group and that group to the war effort. Of course, the men in uniform overseas, and their wives and families undertake the greatest, if not the only, real sacrifice. Farmers, we think, are having an inside share of the burden. One has only to visit Ottawa to appreciate the strain under which government employees are working. All this is acknowledged in the newspapers and elsewhere; but what writer has taken up his pen on behalf of the country elevator agent?

Most of our readers know that country elevator agents assist in war loan and Red Cross drives, have organized and carried out a magnificent scrap metal campaign, form an essential link in 1943 farm labour scheme, serve as distributors of protected at considerable expense, handle demonstration plots of field crops, offer various services such as germination tests, and so on.

Yes, this and more; but how many realize that the bulk of the burden falls on the shoulders of the elevator agent? As usual, the busy man finds time to help. The very essence of democracy is voluntary effort. These men are democrats.

Girls' Band

Pipes Imported From India Are Played By Lieutenant Girl Pipers

Back in 1939, when the Fort William Girls' Pipe Band was organized, the Canadian supply of bagpipes was so limited that arrangements had to be made to import pipes from India.

Today the Fort William Girls' Pipe Band is one of the busiest musical organizations in Canada, playing at least five engagements every week, most of them for the entertainment of members of the armed forces.

The band's early association with Otenge Indian has continued to the present time, for the leopard skin worn by the bass drummer comes from a leopard shot in that country by a missionary friend of the band. He had the hide cured, and shipped it to Fort William this spring.

Including a week-long tour which had taken them to M.D. 10 training centres at Brandon, Shilo Camp and Portage la Prairie, the girls appeared at the 103rd Basic Training Centre at Fort Garry, Winnipeg suburb, on September 2nd, and the Orpheum Theatre for down town troops on September 3rd.

Entirely self-sustaining, the band last summer toured the central United States with Gracie Fields. Ages of the band members range from 13 to 19 years. In charge of the girl pipers are Mrs. P. MacGregor and Mrs R. McCraw, both members of the band's auxiliary, and Mr. C. Dyhan, band president.

Within Range Of Guns

New Treatment For Soldiers Good Cure For Nerve Shock

British soldiers suffering from "nerve" shock in Sicily were normally taken out of the line for a few days relaxation within range of enemy guns, according to London psychologists.

The practice, one explained, is a development of "an interesting principle originated in the last war." This aim is to give no time for the shock to set in.

"If you need a soldier suffering mental distress due to physical exhaustion for an extended convalescence," he continued, "he has time to brood and his cure may take far longer

"But give him just a few days rest in the battle zone and some drug such as luminal or veronal to relax taut nerves and you soon have him back to normal."

Speed Grain Shipments

Movement Of Wheat, Oats And Barley By Canadian Canada

In order to speed up the movement of wheat, oats and barley for delivery for livestock in Eastern Canada, such grain containing up to one per cent. dockings may now be shipped direct from country points in Western Canada without stop off for cleaning at Fort William or Port Arthur, the Foods Administrator has announced.

This concession, he said, is an emergency measure only and is intended to help relieve the bottleneck due to congested facilities at the lake head terminals. Such grain will be eligible for free freight and other subsidies which are now in effect.

ABIMELECH KILLED FROM HEAVEN'S HISTORY

Golden text: Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people. Proverbs 14:34.

Lesson: Deuteronomy. Chapters 1—3, Chapter 31.

Devotional Reading: Deuteronomy 10:12-22.

Explanations and Comments

An Appeal Based on God's Goodness. Deuteronomy 11:1-8. The first six verses of this chapter present what God had done for the Israelites in saving them from the Egyptians, and then stop abruptly for, as verse seven declares, "But your eyes have seen all the great acts of the Lord which he did," and the next verse begins with "Therefore". Therefore, because of their experience of God's goodness to them they must keep all his commandments. As the record of their keeping the commandments they will be strong, and can go in and possess the land.

The Promised Inheritance, Deuteronomy 11:10-17. It was a rich land that they were to possess, luxurious in pastures and profuse in flowers, as attested by its abundance of milk and honey. It was not as the land of Egypt, where they sowed their seed and then had to water it with their feet. For the land was fed by raising the water from the Nile by means of pumps whose treadwheels were worked with the feet, or by diverting water into channels whose separating ridges were broken down, or whose sluices were opened, by the feet.) The land to which they were going was watered by rain from heaven.

Warning Against False Hope in Prosper If They Served the Lord. Deuteronomy 11:13 17 If they loved and served God with all their heart and soul, they would be rewarded by the former and the latter rain, the two rainy seasons of Palestine, which would enable them to gather in their grain, their wine, and their oil. The "former rain" falls in late October or early November, when the seed is sown; the "latter rain" in March-April, before the harvest. Unlike Egypt the fertility of Canaan was not the reward of human labor and skill in irrigation, but was the result of rain from heaven. Without the autumn rain the seed would not quicken and grow, and without the spring rain there would be no "full corn in the ear." Should they turn aside and worship and serve other gods, Jehovah's anger would be against them, no rain would fall, and they would perish.

"Let us remember that there is no method of obtaining God's protection but adherence to his laws." (Glidden.)

Aid To Russia

Britain Sending Large Consignments Of Wheat, Clothing

The British Government's decision to allocate £1½ million toward the cost of providing clothes for Russia —the other half-million pounds being met by Mrs. Churchill's Red Cross Aid to Russia Fund—has resulted in the purchase of a large variety of goods, including heavy woollen cloth, sheepskin and fur coats, pull-overs, men's and women's suits, dresses and overcoats. Large consignments have already been sent out, and will be followed by others as shipping becomes available. This, when shortage of such supplies in Great Britain necessitates such rationing that if a woman bought one pair of full-fashioned stockings a month, and one dress and one pair of shoes a year, she would have no coupons left to buy other clothes!

Locomotives For Russia

Britain Has Dispatched A Number For Use Of Army

Britain has despatched a substantial number of her best locomotives to help the Russian Army, and has done fine engineering work in opening up transportation through Persia on the southern route to Russia.

As early as November 10th, 1941, the 1,000th freight car built by the Southern Railway Company in Great Britain to carry supplies to Russia, through Persia was sent on its way. Working all day and night, men and women finished the work in ten weeks, with the co-operation of other railway companies which helped with materials. In peacetime, the same output would be scheduled for twelve-months' work.

Bean Jonathan

CAPTION HERE

WHEN the conch was ready Jonathan ordered his own horse brought out and the reins fastened to the rear of the vehicle. "I am going with those people, Mistress Lorelen. Therefore, if the gentleman I left upstairs inquires my identity, you will be telling no untruth if you state that I am a member of Mistress Jamieson's entourage."

"He shall not have your name from me, Jonathan," Knowles promised. "But you will be sure to have that if you expect to reach London ahead of him. The gentleman came there on horseback and it will not take him long to overhaul you."

Nevertheless, in spite of the warning, Jonathan took the road out of Whmael that led toward London. Always, on the coachman's seat beside young Hall, was nervous.

"Better use that whip, M. Hale," he advised, leering over his shoulder at the town they were leaving behind. "That fellow will find clothes of some sort and will be after us as his soul himself."

Jonathan smiled. "We need not worry about pursuers. At the first crossroad we are turning to the left, Mistress Anne is in no condition, to travel. I am taking you to my home, where she will be safe and can rest while our friend, the herdsman, is consulting this road and the Lammas at twain."

"Him!" Relief and appreciation of the simple strategy evoked a spontaneous laugh from the little French lad.

THE Hale farmhouse was in darkness when Jonathan drove into the yard. A shepherd dog barked a welcome, and as Jonathan climbed down from the chaise a plump clatter-eared and a voice inquired: "Is that you, Jonathan?"

"Yes, grandfather," he responded. "I have brought guests with me—one of them a lady suffering from shock and injury."

Once again Anne had to be carried. A light appeared in a window and Thomas Hale, a stooped old man, had the door open when Jonathan reached the house.

Grudgingly, the old man shuffled aside to permit them entrance. In the kitchen was Faith, a stout, plain-faced girl, and a word from Jonathan sent the lighted the way to her own bedroom with a candle. It was Faith who drew back the bed on the counterpane and covered Anne after Jonathan had removed her shoes and slippers.

"I am sorry for the trouble I am causing," Anne smiled, and her eyes sought Jonathan. "This is your home, Mistress Faith?"

"This is Faith Meade," said Jonathan. "An orphan whom my mother raised from a baby. Er—Faith and I are to be married in a few days."

Anne's gaze returned to the blond girl, then her slim fingers stole out to rest on the square, work-reddened hand smoothing the counterpane. "You are very fortunate, Mistress Faith, and Jonathan will make you a good husband."

"Yes!" Faith nodded matter-of-factly. "He can outwork any man in Winnaet and he goes to meeting every Sunday."

DEPUTY Thomas Hale were standing near the bedroom door. The little man found the eyes of the old Puritan on him and shifted under the undisguised hostility. "We expect to reimburse you for your hospitality, monsieur," Denys apologized. "A night's rest should find Mistress Anne ready to return to London—"

"Monsieur!" old Thomas repeated. "You are French?"

Denys nodded, and Hale's head jerked down in a curt bow. "Then a woman is your mistress?"

"No," said Monsieur Denys. "Your wife?"

"No. You see, the stage is our profession. Mistress Jamieson is one of the best-known actresses in London—"

"Actress!" The word exploded from Thomas Hale, and he fell back as though in the presence of some-thing unclean. "Actress! Jezebels in heaven! Jonathan—you bring this shameless creature—this harlot—under my roof—"

"Grandfather!" Jonathan caught the arm lifted like that of a wrathful Jove. "I offered those people sanctuary! Under your roof Mistress Anne! Surely we can suffer them that long for the few hours that remain of the night."

Thomas Hale yielded. "I would not turn a mongrel dog from my door in the cold, but—" He threw a glance of disgust toward the kitchen where Jezebels can spend the night, but get you out of this room at once."

WHEN Jonathan retired to his room it was that night after a long session with his grandfather he found Monsieur Denys dancing about the bedroom and flourishing a rapier.

The Frenchman sprang sheepishly and lowered his sword. "I was limbering up my muscles," he explained his surprising exercises. "You see, when I get to London and Anne tells me who the animal is I intend to call the fellow out."

"It is unsatisfactory to practice alone, said Jonathan, indicating a blackened sword hung by a hook over a wall-peg.

"Where is that?" Denys inquired in surprise.

"Hardly," demurred Jonathan. "But all my life I have practiced at imaginary marks as you were just doing. You see—" he ran his hand unceremoniously along the bright blade of the weapon he had unsheathed—"my father fought with Cromwell and this sword has always fascinated me. Perhaps I can learn something from you, Monsieur Denys, while helping you to sharpen your eye."

HE kicked off his shoes and touched his sword tip to the point that rose to meet it. The Frenchman's rapier slid down experimentally, found the proper and expected resistance, then vanished in a downward flick. Jonathan's blade dipped and glistened in the candlelight, and the steel met again with a clash.

"Brave!" Denys smiled, dancing back. "You know more of sword play than you admit, Monsieur Hale. I see you can take care of yourself. Had you not blocked me there you did I would have pinked you."

The two men warmed to their work, their feet moving and shifting as the blades licked in and out, footwork being as much a part of swordmanship as lunge and cut.

Somehow, despite a natural liking for the little Frenchman, the thin handsome face bobbing and weaving before him tempered the admiration of Jonathan. He could still hear his grandfather's words; Denys was the sweetheart of Mistress Anne; Denys—the Frenchman's head shifted, Jonathan darted in, his wide blade streaking through an opening of the other's guard.

Denys flung himself sideways so suddenly that he tripped and fell to the floor. The lunging sword missing the ingular vein by the narrowest of margins—but an inch.

Jonathan stepped back and Denys arose, white-faced. "Careful, monsieur" he warned, with a shaky laugh. "These are not buttoned foils! You are facing a living man instead of one of your usual stuffed sacks."

"Forgive me," Jonathan exclaimed. "I—I forgot myself. I—I forgot myself, Denys. Shall we put up our weapons?"

The heaviness with which he had come to killing Monsieur Denys disturbed Jonathan and kept him awake long after the Frenchman, stretched on the same bed with him, was sleeping peacefully. What had prompted Jonathan, calching sight of that romantically exposed throat, to dream with murderous intent? Had it been jealousy?

WITH the morning Mistress Jamieson's injured ankle had recovered to such an extent that she was able to walk with no more than a trace of a limp.

Like Jonathan, her stay at the Knowles Tavern had been forced by the storm, and in the coach were trunks that it had been unnecessary to touch for an overnight stay. From this wardrobe the actress replaced the clothes she had been forced to abandon.

Jonathan followed the Frenchman and the two girls out when the coach was ready.

"You are certain it is safe to leave?" he asked.

"Yes," Denys nodded. "Moreover, we intend to enter London from the direction most opposite that the enlord shall not molest us again."

The Frenchman climbed into the driver's seat and gathered up the reins. Anne was already in the coach. "Good-by, Jonathan." Anne extended a hand. "I hope you find America to your liking." As her fingers fell into his great palm she stepped closer on tip-toe and, before he had divined her intention she kissed him squarely on the mouth.

"Thank you, Jonathan," she murmured, her lips moving against his, "for all you have done for us. Please remember me as the lady you thought me in the beginning."

She attempted to free her hand, then paused, startled at the expression on his face. Before she could step back Jonathan swept her into his arms, crushing her close to him, his lips seeking hers once more.

"Jonathan! Jonathan!" she pleaded, struggling in his grasp. "Please—let me go!"

Slowly he released her and was rewarded standing there while Anne entered the coach and the vehicle drove off.

"Jonathan," said another voice, and Faith Meade was beside him, peering anxiously into his face. "Jonathan!" Her hand brushed his arm timidly. "You are trembling, Jonathan."

Pies Without Pastry

Graham Wafers Overcome The Shortening Shortage

(By Molly O'Dale)

There's no reason in the world why your family should not enjoy delicious pies for dessert, despite the scarcity of rationed butter and other shortenings. Here's a pie crust that requires no shortening of any kind—a tender, delicious pie crust that comes ready made straight out of a cardboard package—no flour, no rolling, no fuss whatever.

First, get a package of Christie's Graham Wafers. Then, place a layer of wafers on the bottom of a lightly-greased pie-plate, trimming some of them to fit the shape, and filling in any uncovered spaces with wafer crumbs. Cut other wafers in halves and stand them on edge around the sloping side of the pie-plate. And there's your pie-crust!

Don't be skeptical as to whether the pie crust will hang together when individual pieces are cut after the filling goes in. It will! Just try it and see for yourself. You'll find that each individual wedge of pie comes out intact. For the filling of Christie's Graham Wafer Pie, use one of the following recipes:

Chocolate Filling

3 tablespoons corn starch
2 cups milk
5 tablespoons sugar
1 square chocolate or 4 tablespoons cocoa
½ teaspoon vanilla

Mix dry ingredients with a little cold milk. Scald rest of milk and add corn starch mixture. Put in double boiler and stir while it cooks and thickens. When cooked and somewhat thick, cover and cook for 10 minutes more, stirring occasionally. Remove from fire and add vanilla. Pour into graham wafer crust and chill.

Lemon Filling

3 tablespoons corn starch
2 cups milk
1 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon butter
Pinch of salt
½ teaspoon vanilla or a few drops of maplelne

Caramelize sugar by heating over direct fire in top part of double boiler until it becomes a golden brown syrup. Remove from fire and add 1½ cups of milk. Place over lower part of double boiler. Mix corn starch and salt with remaining cold milk to make a smooth paste. Blend this mixture and add to hot milk. Thoroughly. Pour back into double boiler and heat until it begins to thicken, stirring frequently. After thickening, cover and cook for 10 minutes. Stir occasionally. Remove from fire and add butter and vanilla. Pour into graham wafer crust. Beaten egg whites and dates may be added, if available.

Apple Chiffon Filling

1 tablespoon plain gelatine
¼ cup cold water
¼ cup sweetened hot applesauce
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Pinch of salt and 2 egg whites. Soak gelatine in water 5 minutes. Then add to hot applesauce and stir until dissolved. Stir in nutmeg, lemon juice and salt. Chill and when mixture begins to thicken. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into crust, sprinkle with graham wafer crumbs and chill

IRON LUNG FROM SCRAP

Here naval artificers at Gibraltar made an "iron lung" out of scrap

d saved a man's life was described by Sir Sheldon F. Dudley, medical director-general of the British navy. The man was attacked by infantile paralysis at a time when the only lung on the Rock was in use, he said. Naval artificers used scrap metal to copy the lung and it worked perfectly.

Teaches Motorcycle Mechanics To Troops

Practical lessons in motorcycle mechanics will be given members of Canadian Army officers and men by instructors of the new mobile motorcycle maintenance school, now touring camps across the country. In this view Sgt. J. N. Mac Gillivray, of Calgary, is at work on a machine as J. D. Hisey, of Edmonton (centre) and Pte. Ernie Clements, of Montreal.

Intrepid motorcyclists a few years ago; now among Canada's most travelled soldiers.

And it isn't such a long step from one to the other! Ask the three instructors of the newly-formed Canadian Motorcycle Maintenance School a mobile house of knowledge which is touring camps from one end of Canada to the other.

Hundreds of Army officers, N.C.O.'s and men will learn maintenance and repair short-cuts from these professors of motorcycle mechanics before the end of the year.

This new role for instructors Lieut. C. G. E. Dowsing, of Swift Current, Sask.; Sgt. Gordon Davies, of Montreal; Sgt. J. N. Mac, of Calgary, is the culmination of years of tinkering with temperamental pre-war "bikes" and practical experience with the Army's sleek, new mounts.

All three owned "bikes" before the war and were well-grounded in motorcycle mechanics before they enlisted. Sgt. Davies, a veteran of fifteen years standing, was active in motorcycle clubs in Toronto. The mobile unit was proposed six months ago in answer to a demand from units for instruction in motorcycle maintenance. Lieut. Dowsing, a graduate in mechanical engineering from the University of Saskatchewan and second-in-command of the Motorcycle Maintenance School at Barriefield, Ont., was named to command the unit. His assistants were hand-picked.

With three quarters of a ton of equipment on board, two specially Army station wagons headed out of Kingston, Ont., early in July. The mobile Canadian Motorcycle Maintenance School was officially born; and one of the longest tours in Canadian military history started.

Present schedule of the unit calls for a jaunt to the Atlantic seaboard and then a swing back to western military districts. Practically every unit in Canada will be visited by the mobile school before the end of the tour.

The school will stop one week with each unit. In that time, the actual field of motorcycle mechanics will be surveyed and students given an opportunity to watch wits in a mechanical way with experts.

Equipment carried by the vans includes a complete motorcycle, two cut-away models of motorcycle engines, a "bike" transmission and a model lighting system. A blackboard and a number of charts are utilized for lectures.

Members of the unit's station wagons are Pte. J. D Hisey, of Edmonton, and Pte Ernie Clements, of Montreal.

Prairie Fliers Set Record

When Capt. P D Iverson brought his airliner to a stop on Regina airport August 31 after a successful flight from Saskatoon, it marked attainment by the prairie division of Canadian Pacific Air Lines of 100 per cent. efficiency for the month of August. The division had flown 31 full moths, or roughly the equivalent of one and a quarter times around the world at the equator. Not one scheduled mile had been lost. Six hundred and ninety-one passengers had been carried; 9,629 pounds of mail delivered. This is an all-time patronage announced by C.P.A. 96,143 pound-miles of mail. No flights were cancelled because of weather through August brought a number of thunderstorms along the route between Regina, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon and North Battleford, and Prince Albert. Shown above are, left to right: Capt. Iverson, First Officer H E. Thorn, W. T. Shaw, flying superintendent, and H. T. Bancroft.

RED CROSS APPEALS FOR JARS AND JELLIES

Need for Crippled Children's Hospital is Great

The monthly meeting of the local branch of the Red Cross was held in the Municipal hall, Vice Archdeacon W. Laversedge presiding.

Mr. J. H. Rebora, as new secretary, was welcomed to the meeting.

Many letters and circulars were read and it is very apparent that needed goods are most urgently needed, information regarding these will be found elsewhere.

Another appeal which it is hoped will meet with generous response was received from the Commissioner of the Alberta Division of the Canadian Red Cross. It was with regard to jams, jellies and canned fruit needed by the Junior Red Cross Crippled Children's hospital in Calgary. It was intimated that approximately sixty 1 gallon tins of canned fruit per month were required to meet the needs of the children. Anyone desirous of donating a jar of fruit, etc., to this very worthy cause may leave same at the home of Mrs. E. H. Duckinfield or at the office of the District Agricultural Director. Donations to be called for, phone 106.

A number of boys and girls ranging 10-14 years are also required to join the quota for civilian clothing so it was decided to send $50 to help fill this deficiency.

It is desired to bring before readers again the fact that the Red Cross is very pleased to assist in any way regarding Prisoners of war, wounded, missing or sick men. Information can be given regarding mail service, parcels, prisoner of war magazine, etc. The Red Cross has sent to British prisoners of war to date over 3 millions food parcels and a large number to Allied P.O.W.

The chairman spoke of receiving with regret the resignation of Mrs. H. Cuford as relief convenor. Thanks had been extended to Mrs. Cuford for her services

A vote of Thanks was rescinded to Mrs. H. J. Clarke for her work in connection with the Red Cross Tag day held during Fair week.

REMARKABLE RECORD OF TURKEY HEN

(Extract from Woodville News)

A turkey hen, belonging to Mrs. Jim Rose, has really been doing her bit for the war effort this summer. She commenced laying on March 23rd and by Sept. 15th she had 330 eggs to her credit. She never stopped laying even while attending to a brood of her own and also raised two batches of young ones at that. Maybe this is not a world record but still is a performance well worth writing about.

SUDDEN DEATH OF VERMILION PIONEER

James Lee Shrigley Passed Away Friday, September 24

James Lee Shrigley, resident on his farm north of Vermilion since the early days of 1907, passed away suddenly on Friday morning, September 24th, 1943, in the Vermilion municipal hospital. He had entered the hospital on the previous Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Shrigley was a prominent member of the Vermilion community and his sudden death was a decided shock to a very wide circle of friends and acquaintance.

The deceased was born on January 18, 1883 at the village of Daleville, Pennsylvania. He spent his boyhood there, coming to Canada at the age of 16 years. He came to Vermilion in April of 1907 and since that time has lived continuously on the home farm just a few miles north of town.

His wife predeceased Vermilion of one of its esteemed old timers, one who was keenly interested in the progress of this district and a member of many fraternal organizations. He was a director of the local Co-operative association where his services will be greatly missed.

He was a member of the United church.

Left to mourn his loss are his surviving relatives and two daughters, Irene and Miriam, one sister Mrs. C.E. Henry of Olds, Alberta, and one brother Albert Shrigley of Pittsburgh, Pa. The sorrowing family in their sudden and sad bereavement, the sincere sympathy of many friends throughout the town and district is extended.

The funeral services were held at the First United church, Vermilion, on Tuesday, September 28 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Interment was made in the Vermilion cemetery. The Rev. E. Sinclair Reilly conducted the services which were very largely attended. Mrs. A. M. West played the organ.

Pall-bearers were Melvin Hill, G. Hennoka, G. Scarboro, M. C. Drinnenberg, W. H. Cook, A. J. Dixon.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from:

The Family; Florence and Colin; Christian and Missionary Alliance Chapel; Co-op. Directors; Social Credit Group, Vermilion; The Co-op. Store; Staff and Agents of Mutual Life of Canada; Staff of the Co-op. Store; George Hennoka, Jackie and George, and Mr. and Mrs. Walt and Mrs. Mary Maggs; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hill; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. ALBERTA QUOTA $37,000,000 FOR 5th VICTORY LOAN

Aim At $40 Million

Alberta's quota in the Fifth Victory Loan will be $37,000,000 but Provincial officials have set a goal of $40,000,000 it was announced recently by F. E. Osborne of Calgary, chairman of the National War Finance Committee for Alberta Mr. Osborne's statement follows

"The announcement by the Minister of Finance Hon. J. L. Ilsley, of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign, to be launched on Monday, October 18th, has been received with mixed feelings in Alberta.

"There is a feeling of relief that the quiet months that the province has been asked to subscribe $37,000,000 or $40,000,000 more than the objective of the Fourth Victory Loan, but $2,000,000 less than we invested in that Loan. I doubt if we, as a Province, will be satisfied with an achievement of less than $40,000,000, which should become our unofficial objective

"The official slogan will be 'Spend the Victory' and investors (please notice that word, for subscriptions are definitely not a gift) will surely be doing just that, since the volume of regular amounts of personnel and material is continuing upon the money which we, as loyal citizens of Canada, place at the disposal of our National Government

"I have never approached a campaign with greater confidence of success on account of the splendid results obtained in this Province in all previous Victory Loan campaigns. Canvassers and subscribers alike have done magnificently in the past and I am sure will do so again under the present heartening circumstances."

VERMILION AIRFIELD AID NIGHT LIGHTS A BOON TO AIRMEN

Vermilion airfield with its night lights has already saved three planes and their crews from making crash landings within the last week. One plane was forced down by engine trouble on Thursday night last just at midnight. The crew members said that it was a great relief to them to see the night lights of the Vermilion airfield below them as they glided and they were successful in making a perfect landing. Not only that but W/C Hollington, who himself noticed the plane coming down and manned out to the landing field and brought the crew into town and saw that they were comfortably housed for the night. The two pairs arrived from Edmonton next day and were expected in the healthy motor.

On Saturday night about 11 o'clock another plane sought refuge and landed by the night lights on the field, one engine having conked out. The thoughts of trying to flight back to Edmonton for a landing were sickening and the crew brought the plane down safely along the lighted runways. The crew was met by Reg Spencer who brought the boys in from the field and saw that they were well looked after for the night. Repairs came down by plane on Sunday but a spark plug was the same was but completed until Monday.

The third forced night landing was that of Wednesday night when the two boys being brought in town by J. Wener.

There were four planes down on the field during Sunday at one time and use of the field is made daily.

The aversion of three possible crashes will be appreciated by the town council and authorities for the work expense and trouble they have put in making the field ready for use and her of planes have been forced down in layight on the long runways. "Certainly everything is made easy on the Vermilion field is there, virtually for us in case of trouble" said one pilot.

The highest Septem-ber temperatures since 1928 were recorded here from Saturday to Monday, with the peak of 83 being reached on Sunday Saturday was just about a perfect day, there being practically no wind and the temperature reading 82 above. Friday was 80 above. The weather has remained fine all week, with a tendency to be a little windy.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK OCTOBER 3rd to 9th

The week of Oct. 3-9 has been set aside by Royal Proclamation as Fire Prevention Week for the purpose of impressing upon the public conspicuous waste of property, life and time and property occasioned by fire and the means to be taken to reduce this heavy annual drain on resources.

When it is considered that Canada's loss by fire in 1942 was 304 lives and over $21,000,000 property damage, it is easily apparent that every citizen must be done about it. Fire is a disease that naturally says our national wealth and every citizen should resolve to do his bit to wipe out this menace to our happiness and prosperity.

Every citizen can be a soldier in this campaign by simply being careful with fire, by disciplining himself in his smoking habits, by seeing that every fire hazard in his home, store or factory is removed and by learning what to do should a fire start. Our soldiers, sailors and airmen are battling a grim enemy on far-away fronts Let us battle that other enemy, fire in its incipiency but it might easily reach the proportions of a conflagration. Our duty is to see that a fire does not start.

This week, in the press, over the radio, in theatres and from the platform John Q. Citizen will be exhorted to use every care with fire, not only during Fire Prevention Week but during the entire year. It would be well for him to take this advice to heart and to make Canada a fire safe country in which to live. It should be only to call to mind two holocausts which have occurred during the past year in order to show the tragedy which can follow in the wake of fire. Those are the Canmont Grove Night club fire in Boston in which 491 people lost their lives, and the Knights of Columbus Hostel fire in St John's, Newfoundland, in which 99 lives were snuffed out. WE CAN'T BE TOO CARESFUL WITH FIRE!

JOHN WARNER, SILAT PIONEER, PASSES AWAY

John Warner, well known and esteemed pioneer of the Islay district, passed away at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hollington on Wednesday, Sept. 22, 1943, at the age of 73 years and six months. He had been ill for the past several months and was being cared for by Mrs Hollington.

Mr Warner came to Canada from London, England, in 1906. In 1908 he began working for the railway in Islay and continued until his retirement at the age of 65 years. Since then he has spent the winters in Vancouver and the summers in Islay, living with his friends Mr. and Mrs. Alf Hollington.

When Mr. Warner became ill at Vancouver in May he sent a request to Mrs. Hollington to come and take him to Islay. Mrs. Hollington went at once, bringing him to her home as he expressed a wish to remain there, and cared for him continually until he passed away.

Bishop Daufour, Ven Archdeacon Leversedge and the Rev. Mr. Rowe visited him at times and administered Holy Communion for which Mr. Warner was sincerely grateful.

He was predeceased by his wife and only son a number of years ago.

Funeral services were held at the United church, Islay, on sunday afternoon, September 26, the Ven. Arch deacon Leversedge of Vermilion officiating. Interment took place in the Islay cemetery.

Pall bearers were Mr. Waterfield Sr. T. Bothwell, C. C. Mitchell, W. Mc Crae, John shaw, Jim Allen, Mr.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Mr. and Mrs. Alf Hollington, Charlie Hollington and Mrs. Till and Mrs. Rindale and family; Members of Angliean Church Committee; Mr. and Mrs. Melennan and family; Mr. W. Waterfield and family; The Houston and Mooney families, Mrs. Ann Kelly.

J Waring carried out funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Hollington wishes to thank the nurses of the hospital, the many kind friends who helped in so many different ways, and to the pall-bearers and whole Mr. Warner's many acts so kindly, and for the beautiful floral tributes.

CUTTING NEARS COMPLETION WITH THRESHING GENERAL

Ideal weather with the exception of an odd hitch wind, has greatly aided harvesting and at the present time it is estimated that 90% of wheat cutting is completed, 85% of oats and 100% of barley cut. Threshing is nicely underway with 20% in the vicinity of Vermilion and 10% in the oats threshed and 50% of the barley safely stowed away.

Wheat is expected to average 22 bushels to the acre, oats 50 bushels and barley 35. The early cut wheat graded a No. 2 northern but the grade has fallen since the later grain cut fered frost damage

There is a decided shortage of labor for threshing and this is slowing up operations considerably.

British Teachers Going To Polish Schools After Country is Freed

Arrangements are now being made for sending British school teachers to Polish schools and academies as soon as the country is freed. Already 50 teachers are at a training camp learning the language, studying the history of as country and its institutions. The British and Polish Governments are supporting the scheme. The number of trainees is to be increased if the demand justifies an extension of the plan, which will later be adopted for other Axis-overrun countries.

Beau Jonathan by J.B.Ryan

CHAPTER IV.

JONATHAN HALB turned away, striding in the direction of the path behind his grandfather's cottage. Like a sinner doing penance, he applied himself to the chores about the little farm, striving by labor to purge himself of the infernal hatred created by the lips of Anne Jamieson.

That had been the first time in his life that Jonathan had ever blessed a girl, and he was troubled by the experience for hours. At length he quitted the barnyard for the house where he found Faith, her sleeves rolled to the elbows, her arms white to the elbows.

"Faith", he said, and it was the first time he had spoken all day, "I want you to kiss me."

The placidity of her face became disturbed. "But—Jonathan—" she stammered. "You are not married yet."

He caught her by the shoulders. "Kiss me, Faith," he said. "There—there is something I must know."

She lifted her face obediently and touched her mouth against his As he had done with Mistress Anne, Jonathan closed his arms about her. Faith's lips were full, their smacking sound. "There!" she laughed. "Is that what you want?"

Jonathan's arms fell away. The kiss of Faith left him entirely unmoved. The cotton had not aroused within him none of the fire, the fever, the fierce joy aroused by Anne Jamieson.

JONATHAN!" Grandfather Hale's voice boomed from the doorway. "What does this mean? Has that girl been bewitched? I saw you kiss her this morning Now I find you embracing Faith. Can you not wait until she is your wife?"

"Faith and I are not going to be married," said Jonathan, then added humbly: "I am very, very sorry, Faith."

She stared at him helplessly, her face blanching once to perplexity. Thomas Hale's stooped shoulders straightened and he strode toward them. "What did you say to her, Jonathan? Of course you are to have her. Deadbeat or no deadbeat of pianos have been forced down in layight on the long runways. "Certainly everything is made easy on the Vermilion field is there, virtually for us in case of trouble" said one pilot.

School Lunches

Inadequate Preparation Makes For Deficiency

An American doctor recently made the following statement: "There can be no doubt that much dullness on the part of school children, particularly among the lower income groups, can be traced in part to a lack of the proper kind of food."

In the light of surveys made in this country in 1939-40, there seems no doubt that this statement applies equally to Canada

With school days here again the problem of the child who has to carry his lunch to school looms large.

Dr. L. B. Pett of Nutrition Services says—"There are few community enterprises that pay better dividends in child health than a school lunch programme"

Where it is not possible to serve a complete lunch at school, Dr. Pett suggests that community groups, in co-operation with the local school board should give consideration to providing for a hot supplement to the lunch brought by the children from home. As examples of dishes which can be prepared with a minimum of equipment and labour, Dr. Pett suggests—hot cocoa, soup baked potatoes, scrambled eggs, macaroni and cheese, or baked beans

In many schools necessary equipment has been provided by the school board. The food may be supplied by each family in turn and the teacher supervises its preparation by the older children.

Nutrition Services, Department of Pensions and National Health, Ottawa, in answering enquiries in connection with the starting of school lunch projects

SELECTED RECIPES

NOVELTY MEAT ROLL

1 egg
½ cup bread crumbs
1 tablespoonful milk
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon sage or chili powder
1 tablespoon Benson's or Canada Corn Starch
1 small or ½ medium onion, chopped
¾ pound ground raw beef
¾ pound ground fresh pork

Beat egg in a large bowl and add bread crumbs, milk, seasonings, corn starch, onion and ground meat. Mix lightly but thoroughly and pat mixture flat, on waxed paper, in an oval, oblong shape. Also place a sheet of waxed paper on top of flattened mixture, and roll out or pat to ¾ "thickness. Remove top sheet of paper and spread meat mixture with filling (recipe below) Roll lengthwise in jellyroll fashion, place in a well-greased pan and bake uncovered in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about one hour Serve hot or cold, sliced, with scallops or salads

Filling For Meat Roll

1½ cups grated raw carrot
½ cup chili sauce
1 to 2 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard

Mix all ingredients together and spread over flattened meat roll mixture before rolling up (see directions above) Serves 6

H.M.S. Victory

Nelson's Flagship Goes Through A Bombing Blitz

A gaping hole, such as she never know while flagship of Lord Nelson's fleet, is the proud scar H.M.S. Victory bears as proof that she shared in the war against Hitler as she shared in the war she did in the wars against Napoleon

The Victory, a museum piece in Portsmouth docks, was bombed one night when German raiders attacked Portsmouth A near miss blew away a large part of her under bow and sent her great chunks of debris onto her decks

But the trim ship scarcely did more than wince under the impact and still stands upright on the trestles built to keep her out of water The hole remains, and probably will remain after the war, as an addition to her tourist lure

Many visitors who conducted a party about the ship approached the spot below deck where Nelson died and pointed to a three-inch plaque there by officers of Allied navies—the Fighting French, the Netherlands and the navies. He ended the tour in Nelson's quarters where autographed pictures of two present day admirals Cunningham and Stark adorn the polished tables

Victory Garden Fall Clean-Up

—Drawing and text by Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Fall housecleaning of your garden clean-up are almost due.

Many insects, commonly found in vegetable gardens, pass the winter in different stages of their development, on or beneath piles of plant refuse left lying about by the careless or innocent gardener. Among many such insects might be mentioned the cabbage worm, the bug, imported cabbage worms, flea beetles, striped cucumber beetles, cutworms and leaf-hoppers. To reduce their numbers next year, all plant refuse should be gathered up and burned just as soon as the last crop of the year have been harvested

To destroy insects which lay their eggs in the autumn on grass and weeds, a cultivation of the garden should be continued until freeze-up. Too many gardeners allow the weeds to grow un-hoed during the late summer and autumn. This not only remedy the garden with undesirables, but affords suitable host plants upon which many insects will lay their eggs for spring hatching

Clean up and destroy any insect concocts or egg masses adhering to trees shrubs, fences, buildings and garden structure The effect of all such practices will be reflected next season in the reduced insect population inhabiting the garden.

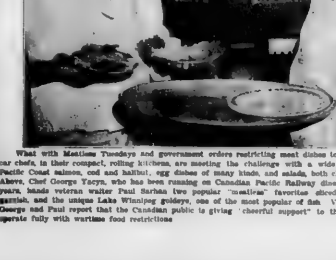
Would Have To Change

Japan As Cruel Aggressor Has Not Loyalty Of Oppressed Races

Japan's war lords would like to make the most of the "Yellow Peril" for recruiting Asia and China into "a united army to vanquish the white race The threat is not to be lightly dismissed and has often been appreciated by military strategists. Japan has however, expanded in Asia, not as a friend, but as a cruel aggressor, and she would radically have to change her foreign policy to win the loyalty of these races she has oppressed

Bacon should be dried and blocked to shape by pressing on the wrong side with a steam iron, or covered with an evenly dampened pressing cloth

Salads, Fowl Or Fish



What with Matinee Tuesdays and government orders restricting meat dishes to one choice a meal, dining car chefs, in their compact, rolling kitchens, are meeting the challenge with a wide variety of fish including Pacific Coast salmon, cod and halibut, egg dishes of many kinds, and salads, both chicken and fresh vegetable. Above, Chef George Tacyn, who has been running on Canadian Pacific Railway diners out of Winnipeg for 36 years, hands veteran waiter Paul Sarkas two popular "meatless" favorites sliced cold chicken with salad and sandwich, and the unique Lake Winnipeg goldeye, one of the most popular of fish. Veteran dining car men like Tacyn remind Paul report that the Canadian public is giving cheerful support" to the railways efforts to operate fully with wartime food restrictions

CHAPTER 15

The six o'clock rising in the morning was a hard one for the city boy who was used to getting up at 8 o'clock. Then, in the middle of the morning, but for me and the country kids it was just dandy.

Sometime, like it is now, we managed to get up on the ranch around 5:00 and later used to hitting the saddle.

As it is now we have a nice leisure breakfast and a little time off after the smoke before we hit the parade square.

I'd never done a piece of soldiering in my life till I joined up, but you can take it from me it isn't hard at all if you follow instructions and the marching and physical jerks can sure give you an appetite.

I'm right sure I'm going to put on plenty of weight because I'm always hungry when meal time rolls around.

If these army cooks dish out such swell chow that I always go right back for a second helping and there is always one awaiting.

Take today. For breakfast this all looked nice for him morning we had oranges rolled oats, fresh milk bacon baked beans bread and butter, jam and coffee. At lunch time we had bean soup stew with brown gravy and boiled potatoes buttered turnips bread and butter, pudding and tea. This evening we had Shepherd's pie, russet potatoes cold tomatoes raisin sauce, cheese and tea or milk.

CAN PLAN AHEAD

There is another nice thing about

The other night Saturday, the fellows in the Nissen huts on the other side of the camp got up a concert party and gave us a couple of hours of entertainment. Each hut had its own stage and the boys showed off their talents. He tells us to come and bring a girl friend and it went good guess.

Well I don't know any girls but I'm sending I am over and there is a mighty fine dance agoing. The girls there where we'd been marching a few hours before so all decked out with bright colored flare and there is a swell orchestra playing. And, boy, is there ever a crowd around.

I stand back and watch for awhile and then I figure maybe I should take a turk around the floor and I'm sort of feeling sorry on account of I don't know any girls

Just then one of the sergeants that drills us comes along and he says, "Johnny, why aren't you dancing?"

I tell him I don't know any girls and he says right off that can be fixed up.

MEET THE C.W.A.C.

He takes me in tow and in a couple of minutes he's introducing me to a couple of those C.W.A.C girls that I've seen around Calgary ever since I came in to join up. They're all decked out in their summer uniforms and they look a mighty sight finer than the fancy dresses on the girls I see are on the dance floor.

I dance with one and then with the other and the time to now going along mighty fast when they tell us it is time to quit.

Everybody cuts up for the last one like at a civilian dance in the army's way of feeding you and that is you can sort or pile ahead and sort or go easy in the canteen at the break period when you know what is coming up at the next meal and you always know because they post the diet sheet—just like a menu in a case for a week in advance.

Take Sunday now. If there is one thing I like better than roast pork with apple sauce and mashed potatoes, I'm just more of the same dish I happen to look at the diet sheet and see that it is what is coming up and so during the morning I don't have any chocolate bars and stuff so when the meal call comes I'm right in the prime and do credit to my favorite dish.

And entertainment, well, I'm telling you that it is really something too, but on the French, except for the odd movie at the hut in the school house we made our own entertainment, playing cards or singing a little with a guitar or perhaps listening to the radio.

Here at District Depot a fellow doesn't have to shift for himself it's country and there's plenty of others right in the lineup with the men, and all are having a good time.

The date is 10 days earlier than last year's closing time, but with many of our men serving in the Mediterranean areas, etc., the "deadline" has been advanced to meet the rapidly changing conditions.

The public are cautioned to lose no time but to Mail Early for Xmas Overseas—now and during October—the earlier the better to ensure the timely arrival of the anxiously awaited gift. The more distant our Forces may be from Canada, the earlier their Christmas mail should be sent. tf

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co. Ltd.

THE FUTURE OF WHEAT

Many farmers seem to be worried about the future of prairie wheat.

It seems to me there is nothing to fear, provided the terms of the Atlantic Charter are fulfilled at the ensuing World Peace Treaty, particularly that term which requires that the people of all countries shall have easy access to the foodstuffs and raw materials of the world.

In looking into historical records, I find that there never has been a single year in the 8,000 years of recorded history when all the people of the world had anything like sufficient food to eat, for even in those years when surpluses of wheat appeared in Canada and in other places, there always were millions of people in some countries who were hungry, and no badly needed those food surpluses. The remedy obviously is to free international trade from those strangling tariffs, customs duties, quotas and other obstructions which have during the past 20 years, so hindered the exchange of the farmers' foodstuffs particularly wheat, for other goods and products that hungry people in the world have, and are willing to offer in exchange for the wheat they need.

If these existing obstructions to international trade can be removed, then I for one, feel convinced the future for the sales of all the wheat we can grow on our prairies is bright indeed.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF TODAY

Weather conditions continue poor in Australia with rain needed urgently in the south-east to ensure even an average crop — Australia's 1943 crop expected to harvest a much smaller wheat crop than the near record crop of 181,000,000 bushels in 1942 — Germany's 1943 corn crop is estimated at 1,422,000 bushels as compared with 1,620,000 bushels reported in 1942.

Harvesting is making good progress in all three Prairie Provinces where the weather has been favorable — Chile's 1943 cereal harvest is expected to exceed that of last year by about 9% — Eire is believed to have seeded a lower acreal wheat acreage this year than the record area of 575,000 acres in 1942.

TALLANT

(Received too late for last week)

About 40 people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cooper on Sunday evening Sept. 12 for a surprise party in honor of their son Sgt. Bernard Cooper who was leaving for his station in Vermont.

Clifford Oldenburg is home from eastern Canada on harvest leave.

Marion McQuid spent a week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Johansen in Asheradale.

Freddie McGrath was in the local hospital last week and had his tonsils removed, while Fred Martin of Tringate underwent a similar operation at the Vermilion hospital on Tuesday.

Word has been received by his parents that Bob Lewis has arrived safely overseas and that he is stationed just to the north of Cairo, Egypt. Bob visited his brother on the first week end he spent in the old country.

Mrs. H Allison spent a few days in Calgary last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lyons, Art, Mable and Clarence, also Mrs. C.W. Lewis and Mrs M. Webber, were dinner guests on Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs Otto Wetters.

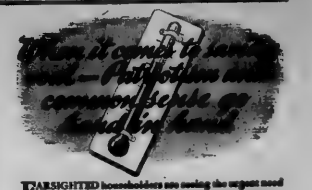
Pte. Art Lyons has been home on two weeks' furlough. He left on Wednesday morning for his station on the west coast.

MAIL CHRISTMAS PARCELS OVERSEAS BY NOV. 1st

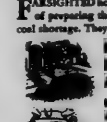
Christmas boxes will have a much longer distance to travel, entailing more handling and reshipment to reach many members of Canada's fighting services this year. To enable all the Dominion's men and women overseas to receive their gifts from home in time for Christmas Day, the Postmaster General, Hon. Wm. P. Mulock, K.C., M.P., calls on the public to Mail Early for Christmas Overseas—not later than November 1.

The date is 10 days earlier than last year's closing time, but with many of our men serving in the Mediterranean areas, etc., the "deadline" has been advanced to meet the rapidly changing conditions.

The public are cautioned to lose no time but to Mail Early for Xmas Overseas—now and during October—the earlier the better to ensure the timely arrival of the anxiously awaited gift. The more distant our Forces may be from Canada, the earlier their Christmas mail should be sent. tf



FARSIGHTED householders are seeing the urgent need of preparing their homes now against this winter's coal shortage. They are acting now!



HEATING SYSTEMS MUST BE EFFICIENT: HOMES SHOULD BE ADEQUATELY INSULATED.

there are some jobs you should be doing NOW!

1 Have your entire heating system inspected. Order necessary repairs.

2 Have your furnace thoroughly cleaned by a competent man. Insulate furnace and pipes where necessary.

3 Be sure that you have sufficient storm windows and that all windows and doors fit tightly. Have cracks in walls repaired. Weatherstrip wherever it is necessary. Consider seriously the insulation of ceiling and walls.

Many homes waste as much as 60% of their fuel through inefficient heating equipment, inadequate insulation and other heat losses. Winter is just around the corner. Prepare NOW!

BLINDNESS IN HORSES

If the eyelids of any horse on the farm appear swollen or inflamed, it may be symptom of a disease known as periodic ophthalmia through which thousands of horses have lost their eyesight in the past few decades. The veterinary authorities of the Dominion Department of Agriculture believe that many horses are prematurely blinded by this disease because the owners do not recognize the symptoms in time. The following protective steps should be taken when one or more of the horses on the farm show symptoms of eye trouble: First, have an immediate veterinary diagnosis made; second keep the affected horses away from the healthy animals, and third, do not breed animals which have this disease.

A reciprocal agreement, covering the provision of medical and dental care in Canada and the United States to the armed forces of both countries, is in effect.

France Could Be Assaulted By A Strong Force

LONDON. — Commander Rodvers Prior, Conservative member of parliament for Acton and a veteran of Dunkirk and two Allied raids on German-occupied Europe, stirred the House of Commons when he said the Nazi fortifications in France are "very strong" but could be "assaulted and breached by a determined assault, well-organized."

Prior, who took in the combined operations raid on St. Nazaire and the reconnaissance in force at Dieppe, referred to his part in these attacks when he said: "I had the good fortune to inspect a portion of Hitler's West Wall."

"If the government will open up its assault forces for combat, we'll give you victories," he declared.

"The Nazi has very bad nerves. During our assault on St. Nazaire a French officer in that town told me hundreds of Nazis were giving themselves up to the French in the interior of Brittany and in his opinion 10,000 men could have broken through and released them out of the Brest peninsula."

Prior escaped into France from the Dieppe raid in August, 1942, and was three months behind Nazi lines trying to Britain. He obtained much information while posing as a French workman — and lost 40 pounds in weight.

In an interview following his speech in commons, Prior said he landed on the Dieppe beaches with the Canadians and stayed behind "because I considered it my duty to do so."

"I helped Col. Merritt (Lt.-Col. C. C. I. Merritt of Vancouver and Belleville, Ont., and the South Saskatchewan regiment and won the Victoria Cross, to organize the rearguard," he said.

(Col. Merritt remained behind as a prisoner of war.)

"I got away from the Germans within a week—I must not say how. I speak French pretty fluently and I managed to get my disguise—a black beret, overalls and boots—from a Free a workman who did all he could to slip me."

MAKING PLANS

Japanese Government is Getting Ready For Move From Tokyo

LONDON.—The Japanese government has decided to prepare "for the moving of government departments, industrial establishments and the civilian population from Tokyo as well as other important cities in the interest of improving their defence," the Tokyo radio said.

The broadcast listed a number of drastic measures, including total mobilization of the civilian population and the enactment of age limits to make all persons liable for national service, which it said were announced by Premier Hideki Tojo and the commander-in-chief of the office "in view of the decisive phase upon which the war will enter during the coming months."

The government also announced these measures:

Increase of anti-aircraft defence forces, especially the "air protection in industrial regions."

Special measures for the protection of government buildings and factories in Tokyo and other big cities.

Strengthening of government control over all industry.

Centralization of traffic on land and water.

CANADIAN NAVY

Will Obtain Six Destroyers From Atlantic Fleet

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—Announcement that the Royal Canadian Navy will obtain six destroyers from Great Britain this year, two already from the same source next year, and possibly aircraft-carrying vessels as well, was made here by Navy Minister Macdonald before he left for Ottawa.

These ships will "give our Canadian officers and men valuable experience in the handling of these larger craft," he said.

"It is my hope that after the war Canada's navy never will be reduced to its very insignificant status of pre-war days."

The shipping race now is decidedly in favor of the United Nations, said Mr. Macdonald. Great Britain, the United States and Canada expect to build this year a tonnage of 22,000,000 to 25,000,000—"a tonnage which the enemy cannot possibly overcome."

Use Captured Nazi Motorship As Plane Carrier

NEWEST WEAPON

LONDON.—A fog grenade was described on the British radio by a Nazi colonel as Germany's newest weapon. The speaker said the grenade developed a cloud up to a radius of 600 yards to dazzle the enemy and conceal army movements.

A GERMAN CLAIM

LONDON.—On a spring day in 1940 a British cruiser towed the fire-ravaged hull of a German merchant ship into the harbor of Kingston, Jamaica. That hull was what was left of the express cargo boat Hanover. Canadians had had a part in capturing her. And she was to play a great part in winning the battle of the Atlantic for the Allied fleets.

The Hanover was a blockade runner. Overtaken by a British ship and the Canadian destroyer Assiniboine, she was put out of action and the Canadians formed a boarding party which prevented the German crew from scuttling her.

Twenty-one months later, some 900 miles off the French port of Brest, the Hanover met her end, not as the Hanover but as H.M.S. Audacity, the first escort aircraft carrier, the first of a line of ships that was to win the battle of the Atlantic against the German U-boats.

Nobody would ever have recognized the Hanover when she came out to sea as the Audacity. Not even the Germans. For, when they finally sank her they reported her sinking as a fleet carrier of 23,800 tons. The British Navy, of course, knew her as the ex-Hanover, a 5,000-ton motor ship.

From the day she went into service with a new 400-foot flight deck built over the cargo holds to the day that every available submarine in her area was concentrated to get her, was only 68 days. The Germans got her, right enough, but they were unable to undo the lesson she had taught that sea-borne airpower could beat the U-boats.

The first German torpedo blew Audacity's bows off. She sank soon afterwards. But during her 14 weeks of work she had made half a dozen trips with the regular Gibraltar convoy. One of them got through without loss and others suffered lightly.

Audacity was equipped with six Martlet fighters, each of them doing a 4½-hour sea patrol each day. On one day, according to the record, Audacity's aircraft sighted 17 submarines. That was the day the submarines closed in and got Audacity but her aircraft, up to that time had strafed a score of submarines, sunk a half dozen with the aid of surface escorts and shot down a whole squadron of long-range Focke-Wulf planes.

IMPROVING ROAD

EDMONTON.— Hon. W. A. Fallow, Alberta minister of public works, said preliminary work has been started on a $60,000 road improvement program of a 16-mile stretch of the Meridian highway on the Alberta - Saskatchewan border. Mr. Fallow said the Saskatchewan government will pay half the cost of the program.

There was nothing small time about the talent that went into "Rookies Play Hookey", soldier show staged by troops in training at the Basic Train ing Centre at Vernon, B.C. Three of the stars, who wrote, produced and staged the production, are pictured above. Left to right they're Lance-Corporal Douglass Montgomery, star of the screen version of "Little Man What Now" and many other Broadway and Hollywood productions. Lance-Corporal Dick Messner, well-known Vancouver radio personality and pianist, and Corporal Gilchrist Stuart, English born actor who appeared in "A Yank in The R.A.F." and other pictures. Talent came right from the ranks, with the assistance of a group of comedy Vernon dancers and singers and the production played to both civilian and khaki audiences in the area.

NOT EASY TASK

Governor-General Warns Against Optimism Over Early Nazi Collapse

EDMONTON. — Although fate of the enemy now is beyond the region of doubt in anyone's mind, "this is not the time to relax in any degree the efforts we have made to bring us the fair," the Earl of Athlone declared in a luncheon address before members of the Canadian Club. "Let us not delude ourselves with any idea that the task is going to be easy," he warned.

The governor-general said people should not imagine that the short and comparatively easy campaign in Sicily or the bloodless capture of Kiska are patterns for what will follow "when we make the assault on Germany."

"We have only encountered a small fraction of the German forces on hand. Their morale is unimpaired and if they formed the mainspring of the defence in Sicily and fought with vigor and determination and a skill comparably superior to the Italian, how much more formidable will they be when they have to defend their own homeland?"

WILL BE INVALID

Neutral Nations Warned Against Accepting Italian Investments From Nazis

WASHINGTON—Britain and the United States warned neutrals against pulling German financial chestnuts out of the fire of invasion in Italy, and especially set a pattern for handling German interests in territories to be reconquered later.

Disclosing that the Germans are trying to dump their Italian investments in neutral territory, the Anglo-American statement warned that the German gambles would not recognize such deals.

The democracies "reserve the right to treat as invalid any transfer in neutral ownership of any enemy-owned rights or interests in property in Italy," said the statement from the state department.

Light Air Force Saved Britain Three Years Ago

LONDON.—The Germans definitely planned the first aerial assault on London three years ago this month to set off the invasion of Britain.

The R.A.F., which had the major task of breaking up the attack, was outnumber of more than four to one by the German air force's 2,450 planes.

Now, at the time of the third anniversary of the epochal Battle of Britain, it is possible for the first time to divulge some behind-the-scenes facts of the struggle.

The Germans were always known to have planned to invade Britain eventually, but it never previously was disclosed how imminent the invasion was or by what a close margin it was thwarted.

The invasion—for which, 2,500 barges were massed at ports across the English Channel and in the North Sea during the attack on London—was to have been the climax of a five-week program culminating in mid-September.

The planned preliminary steps were to have been the knocking-out of the R.A.F. and then the bombing of London to shatter the will and ability to resist the invasion

If the invasion had been launched in June, 1940, right after the collapse of France, it might have succeeded.

After Dunkirk, the R.A.F. had only three squadrons that hadn't been in action on the continent. The force that battled back more than 500 German planes on Sept. 15, 1940, and 305 on Sept. 27 amounted to only 29 squadrons—less than 600 planes—some of which fought three times a day.

The R.A.F.'s big assets, besides courage were a radio location system and the Germans' sequence of mistakes.

The Germans counted on divebombing but the evasive tactics which saved the Stukas in Spain didn't work in Britain. Against attack, their bombers didn't have enough armor. The failure forced the Germans into high-level, daylight, pattern bombing which proved too vulnerable to disruption

As early as 280 B.C., the city of Rome was invaded and burned by the Gauls

Open Longest Stage Mail Trip In The World

DAWSON CREEK, B.C.—Described as the longest stage mail route in the world, the 1,000-mile overland postal service from this southern supply base on the Alaska highway to Whitehorse, Y.T., has been inaugurated here. The service will be on a daily schedule, northbound and southbound.

United States army postal trucks, carrying five tons of letters and parcels for Canadian and American highway workers and residents of towns and construction camps along the route, started on the long trek. Before the 72-hour trip is completed, the trucks will climb two mountain ranges and plough through muskeg to get the mail through.

Thirteen stops, each about 90 miles apart, will be made at various Canadian civilian and U.S. army post offices.

To undertaking, a joint Canada-United States plan, will serve the whole Yukon Territory and will give workers and residents in Canada's northwest a service that will rival delivery in many parts of the North American continent.

Sorting point for the service is at Edmonton and from there Canadian postal officials route the mail by railway to Dawson Creek, a one-day haul. The American postal service then takes over, carrying the mail to the border end of the road.

The new system is a considerable improvement over the previous service. Mail for Canadians in the Yukon was sent from Edmonton to Vancouver, by boat to Skagway and finally over White Pass Yukon railway to Whitehorse. Boat schedules were uncertain and mail arrived an average of five or six times a month.

Mail for American soldiers and civilians was routed from Edmonton to Seattle and then by boat to the north. This schedule also was uncertain. The same circumstances applied to the southbound delivery but this has been eliminated by the new system.

NEW COUNCILLOR

Princess Elizabeth Will Serve When The King Is Away

LONDON.—The House of Commons agreed that in future when the King is absent from the realm, Princess Elizabeth may serve as one of his councillors of state.

The King made the request for parliament's agreement in a message read to the house.

This carries forward one more step the preparation of the princess for queenship and will give her an opportunity to try her hand at statecraft.

On the King's last foreign trip, to visit France in North Africa, she was excluded from the council of state, headed by the Queen, because she was a minor. She will attain legal majority on her 18th birthday, next April 21

The King's action suggested he may contemplate another trip some day to visit his forces abroad.

FIGHTING FAMINE

India Trying To Introduce Food Rather Than For Cities

NEW DELHI.—With the death toll from starvation sometimes exceeding 50 a day in Calcutta alone, India's food production committee put forward a new rationing plan designed to bring some degree of remedy if it gets 11 provinces and a score or more of big states to agree.

Food rationing in all of India's several score of cities of more than 100 000 population is proposed in the new plan, which also calls for an increase in supplies, principally by the importation of at least 1 500,000 tons of grain during the current year.

STILL HAVE SUBS

Navy Minister Macdonald Warns Against Revival Of Nazi Attacks

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—Warning of a revival of German submarine attacks was given to an interview by Navy Minister Macdonald.

"The enemy still has several hundred U boats and they will come out again," he asserted. "They got a terrible drubbing in May, June and July when we sank them almost at the rate of one a day, but we haven't sunk them all.

"Although the campaign against the U boats is most gratifying, don't think that it is over. The enemy is always improving his vessels, and, although his morale is badly shaken, he will come out again."

STORIES OF GOOD OLD DAYS WANTED

Local History Project by Alberta Professor

Do you know any tall stories about the good old days in Alberta? The Alberta Folklore and Local History Project at the University of Alberta, under the direction of Professor Robt. Gard, wants to get in touch with Alberta people who can supply information about early days of the Province.

Financed by The Rockefeller Foundation, this project will collect and preserve stories relating to the background and romance of Alberta.

Such information might include tall tales (taller the better); stories about the waterways and river transportation; stories about religion and religious characters such as Father Lacombe; tales about ghosts and of haunted houses; stories about the naming of Alberta towns; railway stories; ranching and homestead stories; animal stories; tales about frontier characters like Peter Pond; stories about various national groups in the Province and their customs.

The Project is interested in the history of various communities in Alberta and wishes to make contact with the historians of the Province. It is hoped that many local history groups will be started to aid in the preservation of Alberta history and lore, or that this work will be undertaken by some of the groups already organized.

Story tellers and historians are urged to write to Professor Robert Gard, Department of Extension, University of Alberta, Edmonton.

Iron and Steel

The Canadian public knows, and admires, the successful struggle against food shortages in which prairie farmers have been, and still are, engaged.

Few people, however, know that but for the patriotism of farmers in the west, some steel mills in the east might have been unable to carry on last winter. About the 1st of July, 1942, a system for collecting scrap iron and steel by country elevator agents was organized. All elevator systems have been engaged in the work. Thanks to the willing response of farmers and the enterprise of elevator agents, 9,300 tons of scrap have been shipped with a total of about 130,000 tons of metal.

40,000 tons remain in dumps at various shipping points. This heavier iron is best necessary, until recently, to assemble at least 25 tons at a point before loading. Now, however, two drop-covers are shovel, in order to make up a carload and, as a result, the last piles of iron than carload lots will soon disappear.

This is no time to relax, because the need for scrap iron and steel is urgent. It is estimated that 65,000 tons are still available on farms. The importance of getting this delivered and shipped is very great. Farmers will be paid $7.00 per ton for scrap delivered to local elevator purchasing agents. Heavy steel, such as steam engines, heavy tractors, etc., is worth $4.50 per ton on the farm. It will be cut up and removed by the owner crew. Any farmer having heavy scrap which requires the cutter crew should immediately notify the elevator purchasing agent.

The government has publicly acknowledged the achievements of farmers and elevator agents—but requires more scrap urgently. To delay is to postpone final victory.

REDUCTION IN CAR LICENSES OCTOBER 1st

There will be a 60 per cent reduction in annual motor car license fees on and after Oct. 1, according to information which the Alberta Motor Association has received from the provincial secretary's department. This lowering of the annual fee is usual at this time of the year, as those obtaining it will have use of it for the following six months.

On Jan. 1, there will be a 75 per cent reduction in the annual fee, which also is customary, as the license will have only three months to run before the end of the license year on March 31.

While strong representations have been made to the government by the Alberta Motor Association to make a refund of this year's motor license owing to the fact that motorists have substantially less use of their cars, owing to road conditions and federal restrictions, no action to grant this request has been taken by the province.

Recent reports indicate that approximately 90,000 passenger car licenses have been issued in Alberta this year to those in "AA" gasoline rationing category.

STOCK TO KEEPS FOR FARMS

One hundred and fifty long wooden boxes, each containing over three hundred pounds of rods and metal were shipped last week from the Standard Iron Works, Edmonton, to points in Alberta, Saskatchewan, B.C., and Manitoba.

Labelled "Stock Sweep Kit No. 5", they are on their way to the harvest fields of Western Canada where they will help relieve the man power shortage. The Stock Sweep was developed by the Department of Agriculture and the Provincial Marketing Board and is said to do away with at least four hands from.

Kit No. 5 is an all-metal sweep fitting on the front of a tractor. Driven down the row or stooks, the bundles are picked up, transported to the threshing machine and dropped, while the tractor spins away for another load.

As you know the labor problem is really acute; few threshing rigs can muster a full crew. But with increasing numbers the problem is less alarming — because of Stock Sweeps.

POST-WAR PROBLEMS

The regional conference of the Post-War Reconstruction committee which met in Red Deer recently is "a great forward step and will serve as an example to be followed by other regional divisions". This was the recently expressed opinion of Hon. H. E. Tanner, Chairman of the Provincial Committee.

Outlining the work of the Post War Reconstruction Committee, Mr. Tanner added that sub-committees were studying their terms of reference and were receiving briefs from various sections and organizations in Alberta. He emphasized the importance of the Post-War Reconstruction and urged the organization of local committees be carried forward without delay. From the submissions of these local committees, Mr. Tanner stated, the charter of the work of reconstruction will be determined.

IMPORTANT RESOLUTIONS, INTERESTING ADDRESSES, AT BOARD OF TRADE LUNCHEON

Large Attendance Wednesday

Over 30 business men of the town attended the board of trade meeting on Wednesday last week, as a result of this large attendance, debate on several matters discussed was very good. Gerald Stephens was chairman.

The M.Ds concerned issued an invitation to the board to send a representative on a delegation which will interview the Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs, in Edmonton on Wednesday next. The subject discussed will be the boundaries of the proposed new enlarged units between here and Lloydminster. The matter of appointing a delegate was left to the executive.

Another motion which aroused considerable debate was to the effect that the Attorney-General's department be strongly urged to appoint a police magistrate to be located in the town of Vermilion. Mr. J.D. Adam, K.C. has recently resigned from that office.

J. Wener gave a report of the visit of Mr. Hickly of Winnipeg and Mr. Fisher of Edmonton, Salvage supervisors. The purpose of the visit is explained fully elsewhere in this issue.

An important resolution re post-war planning for Vermilion was introduced by the Mayor and passed unanimously. This matter is also dealt with elsewhere in this issue.

INTERESTING ADDRESSES

The board members greatly enjoyed a short talk which was very well given by Squadron Leader Boudreau regarding air cadet work. The visitor was introduced by T. Watts.

L. H. Bussard, principal of the high school spoke to the board on the necessity of securing living accommodation for the large number of students planning to attend high school here. Anyone willing to take student boarders or rent light housekeeping rooms should list their names with Mr. Bussard.

NAVY LEAGUE OF CANADA TO SUPPLY DITTY BAGS

Northern Alberta Quota 3,000

One hundred and fifty thousand ditty bags will be supplied by the Navy League of Canada as Christmas presents for the men of the Canadian Navy and the Canadian Merchant Marine. The quota for Northern Alberta has been set at 3,000 and an appeal is made to all residents of the area for in the accomplishment of this objective.

Request for the ditty bags was made to the League by the Dominion Department of Naval Affairs and the Director of Merchant Seamen.

The need for immediate action in filling these ditty bags was stressed by League officials, and an appeal is made to every resident in Northern Alberta to make a special report in any case that the men who guard the seas lanes for Canadian safety, and those who carry that commerce to the far flung quarters of the globe are remembered at Christmas.

If you desire to fill a ditty bag you can obtain one from the Navy League office at Edmonton, 10336 Jasper Ave., or from any branch of the Alberta Women's Institute.

If you cannot fill a bag then endeavor to interest a group in your neighborhood to join you in this worthy act, or failing this, send a donation, no matter how small to H. T. Treasurer of the League, John McDougall, Empire Block, Edmonton.

For the guidance of those who will assist the League in filling ditty bags it is suggested that the following articles be included: pair of socks, tooth brush, tooth powder, shaving soap, cigarettes, writing paper and envelopes, hard candy, cake in tin container, canned goods, soup or fish, handkerchiefs.

If you apply for a ditty bag, full information as to packing and contents will be enclosed with the bag. The ditty bags will be supplied free. October 25th has been set as the last date on which bags should be returned to Edmonton for Christmas distribution.

Members of Canada's Veteran Guard have distinguished World War One records. One corporal has the Military Cross and was a Major in the Imperial Army in 1914-18.

More than 25,000,000 pieces of mail were sent overseas to the Canadian troops in 1942.

New Order Widens Retreading Service

A new tire control order which has been issued by the rubber controller at Ottawa makes retreading more widely available to car owners, according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

Representations as to the need of this order to make the service more liberal had been made by the Canadian Automobile association with which the A.M.A. is affiliated.

Effect of the new order is to make retreading service available to a greater number of motorists.

The motor association had pointed out to the federal authorities that such a step would help to preserve sound motor vehicle tires that might otherwise be driven to destruction. It was contended that this would act to conserve rubber, and would prove true economy in the long run.

The new order is more stringent in that the requirement as to obtaining permits for the purchase of new tires, retreaded tires and retreading services is extended to the purchase of used tires.

NEW SCHEDULE
PRESERVES RATIONING
EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 30, 1943

Preserves rationing gives the consumer a number of choices both of products and sizes of containers. Because of the wide range of container sizes and the variation in buying habits across the country it was necessary to put the system into operation over two months to make adjustments on the basis of experience.

Now that preserves rationing has been in effect for several weeks, it is possible to made some increases in coupon values. The new schedule is announced below and is effective September 30th.

The new doubled ration allowances for molasses, extracted and comb honey will enable consumers in areas where consumption of these products is heavy, to buy more and still leave enough for districts where the total demand is light.

The increased ration allowances for corn, cane and bloodied table syrups and maple syrup are calculated to bring coupon values more closely into line with the great variety of container sizes now in use.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

HAY FEVER TREATMENT

"Hay fever is not the harmless annoyance that we are prone to think it," Dr. R. F. Hughes of Hamilton, Ont., warns. In an article published in the Canadian Medical Association Journal he points out that hay fever not only causes loss of time but is frequently attended by complications. Experience indicates that the hay fever sufferer has at least a 50-50 chance of becoming asthmatic.

Army examining boards "take a very unfavorable view of it, especially when attended by complications," according to Dr. Hugo.

Reporting on 235 hay fever patients he saw in 1942 the physician tells of careful pollen tests made outside Hamilton that year. Maple and elm pollens appeared first and they were followed by birch and pine By the beginning of May many tree pollens were noted. Tree pollination stopped by the beginning of June Grass pollen appeared a week after the tree pollen became general. There was little pollen in the air from the middle of July to the middle of August, but ragweed pollen, a chief cause of misfortune to the allergic, began in August 8 and dominated the scene until September 27.

Of the 235 patients, 209 were affected by ragweed, 72 by grasses, 13 by trees, 85 by other inhabitants and 21 by moulds A number were sensitive to several pollens and had to be treated by several methods. Forty-eight per cent. had asthmatic complications.

Doctor Hughes counsels careful diagnosis by means of skin tests. Specific treatment is available to relieve the condition, not to cure it, and in a large percentage of cases good results are obtained. Even those in whom hay fremia may be able to enjoy some measure of relief, it is indicated. Reaction to treatment is suffered by some patients were due to accidental injection in a blood vessel or to dosage error, it is stated.

Treatment should be done before the pollen season, and most of the patients seen by Dr Hughes sought help before they were affected in 1942. Plants which pollinate in the greatest abundance and which have the most toxic pollen as a rule make the greatest amount of treatment necessary. Ragweed is one of these.

Physicians should be able to promise relief in 80 to 90 per cent. of cases, so only a small percentage of patients resist treatment. Of the 235 patients seen by Dr. Hughes, 66 per cent. had satisfactory results and 27 per cent. had fair results.

He gave one a letter to mail. He put it on top of his head, placed a stone on it as a paper weight and carried it to the mail post. Then he gave him a 250-pound airplane engine, which he placed on his head, and without even a paper weight to keep it from blowing off, carried it four miles to its destination. Still another filled a navy wheelbarrow with dirt, placed the barrow, dirt and all on his head and carried it to the dump.

Ten thousand rotor arms alone were made out of palm resin, although Bartlett has since developed a better plastic from other trees common to the Middle East.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 3

JESUS AND THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

Golden text: Think not that I came to destroy the law or the prophets: I came not to destroy, but to fulfil. Matthew 5:17.

Lesson: Matthew 5:17-20; 19:16-22; John 3:30, 40.

Devotional Reading: Matthew 7: 21-27.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Declares that the Commandments Must Be Kept. Matthew 5:17-20. "Think not that I came to destroy (set aside) the law or the prophets," Jesus said—knowing full well, of course, that the Pharisees would accuse him of just that.— I came not to destroy, but to fulfil.

Verses 21-48 are a series of illustrations of the way in which he would have the law and the prophets fulfilled—filled completely—for he would have his followers go much farther than the Old Testament law required. The law was right as far as it went, he held, but his followers must regard the spirit or the motive back of every act. Moses and the prophets only laid the firm foundation on which to build, for God's revelation to them was not final; he sent his Son to rear thereon a superstructure, a higher and fuller revelation of his will.

Jesus Declares That Keeping the Commandments Is Not Enough. Matthew 19:16-22. One day a young man of position and wealth who lived a moral life came to Jesus to ask him what good thing he should do to have eternal life. Jesus told him to keep the commandments, and he asked, "Which?" Jesus then specified the commandments which are concerned with the rights of another—his right to his life, his family, his property, his reputation. The young man claimed that he had always observed these commandments: "What lack I yet?" he questioned. He realized that the mere keeping of the commandments, the refraining from doing ill to another, was not enough: much more was required. Jesus counseled him to go and sell all his property, give the proceeds to the poor, and come and follow him. The relief of the poor Jesus was thinking but the young man's soul. Ordinarily it would not be best for a young man to give away all his property; rather should he manage it wisely and speed generously for the welfare of others But for the young man whose wealth so possessed his soul that it kept him from God it would have been best to part with all of it.

"And then shalt have treasure in heaven," added Jesus, "and come, follow me." Instead, the young man went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions.

The English Language

Will Be Much Better Known In Europe After War

When the war is over some 15,000 Czechoslovak citizens will return to their country equipped with a good command of the English language. There will be a similar return of English-speaking Poles, Dutchmen, Belgians, Frenchmen, Yugoslavs, Greeks and Norwegians. The English language will be better known on the Continent than at any time in its history. This will give us an opportunity which our diplomats and political and commercial leaders should be quick to seize.—Yorkshire Post.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

The dance held at the school was well attended and some twelve dollars was realized for the Red Cross. The ladies of the Busy Bee club would like to thank all those who helped to make the affair a success, not forgetting Charlie Debert for his stop-dance.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Hermanus on the recent birth of a baby boy in the Islay hospital.

We are pleased to welcome back for a visit Miss Ekri from eastern Canada who is here visiting her sister Mrs. O. Repp.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Saunders and baby son motored from Edmonton to spend a few days with the latter's mother, Mrs. Robinson, and brother Frank Baldwin.

We were pleased to see Eddie Rindale home on leave from Grande Prairie. Eddie certainly looks in the pink of condition.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to the Shirtley family in their sad bereavement, and also to those several other families who have recently suffered the loss of loved ones.

The next rish meeting of the H.B.'s will be held on Oct. 14 at the home of Mrs. Gow.

Tom Sherwood while returning home on Sunday from Borradaile noticed fire suddenly break out in the barn at the Fry home. Harness etc., was removed but the barn was totally destroyed.

Threshing is really underway in the district and everyone is hoping that the present fine weather continues until every bit is completed.

Mrs. Perkins received a letter from her husband who is now overseas and Harry reports that he is fine and everything is going well.

Since writing our last notes the writer has become the proud mother of a baby girl, born in the Islay hospital on Sept. 21.

The Intelligence test given new recruits in the Canadian Army is a combination of the bed features of similar examinations given by the British and American armies.

Six men sons of the British Army in the list, six West Indies were among officer candidates at a recent course at the officers' Training Centre at Brockville.

PROVIDE SUPPLY OF SYNTHETIC RUBBER

Synthetic rubber imported from the U.S. will be available to Alberta and other car owners in Canada for essential purposes, by agreement between officials of the two countries, it was announced by Administrator [illegible] ment officials

While these stocks are being obtained there is no relaxing or restrictions concerning the supplying of rubber, it was stated The synthetic rubber will be made available for essential purposes, of which the federal officials must be satisfied.

Federal authorities have stated that the synthetic material is softer than the rubber formerly in use, consequently it must be used with greater care, and that the speed of the car should not exceed 35 miles per hour

While the restriction is being made available, officials of the Alberta Motor Association point out that motorists should continue to exercise every care in driving to reflect the greatest measure of tire conservation in the present war emergency.

Avoiding of many needless trips and adoption of group riding plans all will serve to save tires and aid in the national conservation campaign.

Another Canadian General Hospital unit has been mobilized by the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

Basic English

PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL in a recent address delivered at Harvard University, referred to basic English as the possible international language of the future. Since that time there has been considerable public interest in this possibility, and it has been the subject of much discussion. Devised principally by C. K. Ogden, director of the Orthological Institute at Cambridge, England, and Ivor A. Richards, now of Harvard University, basic English is an extremely simplified form of English, as we speak it. Our language is said to include some 20,000 words, while basic English has only 850. Of these, 600 are nouns, 18 are verbs and the remainder are made up of adjectives, pronouns and the other parts of speech. In it, everything connected with everyday existence may be expressed, yet as Mr. Churchill pointed out, the whole vocabulary can be put down on one side of a single sheet of paper. The rules of grammar are correspondingly simple, and we are told that an average person can master basic English by devoting two hours of study to it, each day for a month.

• • • •

English Widely Used Today

The idea of an international or auxiliary language, is not a new one, and there have, in the past, been other suggestions in this regard. In the Middle Ages, Latin was the universal language of the educated people, and in later times French was the accepted language for diplomatic purposes. There has, however, been a growing tendency towards the use of English as a common language when different nationalities meet, and situations arising out of the present war have increased this trend. During the past few years Britain and this continent have become the home of many thousands of people from the oppressed countries of Europe, and it has been necessary for them to master some English, in order to carry on dealings with those about them. In Europe itself, many people have studied English in order to be able to understand the English radio broadcasts, bringing them news of the outside world.

• • • •

May Make for A Lasting Peace

The planning of an international language at this time, is being done with the hope that it may be an important factor in the creation of better understanding between nations in the years to come. The fact that English is likely to be the base does no doubt in part to the fact that Anglo-Saxon nations will have an important part to take in the building up of a world-wide structure for lasting peace in the future. Another consideration is the fact that more than 200,000,000 people speak English as their mother-tongue. The only larger group speaking one language is the Chinese, who number 400,000,000. In many parts of the world, English is already taught in the schools, and plans are now underway to teach it as the "second language" in all the schools of the liberated countries. The lands where English is spoken have been the cradles of much of the social and moral progress of the human race, and it is to be hoped that as it spreads, so may the principles and ideals which it has expressed.

FOOD STORAGE

After the hard work you spent this summer on your victory garden, you will want to be certain that the resulting vegetables will not perish before they are eaten. Storage of the garden produce in the home can be relatively easy if a few simple rules are carefully followed.

For a storage room—any part of the cellar with a window leading directly outside may be used. If you have a concrete floor, cover it with sand and sprinkle water occasionally to maintain the proper moisture content of the air. This room will need walls that are well insulated and a well fitted door to provide an even temperature. Containers for the vegetables should be constructed against the outside walls and have slatted sides and bottom to provide for ventilation.

Whitewash used on the walls makes for a sanitary room and annually a solution of approximately ¼ lb of copper sulphate to 1 gallon of water can be used as a cleanser and disinfectant. Of course you will need a good thermometer.

You must take great care in grading and sorting the garden produce if you want to eliminate decay. The fruits and vegetables should be fully mature, clean and dry, free from disease, and carefully sorted to prevent bruising, handling, freezing and chilling. During the winter you must sort the produce regularly and remove any that show signs of decay, as they will contaminate the sound stock.

Root produce such as beets, carrots, parsnips, salsify, turnips keep best at 33 to 38 degrees F. and in sand. Potatoes need the same temperature but should be placed in crates allowing good ventilation. If you wish to keep tomatoes, wrap each green tomato separately and place in a closed box. When you are storing apples be sure they are free from bruises and broken skins. They should be placed in slatted bushel crates to allow for air circulation at approximately 33 to 38 degrees F. with a humidity of from 85-85%.

For more detailed information on the storage of fruits and vegetables write to the Western Division Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, for Household Storage of Fruits and Vegetables.

Secret Weapons

German Science In This War Has Been A Flop

Hitler and his stooge Goebbels have been talking again about some new "secret weapon". Something that is going to stop bombs falling on the Ruhr and Berlin and turn the war scales in Germany's favor.

Time was when this sort of talk was a bit frightening. Now it's no more terrifying than a stuffed lion. Hitler first used the "secret weapon" threat in a speech at the Berlin Sports Palast a few days before the war. Yet when he attacked Poland he had nothing more than his Luftwaffe and his tanks. He used the threat again later on, but this time it was merely his magnetic mine, a device that the Allies mastered so quickly it has not been heard of since.

The truth is that German science in this war has been something of a flop. It has produced good weapons; good planes and good tanks; but nothing that Allied research men and engineers haven't equalled or surpassed. Radar, one of the most potent of the war's inventions, is on Allied product.

Hitler's latest "secret weapon"—announced solemnly by a Wilhelmstrasse spokesman last week—is said to be in the category of bombs. It will be delivered when it is soon and heard in action—and that we imagine goes for the disillusioned German public as well as for ourselves.—Toronto Journal.

Cannot Be Destroyed

Every Person Can Be Definitely Identified By Finger Prints

"Every living human being carries on his fingertips a signature that is definitely and legally his own," says John J. Flaherty (in his book "Inside The F.B.I."). "It is as authentic as the signature of the President of the United States on a state document. It singles him out from his fellow men as clearly as if he bore an indelible number on his forehead. This characteristic autograph cannot be forged nor changed, nor can it be permanently destroyed except by amputation

"This highly personalized signature consists of ten characters. They appear one on each bulb on the inside of the first joints of fingers and thumbs. In the process of fingerprinting all ten fingers are recorded, although a print from any one of them will prove the identity of the person from whom it came Certain kinds of work like stone masonry or dish-washing may wear down the ridges and make the pattern less distinct, but a short period of idleness or a change of vocation restores them to normal."

Famous March Origin

Composer Got His Idea While Playing Game Of Golf

The national anthem of the United States is not a march tune, but Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" might be called the universal march of the United States Army. The national anthem of the United Kingdom, "God Save the King", is a march tune either, and while each British regiment has its own march, popular vote would almost undoubtedly place "Colonel Bogey" in the corresponding position to "Stars and Stripes." Several millions men joined the British and Empire infantry during the last war and almost every man Jack of them at some time or other marched to the tune of this quaint lively air, tune, which brought vigor back to tired limbs although there is nothing patriotic-sounding about the title, which vaguely suggests something to do with golf.

And it has, for it was on a golf course that the germ of the tune originated.

According to the music sheet the composer is Kenneth J. Alford, but that is just the name under which Major F. J. Ricketts, director of music of the Plymouth division of the Royal Marines publishes his marches. One day the composer was waiting across a golf course when one of the golfers whistled to him as a warning to get out of the way. It was only two notes a minor third apart. Ricketts whistled the same two notes back a tone lower. Later he met the golfer in the clubhouse, and recalling their exchange of whistling he put them together and improvised a theme, which, roughly at that moment was the first section of the march. Subsequently at home he played it over to his wife who advised him to develop the theme, which he did, the result being the most famous march in the British Army—"Colonel Bogey."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

A Great Man

Livingstone Won Loyalty Of African Natives By His Kindness

Margery Perham in a B.B.C. talk said: "Livingstone believed in courtesy and gentleness even with savages. It worked. For about thirty years he travelled in wild Africa, mostly ill-equipped, usually the first white man these primitive tribes had seen, and when he died, it was not from an arrow or a spear but from dysentery, far away from any white man. And his followers there embalmed his body and carried it—their own brave decision—for nine months through 1,500 miles of savage bush and tribes to the coast. And three of them saw it brought home to Westminster Abbey and buried there. Livingstone was a great man. His was grace; in what he did—in the long journeyings, in the days he plied on, sick and footsore through unhealthy Central Africa, right through what is now Rhodesia, and Nyasaland, the Belgian Congo, and Tanganyika. But he was great too in his words and writings, and in the great call his life made to the British people, not to stop at the coast but to go right on into Africa and put down the slave trade there and bring in Christianity and civilization. There were explorers before him. But Livingstone called not only to men's sense of adventure or desire for commerce but to their compassion and their Christianity.

FAST TRAVEL

If trans-Atlantic airplane speeds ever reach 730 miles an hour, the flying time between the United States and Great Britain would be about five hours. Allowing for five hours' difference between Eastern Standard and British time, this means that a passenger who left London at noon would still find it noon when he arrived in New York.—New York Times.

Soldiers in the Canadian Army are protected against foot trouble by regular foot inspection before and after each route march.

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By Ottawa Observer)

THE Canadian premiere of "Meet The Navy" in Ottawa was a knockout, starring "a dandy and unbuckle the crowds. The sailors and Wrens in the cast don't have to take a back seat to any of the warriest entertainment outfits, and the show really is a gem. Anyone everyone in Canada who gets the opportunity to see it, should. Watch for them out your way and if you happen to be near a corn-fielding it, take a tip, try and make it. Swell entertainment, I calls it.

Westerners, many, many of them, know the officer commanding the new Canadian War Staff Course, Junior Wing, starting at Kingston. He is none other than Lt.-Col. W. A. Canada's newest escort vessel, H.M.C.S. "Sault Ste. Marie," now on active service, has been in many heavy and dangerous waves of the North Atlantic, has among its complement some of those stalwart prairie lads who always seem to get gobs of praise from naval headquarters for taking to navy life like a duck to water. Among the lads on this vessel include Cook Jim Aylong, of Canmore, Alberta; Stoker Percy Gibbs, Robert Kettwell, of Prince Albert, Sask.; George Baggott, of Dauphin, Man., and Clarence Johnson of Binscarth, Man. The latter just a few years ago sure knew more about a tractor than a ship, never having seen one except in pictures.

Sub. Lieut. Margaret Mackie of Victoria, B.C., of the Wrens, who was in charge of the first batch of them to go overseas recently, and which included a lot of western girls, was living in Britain when war broke out. She came over to Canada and helped to usher some 650 British mothers and children on the boat. Now she was going back, looking after a group of Wrens, but says it was an easier job than looking after the youngsters.

Some of your sons from out on the prairies have "rude the skies" over Germany and Occupied Europe with Wing Commander "Moose" Johnston, D.F.C. and Bar, ace night fighter of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and a fellow all Canadians should be proud of. Some of the details of the story on what the eminent lads in our services did in civilian life.

That was a solemn warning in the light of the tough fighting in Italy and the shape of things to come, which was uttered in a speech by Air Marshal W. A. Among those decorated for acts of bravery in the R.C.A.F. in recent lists announced, were Pilot Officer H. R. Richardson, of Robbin, Man., that gallant airman who has such a beautiful approach winding through a gorge-like valley. Also Mr. McKinnon, of Revelstoke, B.C., that little city nestling in the Gate Way to the Land of the big "hills" of the Rockies. Both get Distinguished Flying Crosses and their citations indicated the boys earned them.

When the H.M.C.S. "Fraser" went down off Bordeaux, France, in June, 1940, with many members of her crew who made the supreme sacrifice helping in final evacuation, the commander of that ship was Capt. Hibbard, Gravely, with 29 years service in the Royal Canadian Navy, he has now been named assistant Chief of the Naval Staff. He's a native of Vancouver, but well known to westerners. His son, a midshipman in the navy, also did valiant service at Dieppe, that tiny island won the George Cross.

The great deeds and heroisms of our Canadian Army in the Sicilian and Italian campaigns are yet kept in the background while the fighting is at its height. From time to time, soon, these columns should have information available which will allow us to mention some of the outstanding feats of our boys.

The largest warship ever built in Canada, the "Micmac" was launched in Halifax, Sept. 18. Canadian manufacturers provided most of the finished materials which have gone into her building before launching ceremonies. Canadian workmen fashioned her under the guidance of a few experts from the Clyde and other British shipbuilding centres. Until her actual commissioning she will be known simply as "Hull No. 17". As soon as she has been commissioned, the keel of a sister warship will be laid along the same slipways.

TONS OF WATER

Somebody has figured that previous to the dehydration of food shipped to England from this Continent we had shipped three million tons of water in food crossing the Atlantic.

Cincinnati was widely known as "Porkopolis" before the Civil War because of its extensive pork packing industry.

Gets New Position

E. P. WELLS,

formerly assistant to the operations manager, Trans-Canada Air lines, Winnipeg, has been appointed to the new position of co-operative assistant. His function will be to foster the spirit of co-operation between employees and management and to assist the employees in the development of co-operative committees. One of the original employees of T.C.A., Mr. Wells piloted the first mail plane operated by the company in its first service, between Vancouver and Seattle. He is well known throughout the west.

U.S. Sailors in Britain

Occupy Hotel in Cardiff Under Lend-Lease Arrangement

Among the many goods arriving from vast dockside warehouses to some of the stateliest homes of Britain turned over to the U.S. authorities in Britain under lend-lease in reverse, is a hotel in Cardiff.

Its peacetime, solid, big and comfortable, it was a pillar of the commercial life of this busy port. To-day practically little is changed, but for glistening new paint on ceiling and woodwork, the homely touch of flowers in reception rooms and bedrooms, and advertisements like snooker and table tennis equipment which no hotel guest would have dreamed of looking for. But outside Old Glory waves, and the doors are open exclusively to men of the U.S. merchant fleet. Men of all ranks come in search of good beds, food, medical treatment, a party, or maybe just a drink, and find it here.

Britain requisitioned and conditioned this hotel, fully furnished, to the requirements of the U.S. War Shipping Administration. Reverse lend-lease will pay the rent and take care of running repairs indefinitely.

This club can sleep 60 men and is one of several operated in United Kingdom ports by the United Seamen's Service and the War Shipping Administration.

There is a bar that serves beer and cock-cola. American coffee is on tap, and the British civilian staff of cooks and waitresses is getting adept at producing American dishes out of British rations—and at talking American.

The club is just one of many goods and services, including docking facilities and ship repairs, now being supplied wherever she can, and lend-lease in reverse makes for plain sailing.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

SINCERITY

Sincerity and truth are the basis of every virtue.—Confucius.

Sincerity is the indispensable ground of all conscientiousness, and of everything deserving of all heartfelt religion.—Kant.

Loss of sincerity is loss of vital power.—Bovee.

A deep sincerity is sure of success. For God takes care of it.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Nothing more completely baffles one who is full of trick and duplicity, than straight-forward and simple integrity in another.—Colton.

Sincerity is impossible unless it pervade the whole being, and the pretense of it saps the very foundation of character.—James Russell Lowell.

LEARNING NEW WORDS

Catering for Canadian troops in Britain has meant learning a lot of new words. The manager of a restaurant much used by Canadians says that he and his staff are becoming quite used to serving crackers when asked for biscuits and serving syrup, treacle, or honey (when available) as our nearest approach to molasses.

The serving of marmalade with, instead of after, the bacon, kipper or other savoury dish ordered for breakfast is also becoming a habit.—Daily Sketch (London).

Over-Bleaching

Find That Textile Loss Through Bleaches is Proved Great

According to experiment carried out in the Laundry and Dry Cleaning Laboratory of the National Research Council, Ottawa, the misuse of Javelle water, or sodium hypochlorite solution, as it is known to scientists, is the cause of a great annual loss of textiles.

Laundry experts have been trying for years to eliminate over-bleaching with its resultant deterioration of fabric.

Prolonged rubbing of a stain may further injure the fibres of a fabric, therefore, when stains become difficult to remove, bleach is often necessary. Bleach should only be used when other efforts are unsuccessful and then in the proper solution and never at boiling temperature. To use less than the amount given in manufacturers' instructions is better than to use more. Often directions accompanying bleaches call for the use of more than is really safe for the fabric.

LEARN TO WEAVE AND MAKE LOVELY THINGS

Make A Basket

How useful your hands can be and how acrefu if you train them! You could weave a strong useful basket as pictured above, or perhaps a lovely peats cloth rug for a gown, or maybe a smart rug.

Weaving is an art that has been considerably revived in recent years. Particularly during the war began, people are reverting back to making their own pretty things because of a scarcity of the finer wools on the market.

Fingers are rediscovering weaving as a pleasant and useful pastime. Now is the time to get out that old weaving shuttle in the home. With the development of industrial machinery the craft was taken from the home. Years have passed and war, more than anything else, has brought it back to the home again.

If you want to learn to weave, our 32-page booklet will help you to do so. It tells you what materials you need and then explains clearly how to weave simple articles from rugs to baskets.

The booklet avoids the complex. It tells what can be done on the more advanced looms but it really gets down to cases with such simple items as pieces of cardboard, embroidery hoops, and shuttles.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "How To Weave Useful Novelties" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave., E., Winnipeg. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of p...

FARM PROBLEMS

Farm policies in Alberta were discussed in a recent radio broadcast by Hon. D. B. MacMillan, Minister of Agriculture. Stating that probably 90 per cent of the food on our tables comes from Alberta farms, Mr. MacMillan said that agriculture "finds itself prepared to increase and improve production" for the war. He added that in an effort to improve the quality of our stock in the Province, the government has placed 1,470 purebred bulls and 1,114 purebred boars in every section of Alberta. The Minister reminded his hearers that in 1942, Alberta farmers led all the provinces in Canada in marketing of hogs with a total of 2,182,512 animals. He said that indications for 1943 were that this record would be exceeded.

Dealing with the poultry industry Mr. MacMillan placed its value in 1942 at fifteen million dollars and predicted an increase of three million during the current year. Three and one-half million chicks were sold by Alberta poultrymen in the 1943 season.

NEW CAR LICENSES TO BE SECURED

Usual refunds will be paid by the province on motor car plates that are turned in by Jan. 15, next, according to information while officials on the Alberta Motor Association have received from provincial officials.

The refund is 20 per cent of the original license fee and each year is taken advantage of by motorists who decide to lay up their cars for winter.

This year, it is anticipated that some motorists, finding it hard to get new cars, having exhausted their gasoline ration coupons for the year, will decide to lay up their cars for the duration.

On the other hand, it is expected that the car owners who have driven cars all the year will not be entitled to the refund as they will have used their cars for the full year.

WEDDING BELLS

PURSER—CLARK

On Wednesday Sept. 22nd a quiet wedding was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Clark, Treherne, Man., when their second daughter, Ethel Lillian, became the bride of William Alfred, son of Mr. J. C. Purser, of Islay, Alberta. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the living room to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by Miss Edna Clark. The bride wore a dress of soft bib-pool with coronet of orange blossoms in her hair and a corsage of pink roses. The bridesmaid, Edna Clark, wore a blege crepe dress. Lorne Clark was groomsman.

During the signing of the register Vera Clark sang "O Perfect Love".

Rev Norman Kelley performed the ceremony

After a buffet luncheon LAC and Mrs. Purser left for Summerside, P.E.I where the groom is at present stationed.

The bride was dressed in a gown of fleur de lis lace with fingertip veil and headdress to match and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The bridesmaid wore a dress of pink lace of deep blue with gold accessories and bouquet of brown and yellow chrysanthemums. Two little flower girls in blue dresses with bouquets to match carried red carnations. The bride's gage was four tiered and was made in Scotland.

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR THE MOTHER OF A BEGINNER

First, You shall not accompany your Johnny to school on his first day.

Second, You shall keep his dog at home from this day forward.

Third, You shall not frighten him with tales of what the teacher will do, should he misbehave. Let him find out for himself when the time comes, if ever.

Fourth, You shall clothe your Johnny newly and cheaply and continue to do so throughout the year.

Fifth, You shall instruct your Johnny carefully in the unassisted doing of coat, cap, rubbers and overshoes This do and the teacher will bless you.

Sixth, You shall refrain from any criticism of the teacher in the presence of your Johnny.

Seventh, You shall acquaint yourself with his teacher. It frequently irons out many problems.

Eighth, You shall uphold the teacher's instructions before purchasing supplies. It quite often prevents disappointment.

Ninth. You shall administer the soap and water at least twice a day.

Tenth, You shall see to it that your Johnny is physically fit for the year ahead of him. Look you to his eyes, his ears, his teeth, his weight and last but by no means least, his adenoids and tonsils.

These things do and you will have a happy healthy child, who will be a joy to his teacher and the pride of his parents.

VERMILION FIRST IN ALBERTA TO ADOPT SCHOOL SALVAGE PLAN

Vermilion is the first place in Alberta to adopt the new Salvage Committee School plan which is now being introduced into the province, Mr. W. S. Kirkly, western supervisor of the Salvage division of the department of national war services, and Mr. Edward C. Fisher, provincial director of that department, met the board of trade salvage committee Tuesday evening and explained the school plan in detail.

Mr. Kirkly explained that salvage materials are as urgently needed as ever before and stated that the need for them would grow in urgency as the war progressed. To meet this situation it is necessary for salvage committee to intensify their efforts particularly in rural areas. To assist in this the village committee school plan has been officially approved by the department of education at Edmonton.

Mr. Kirkly stated that children had proven themselves to be an excellent medium for the collection of salvage and that teachers everywhere in Saskatchewan and Manitoba where the plan is already in operation, had proved their enthusiasm for it, adding that now a standard plan of campaign had been worked out and excellent results were assured.

Under the School Plan definite points are allotted to pupils for material brought in school. For instance 1 pound or dripping carries a credit of 25 points, 1 pound of iron 1 point, a pound of lead or brass or other non-ferrous metal 5 points, a pass-over tire 20 points and so on. The plan then provides that when a pupil has accumulated a certain number of points they obtain a rank in Canada's School Salvage Army and receive crests on their sleeves denoting their rank. For instance when a child has earned 250 points they become a cadet and receive a gold designed crest to wear upon the sleeve. When another 500 points has been earned the pupil becomes a lance-corporal and receives a red stripe for his sleeve, and so on. Army ranks are available right up to field marshal and pupils can carry as high a special insignia.

The plan will be inaugurated in the Vermilion public school this fall and a number of nearby rural schools, and will be extended to rural schools lying further afield with the coming of spring.

Boys and girls are urged to get busy at once. The materials required are: Iron and steel and all kinds of metals such as copper, brass, lead, old car batteries, radiators etc.; old tires and tubes; dripping; prairie dried honey etc.

Collect these materials before school reopens. Keep them at home until school commences. Your teacher will then give you full information. In this way you can start now to earn points to help you become an officer in Canada's School Salvage Army, and who knows, you may in time be Field Marshal Sir Harold Smith, Bessie Peterson, Myrnan Antonia M. Kostiers, Parkland; Rosa F. Phillips, Vermilion; Josephine G. Farlee, Wainham; Allen E. Stone, Wildwood

Stagette Notes

Stagette's Harvest Ball

A huge crowd turned out to the Stagette's annual Harvest Ball which was held in the Elks hall on Sept. 28. Peppy music, colorful harvest motifs, and wall decorations all helped make the second annual Harvest Ball both a financial and social success.

A farewell party was held in the clubrooms on Sept. 21 for June Burch who has been transferred to Penokie. June, who is the treasurer of the club and past vice president will be greatly missed by all the girls as she was ever ready to lend a hand with the Stagette spirit. The best wishes of the club go with June to her new home

Several new members were admitted into the club, Beth Elder, Ethel Nelson, Agnes MacDonald, Margaret Girvan, Evelyn Lodge and Eva Clarke

The girls are now collecting for the Salvation Army's Home From Appeal.

Tickets for the dance to be held on Oct. 8 in aid of the Hostess House are being sold by club members.

Six Municipalities To Be Merged Into One Large Unit

Delegation Waits on Minister of Municipal Affairs

A new and a considerably enlarged municipality is in prospect taking in the whole of the territory now covered by the M.Ds of Elkwyn, Vermilion Valley, Grizzly Bear, on the west and Morton, Wellington and Stromsburg on the east. Rolling these six self-governing institutions into one will make an ideal set-up was the viewpoint of the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Hon. C. E. Gerhart, as revealed to the delegation from those districts which interviewed him last Saturday to protest against a division of the area into two municipalities running east and west. The delegates were instructed to oppose this suggestion and ask for two districts of three municipalities each, the line of demarkation to run north and south. The delegation comprised: Norman McClellan, Reeve of M.D. of Vermilion Valley; Hiram Hodgins, Reeve of Grizzly Bear; Hugh Magee, secretary of the Elkwyn district W.A. Barnard, Reeve of Wellington; C. H. Currie, Reeve of Morton; M. Alexander, Harry Measam and Robert Noyes the Lloydminster Board of Trade; and J. W. G. Morrison, the town and Board of Trade of Vermilion, and solicitor for the three west end districts.

The delegates were introduced to the Minister by Mayor Morrison who briefly outlined the purpose of the delegation, but the cause of the delegates was at once settled by the Minister when he stated very emphatically that the east and west division was definitely out. He then proceeded to place before them the desirability of forming the six municipalities into one large unit to be co-ordinated later with a health unit and an agricultural district. He thought it would make an ideal setup and appealed to the delegates for their co-operation in bringing it into existence with the least friction. He was looking at the proposal from the municipal standpoint and not that of a reeve or a councillor.

It would not be necessary for the ratepayer he said to come to the municipal office to pay his taxes or make applications for wheat bonus or old age pensions as now appears common; the district would go to them in that the assistant secretary would perform the duties of tax collector and would be visiting different parts of the municipality periodically to collect taxes and perform such other services as the ratepayer might require. The location of the municipal office would be left with the council to decide as well also as to whether the reeve should be elected by the body politic or by the members of the council. They could have S. T. R. D. councillors as they do now, to decide when sub-dividing the municipality into constituent districts. He thought though 7 or 9 a fairly representative body.

The delegates in view or their reluctance were not in a position to declare themselves in favor of his proposal and after some discussion on the suggestion of Mayor Morrison it was finally arranged that they would go back and report to their Councils and other bodies represented and then definitely report back to the Minister later on as to what had been decided. The delegates left the conference with the decided impression that the larger unit was coming whether the municipalities as at present existing, were wholly favorable or not. In being the unanimous opinion of the Minister it appeared that in the end it would prove the wisest course to take and in the best interests of the ratepayers at large.

Council Holds Regular Meeting

Schools Open Tuesday Morning

Staffs Are Complete

Vermilion schools, in common with those all over the province, will open for the fall term on Tuesday Oct. 12 at 9 a.m. after the longest summer vacation in school history. The holidays started on July 1 and by government decree were prolonged until October 12th. The action was taken to alleviate an expected shortage of labor in the harvest fields. Unless a change is made school will resume during July of 1944.

Vermilion public and high school staffs have been completed for the fall term and everything is now nicely set for the delayed opening. Some 1 navating in the form of painting has been done in the upper storey of the high school, while the ceiling of the third floor of the public school has been insulated.

The high school staff now is comprised of Principal L. H. Bassard, Miss J. M. Branson, Miss M.E. Knapp and Mr. Lawrence V. Smith. Mr. Smith is the newcomer to the staff, replacing Mr. Hay who is now on the instructional staff of the R.C.A.F.

There are three changes among the public school teachers, Mr. Frank H. Walker is the new principal, succeeding Mr. Jas. J. Part who has taken the office of town secretary; Miss Dorothy E. Oldenburg and Mrs. Edith M. Hay, replace Miss May Nugent and Miss Hazel Lawrence, both resigned. Miss Nugent is teaching at Black Diamond in the Turner Valley this year while Miss Lawrence has been added to the Vermilion teaching staff. The Vermilion staff is completed by Mrs. M. B. O'Brien, Miss D. E. Oakley, Miss M. Lipsey, Miss Jean Dey, Miss L. Noonan.

DEPT. PUBLIC WORKS ERECTING BUILDINGS ON THE SOUTH SIDE

Will House Snow Plow Equipment

Good headway is being made on the buildings being erected on the south side which will house the snow plow equipment of the Alberta Department of public works. It is the intention of the department to keep their two plows here this winter and instead of at Tofield as formerly. The buildings are substantial ones and are a welcome acquisition to the locations.

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES

The regular weekly meeting will be held on Wednesday next week commencing at 12.15 sharp and a large attendance of business men is requested. A number of district organizers for the forthcoming Victory Loan will be present as they are scheduled to speak in Vermilion that afternoon. The meeting will not be prolonged and a good turn out would be a nice gesture to the visitors

Chief of Police P. G. Harrington is enjoying a holiday this week and his assistant W. H. Little is on full time duty.

Chas C. Smith plans on leaving this week for Vancouver where he will spend the winter.

AIR OFFICIALS VISIT VERMILION

Land Big Passenger Plane at Air Field

A party of officials of the Canadian Pacific airlines spent a half hour in Vermilion on Monday morning, land ing their big all-metal plane smoothly on the field. The party was on an inspection tour and included L. B. Unwin of Montreal, president of Canadian Pacific Airlines, C. H. (Punch) Dickens, O.B.E., vice-president and general manager, also from Montreal and Mr. Ayers, assistant general manager of western lines. Seven passengers in all were travelling in the big plane which is one of four here bound for North Battleford and Winnipeg.

Acquainted with the proposed landing a short time before, the visiting party was met on the field by the Mayor, the airfield committee of the town council and a few officials of the board of trade.

DISTRICT GIRLS LOSE LIVES IN TRAGIC ACCIDENT

Funeral Held on Tuesday

Two well known district girl are dead, victims of an accident which occurred at 2.30 o'clock Saturday morning at the Heinsburg ferry. They are Joan Harrington or Clandonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Harrington who have lately moved to Calmary, and Olive Walker, daughter of Mr. F. C. Walker who farms north of Dewberry. The girls were trapped in a car which rolled off the ferry and into the river,

It appears that the two girls, together with two young men from Dewberry had attended a dance at Heinsburg. They had crossed the river on the ferry on their return home about 2.30 a.m. and upon arriving on the other side of the river the auto would not start. In an effort to get it going, the men, with the assistance of the ferryman, began rocking the vehicle. The car suddenly started, broke through the apron on the ferry, and dropped into the river carrying both girls to their doom.

PERFECT WEATHER AIDS THRESHING OPERATIONS

Sixty Per Cent. Completed

About as perfect weather for harvesting as could be ordered has been experienced all week and excellent progress with threshing has been reported from all sections of the district. Most of the threshing is said completed in the immediate Vermilion vicinity, with a good 50% in crop district No. 10. The help situation reported as being but last week has improved greatly through the arrival of eastern workers from the fields of Manitoba and Saskatchewan where fall operations have now been practically completed.

Frosty nights have kept the prairies settled and summer heat is expected to prevail during the ensuing days.

Board of Trade Notes

Members attending the Board of Trade luncheon on Wednesday were able to listen to the world series baseball game, through the kindness of Ronnie Barwick who connected up a radio in the Lower Deck for that purpose. George Maxwell was in the chair and there were 26 members present.

Guests at the luncheon were Mr. Louie McCullough and Mr. R. McCullough, well known in oil field operations here, and introduced by Morris Hill. Mr. Frank Walker, new petroleum at the public school was present and was introduced by Ashley Cooper who remarked that if past history repeated itself Mr. Walker would be here for a long time as his three immediate predecessors, dating back some sixteen years, had made Vermilion their permanent home and were now substantial business men of the town. In acknowledging the introduction Mr. Walker stated that he had been impressed with the great friendliness with which he and Mrs. Walker had been greeted by Vermilion people, and thanked the board for their very kind welcome.

Chief business of the meeting was hearing and discussing the report of Mayor J. W. G. Morrison who represented the board on a delegation which waited on the Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs, in Edmonton last Wednesday, regarding the proposed boundaries of the new enlarged districts. A complete report appears elsewhere in this issue.

Ashley Cooper reported on a recent inspection trip to the airfield of officials of the Canadian Pacific Airline, and indicated that matters were being taken care of satisfactorily in this connection. The board, on motion of Mr. Heckbert, decided on, some further action to ensure complete cooperation on the matter.

Billie Pibble, customer of the cemetery beautifying committee, reported that all was in readiness for a real effort to make the cemetery presentable. A clean-up crew was organized to start the job on Wednesday afternoon.

SERVED TOWN FOR 13 YEARS
CHAS. BECROFT RESIGNS

Charlie Becroft, the genial town sanitary man, has resigned and on October 15th will take over the farm which he has faithfully and conscientiously carried out for a period of some thirteen years. When he assumed the town sanitary Vermilion was not a very large burg and most of the men and women who were then in leading citizens have since moved on or moved out. There has been in this period of over three decades a metamorphosis in every sense. Ambitious endeavor in the Town of Vermilion which probably only the old timers who have stayed with and carried on grill fully appreciate. The work or keeping the town clean in those days was not started with and is not by a long shot today; the increase Charlie says is so great that there is really no comparison. While the rule of progress and development crept over Charlie's head, his work continued along the same course only materially increased in volume. Improvement exacting as the people demanded better and better service. Charlie's work was decidedly strenuous having to break the way for his team through the snowdrifts, in pouring rain and muddy lanes, Charlie's toil was the same, unhonored and unsung by the people whom he served. No one gave him or his pick much thought; only when he was a mile and that some times was the fault of the householder himself. But while Charlie could not please everyone some of the time, and he could not ward off advancing years and finally decided to retire, happy perhaps in the thought that he leaves Vermilion with the same system of sanitation as obtained over a quarter of a century ago.

CHANGE IN TOWN CLEANING SERVICES.

In his address to the new Council last February Mayor Morrison suggested the amalgamation of the work of the removal of night soil and that of the scavenger into one department, the latter service being carried on under the heading of public works. The retirement of Charlie Becroft has enabled the Town council to carry this suggestion into effect, in fact the move awaited this change. Everett Fry who has been in charge of the street work will now take over both services and with him from the public works will go the old team. The two services should go well together and will be under the direction of the sanitary or Health committee. Mr. Fry enters upon his new duties on Oct. 15 when the change does into effect and while it is expected it will be an efficient and economical service.

FOUR SOLDIERS HURT IN CAR ACCIDENT

Four soldiers are in the hospital here as a result of a car accident on Sunday night. The soldiers were being driven back to Wainwright and the same number in the car in which they were riding side swiped another one driven by George Caron who had been driving slowly along the side of the road. The soldiers' car took to the ditch and turned over, all passengers but the driver being badly injured as a result. A wheel was torn off Mr. Caron's car but fortunately no one suffered other injuries except a shaking up.

All accidents in the Canadian Army are carefully studied to determine the cause and prevent a recurrence.

Beau Jonathan

CHAPTER V.

IT was Anne Jamieson who answered the knock at the Castle-Theatre dressing room. "Jonathan Hale!" she exclaimed at sight of the tall man in the doorway. "Come in from her surprise, she smiled and opened the door wider. "Come in, Jonathan."

Monsieur Denys, stretched full length on a cushioned settee straightened and dropped to the floor the book he had been reading.

"Jonathan!" he beamed, hurrying forward with outstretched palms. "How did you ever find us, mon ami?"

The room was in a state of disorder Apparel, both feminine and masculine, hung from every conceivable hanging-place. A mirrored stand was covered with jars and bottles of perfumes and cosmetics. The unconventionality of the room pleased the pleasure of Jonathan's eye over the meeting.

"What brings you to London, Jonathan?" inquired Anne. "As anything wrong?"

"No." It was only then that Jonathan Hale realized that his behavior or, possibly, that of Anne Jamieson hardly knew him. That breach in her bread was probably worth more money than he had obtained for the sale of the Hale farm. Yet the sight of her, beautiful beyond compare, and the memory of the kiss they had shared was enough to override his inherent shyness.

"Anne—" he stammered. "Miss Jamieson—I have come to ask you to marry me—"

THE smile vanished from her face and she was so still that Jonathan's voice trailed into silence. Finally the girl spoke. "You are in love with me, Jonathan?"

He nodded. "I have nothing to offer you, Anne, except myself. But at least I shall be taking you away from this—" his gesture, in addition to the disorderly room, seemed to include Monsieur Denys.

"Jonathan." the girl said, "Do you think I am a good girl—and Lady Ruth Meade?"

"I—" He looked into the grey eyes, trying to reconcile what he read therein with what he had been taught from childhood with what even the blind could see in this very room. "You are a—lady."

The hesitation was his undoing. The grey eyes darkened with anger. "You uncouth lout!" Anne stormed, "whose breeding has her white thread and cheeks. "You dare to think that of me!"

"Anne—I—"

Her hand swept out, creating a small tidal wave as she struck him directly on the mouth. "I never want to see or speak to you, again, Jonathan Hale!" she cried, then whirled toward the music.

Jonathan reeled under the force of the unexpected blow, staggered as his toe caught a rug and sank on one knee to the floor. "Anne!" he called desperately. "Wait! You do not understand. I tell you—"

THE door slammed and before he could gather his feet, Monsieur Denys was before him, rapier pointed straight at his throat. "Beside where you are, Monsieur Hale! If you attempt to injure or touch her, your sword I shall run you through!"

"Denys!" cried Jonathan, attempting to brush the sword aside. "Call her back—"

The blade evaded his hand and returned to his breast. "It is too late to apologize, monsieur. The Frenchman shook his head. "Anne is a virtuous girl."

"I know," said Jonathan. "But she did not give me time to assert my faith in her."

Denys smiled. "Why were you so slow in speaking?"

"There was contrary evidence that could not be disregarded." Jonathan tried to explain. "The room, and the fact that I found you alone with her. But—whatever I may have thought when I first entered, I know the truth when I looked into her eyes."

"You think we live here? I laugh at your naivete, mon ami." The rapier swayed lower, and the Frenchman stepped back to allow Jonathan to stand up. "This is a theatre dressing room; these clothes are merely costumes we wear while on the stage, and I was here only to rehearse with her our parts in the play to be presented at the theatre next week."

Monsieur Denys paused to study his silent companion. "Come Jonathan," he said, in the tone of one who has arrived at a decision. "We shall go to the home of Mademoiselle Ruth and there I shall explain that you voiced your faith in her presently you will have proof of it."

THE journey from the theatre to a certain small house in the neighborhood was short. A stout woman admitted the Frenchman and glowered at the two men.

"Mistress Jamieson has been here and gone," said the woman. "She took her bags and told me she would not return. She didn't say where she was bound."

Both Denys and Jonathan were silent for a long time when they left the house in the street. "There are two possible explanations for her disappearance," said the Frenchman as they walked along. "One—that Anne loves you, monsieur, and has run away because of the hurt given her by your words. The other is that she hates you—but the former is more likely."

"You think that?" Jonathan was eager. "Then we must find her!"

"Indeed we must," said Denys. They were passing a tavern, the Sign of the Bull, at the moment and Denys suddenly snapped his fingers. "I have it! Anne loves music and will give up my work at the theatre and her evenings will not support us long." He cleared his throat. "Would you care, Jonathan, if I stopped in this place and made a sporting effort to improve our fortunes?" "I have no money with which to lose your money or your habits, Master Denys," said Jonathan.

He followed as Denys made his way into the tavern and chose a table in a far corner where men were playing with dice.

THIS was the first time Jonathan had witnessed gambling, and he was amazed at the interest with which he surveyed the ring of adventurous faces, the piles of money and the hovering, black-dotted white cubes.

The dice rattled as Denys shook the box. Then his eyes rested by chance on the watching Jonathan and his arm stilled. "Mon," he addressed the gathering, "my friend here from the country has never seen a game of chance at their pleasure. Will you permit him to make the throw?"

"No," Jonathan said as Denys thrust the box into his hands. "Those are instruments of the devil."

"Mon ami," Denys begged, "You must do this. Remember Madmoiselle Anne.

Reluctantly Jonathan complied. The dice tumbled and stopped The box came down on the uppermost square meant nothing to him, but the laugh of the crowd never informed him that Denys had won.

"Again!" Denys allowed his sovereign and the one he had won to remain on the table, and once more other gold-pieces were slid forward to double the number.

Again Jonathan cupped the ivory cubes and made the cast. Cheers and some profanity announced that he had won for a second time. He tried to relinquish the box then, but Denys, his face flushed as with fever, was not to be denied. Again and again the dice rolled. Sometimes, it appeared, the result was not determined by a single throw, but steadily the pile of gold before Denys increased. Jonathan watched in perplexity the flow of gold and silver from one sides of the table to the other. Was it as easy as all this to obtain money?

Finally Denys took a deep breath. "Enough, Jonathan," he said, and began to stuff the coins into his purse. "Get some of this into your pockets. Half of it is yours."

"No," Jonathan shook his head and turned away. "That is money sinfully acquired. I want none of it."

The disapproval of the Puritan left no mark on Denys's animation. "Every man must view the world through his own eyes," he philosophized, as he cleared the table of his winnings.

THEY left the Golden Hind, walking the streets slowly as Denys, who knew Anne's habits, canned the possible places where the girl might be found. The tavern was three blocks behind before the Frenchman's corrugated brow cleared.

"She may have returned to the Castle Theatre," he remarked, hailing at a dim intersection of streets. "If so you she is trying to avoid, and she may have come back believing that I had got rid of you by this time."

"The theatre is just down the street at our right," said Jonathan. "Let us investigate."

Monsieur Denys caught young Hale's arm. "It would be better if I went alone, Jonathan. Hasten here, mon ami. I shall not be long."

He strode off into the gloom and rounded the corner of the street. Jonathan settled himself against the bricks of the building, reluctant, but aware that the Frenchman's counsel was good. He lingered at the possibility that a few minutes would find him facing a smiling Anne—

Jonathan shifted position. The presence of the bricks was cramping his shoulder muscles. What could be keeping Denys? His footsteps in the corner of the building to pass in the direction of the Castle Theatre. The playhouse was no more than a stone's throw away, invisible in the benighted dark.

Already Jonathan had been waiting a full half-hour—perhaps more. He became uneasy and then abruptly, in his mind. He could stand the doubt and inaction no longer.

Assurance From London

During Darkest Hours Big Ben Gave Message Of Hope

From Latin America comes a very welcome piece of news for the Empire. A leaderette in a recent issue of the Journal de Brasil (one of Brazil's most important national newspapers) written by Barbosa Lima Sobrinho, speaks of the anxious fear felt there for our fate following the fall of France. It contrasts the war news of the present time "of Allied victories everywhere, of Germany's difficulties inside Russia and of the strength of the Allied air force" with the "dreadful days of the blitz" in 1940.

"During the Luftwaffe's fierce raids," it says, "one's fear increased slightly that one might not be able to get the BBC But, without fail, there it was, as steadfast as England herself." One sees, the writer recalls, was anything but cheering; "Like Churchill, the BBC spoke only of blood, sweat and tears." But, he continues, it wasn't only the news they waited to hear. It was also things resounding, lingering strokes which chimed a message of hope and proved that something, at any rate, still stood firm, determined to fight the machiavellian German fury which was concentrated on the heroic rock that was Britain and the faithful Dominions."

The article concludes: "Little do you know, oh Londoners, how much you encouraged us in those hours of almost total darkness . . . Night after night when our spirits were at their lowest ebb, ready to bear any suffering or sacrifice except that of capitulation. And who gave us the assurance of that epic resistance? Big Ben, in the city of London, with your regular chimes echoing in homes throughout the world."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Alberta Women Wire Congratulations To Donald Gordon

More than 13,000 active officers of the Consumer Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, support the sentiments expressed by the Alberta Women's Regional Advisory Committee in a recent telegram to Donald Gordon.

Having worked to prevent an increased cost of living for almost two years now, the Committee pledged that continued co-operation as follows:

"The Alberta Women's Regional Advisory Committee representing 15,000 women affiliated with us through their organizations wishes to compliment you on your splendid work in the struggle against inflation. We realize that the going is tough and sometimes discouraging but urge that you fight on for the sake of our children and our fighting sons and husbands whose future depends on economic victory on the home front. Keep up the good work. We are with you."

Quite Impossible

Princess Elizabeth Cannot Be Given Title "Princess Of Wales"

Loyal town councillors in Pwllheli, Wales, have suggested that Princess Elizabeth should be given the title "Princess of Wales" in her own right. Unfortunately it is not possible.

Nominally the King can create the title, but in fact his actions are governed by strict traditions. One is that the title of Prince of Wales shall be held by the heir apparent to the throne and that his wife shall be Princess of Wales. While there is a possibility of the King having a son or a grandson, the title must be reserved.

Princess Elizabeth is not the heir apparent, but the heir presumptive. In the case of an heir apparent nobody else can step in between him and the throne. But it is different with a princess. She is presumed to be heir only in the absence of a royal son.

When Princess Elizabeth succeeded to the Throne she will be unique in one respect. No daughter has succeeded her father directly as far. Mary succeeded her brother, Edward VI. Elizabeth succeeded Mary. James succeeded William III, her brother-in-law, and Victoria succeeded William IV, her uncle.

AN IDEAL SCHOOL

Britain's ideal school for "no future boys" is established at Malvern House, where 300 pupils attending North Central school learn everything from reading and writing to farming and instruction about motor engines. There are no examinations, no punishments and no regulations.

CHAPTER V

If the average civilian worked half as hard at learning his trade as the boys in the army do at trying to be soldiers, one could bet your bottom dollar that this old world would be full of mighty well-trained fellows.

The other week we left Nevada Armories to really begin our Army training at the 121 Canadian Armoured Fighting Centre at Camrose.

This little town which is the home town to hundreds of soldiers is a nice, smooth layout while they learn the details of being soldiers in sure a hot spot various climates. Ice and flashy

IT MAKES YOU TOUGH

If anyone tells you this army life doesn't make you tough just run take it from me they don't know what they are talking about.

Take the toughening course they have here.

We took a spell on it the other morning and it's a pip. They had us jumping over high fences, taking a swing across a nice ditch of muddy water on a rope running up long and jumping over a pond, climbing up 20 foot ropes and finally mighty pretty spot and the camp is just as clean and spotless as a new pin.

"They had us jumping over high fences."

Quite a gang of us came up here from Calgary and our first sight of the camp was as we trudged up the hill from the town to the centre.

It was sure quite a sight and they have really done a swell job of building the ramps around the five buildings, usual school building which is the headquarters.

The huts are all in neat rows and each has a name of a battle in which the boys from Canada fought in the great Great War. I'm behind them some hours as Mons.

Right from the start they begin giving us plenty of army training and it is swell except for the mosquitoes which haunt this part of the country.

Some of the boys claim that the fellow caught hell for being out of time on parade the other night. I don't know if it hasn't really hit the fellow they claim he had taken the proper dressing when two of these mosquitoes grabbed him and lifted him a foot out of line just as the sergeant was looking his way.

The last tried to explain but the sergeant would have no part of it. He fell a couple of big stingers caught a hold of him and lifted him about a foot too.

Then the boys say, believe it or not, the sergeant apologized which I really something.

Caught on the stretch of fellow dig the other morning and got some answers for doing what the sergeant said was a right smart job.

They put us to whistle orders. I guess what's border the lawns and flower beds and I move right along. I say you of route. Wasn't until I came to the house where this fellow had dived down on the ranch we all lined up turn with the brush whitewash over the eyelids and the insides of the cabbe same manner I used to do after I was climbing a hay over a gruelly as we started to bound and in no time at all was at the top.

"The mosquitoes grabbed him and lifted him a foot out of line."

Just to make sure that we're in physical trim they also put us through a basketball sports events.

This sports program may be a things for some young fellow just out of school who's thin as a rail (well, athletes but not exhausted like me who would jump into the swells to go across the ...d) it's a little tough to start off with you're not to run climbing up ropes stretching 25 feet into the air.

The last was a cinch. I climbed of though after watching fellows in hand over hand up the rope in the training here — and it's just basic ten yards in 12 seconds and a mile in 5½ minutes, make a 16 foot broad jump, a 6 foot 6 inch high jump and how a few other such antics if you want to be tops with the sergeant.

I can do it now so I suppose I shouldn't complain. Then too, how in the devil are you going to be a fighting soldier if you're not in shape to clear a few obstacles.

There is one thing up here, though, at which I really shine and it sort of makes me pretty proud because despite what anyone may tell you, the officers are mighty proud of their boys and will give you a pat on the back if you're doing a good job.

The thing which I do okay is shooting and I just look forward to those periods on the indoor rifle range which adjoins the big drill hall here.

Seeing I handled a rifle quite a bit out on the ranch I ran better than hold my own at snap-shooting, rapid fire or anything else and the range echoes that if I keep it up they'll make me a sniper and I'll get all the action I crave

BOYS ARE LOOKED AFTER

One thing I can't get over is the way they look after the boys in the army in the off hours. Here, just like at Calgary, there's free shows and concerts and the like all the time and a fellow doesn't have to spend money at all to be entertained.

In fact out of my $1.30 a day I'm saving plenty and when I've got a few coming up why I'll be able to go down to the ranch and show the boys a few things.

If you want to get on a stretch of ground in which you can get in plenty of training just come up here and take turn over the course we have we learn the use and care of bayonet fighting.

It isn't a very long stretch, maybe a 100 yards, and when you first take a look at it you figure it'll be just duck soup. But Mister, don't be fooled.

After you've come straddling down the course be sure and out of ditches, parrying and thrusting at those dummies, you're quite willing to take a rest while another gang goes to work.

There's one thing certain by the time

YOUR BANKS are more extensively regulated than any other Canadian business.

Canada's ten Chartered Banks are subject, under the Bank Act, to the most thorough-going regulation. For instance:

The annual audit—conducted by Chartered Accountants appointed by the banks' shareholders—is submitted to the Department of Finance. The Department may call for further special audits, and in addition maintains regular inspections of the banks' affairs through the Inspector-General of Banks, who is obliged by law to examine the banks' books at least once each year.

Then there are monthly returns to both the Department of Finance and to the Bank of Canada. The Minister may also call for special returns at any time.

All this in addition to the Bank Act's extensive regulations covering such phases of banking operation as reserve requirements, types of transactions permitted, interest rates and note issue.

These regulations are for the purpose of safeguarding your savings and guiding the operations of the banks as an essential element of our national life.

Rental Changes In Effect Oct. 1st

OTTAWA.—Revised rental restrictions went into effect Friday across Canada in a move by the prices board to maintain the rentals ceiling but make easier the part of tenants and landlords in administration of the control system and "give greater certainty of position to each."

The changes were announced by the board last Aug. 13 but their application was delayed until Oct. 1.

Provided, among other things, is a regulation that six months' notice instead of a year's notice, will be required if landlords want to live in personal accommodation purchased by them since last Dec. 18.

Applications for increase in rent will be more generally limited to situations where the tenant is receiving more value for his rent than he did formerly.

Persons on a weekly tenancy or self-contained units are given the same protection as those on monthly or yearly tenancies. Roomers and boarders are brought under the price ceiling under a special section known as "shared accommodation".

The revised order provides for an increase of 10 percent in maximum rental if a tenant is sub-letting more than two rooms.

Tenants may be dispossessed for three reasons—personal occupancy by the landlord or members of his immediate family; a division of the accommodation so it will house more people; and what the prices board terms "obnoxious behavior" by tenants or their subtenants.

Eviction cannot take place in the winter in the case of a monthly lease.

At a recent Pembroke sale in Britain 20 registered stallions brought $904 apiece, 6 registered mares $1,625 each and 31 grade mares and geldings $721 each.

DEFINITION OF FARMER

OTTAWA. — So far as Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations governing the slaughtering of beef, pork, veal, lamb and mutton are concerned, a farmer is defined as "A person who derives the major part on of his livelihood from agricultural pursuits carried on by him on the farm."

Yugoslavia May Soon Become A Major Front

LONDON.—King Peter II of Yugoslavia, declared in Cairo, that he expects Allied troops to be fighting on Yugoslav soil soon while thousands of Yugoslav patriots fought German troops in their mountainous homeland in battles approaching the stature of a major front.

Conducting his first press conference at the new seat of his government in Cairo, King Peter acknowledged he might not be able to accompany the invasion waves, but said he was looking forward eagerly to seeing Belgrade again. The exiled government moved to Cairo recently from London.

Split, on Yugoslavia's Adriatic coast, the port of Susak, 175 miles to the south near Italian Fiume, and the area of Gurizia, about 25 miles above Italian Trieste, were cores of action involving many Nazi divisions.

The German high command indicated the scope of the military task by declaring that in current action in the Gurizia area since "Slovenian and Communist bands" had lost more than 1,000 killed and "several thousand prisoners." Nazi troops were reported to have been ordered to take no more prisoners.

The BBC said an Allied warship had taken arms to Yugoslav patriots along the Dalmatian coast.

In a communique broadcast by the Free Yugoslav station, heavy and indecisive fighting was reported about Split. It said patriot lines were holding strongly at Susak and that the Germans were suffering high casualties.

The Berlin radio told of bitter fighting in the Dolomite foothills between Venice and Trieste and said the entire area was "unsafe" for German troops. Nazi reinforcements were reported being rushed into the Dalmatian coastal sector to take some of the pressure off battered German troops who recaptured Split after 10 days of hard fighting.

All reliable information indicated that a weight of 25 or more German divisions would be taken off the Allies by this war in the Balkans.

To German efforts to classify Yugoslav troops as bandits and to let German orders that no more prisoners be taken, Milijan Gavrilovic, the Yugoslav embassy counsellor here, gave this reply:

"German war criminals must answer individually if they flout the rules of war and slaughter the prisoners of a duly constituted army."

In Cairo, King Peter said Bulgaria should "be punished and severely punished. They've attacked us three times in the last century."

He added, however, that he hoped the post-war Bulgaria could be brought into the Balkan confederation.

"Once you give them economic help so that they don't depend on outside influence I think they will be helpful," he said.

The present government, Peter said, is "only temporary until we return to Yugoslavia, when we will give the people a chance to choose their own government."

In a prepared statement he referred to Prime Minister Churchill as "one of the greatest men in history, of whom not only the British people are proud but also all of the United Nations."

DIZZY DIVE

Believed To Have Attained A Speed Of 840 Miles An Hour

A U.S. FIGHTER BASE, Somewhere in England.—Lieut. Robert H. Knapp of Norwich, N.Y., was believed to have achieved a speed of approximately 840 miles per hour in a dive during an airfight over Emden, Germany.

If true, then Knapp, pilot of a Thunderbolt fighter which helped escort heavy bombers on a raid on the German city, probably has gone faster than any human being ever has travelled before. Authorities did not explain how they arrived at the estimate of his speed.

The greatest speed previously officially recorded by the pilot of a fight. plane was that of Col. Caze Hough, also of the 8th air force fighter command, when he drew a Thunderbolt "more than 750 miles an hour," which is the speed of sound, in a be fight in England last spring.

Planning Next Blow At Germans In Italy

Already well on their way in Southern Italy, Canadian step at a formation headquarters to study a map and plan fastest routes northwards in pursuit of fleeing German troops. The Canucks and units of the Eighth Army were pressing forward faster whenever they joined up with Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army near Naples. This group includes L-Cpl. George Hay of Sussex, N.B., (seated); Capt. D. W. Turnbull of Toronto; Sgt. R. H. Sparrow of Westmount, Que.; and Capt. Bob Pybus of Westmount.

Bacon Quota For Britain Is To Be Filled

OTTAWA.—A competitive squeal of triumph came from the provinces as the federal agriculture department reported cheerfully an increase in hog marketings. Officials said that of all the tough food-production jobs Canada has undertaken in wartime none appeared more difficult than to provide the United Kingdom with 675,000,000 pounds of bacon this year.

The Canadian authorities decided there would have to be an increase of 25 per cent. over 1942 marketings.

There was hard sledding at first and at the end of August marketings were only five per cent. greater than in 1942 when the British quota was 600,000,000 pounds.

But—and their "but" had a note of triumph—officials invited inspection of figures for the month of August as ag augury of things to come.

In August, Saskatchewan farmers marketed 75 per cent. more hogs than in the same month last year. The Maritime provinces were higher by 33 per cent., Manitoba by 21 per cent., by 17 per cent., and Ontario by 10 per cent.

Marketings in Quebec were down three per cent. and in British Columbia 20 per cent., but the over-all gain shown by the provinces compared with August, 1942, was 21 per cent.

The August figures were particularly gratifying to the Canadian pig board—which handles purchases for the United Kingdom—because fall hog marketings usually are higher than in other periods. The August increase indicated that even better news might be expected in later months.

The contract dates almost coincide with the calendar year and later marketings will be applied on the 675,000,000-pound contract.

Because of this condition, officials said, it is possible most of the gove ment will achieve the production goals that seemed so remote when the contract period started.

Manitoba set itself an objective of a 25 per cent. increase in hog marketings over last year, and at the end of the first eight months actually was 27 per cent. ahead.

With an objective of an increase of 70 per cent. for the year, Saskatchewan was 26 per cent. ahead at the end of eight months.

PLANS BEING MADE

For Next-Of-Kin To Forward Messages To Repatriates

OTTAWA.—An external affairs department source said that arrangements for communicating with Canadians returning on the Swedish liner Gripsholm in an exchange of nationals between Canada and Japan now are being made.

He said next-of-kin of Canadian repatriates will be advised in due course by circular letter and through the press of the way in which they may send messages to the relatives in Canadian war orders and regulations concerned.

CROWN RIGHTS

OTTAWA. — The federal government has passed orders-in-council preserving to the crown in right of Canada all radio-active substances which may occur in minerals found in the Yukon and Northwest Territories. The orders were published in Canadian war orders and regulations.

Italy's Status In The War Is To Be Defined

LONDON.—A chance for at least a limited reprieve for Italy from the status of a defeated aggressor nation was seen here following disclosure that Italian ships and troops already are working in the British-American cause.

Thus far, it is understood here, Italy definitely has been classed as a defeated enemy, but there is concrete basis for the belief she will be given an opportunity to alter her status provided she collaborates fully with the Allies.

Whether Italy will be asked actually to declare war on Germany is a question that cannot be answered categorically in London, but such an act was believed possible.

Prime Minister Churchill said recently that Italy now was "working her passage," and he implied the Allies would determine her future position on the extent of her labors in the coming months.

The question was raised in the London press as to whether Italian troops and ships would be allowed to fight for themselves, and if so, whether Italy would be given a seat on the right side of the peace table. One answer is that smaller Italian ships, manned by their own crews, already are sailing in the direct service of the Allies.

It became known too that organized Italian troops actually are in service behind the lines of the Anglo-American 5th and Russian 8th Armies now pushing up the leg of the Italian boot, performing transport and other work in addition to sharing in sabotage and other such activities behind the German lines.

It seems here that the armistice terms will be interpreted in the light of the Italian collaboration against Germany, and if sufficient help is given, then some of the Italian "trespasses" will be forgiven.

GERMAN INDUSTRY

Has Been Destroyed in Many Cities By Allied Raids

LONDON. — The Anglo-American aerial offensive has knocked out the industrial capacities of 15 of Germany's leading cities, tied up manpower estimated at perhaps 2,000 000 and made heavy inroads on Germany's fighter plane strength on the Russian front, a survey showed.

Aerial reconnaissance and reports from Germany show that industry in at least 15 cities have been knocked out for at least six months Hanover and Mannheim are the latest cities listed as probably 60 per cent or more destroyed. Others include Hamburg, Cologne, Wilhelmshafen, Dortmund, Stettin, Osnabruck, Bremen, Duesseldorf and Emden. The heavy industry in the Ruhr has been virtually erased.

AT THE SWISS-ITALIAN FRONTIER.—Italian soldiers disarmed by the Germans have been deported to Germany where they have been added to labor ranks working for the Reich, it was disclosed. Official notification of this procedure, reported frequently since the Italian capitulation, was given by La Gazetta di Venezia.

Recruiting Plan For The Three Armed Forces

OTTAWA.—A co-operative recruiting program for Canada's three armed forces, placing top emphasis on air crew, was announced in a joint statement by the defence ministers, Defence Minister Ralston for the army, Air Minister Power and Navy Minister Macdonald.

Details of the navy's participation are still incomplete, but main points of the plan disclosed are:

1. All men fit for aircrew will have an opportunity to enlist in that capacity.

2. Those fit for overseas army service but without specialist qualifications for aircrew will be enlisted in the army.

3. Men fit for army overseas service in possessing specialist qualifications for aircrew will not be allowed to enlist for air force ground crew.

4. An "equitable exchange" of men will be made between the army and air force at recruiting centres.

5. Men discharged from the army in the recently announced reorganization of home forces will be given an opportunity to join the air force

6. Transfers on a controlled and voluntary basis will be made between the army and air force overseas

The announcement said all men who are fit to serve overseas in the army but who do not possess specialist qualifications for aircrew duties will be listed in the army, and that no men who are fit for overseas army service or who possess the specialist qualifications for aircrew will be permitted to enlist in the R.C.A.F. for ground duties.

Under the new plan, arrangements will be made for the equitable exchange of men between the army and air force at the recruiting centres. All general service (overseas) and National Resources Mobilization Act (home defence) recruits whose ages and abilities qualify them to make overseas in the army will be referred to an R.C.A.F. recruiting officer stationed in the centre for interview as possible aircrew.

If an applicant wishes to enlist in aircrew and is acceptable, he will be taken over by the air force, but if he prefers army service he will be returned to the army for allocation to the branch for which he is fitted.

Army recruits found unsuitable for overseas service will also be turned over to the R.C.A.F. recruiting officer, who will interview them as possible recruits for ground crew duties in the R.C.A.F., where ir ground crew trades physical qualifications are generally not so high as in the army.

NOT DIFFICULT

Future World Order Could Be Assured By Allied Nations

LONDON — Looking forward to the British-American-Russian tripartite conference of Foreign Ministers, Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, advocated proceeding "by practice rather than by long prior" in plans for a future world order.

Addressing a national conference of 6,000 women called by the government, Eden asked

"Given an agreement between the British Commonwealth, the Soviet Union, the United States and China, any schemes for regional organizations, security systems and so forth can be worked out without too great difficulty. . . ."

He declared that without some agreement between the four powers "not one of these projects" is likely to prove to be practical politics.

In opening the forthcoming conference Eden said:

"I hope that one task for that meeting will be to examine and to decide upon methods for joint consultation and joint action between us all in peace as well as in war."

Between the conference, "close and natural association" with the United States, Russia and China and the association of other nations as we France with the United Nations

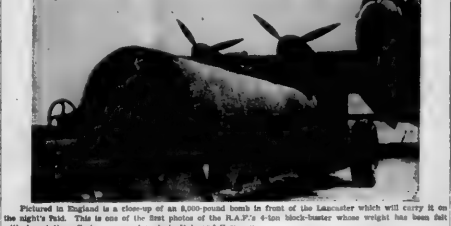
Good Neighbors Also Use Bar Harbor Naval Base



In time of peace the exclusive rendezvous of society and its yachting brethren, Bar Harbor, Me., now is the site of a U.S. navy base and is a favorite port of call for the men who keep the Atlantic sea lanes clear of enemy craft. Here you see Canadian sailors coming ashore on liberty. The warmest of good-fellowship exists between the American and Canadian patrols who use the base.

WINNIPEG.—At least one passenger of Trans-Canada Airlines appreciates the service he received. On a recent trip he wrote on a passenger's comment card the following remark: "His heels driving cases to the Turtle Mountains for wood 50 years ago. For travel it's got them all skinned."

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR THE MOTHER OF A BEGINNER

First: You shall not accompany your Johnny to school on his first day.

Second: You shall keep his dog at home for the day forward.

Third: You shall not frighten him with what the teacher will do to you if you misbehave. Let him find out for himself when the time comes.

Fourth: You shall choose your Johnny's friends and closely and continuously supervise throughout the year.

Fifth: You shall instruct your boy to be responsible for the organized during of coat, cap, rubbers and overshoes. This do and the teacher will bless you.

Sixth: You shall refrain from any criticism of the teacher in the presence of your Johnny.

Seventh: You shall acquaint your [illegible] teacher. If frequently with any family problems.

Eighth: You shall await the teacher's explanations before purchasing medicines or quite often prevent disappointment.

Ninth: You shall administer the soap and water at least twice a day.

Tenth: You shall see to it that your Johnny is physically fit for the year ahead of him. Look you to his eyes, ears, nose, teeth, his weight and rest but by no means least, his school daily attendance.

These things do and you will have a happy healthy child, who will be a joy to his teacher and the pride of his parents.

Next Door to the Theatre

We both like Apple Pie and Cheese!

● We of Canada and the United States are the world's outstanding example of "good neighbours".

We are unique in our understanding of one another, in our mutual confidence, in our fellowship.

And the things which make us good neighbours are as basic as our common liking for apple pie and cheese.

We speak the same language.
We enjoy the same jokes.
We sing the same songs.
We play the same games.
We work and worship to the same ends.

One of us flying the Union Jack, the other the Stars and Stripes, we both nourish deep in our hearts the same concept of freedom, the same human ideals. And we share an indomitable determination that no one shall ever take them from us.

Today our soldiers fight side by side in all parts of the world. And our citizens work shoulder to shoulder to supply them and support them in their grim task. We of The House of Seagram are proud that our great plants in Canada and the United States are manned by thousands of Canadians and thousands of Americans working together . . . engaged 100% in the production of high-proof Alcohol for War.

THE HOUSE OF SEAGRAM

Alcohol for War is used in the manufacture of Explosives, Synthetic Rubber, Drugs, Film, Lacquers and Varnishes, Navigation Instruments, Shatterproof Glass and many other products.

POSTMAN POPULAR

W. C. Nimin, the postman who delivers the mail to the C.W.A.C. barracks in Calgary, confessed that that's his favorite stop because of the eagerness of his customers. He's the most popular visitor there and he likes the job. "The beauty of mail is that it's always wanted," Postman Nimin explains. "A house may have a sign 'no bread today' or 'no milk today' but you never see the sign 'no mail today'." Certainly the C.W.A.C. girls will never hang it out.

BEAVER BUSINESS

Closed season for beaver has been declared all over the province, according Mr E. S. Hesetis, Fish and Game Commissioner for Alb'a. Where it can be proven that beaver are destroying property, however, a special permit from the local game warden may be obtained. This regulation, Mr. Hesetis pointed out, is a straight conservation measure. Not only is it designed to increase the beaver population, it will help to improve the water conditions here moisture is badly needed and it will also increase the fishing grounds by deepening the streams. In stressing the importance of this matter Mr Hesetis calls for the co-operation of people all over Alberta. He said that already there were more beaver in northern sections of the province than ever before.

FARM LABOR

Labor shortage in Alberta harvest fields is being relieved daily by the arrival of eastern harvesters who have finished their assignments in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. A large number has already arrived from districts where threshing is finished and more are en route from Saskatchewan this week. This is the latest report from Mr E. M. Luthan, Secretary of the Inter-ince Provincial Farm Labor Committee for Alberta. Harvesting is progressing well in the province he said and new arrivals would ease the work a final push to completion.

STITCH CLUB

The station of the University of Alberta, CKUA, begins its regular broadcasts this week. Music, news, school broadcasts, student presentation talks and plays, are all on the list as programs to be broadcast. "Farm and Home Forum" conducted jointly by members of the U. of A. Faculty of Agriculture and the Provincial Department of Agriculture will be heard on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 9 p.m. This program will also be broadcast over CFCN, Calgary.

ELSIE WINNER

Interest in the work of girls' clubs is most encouraging, Miss M.K. Fraser of the Women's Extension branch, Department of Agriculture, reported this week. Miss Fraser is supervisor of girls' club work and is now in southern Alberta giving lectures on various phases of home economics. "Right now interest centres in making dress," Miss Fraser stated. "Because of shortage of many materials, club members are being taught how to remake their clothes with a minimum of new materials. Various recipes from hints on how to be well groomed to home administration are covered by the clubs" she added.

POLIOMYELITIS

Only 10 cases of polio have been reported in Alberta this year, it was revealed today by Dr. A. Somerville, Director of Communicable Diseases for Alberta. This was well below the average for the last 10 years which, he stated was 70 cases per year. Dr. Somerville pointed out that the peak of a polio epidemic in Alberta was usually the last week in August and so he felt fairly safe in stating now ten cases were scattered over Alberta that there will not be many more for Somerville said, and have been cases in the province this year. A COINCIDENCE

Winnipeg interviewers who met Mrs. Guy Simonds, wife of the commander of the First Canadian Army in Italy, discovered a pictorial chapter interesting and coincidental. They learned that her grandfather, Lt. Col. John Barton Taylor was the first officer commanding Fort Garry horse Barracks, 58 years before their grandsons, his grandson-in-law, trained there

By H. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co., Ltd

Trading in Wheat Suspended

Trading in wheat on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange is suspended. Farm producers are to be given an initial payment on their wheat of $1.25 per bushel, basis No 1 Northern in store at Fort William. Participation certificates will be issued to cover the 1943-44 crop at [illegible] cents.

"This action has been taken at the time of the government "because of the unusual war circumstances surrounding the marketing of cereals" and it has become transportation difficulties have interfered with the normal functioning of the Winnipeg market.

If our farmers today, in receiving more than the official Wheat Board price of 70 cents it is only owing to the fact that the Winnipeg futures market has been functioning and has registered a gradual rising [illegible] 70 cents up to $1.23½.

As Mr Broomhall says of the world's greatest authorities on the wheat marketing, recently said "Canadian farmers will recognize that they are receiving a better price basis for their wheat mainly because the futures market is functioning.

If our farmers are quite right as soon as the war is over the question is what trading will be like? Is the futures market going to function in the old way or will it be one of the past to register what prices will be to assist in the sale and distribution of the [illegible] crops of the world

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

Recent rains and frosts are reported causing some damage to both quantity and quality of [illegible] wheat crop. Progress of the New Australian wheat crop has been up favorable owing to [illegible] moisture. The Toronto Globe [illegible] reports that all crops [illegible] substantial reductions in the wheat crop plus of the major exporting countries a year from now.

Weather conditions in the Argentine are favorable and [illegible] are reports [illegible] progress. Harvesting of small grains is practically complete throughout the U.S.A. and threshing is now well under way. Greece has received 6,000,000 bushels of gift wheat from Canada since shipments started a year ago

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Dr. Augusta Stowe-Gullen, the first woman to take a medical degree at a Canadian university, died recently in Toronto.

Direct telephone service has been established between New York and Moscow. The cost of a call is on the basis of $21 for three minutes.

Britain's School Milk scheme, introduced in 1934, now provides milk daily for about 3,500,000 school children in England and Wales and 438,-380 school children in Scotland.

Sweden's merchant marine lost 232 vessels, amounting to 377,000 gross tons, from the beginning of the war until the end of August, the American Swedish News Exchange announced.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics says that during June and July applications for benefit payments under the unemployment insurance scheme numbered 1,772 and 1,067 respectively.

Britain has presented a further 150 valuable books to the Benedictines in Spain to help to rebuild the famous library in the Abbey at Monserrat, damaged during the Spanish civil war.

A voluntary organization, the Poor Man's Valuer Association, has been set up in London, to give free advice on the war damage act. A similar organization, the Poor Man's Lawyer's Association, is run by the Law Society.

Although all unnecessary motor traffic has been abolished, more people are being killed on Britain's roads than in peacetime, the ministry of transport said in an appeal to the public to form "habits o Dance and courteous road behavior."

Invasion Barges Latest "High And Wide" Rail Loads

The problem of the transportation by rail of huge single-unit materials needed for Canada's war effort has presented a challenge which has been met and mastered by the ingenuity of Canadian railwaymen. These "oversize" shipments are moving daily over rail lines in all sections of the Dominion. To railwaymen they are known as "high and wide" loads. They require special care and skill in loading and many of them also necessitate special operating arrangements. The Canadian National Railways recently handled what is said to be the largest single-unit freight shipment ever carried by a railway on this continent. This was a 150-ton tank loaded on three flat cars which was transported from Montreal to the Government's new synthetic rubber plant at Sarnia. The latest "high and wide" loads carried by the Canadian National are invasion barges, now forming such an essential part of the forces. Other unusual loads illustrated in the drawings are: 1. An army laundry unit. 2. A 60-foot tug built at Owen Sound and shipped by C.N.R. to the seaboard. 3. A huge propeller en route to a shipbuilding plant. 4. A marine boiler which required a specially equipped car and fixtures to prevent rolling. 5. The big tank loaded on three flat cars for the record trip.

Hospital For Palestine

Fully Equipped And Up-To-Date In Every Particular

The British medical journal Lancet reports that the best American hospital in the Middle East has arrived in Palestine from Eritrea.

The hospital is staffed by 24 specialists, three dentists and a full complement of nurses. With 1,000 beds, it will probably be the biggest hospital in Palestine.

The hospital occupies 30 four-ward buildings grouped around a hill, with adjoining administrative, surgical, laryngological, physiotherapy and X-ray departments and a laboratory. It will have its own water supply and laundry.

Teaching Christianity

Youth Must Be Taught To Further Christian Civilization

Youth must be taught and trained to further the Christian civilization we are fighting to retain as a heritage for them.

It should be remembered, too, that the first line of defence of civilization is education. And if it is Christian civilization that we seek to preserve, advance and expand, then, surely, it is obligatory that Christian teaching as set forth in the Scriptures must have a prominent and permanent place in the curriculum of the public schools.

Canadian Attended Celebration Of Oak-Apple Day At Chelsea Hospital

An average of 10,000 questions a month are asked at the Y.M.C.A. Enquiry Bureau at Waterloo Station, London, but the strangest of all was asked recently by a Canadian, who complained if "Oak-Apple Day" was still observed at Chelsea Hospital. "Oak-Apple Day" celebrates the escape of Charles II at Boscobel, in the Civil War, when the King escaped capture by hiding in an oak tree. The Royal Hospital, Chelsea, was built by Wren and founded by Nell Gwynne. The Y.M.C.A. worker not only answered that the celebration was still held, but obtained a ticket for the Canadian to attend.

WORLD'S TOUGHEST WOOD

Before the war India used to import large quantities of foreign tool handles. Now, as a result of experiments carried out at the Forest Research Institute at Dehra Dun they have discovered a tree with what is considered to be the world's toughest wood, ideal for heavy striking handles. It belongs to the Adenanthera family. Another member of the same family yields a handle wood equal in strength to our hickory.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 10

REVERENCE FOR GOD

Golden text: God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship in spirit and truth. John 4:24.
Lesson: Exodus 20:3-7; Matthew 6:10; 6:9; John 4:23, 24.
Devotional Reading: John 4:31-38.

Explanations and Comments

God Spoke All These Words. Exodus 20:1, 2. Our word "decalogue" used for the Ten Commandments, is from two Greek words deka, ten, and logos, word. God spake all these words, saying. I am Jehovah thy God, who brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. The appeal to history is a promise for the future: what Jehovah has been to their forefathers that he will be to those who enter into covenant with him to keep his commandments.

The First Three Commandments: Worship and Reverence God. Exodus 20:3-7. When these laws were promulgated, the world was given over to the worship of many gods. The First Commandment forbids polytheism, the worship of false gods: Thou shalt have no other gods before me. No other gods are to be preferred to Jehovah nor are any others to be worshipped as well as he. The Spanish translation for "before me" is delante de mi, in my presence, and some one has beautifully said: "I always see the sun rising, and still the shadows of the night fleeing before his face. It is as if he said, Before my face, in the light of my revelation, how can your dream that other gods exist?"

What a man loves, that is his god, Luther reminds us. We cannot serve God and mammon.

The Second Commandment forbids image worship, the making of images as objects of worship. You shall not carve any idols for yourselves, the shape of anything in heaven above, etc. (Moffatt). The earth was thought of as the home for fair and smiling upon a large abyss of water, and therefore the commandment reads, "any likeness that is in the water under the earth."

We are not tempted to worship the image of a bull as did the Israelites of old, but how does our worship of mammon, of rank, of power? The deification of demonic, brute force is rampant in the world today.

May Double Luck

Eight-Leaf Clover Was Found By Woman In British Columbia

Mrs. Edward Hood of Kettle Valley, B.C., is in a delightful quandary right now. She wants to know this: If a four-leaf clover brings luck, does an eight-leaf clover carry a double share of it? For she's just found such a phenomenon, and wonders if this is the first time it has happened in Canada or anywhere. The unique find, a large and fully developed eight-leaved clover, was picked in the Nicholson Creek district, in the interior of B.C., and has been a source of interest to the entire region.

A Good Farmer

King George Has Set Example Of Service To Community

King George is always ready to share the burdens of his subjects and to set an example of service to his community.

Among many other activities, the King is a No. 1 farmer. Friends Once Thought Marriage Of Mrs. Churchill Was Mistake

Writing in "Toronto Saturday Night," Margaret Aitken recalls that when Clementine Hosier married a young man named Winston Spencer Churchill, family friends thought she was not doing too well for herself. Daughter of a prominent army man and granddaughter of the seventh Earl of Airlie, beautiful Clementine was said to be throwing herself away on a young man of no wealth who was in the political doghouse. His was bumptious, arrogant and had ruined his chances for political advancement, the local gossips declared. But Miss Hosier married Mr. Churchill in 1908 and many times since then she has watched her husband's political fortunes ebb and wane and flow again to the highest of all political positions.

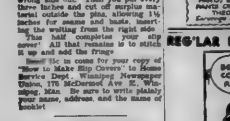
HOME SERVICE

FASHION YOUR HOME WITH BRIGHT NEW SLIP COVERS



Smart Slip Cover

That faded Cinderella of your cabins may become a queen overnight. For today you can get a colorful slip cover material and tomorrow you can handle said fabric.

It's as simple as that to make such a smart slip cover.

Working the pin-on way, remove the chair cushion and smooth your seven from the inside-back and seat. Leave a four-inch inch in between. For welted seams, work with fabric wrong side out. Then you pin over these inches and cut off surplus material outside the pins, allowing 1½ inches for seams and hems. Insert ing the welting from the right side.

The half completed your slip cover! All that remains is to stitch it up and add the fringe.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "How to Make Slip Covers" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 176 McDermot Ave E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

TOM FIFTEEN CENTS

Leroy R. Cortell of Los Angeles bought a battered satchel six months ago from a pawnshop who said he needed 15 cents for coffee and doughnuts. Cortell, cleaning the bag before gambling it to a friend for 25 cents, felt something beneath the lining. It was three neatly folded bills, amounting to $60.

Local Ration Boards Praised

OTTAWA.—Praising the work of 500 local ration boards in Canada, their personnel and volunteer workers who distributed over 11,000,000 ration books in four days in the Dominion, Chairman Donald Gordon, Wartime Prices and Trade Board wrote each board chairman stating, "It was a splendid job of community organization and you are to be congratulated on it. I know that you are indebted greatly—as we all are—to the volunteers who assisted in this work. Their help, too, was gladly given as a national service . . . let me thank you on behalf of the whole Board for undertaking such a tremendous job and making such a splendid success of it."

Judicial Sale of Farm Property by Tender

Pursuant to the order for sale and directions of the Honourable Mr. Justice O'Connor sealed tenders will be received for the purchase of North West ¼, Sec. 12, Twp. 53, Rge. 6, W. 4th Mer., in the Province of Alberta, containing 158.12 acres.

The above property is located 14½ miles from Clandonald and is 3½ miles from the nearest school. Around 80 acres are cultivated and around 50 acres more could be broken. The soil is gray sandy loam with a subsoil of clay. One mile of the land is fenced.

The property will be offered for sale at an upset price of $2500.00, the purchaser assuming all current taxes. Tenders must be enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Re: British Dominions vs. Nick Pahluk No. 7247" addressed to E. J. Wallace, Esq., K.C., Clerk of the Supreme Court Court House, Edmonton, Alberta, and must be in the hands of the said E. J. Wallace not later than four o'clock in the afternoon on the 20th day in October 1943.

TERMS OF SALE: Each tender shall be accompanied by a marked cheque or cash for 10% of the amount of the tender and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid (unless the time is extended by Order of the Court within 30 days after acceptance of the tender without interest.

The deposit of 10% shall be forfeited by the successful tenderer if he refuses to carry out the purchase after acceptance of his tender. Cheques of unsuccessful tenderers shall be returned to them immediately after rejection of tenders.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale of the Supreme Court of Alberta, so far as same are applicable.

For further particulars apply to Field, Hyndman & McLean, Barristers, 216 McLeod Building, Edmonton, Alberta.

DATED at Edmonton, this 15th day of July, 1943.

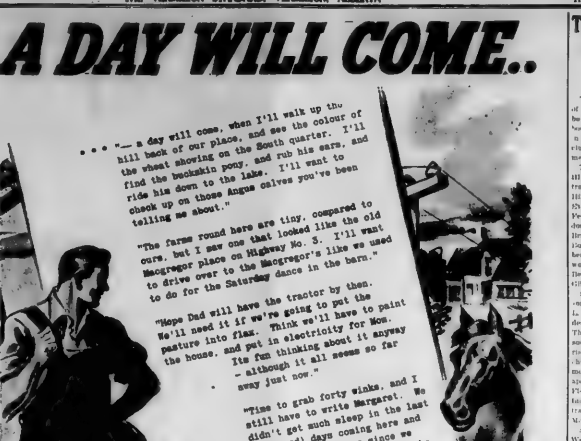
A DAY WILL COME..



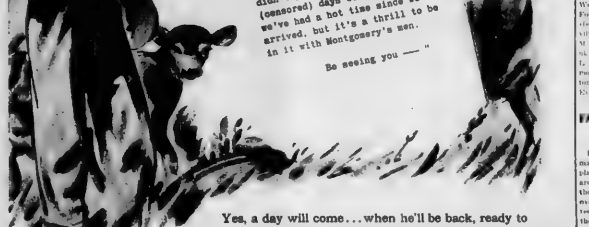
"... A day will come, when I'll walk up the hill back of our place, and see the colour of the wheat showing on the south quarter. I'll find the buckskin pony, and ride him down to the lake. I'll want to ride him down to the lake. I'll want to shock up on those Angus calves you've been telling me about."

"The farms round here are tiny, compared to ours, but I saw one that looked like the old Macgregor place on Highway No. 3. I'll want to drive over to the Macgregor's like we used to do for the Saturday dance in the barn."

"Hope Dad will have the tractor by then. He'll need it if we're going to put the pasture into flax. Think we'll have to paint the house, and put in electricity for Mom. Its fun thinking about it anyway — although it all seems so far away just now."

"Time to grab forty winks, and I still have to write Margaret. He didn't get much sleep in the last (censored) days coming here and we've had a hot time since we arrived, but it's a thrill to be in it with Montgomery's men.

Be seeing you — "



WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the face value of the Bond on the date of maturity with half-yearly interest until that time. A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada backed by the entire resources of the Dominion. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest when due. A Victory Bond is an asset readily marketable at any time.

Yes, a day will come . . . when he'll be back, ready to take his place in a Canada he helped make safe for all of us. To speed that day is in our power. We at home . . . in factories, in offices, on farms . . . work long hours to hurry it along. We go without, and lend our savings to provide what he needs to win quickly. This is the least that anyone can do. And when that day comes — you will want to welcome him — and to help him make his hopes come true.

To speed Victory, plan to buy as many Victory Bonds as you can.

THE LANE

(This is a true incident)

Much has been said and written about higher pages; about more money being spent, and about the general upswing in the direction of wartime spending. It seems all the more incredible, therefore, that in a large Canadian city today there can exist abject poverty to the extent that one family, at least, has been living in circumstances which a dog would find unfit.

Tucked in behind a busy thoroughfare is one of Toronto's poorer sections, there is a lane, like hundreds of city lanes everywhere, which backs onto the yards and clearing for warehouses and factories. Along the lane come delivery trucks, horse-drawn vehicles and junk wagons and one side of the lane stands high—crack-ridden fences interspersed with broken down gates, and on the other the crumbling plaster walls of the dreary dwellings of the poor.

A baby, only able to crawl, sits amid the filth, his tiny hands delving into the rubbish for bits of things his imagination can make into toys. Kitchen garbage is crammed into receptacles outside by the cook at the door, and the baby plays with the flyscovered bits and then puts his hand into his mouth. Evidence of the presence of horses and dogs lies about, and the air is laden with the odor of sour and grime mingled with that of human beings, all crowded much too close together.

In the one family we are remotely with, there are five children all under nine years of age. The mother is expecting another baby from day to day. When the Salvation Army officer of the district discovered this family, they were living in two empty rooms. The harassed mother had battled long against tragedy and was well-nigh overcome with discouragement. The task to curtail it looked hopeless almost more than any struggle could be. Some of the children were ... [illegible] ... ing a bed, or bread ... [illegible] ... ing on the floor for ... [illegible] ... FARM EMPLOYEES NEED RATION BOOKS

EDMONTON.—Farm employees remaining two weeks or longer at any place where they accept employment are reminded by ration officials that they must turn their ration books over to the boss-holder in order to receive second consumer's quota for the time they obtain meals at that home.

The ruling whereby farmers were thus obtain supplementary rations through application to local ration boards applies only for transients labor such as harvesters, employed for a few days at a time says Mr McKee.

Registration of Beekeepers

There has been a tremendous increase in the number of beekeepers in Alberta this year. There were about four hundred in 1942 and 800 in 1943.

For the purpose of conducting a proper inspection of beehives all bee keepers are required to register annually with the Agriculture ... Department of Agriculture. Registration notices are being sent out to all those who are on record as keeping bees. Beekeepers who received no register prompts in order that the latest service provided ... [illegible] ... be continued, for instance the special sugar permits ... issued to beekeepers requiring sugar for bee feed will not be available to unregistered beekeepers. Anyone keeping bees who does not receive an application for registration form should apply to the above mentioned department at once.

Post-War Plans

EXPERIENCE HAS SHOWN that many of the ills which in the past have befallen this country and the world at large, have been the result of our failure to foresee certain eventualities, and to plan for them. Canada, in common with many other nations has had the misfortune to experience two wars, and a depression of unprecedented proportions, within the last twenty years. The many and complex problems which have arisen, during those two decades have been met and solved, some more successfully than others, and we have gained much from them in the way of experience. As a result of this, there has been a united opinion among the people of Canada in favor of a plan for dealing with the inevitable difficulties of the post-war period, and especially in regard to providing for those who will be discharged from the services in looking back over events which followed the first world war, it has been realized that many of the problems which developed then, could be avoided a second time. With this purpose in view, a great deal of study has been devoted to plans for Post-War Reconstruction in Canada.

• • • • •

Employment is Major Problem

There has been considerable interest shown in other countries in Canada's plans for dealing with post-war problems and outside observers have declared that the Dominion is far in advance of any of the other United Nations in this respect. This appears to be especially true in connection with the plan for the demobilization and rehabilitation of the men and women of the armed services, and much interest has been shown abroad in the results of the studies of this problem which have been made here. A report on this subject was made recently by Mr. Walter S. Woods, Associate Deputy Minister of National Health. Mr. Woods stated that "a job is the answer for everyone concerned in the rehabilitation problem," and he outlined the many provisions which are being planned, in the hope of avoiding a serious unemployment problem here after the war. Among many other things, there is under consideration a scheme of "retarded demobilization" to avoid a bottle-neck in labor, and there is also a plan for a "demobilization furlough" for service men, during which they might make arrangements for their return to civilian life.

Help Planned is Practical

The help planned for those leaving the services appears practical and is designed to give them economic independence as quickly as possible. At the same time, a maintenance allowance is to be given for a reasonable period after demobilization, to avoid unnecessary hardship during the period. For example, those who enter farming or business are to be given a living allowance until the returns of their enterprise are adequate for their needs. Education also bears given an important place in these post-war plans, and those who have served, to continue interrupted university courses, or for those who are qualified, to attend universities for a period equal to their term of service. It will also be possible for the demobilized men and women to learn new trades or to take refresher courses in those already acquired. These progressive plans are an encouraging sign that the people of Canada are taking an interest in the future, and of our determination to bring about improved social and economic conditions in this country after the war.

U.S. Navy in Peace

No More Talk Of Disarmament After The War

Maintenance by this country of such a navy as we shall have at the end of the war means that any post-war agreements to which we are a party can be enforced.

The fact that such a force exists under control of a people willing to use it, not to make war but to preserve peace, can become the stabilizing force the world needs during the reconstruction period and afterward. We shall have this force, we will have made our sacrifices to obtain it; no other power need fear it; no other power need strive to match it unless that power is motivated by evil ambitions.

We experimented once with the noble philosophy of post-war disarmament. We took the lead in that experiment. We know how it turned out. We should not make that mistake again.—Chicago Daily News

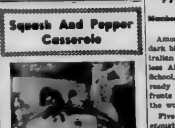
Squash And Pepper Casserole



Planning an even meal? Then try squash or marrow, baked in a casserole with slivers of green pepper for a new way to serve an old favourite.

Peel and cut marrow or squash into half inch slices. Cut green pepper into thin rings. Arrange in layers in a greased casserole sprinkling each layer with salt, pepper and a little onion salt. Top with bread crumbs, dot with butter or other fat, cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., about 35 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking for about 15 minutes longer or until crumbs are brown and vegetables tender.

From Down Under

Members Of Australian Air Force at Home Again

Among the boys who wear the dark blue uniform of the Royal Australian Air Force in training as Wireless Air Gunners at No. 3 R.A.A.F. Wireless School, Winnipeg, are many who already are veterans of this war on fronts that stretch half-way around the world.

Five months in Tobruk was not enough for LAC Lawrence Darnell of Parramatta, N.S.W., and now he is working to join those fliers who helped "write the name Australia" "Desert Fox" from the North African shores. LAC Bob Lyons of Bonegilla Victoria, LAC Darnell's junior division and touch out another from Tobruk before he joined the R.A.A.F.

Action in the Syrian campaign after knocking around other parts of the Middle East was experienced by LAC H. Holmes of Thornleigh, Victoria and on a more distant front was LAC Bill John of Barraba, N.S.W., who battled at Milne Bay and Port Moresby, New Guinea.

LAC Arthur Dyke of Port Pirie, S.A., has no fear of battle in the air because it was by air that he escaped from Singapore four days before the Japs invaded that island. Later he saw service in Burma and Ceylon. Many more of the boys have served at Darwin, the far northern Australian port, first to be bombed by the Japs.

The Royal Eagle

Paddle-Steamer, Once A Pioneer Boat Has Enviable War Record

An impressive war record has been chalked up by the Royal Eagle, a paddle steamer which used to carry holiday Londoners from Tower Bridge to the sands of Southend, Margate and Ramsgate, says "Britain". It has been in action against aircraft but has been duel-proof at least two enemy planes and has saved 34 lives at sea. This does not include 30 part in Dunkirk when it made three crossings, was dive-bombed 65 times and brought home three thousand troops. The crew have won two Distinguished Service Crosses, four Distinguished Service Medals and 16 mentions in dispatches.

Parachute Battalion

Dare-Devils Are Not Desired, Says The Training School Head

Lt.-Col. S. F. Routh

Shilo, Man.—The "dare-devil type" does not make the ideal paratrooper, Lieut.-Col. S. F. Routh, 39-year-old commander of the Canadian Parachute Training School said here recently as new men arrived in camp to start their training in the most spectacular of the military arms.

"We try to keep away from that type as much as possible," said Col. Routh. "In the steady, fairly intelligent fellow you usually find us."

Volunteers for paratroop units are now being sought in army centres throughout Canada. Requirements call for soldiers who have completed their basic training, who possess a high degree of mental and physical stability, and who can pass the necessarily stiff medical examination.

Officers, N.C.O.'s and men were included in the latest groups to arrive. Nearly all provinces were represented, with the largest quotas from Ontario, Quebec and the four Western provinces.

The men on arriving sewed up the prized "airborne" flashes, and will receive the coveted wings of the Canadian paratrooper after a few weeks of training and several jumps have been successfully completed.

Col. Routh stated that the first few weeks of instruction produce a "casualty jumper, that is a man who knows how to jump safely without injury to himself or others. "He is a parachutist, but not a paratrooper," he pointed out. Several more weeks of instruction in tactics and weapons follows the initial training in parachute training, he said. Only when a man has completed the full course can he be termed a paratrooper.

Anxious To Fly

Young American Who Completed Training With The Royal Canadian Air Force

This is the story of a young American, Vernon Harry of Los Angeles, California, who was so anxious to fly with the Royal Canadian Air Force, that he spent several months in the Las Vegas desert of Nevada to bring his health up to strength standard. He graduated the other day as a full-fledged sergeant air gunner from No. 3 Bombing and Gunnery School, Macdonald, Man.

A former camera man in Hollywood, Sgt. Harry joined the R.C.A.F. early in 1941 but because he was medically unfit for aircrew he asked for his discharge. He went home to St. Ry. He regained his health in the Nevada deserts and returned to Canada in January, 1943 to enlist as an air gunner.

Shortly before he graduated Sgt. Harry married AWI B. A. Harry of 32 Riverdale Ave., Toronto, a clerk at No. 3 Bombing and Gunnery School, R.C.A.F., Macdonald, Man. AWI Harry phoned the air gunner's family and their husband. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Whitfield live at 22 Hillsdale Ave., Toronto.

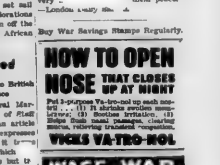
It is now possible to abstract light reflections from glass and other surfaces. The discovery now is utilized for war purposes.



NO MORE "DOSING" MY CONSTIPATION —I'VE CORRECTED THE CAUSE!

"Regularity" is important any time, but it's vitally important in these busy war days when all of us are working harder than ever. Don't you be "slowed down" by that nervous type of constipation due to "auto-intoxication" from faulty elimination. Get KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN . . . granddaughter of a cereal so famous for its results . . . eat it every day . . . drink plenty of water . . . then see if you don't forget you ever had any constipation. VICTORY
HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA
FOOD FOR HEALTH — NOT ILLNESS

These days when we have rationing and some food shortages, left-over foods take on new importance. If they are not handled properly in the kitchen they may become harmful instead of beneficial to us.

Food may become the cause of illness when kept at the temperature of an ordinary kitchen for five hours. This is not what is commonly said of uncooked cooked plumaine poison but it is the way bacteria are caused by bacteria. You can not always tell whether the food is harmful by appearance or odor as there may be no apparent change. The bacteria may be produced in fresh food and once formed no subsequent cooking will make the food safe to eat.

Foods that are likely to spoil when refrigeration is not available are meat, milk, eggs and products made with these foods, such as cottage cheese, cream pies or custards.

You may avoid food poisoning by remembering and practicing these few simple rules:

Store perishable foods at a temperature of 40 degrees F. Do not leave food in the kitchen for any length of time without refrigeration.

Warm food or frozen food that has been defrosted should not be wrapped in wax paper when put in the refrigerator. The paper holds the heat inside the food long enough for the bacteria to grow.

Remember that poultry, ham, tongue, cottage cheese, hollandaise sauce and cream filled baked goods are particularly subject to the growth of bacteria. You must be sure they have been refrigerated before you buy them and if they are served as left-ovs keep them refrigerated.

We must not think because the hot weather has ended there is no more danger of food poisoning. Every year hundreds of people in private homes suffer from little food poisoning disasters. Don't let this happen in your home.

Interesting Relic

May Be Connected With Landing In Newfoundland 300 Years Ago

A battered lead cylinder that may be a relic of Sir Humphrey Gilbert's landing in Newfoundland 380 years ago has been found beneath four feet of silt at Shuli's Harbor Cove while workmen were excavating for a construction project.

Authorities have noticed that the cylinder, adorned with an odd crest, may have been a mark erected by the explorer in 1583 when he took possession of Newfoundland for Britain.

History says Gilbert raised the banner of England near the present site of St. Johns, and a tender crest with the royal arms was attached to a wooden pillar near the water's edge, two inches thick has been battered flat in the course of time.

There is nothing to indicate that connection with Sir Humphrey Gilbert, but it is being sent to the College de Lis in London for examination.

(Sir Humphrey Gilbert founded the first English settlement in North America at St. John's on Aug. 5, 1783. Shortly afterward he set sail southward for further explorations but was lost with all his men off the Azores Islands near the African coast.

Was Unprepared

United States Grew Much To British And Russian Resistance

Commenting upon General Marshall's report as U.S. Chief of Staff to the New York Nation, in an article headed Our Good Luck," expresses its astonishment at what it terms the lackadaisical attitude which "enabled not merely business but the whole country" towards the production of war material between June, 1940, and December, 1941.

Anyone," it says, "who reads the Marshall report will see how much we owe to British and Russian resistance. Had both or either crumpled, we should have faced a long and disastrous war on our own soil." Such a war would, of course, have extended to our own soil. There is, therefore, some satisfaction in recalling that during that period Canadian production of war material did the Canadian contribution to British resistance was increasingly substantial. We thus lent an effective hand to the defence of North, America.—Winnipeg Free Press.

British Achievements

Something People Should Be Proud Of Says Viscount Bennett

Viscount Bennett, speaking in Chelsea town hall, recently said that sometimes British people lacked a sense of pride in their achievements.

"I have been very surprised sometimes," he said, "to hear observations decrying the British Empire, and slighting British people and their works.

"Think what a world we would have but for you.

"Civilization long since would have perished. The British and its peoples have saved Christian civilization for us.

"When I hear people speak slightingly of the Empire you have built, I feel pity and contempt for them. We accept those things as something which is our due, but we do not think of the cost of them.

"The long history of mankind there has never been a better record of government of peoples than that of the British Empire.

"The British Empire gives people an opportunity to look into the future and people should always remember that the United States was founded by the British.

"Of all achievements of Empire none ranks greater than India, where it has given powers millions and for very . . . them peace."

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

After seven weeks holidaying at the Pacific Coast, here we are again. In answer to inquiries as to how we enjoyed ourselves—we had a glorious holiday. Leaving Vermilion on Monday morning's train July 19th, we arrived in Edmonton about 9 a.m. and spent the day there. On Tuesday, 20th, we left Edmonton about 10 a.m. and arrived at Edson at 1 p.m., where we spent two days with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pawlier and family. Continuing on our way we left Edson Thursday afternoon and really enjoyed travelling through the mountains. Fortunately this part of the trip was undertaken at night but now the change from prairie to mountain country can be seen in daylight and makes for interesting travel.

Early Friday morning we passed dairy farms, chicken ranches, fruit orchards and hay meadows and small fields of oats in and around Chilliwack, Langley and Cloverdale. We arrived in Vancouver at 10.30 a.m. July 23rd and stayed there for nine days visiting relatives and friends, amongst them being Mr. and Mrs. R. Wilson Taylor, formerly of Vermilion, Mrs. Jack Wilson (nee Betty Taylor), and Mrs. and Mrs. Bill Taylor, Mrs. L. Willes and daughter Margaret.

Vancouver is a very busy city. We visited Stanley Park and Hastings Park at which latter place the Pacific Dipper is situated. The valuable and most interesting articles in the Museum have been stored for safe keeping in case of air-raids.

On Saturday, July 31st, Walter Thompson came to Vancouver from Nanaimo and we went back with him to Nanaimo, Aug. 1. Leaving Vancouver at 2 p.m. the "Princess Elaine" boat pr had a very enjoyable 2½ hours trip by sea to Nanaimo. On the boat, 100 a party of six or us left Nanaimo by car through to the island to spend three wonderful days at Forbes Landing hotel on Cowichan Lake. This is about 12¼ miles from Nanaimo. At Campbell-town the bus is met by a taxi to take passengers to the hotel. We arrived about 7 p.m. and after having dinner we were initiated into the art of rowing a boat! On the following morning a picnic lunch was packed for us by the hotel and we spent the day boating on the lake, fishing and swimming. We managed to catch nine fish (lake trout) and enjoyed fish for breakfast the next morning.

On Thursday morning we left by taxi for Elk Falls, about five miles from the hotel and here we picnicked all day. This is a wonderful beauty spot. The falls are on the Campbell river and are very high. Picnic tables have been carved in large tree stumps and there are steps leading down to a platform over the falls. Spray rises high above the huge trees on the rim of the falls and in the afternoon sunlight there are many beautiful rainbows on the walls of the rocky cavern into which the water falls. The roar of the falls is quite deafening when one is close.

We returned to the hotel and after dinner that night some of us went for a walk and over eight miles on logging road behind the hotel. We returned to Nanaimo on Aug. 12th and spent two days with Jack Jones, visiting relatives, boating, picnicking on nearby islands. On Saturday, Aug. 14th we returned to Vancouver and on Tuesday 21st we visited the harbor ferry at New Westminster. Friends felt so sorry to hear that Mrs. Robinson was bereaved by the death of her mother on Aug. 11 at Tompkins, Sask. Mrs. robberg had been visiting there, arriving just two days before her mother passed away and she returned to New Westminster on Aug. 20th. Mr. Solberg is quite improved in health and Freddie and Shirley are now quite big. We left Vancouver on Wednesday, Sept. 1 at 7.15 p.m. and arrived in Edmonton the following night about 8. We spent Friday in Edmonton, arriving home early Saturday morning, Sept. 4th.

Mrs. Randolph Hutchinson and Mrs. Ferguson were visitors to Edmonton three weeks ago. Mrs. Ferguson left for Vancouver

Mrs. Ferguson, Charlotte, Flynn and Lawrence left on Monday, Sept. 13 for Vancouver, where they plan to make their future home. Howard left on the following morning to take his basic training in Edmonton. He spent Sunday 26th visiting his father here.

Threshing machines are very busy throughout the country now. We have had ideal harvesting weather though the high winds hampered us slightly. It is to be hoped that the present good threshing weather will hold for an other two weeks or so when most folks will be finished. We expect to end the first hard frost of the fall on Saturday 18th when potato tops were really blackened

Miss Edna Hutchinson is the new teacher at Ottawa school while Miss Cassel is returning to Chatsworth

Louis Mix of Edmonton was a recent visitor at Mr and Mrs. Ben Mix's.

RUSTYLVIA LADY FETED ON EVE OF DEPARTURE

Mrs. Lee Crosby who is shortly leaving to make her home in Victoria with her daughter, was guest of honor at a reception held at the home of Mrs. George White where she has been visiting for the past week. A happy gathering of ladies was present and the afternoon was enjoyably spent in games and contests. A farewell address to Mrs. Crosby who has been a resident of the Rustylvia district for the past thirty-five years was read by Mrs. Linville, and a presentation made of a beautiful electric iron and pencil set. Mrs. Crosby replied very suitably to the address and presentation.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess after which best wishes were extended to Mrs. Crosby for a happy years in her new home. All left with a feeling that a happy afternoon had been spent with an old and valued friend.

RED SHIELD NOTES

Following the White Elephant sale which was held last December the Red Shield executive organized a committee to handle used articles to be sold periodically. This committee is known as the "Saturday Sales".

A plea was made through the local paper for householders to send all their worn and unwanted articles in the home to the R.S. headquarters. Sales being started over the 25th and these were resold, the shop being open to the public every Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 p.m. The Salvation Army hall and later in the Imperial block. This undertaking proved quite successful as we were able to donate $15 to the Aid to Russia Fund, $25 to the Greek Relief fund, $25 to Chinese Relief fund, $25 to Salvation Army Home Front Drive, $417 to the Red Shield organization as well as giving a dinner to the Cadets of Vermilion and a small donation to the Hostess House. We hope that this way of raising the money is satisfactory to all concerned.

We wish to thank all those most heartily who contributed towards this effort and hope you will continue to co-operate in the future.

At our regular meeting of Sept. 17 a new committee was formed made up of the following personnel: Mrs. Pinchbeck, Mrs. Cavil, Mrs. Goiseon, Mrs. Douglas.

Mrs. Cavil is to cut down expenses it has been decided to re-open the Saturday Sales Bargain shop in the Salvation Army hall. We hope to see everyone interested in the business within a week or so. Donations of any description will be welcome so please remember us when you do your fall house-cleaning.

We would be very glad to have you call at our shop and look around and see our display. There may be a needed article there for you.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

Mrs. J. Gould and daughter Laura were present at the quilting on Wed nesday at the home of Mrs. Bowtell. Miss Ila Risdale did some wonderful quilting. Keep it up Ilaria.

Mrs. C. Dafoe spent the first of last week in Edmonton.

Grandma Till returned to Van couver on Wednesday after visiting here for a few days and also at North Battleford where she visited her sister Mrs. Anderson.

Mrs. Robinson left this week for the north country where she will again teach school.

Grandma McGinnis is at present visiting the Beale family in the Wainwright district.

Mrs. G. McGinnis had as her guests recently her two sisters, one from Peace River and one from the west.

One of the heavy artillery training schools in the Atlantic command has a colored young officer. He's Lieut. Dennis Tien Shek Leong, one of the few Chinese in the Canadian Army. The lieutenant outlined one another unit to heavy artillery with this explanation: "It may get me over there faster."

Girls Outnumber Boys in High, Public Schools

Heavy Registrations on Opening Day of School

Schools reopened in Vermilion on Tuesday after the prolonged vacation with large attendances. Registration at the high school shows only 32 boys in attendance, with 3 more expected, compared to 56 girls, for a present total of 181. Public school pupils were more evenly divided, the grand total of 329 being comprised of 119 girls and 210 boys.

Features of the public school registration are the exceptionally large number of beginners class of 57 kiddies, and the fact that there are only 4 boys out of the 17 students in grade 8.

Registration by grades follows:

Teacher	Gr. Girls	Boys	Tl
Miss Noonan	1	17	29
Miss Day	2	9	16
Miss Gabley	3	22	11
Mrs. May	4	19	16
Miss Oldenburg	5	11	17
Miss Lipsett	6	14	13
Mrs. O'Brien	7	13	18
Mr. Walker	8	13	4
Totals		119	110

HIGH SCHOOL	Girls	Boys	Tl
First Year	20	15
Second Year	23	9
Third Year	24	7
Fourth Year	23	7
Totals	90	38

Forty seven of the high school students are from districts other than the town.

DISTRICT ROAD CONSTRUCTION MAKES RECORD

2000 Miles Built in 1943

Greatest amount of district roads in the history of Alberta was built during the 1943 season, Hon. W. A. Fallow stated recently. He said that 2000 miles of municipal and district roads were graded and 650 miles were gravelled in the one year.

This is a result already showing to the advantage of the enlarged municipal district, Mr. Fallow pointed out. Not only is this a greater mileage but the roads are of a better type. They are built according to high engineering standards under the supervision of government engineers, the Minister said. In disclosing that $851,000 was the total granted by the Provincial Government for building this type of road, Mr. Fallow stressed the fact that these figures did not include the municipal construction. They apply to secondary roads only, he said.

HON. W. A. FALLOW IN TOWN

Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, and Dave Ritchie, provincial road superintendent, were in town on Wednesday and Thursday, inspecting new road projects here and at Lloydminster.

While in Vermilion Mr. Fallow was interviewed by board of trade and town council members with a view to securing help. In the way of assistance, in having work done on the local air port. The work has already commenced.

T. WATTS HEADS EMAS PARCELS ORGANIZATION

Jas. Part Elected Secretary

Thos. Watts was elected president of the Overseas Parcel organization at the meeting called for last Wednesday night by Jas. J. Part is the secretary. It was decided to send parcels to the boys from Vermilion and district which are now overseas and committees to achieve that objective were appointed as follows: Executive, Publicity, Secretary, Mrs. Knoll, Mr. J. Wener, Mrs. Baker.

Finance committee—T. Ibbs, Mr. McKay, Buying committee—Mrs. T. Ibbs with power to add. Packing committee—Mrs. A. M. West with power to add; Addressing committee—Miss Jessie swanson with power to add.

It was hoped to raise funds by means of a dog day, public subscriptions, cans in stores, raffles.

Mrs. Laughlan was appointed convenor of the tag day on Oct. 16th

AIR FIELD TO BE NIGHT LIGHTED AT ALL TIMES

The Vermilion air field is to be night lighted at all times according to information received by the town council who supervises activities at the field. The reason for this is that all transport planes are now equipped for the fliers, there are always air craft using air lanes not very far away from us and the distance over and quite often potential pilots from schools in Battleford fly this far a field. This action will mean that the local airfield is needed more and more as the training increases, its night lights particularly provide a haven of refuge when young pilots are faced with plane trouble.

Regular Meeting of Vermilion Branch of the Red Cross

The regular meeting of the Vermilion branch of the Canadian Red Cross will be held on Monday, Oct. 18 at 8.30 p.m. in the Legion hall.

WIN $50, $40 or $25! Day Advance Tickets for the Elks Carnival, Oct. 29, 30, Nov. 1. Now on sale. Good to all three nights for 25c. Proceeds for community and charity work

GAS CONSUMPTION FOR AUGUST DROPS A LITTLE

Vermilion consumed 7,246,000 cubic feet of natural gas during the month of August, for which period figures have just been issued. This shows a slight drop from July consumption which was 7,320,000 cubic feet. In August of 1942, 6,341,000 cubic feet were used

5th VICTORY LOAN STARTS MONDAY

DISTRICT QUOTA $180,000.00

Plans for the conduct of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign are now well under way and local effort will be required on an increased scale if the new and increased objective is to be met as fully as have past requirements.

In the four Victory Loans so far conducted the Vermilion Unit has done exceptionally well as will be seen from a perusal of the following:

1st Victory Loan raised.... $ 82,000
2nd Victory Loan raised.... 87,500
3rd Victory Loan raised.... 82,350
4th Victory Loan raised.... 184,200

or a total of almost one half a million dollars, which amount will be available for the plans of the future of our citizens.

It is notable that the quota of the fourth Victory Loan of $120,000 has been increased for the new loan to $180,000, making it clear that victory is not yet won and that much still remains to be done, were the money may be enabled to return to their peace time pursuits.

This is why the various subunits constituting the Vermilion Unit were allocated individual quotas and all were successful in passing the objective in its entirety; it is interesting to note that Islay district raised more than $12,000, Mannville more than $26,000, Derwent more than $13,000 and the Vermilion, or central unit, $105,000.

C.W.A.C. EXCELS

For the first time the Training Centre of the C.W.A.C. was named as a sub unit of the Vermilion district in the apeals of 1943 and the young women who constitute the staff and student body of the centre bought bonds to the amazing total or nearly $17,000; bearing in mind the fact that the pay of the women in the Corps is equal indeed, their achievement is one which must be a satisfaction to them.

Indications are that their present quota will also be exceeded and that an impressive total will show in the returns of the C.W.A.C.

NEED AS GREAT AS EVER

The feeling of optimism regendered by recent successful drives in Russia and elsewhere should not by any means be allowed to decrease the intensity of the purchasing of War Bonds at this summer's campaign. It is readily needed at this important work and note necessitated drawing upon the reserves of the people to the extent of the banner financial year as all loan campaigns.

C.W.A.C. BANDS TO ENTERTAIN

During the opening days of the Fifth Victory Loan Campaign the two bands of the W.A.C. one a pipe band, the other a brass band, will entertain the public in front of the Bank of Montreal on Main street. On the evening of the opening day the pipe band will parade the streets of the town and on the following days the brass band will parade.

BANK BOOKS TO BE USED AS BANKS

Following the example set by the Bank of Montreal in Vermilion, the Royal Bank has also decided to use its bank books as banks during the Victory Loan campaign. Each book will be stamped with the words "Victory Loan Bank" and will be distributed to customers who will be asked to deposit their savings in the books during the campaign. The bank will then credit the amount to the customer's account.

LOAN REPRESENTATIVES

Your loan representatives are all well known citizens who are doing the necessary work as their contribution to the effort of Canada and citizens need have no solicitation whatever in discussing bond purchasing with them, all confidences being fully respected. Persons urged to continue as many times as their means will allow, as has been given below, so to go to your bank and buy your bond now.

Mannville District Representatives: K. A. Mercer, F. P. Wilson, G. H. Lundal, Geo. Pleasance, R. H. Stadel, Oscar Lundal.

Islay—A. C. Pyle. Miss Muriel Stone; others to be named.

Derwent—H. J. Abel C.V.D. Vermilion—Jas. J. Part, Lavern Lundell, A. M. Dahlstedt, Billy Phillips, A. M. Maxwell, C. M. Robb, Geo. Wilson, W. Bain and Mrs. Ayers, J. H. Johns and Herbert Eby will be here.

Those who can make it a point to be their representative each is greatly needed on this important work and note necessitated drawing upon the reserves of the people to the extent of the banner financial year as all loan campaigns.

C.N.R. Officials Tour Vermilion Oil Field

Mr. R. C. Vaughan of Montreal chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, N. B. Walton, executive vice-president, W. D. Reveille, vice-president and general manager of western lines, Walter J. Thompson director of public relations, J. A. Rogers general superintendent for the Alberta district, accompanied by W. Robinson official C.N.R. photographer, and a number of other directors and officials arrived in Vermilion at 3 o'clock last Saturday afternoon in the course of their western inspection tour.

The party detrained at the Vermilion station and spent considerable time through the field by officials of the car Oils Limited, subsidiary company of the C.N.R. A visit was made to the refinery where Mr. J. R. Swanson, general manager of the Vermilion Refinery, showed the distinguished visitors around.

The inspection party was met at the station here by representatives of the K. of K. Drilling Company, Can-Tex Drilling Company Ltd., General Petroleums Ltd., and the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company, all of which are contractors on boring being carried out under the Canmar project.

Representatives of the companies were D.W. Harris of Can-Tex, Wm. G. DeKee, and C. B. Barlow of K. of K. Only absentee of General Petroleums Ltd. and W. Dyson of Haliburton

Following the tour of the field, the party entrained at the Dorcadale siding for a continuance of their trip eastward.

BOARD OF TRADE ASKS OBSERVANCE OF MEMORIAL DAY

Visitors Attend Meeting — Interesting Talks

The Vermilion board of trade went on record at their Wednesday meeting for the continued observance of Armistice Remembrance Day, and passed a resolution asking that the town council proclaim Nov. 11th a civic holiday. The matter was introduced and spoken fervently in support of by Tom Watts president of the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

S. C. Heebner introduced several visitors to the gathering including Lieut. E. Brunker of the C.W.A.C. Lieut. Brunker is probably the first young lady ever to attend a regular meeting of the board of trade. She is one of the engineers at the Training centre for the forthcoming Fifth Victory loan. Lt. MacDonald another of the organizers was introduced and spoke briefly as did Mr Blackmore of Mannville, Victory loan campaign chairman for Northern Alberta. Russell Carroll introduced Mr. H. Richards of Edmonton and the chairman made special mention of the presence of Mr. J. Dahlstedt and of D. A. Andrew. Mr. Andrew has just returned from a trip to the Maritimes in the course of his duties as secretary of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and reported that agriculture in Western Canada was in much healthier condition than it was in the east. He also paid tribute to the splendid work of the various service organizations in the Maritime provinces.

There were 21 present and the November Kiddies' Dinner was in the offing.

Questions regarding the appointment of the police magistrate were referred to the solicitor for the C.M.P. detachment here were referred back of information.

WEATHER BREAKS AFTER SEVEN PERFECT WEEKS

After a run of seven perfect weeks with scarcely broken sunshine, Vermilion district now commences rain. It was heavy Tuesday with further rain at intervals on Wednesday. Not since the early part of August has there been recorded with the showing on water in the ditches, but the rains were more than welcome if slightly untimely pre valled.

An estimated 2½ to 3 inches of the threshing remains to be done, but with many machines now coming on the remains, it seems it is expected this will be cleaned up in a very short time if present weather holds.

C.W.A.C. Bands To Play In Vermilion

At Graduation Ceremonies and Town Concerts

The Canadian Women's Army Corps Military Band and Pipe Band will arrive in Vermilion, Oct. 16th, en route from a tour of eastern Canadian cities.

Both bands will take part in the graduating ceremonies, Friday, at No. 2 C.W.A.C. Basic Training Centre. They will broadcast Friday from 9 to 9.30 p.m. over a provincial wide hookup over radio stations CFRN Edmonton and CFCN Calgary

On Saturday, Oct. 16th, the bands will march through town and on Sunday there will be a church parade, and a band concert in conjunction with the Victory Loan campaign.

The Pipe Band will be in Edmonton, Oct. 18th, to take part in the Victory Loan program.

The Military band will give a concert in Vermeville the afternoon of Oct. 18th, and will join the Pipe Band in Edmonton on Oct 19th.

A program is being arranged in Edmonton the plans of which will be announced later.

From Edmonton the bands will visit Wetaskiwin and Red Deer before arriving in Calgary October 20th, where they will remain until Nov. 1. From Calgary they will visit Sutfield, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Claresholm, High River and will again return to Calgary en route to the Pacific Coast on Nov. 4th.

Captain Dorothy Bouchard, of Calgary, and Lieut. Anne Landreys, of Duncan, B. C., are the officers in charge of the bands of the Dominion-wide tour.

Sergeant Nadia M. Pratsch of Vegreville is the director of the Military Band, while Pipe-Major Lillian Grant, of Victoria, B.C., is the leader of the Pipe Band

The first Canadian Women's Army Corps Pipe Band was organized in the Pacific Command during the early part of 1943. In February they left Vancouver for Ottawa to further their training and after six months' practice appeared on the four stages of their first engagement, Pipe-Major Grant was leader of the Highland Laddie Pipe Band in Victoria, her task being to greet every incoming boat.

CANMAR No. 17 COMES IN UNDER OWN GAS PRESSURE

Canmar No. 17 commenced producing under considerable gas pressure on Sunday while being drilled into production it produced by heads into pit for 24 hours, under control at all times, and then subsided into a normal well. No production figures are available but while the well is regarded as a very satisfactory one it is not expected to be exceptional.

CIVILIAN CLOTHING NEEDED BY CANADIAN RED CROSS

As more and more conquered territory is freed by the United Nations the Canadian Red Cross is receiving an increasing number of requests for civilian clothing which is distributed to the peoples of the reconquered territory, Major-General C. B. Price, D.S.O., D.C.M., overseas commissioner of the Society, told workers at Red Cross House, Montreal, following a conference with department heads. For this reason, therefore, he asked all Red Cross workers to continue making civilian clothing as recently there has been a considerable drop in production or this clothing at practically all branches throughout the province of Quebec.

There is a mistaken notion in Canada, General Price said, that because Canada has not been actually invaded there is no longer any need of civilian clothing made by the workers of Canada. This is far from being true as, although there is little in the press these days about bombings in Britain the Germans still continue to make "hit and run" raids which damage civilian property and cause a constant demand for clothing from civilians who have lost their possessions when their homes are destroyed.

Added to this, Red Cross overseas is receiving a much more urgent request for civilian clothing from the A.M.G. authorities who follow the invading armies of the United Nations in to restore normal life and assume responsibility for the many problems arising directly from the disorganization of population. In practically all cases, General Price said, it is found that the people in these freed countries are in immediate need of help and it is to the Red Cross that the authorities direct their appeals for immediate assistance. Red Cross overseas, in turn, depends on the shipments from Canada but Red Cross here can only ship what the workers in the branches

The perfect threshing weather has lasted for four weeks now and big headway has been made in clearing fields of stooks and filling old and many new granaries. With almost all cattle still short of feed, it looks like it will still take about two weeks for all fields still be cleared. In this part of the country wheat went about 20 bushels to the acre average with yields of 40 not uncommon. Oats seem to be around 70 bushels.

The Ontario men and the soldiers helping with the harvest are much better than the Eastern youngsters at last year.

Mrs. Potter, Mary Preston and Joy King are all home for Thanks giving week end from Edmonton. That town seems to be a very noisy place to live in these days with cattle working on the streets all over the town irritating the sore. The quiet of the country seems to be very enjoyable in comparison.

Joanne and Thorne Stanley went back to school in Vermilion on Monday. Maurice Sellers on Thursday to go back to St. Joseph's college in Edmonton. Joan and Ruth Rankin, Myrtle Crocket, Kay Van Wagoningen, Hilson Preston and Keith King and Jimmy Logan are all attending Vermilion high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Doyle and children of Caldrose, are staying with this summer's parents Mr. and Mrs. G. Gannon of Usher. Walter Dixon

BOND BUYERS ARE BUILDERS—

Regular readers of the Press in Canada will have noted the new look the National War Finance Committee is placing a new emphasis on self interest in the Fifth Victory Loan campaign. This is being done of course without discounting the importance of public war bond subscriptions in the cause of victory.

Honest judgment reveals that most of the bonds sold since the start of the war have been bought by citizens for reasons dictated by self-interest. There may have been many who were not particularly attracted by the 2 percent interest, but it seems fair to say that those bought in the knowledge that they were protecting their savings from the depreciation of property values on the home in Europe and the far east. But at this point in the war when victory seems to be in sight nearer and nearer time conditions are such nearer, more and more of us in Canada are realizing the tragic human relationship between our savings in war years and our well-being in the post war years which follow the day of peace.

Of course, from the very beginning of Canada's program of public borrowing Mr. Minister of Finance and his colleagues who have been direct the war effort by government security sales have pointed to peace years as the source of the salvation of post-war prosperity. Our manufacturers and other producers of consumer goods will not be able to build up stocks of employees and big profits unless the great mass of consumers shall have "cash in hand" to buy what they need and want.

Happily a very large portion of Canadian people have a backlog of these savings, enough to create a tremendous market for post-war goods of all descriptions. But we should not overlook an obvious fact, namely that the greater the average war savings in Canada the greater will be the post-war market with all its attendant increase in jobs and wages.

Wise Canadians will put every possible dollar into the Fifth Victory Loan Bonds, not only for their own immediate post-war benefit, but as a good, country wide co-operative move to ensure a high level of peace time employment and maximum prosperity.

In visiting his aunt Mrs. C. Potter.

A little card announcing the birth of Patricia Allison, on Oct. 6th to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Doyle of Mannilla, formerly of Woodvale, reached the writer in Edmonton and that brings me to our home Woodvale baby, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sweeney. Many congratulations!

With the whole countryside continually wreathed in smoke from distant fires, most people are very grateful around threshing machines and everywhere, not to start one right here. But last Thursday Art Berthelet thought conditions just perfect to burn a whole field of last year's cut stooks and pretty well gave the jitters to all his neighbors. Big clouds of smoke rose straight up in the air Thursday afternoon, but when they started to roll eastward, several people met on the road to the burning field to see on reaching the hill overlooking the flat where the farm is situated, they saw the smoke rolling and tossing up in the air quietly and the field surrounded by a fire guard. Luckily that night there was a west to south-west blow when another part of the field was finished on Friday, the east wind drove the fire over into the pasture and with the threshing crew of Harry Swanson's outfit, working at Tom Hobbs's quarter in the morning, everything was under after dark to control the fire and keep it from spreading to Gordon Trevithick's fields.

A big road outfit is putting in a few more miles of graded road on the main road from Kelsoe store south.

Beau Jonathan
by J.B.Ryan

CHAPTER VI.

OUT of the darkness, as Jonathan approached the rear door of the Castle Vestibule, came a subdued moan. He turned toward the sound, his fingers stealing about the handle of his sword. The sobbing groan came again, and Jonathan's eyes were riveted on a hundred shapes in the gutter of the street.

Cautiously he stepped closer, then dropped to his knees beside the sprawled body. "Despy!" he cried. "Denys, what happened?"

There was no answer and he lifted the drooping head, straightening the cramped figure. The Frenchman's eyes were closed and mingled with the rain on his cheek was a warm, sticky feel that Jonathan recognized instantly as blood.

After the shock of horror, Jonathan's first thought was that Monsieur Denys had been attacked by footpads, followed perhaps by some of the hard-eyed men at the Golden Hind who had been miles above with the money won at the gambling table. But the first object Jonathan encountered, tearing open the French-man's coat and doublet to learn the nature of his friend's wounds, was the purse itself, still plump and unopened.

Swiftly, Denys resisted Jonathan's effort to slip an arm under his thin shoulders. "I am beyond the help of surgeons, Jon," a moment the voice was less faint. "My wounds are mortal, but—there is something else in a dozen places—" His weaving hand found the Puritan's sleeve and steadied "You will have to find Mistress Ann Carleton, Jonathan. She was not in the theatre—"

"Denys," Jonathan said, his lips close to the Frenchman's ear. "Who stabbed you?"

There came a rasping sound as the dying man fought for enough breath to speak once more. "The servants of the milord—" Denys muttered. "The same men, Jonathan, whom we fought the other night."

"His lordship!" Jonathan had a thrilling vision of the tall, sneering nobleman stalking like a specter back to his life. "Denys, tell me—who is this man? Give me his name and I promise you that he shall not go unpunished!"

Denys shook his head and tried to smile. "I—I do not know, Jonathan. Anne—Anne would not reveal his identity. She knew I intended to challenge the milord. I suppose she feared that—that it would be I who died in the duel."

Something crashed on Jonathan's head but because of the darkness the descending club had been aimed faultily. The blow raised through the crown of his wide hat, glancing off a shoulder-blade as he heaved himself to his feet. Cause a ripping of cloth as he tore himself free from the men who surrounded him. He dodged a second blow of the club, felt the pressure of fingers once more and jerked about to smash his fist into the face of the man raising to his cloak. The fellow dropped to the cobblestones and Jonathan, breaking through the milling men, was darting away in the darkness.

"Stop thief!" A pistol cracked, sending a ball of lead close to the ear of the fugitive. Jonathan's lower, reached the corner and increased his pace, whirling into one street after another until he finally shook off the pursuit.

He had some idea, now, of what had happened in the street before the Castle Theatre, for the man whom he had hit on the jaw had been the footman of the playhouse. The doorman had seen the assassins pass on Monsieur Denys and had tried to summon the watch. The doorman and Jonathan and he had glimpsed the Puritan's face during their short struggle

The inexorable case against Jonathan grew thick shape. But his mind was left behind at the scene of the killing. The word would be out for the hard-eyed youth with close-cropped chestnut hair in the garb of a Puritan. Leather already stained with the blood of Denys. The patrons of the Golden Hind would remember the youth who had left the tavern with the Frenchman. The gamblers in the gaming-house would tell their stories—all of which would prove that he had quarreled with Denys in a dark street to obtain the gold he had helped the Frenchman win.

JONATHAN was in a section of the city hitherto unvisited, a maze of crooked streets and overpeopled houses. His feet slowed as he approached a grimy window on tin. He must get under cover before daylight. Every thin dilapidated hostelry would be searched for a man with a price on his head.

A figure sidled out of the shadows toward the hesitant youth "A penny for a poor man, sir?"

Jonathan was startled The words were the grimy, hook-nosed face whose head he seen and heard there before? It came to him in a flash. This was the same beggar who had accosted him on his arrival in London. But his previous meeting with the fellow had been in front of the Golden Hind, and the ragged, dirty-faced man trailed him in his flight across the city?

He caught one of the skinny arms and dragged the beggar back into the shadows beside the door. "What do you mean by following me?" he demanded, holding the man helpless against the wall of the building.

"I—I live around here—" The beggar squirmed in his grasp. "Let me go! I'm only a harmless old man——" His dirty eyes steadied as he studied Jonathan's face "Say, you're the young fellow who give me a shilling in front of the Golden Hind!"

Jonathan released his hold. "You live nearby?"

The grimy man nodded. "Why? Were you afraid of me, sir? I'm only a poor chimney sweep now forced to beg."

FOR a moment Jonathan examined the crafty, avaricious face, cunning and shrewd despite its ragged covering. Then he produced his purse, making sure that the wrinkled-eyed eyes observed its well-filled appearance, and extracted a gold crown.

"No woman would allow you to wear such foul garments, Master Sweep," said Jonathan. "So it is possible that you live alone. Will you let me spend the night with you in return for this bit of gold?"

Understanding leaped into the small eyes and the claw-like hand closed over the crown. "I can accommodate you, sir. No one will think to look for you in the home of Matt Tucker."

He led on, and Tucker, the chimney sweep, was a smelly, one-roomed hovel, untidy as absolute poverty could make it. The sweep, without apology, kicked a pile of knotty blankets in the corner, and invited Jonathan to the straw pallet on the makeshift bed.

It was Jonathan's desire to remain in London. Not only must he locate Mistress Anne, but there was a debt of honor to be paid with the nameless nobleman; he had challenged him to a duel—and killed the killer. How was he to find Anne Carleton? He was guarding against the chance of being found himself by the King's men. If he was stabbed you?"

There came a rasping sound as the dying man fought for enough breath to speak once more. "The servants of the milord—" Denys muttered. "The same men, Jonathan, whom we fought the other night."

"His lordship!" Jonathan had a thrilling vision of the tall, sneering nobleman stalking like a specter back to his life. "Denys, tell me—who is this man? Give me his name and I promise you that he shall not go unpunished!"

Denys shook his head and tried to smile. "I—I do not know, Jonathan. Anne—Anne would not reveal his identity. She knew I intended to challenge the milord. I suppose she feared that—that it would be I who died in the duel."

or tavern in London. You are to be my servant. Nothing I do need cause you apprehension, and whenever you think I trifle with the law you are free to go."

Still doubtful, Tucker inquired, "What do you want me to do?"

Jonathan tossed him a handful of sovereigns. "First, get that soot and dirt out of you and buy yourself some clean clothes. Then obtain for me a complete outfit of wearing apparel, silks and velvets, the trappings of a gentleman."

Tucker's close-set eyes studied him curiously. "You trust me with this gold?"

"We are both poor men, Master Sweep," said Jonathan. "Each needs the other to make these sovereigns multiply themselves. Be loyal to me and you shall not regret it."

Army Girls Champion A New Hair-Do

Two views of the "feather-bob" coiffure, now all the favored by the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

"Miss Canada in Khaki" has found a new hair-do.

In civilian life many of these young women wore their hair in long "glamour" bobs, but when they donned the trim uniform of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, they found that the Veronica Lake style of doing one's hair would have to be forgotten.

Many rolled their locks into a halo effect, but in most cases, even this was hard to keep up. Others had their hair cropped in a short, boyish cut, but it was only in a few cases that this style could be worn. Curls on the top of the head were hard to keep in because of the constant friction of caps.

A style had to be evolved which would suit most girls and still be practical. This style had to be attractive for blondes brunettes redheads, girls with thin faces, chubby faces and those who wanted something just a little on the glamour side.

At last something was hit upon, and now beauty appointment books throughout Canada are beginning to fill with the kind of appointments for Army girls; ravish feather bob cuts and feather-bob perms"

This style is becoming and practical, and takes very little time to keep looking right In the office it is right in its place and at night it gives "Miss Canada in Khaki" that added bit of glamour when she goes out stepping.

There are still girls who stick to the hair-do which they carried into the Army from civilian days, but the army authorities have a liking to the feather bob and it definitely becoming associated with the C.W.A.C.

Bombing Statistics

R.A.F. Dropped More Than 4,000 Tons In Less Than Two Hours

In its first three big raids on London, the German air force spent 36 hours dropping not more than 1,000 tons of bombs. In its first three raids in the Battle of Berlin, the R.A.F. dropped more than 4,000 tons in less than two hours. The German air force used forty-engined bombers with an average bomb-carrying capacity of little more than one ton, although they had to fly only short distances. With its four-engined bombers, the R.A.F. makes a 1,200-mile round-trip to Berlin with an average bomb-load per aircraft of between two and three tons.

The German air force's heaviest raid on London, on May 10, 1941, brought just under 600 tons of bombs. In its heaviest raid on Berlin to date, on August 29-30, the R.A.F. dropped 1,700 tons. On August 31-8 plember 1, the R.A.F. dropped well over 3,000 tons of bombs on Berlin. On September 3-4 it dropped 1,000 tons in 20 minutes This last raid reached a peak in bombing, with only once bettered—in the 2,800-ton raid on Hamburg in 45 minutes on July 27-28 —British Information Services.

Opals For October

Gem Is Found In Australia, Hungary and Mexico

Opal is the gem for October. It is a great pity that for some years undeserved prejudices lessened the popularity of opal, one of the most beautiful gems. Perhaps its fragile structure has contributed to its reputation as an omen of ill luck. Sudden changes of temperature sometimes cause it to fracture.

Opal forms from a gelatinous silica mass in rock crevices. A multitude of cracks which develop in the jelly stage are filled with different opal The variation of materials forming its structure causes the beautiful play of colour characteristic of the gem

Precious opal is found in Hungary and Mexico, but Australia is its true home. It is considered the national gem of that country.

Chicago Stock Show

Second Fat Stock Show To Be Held In Windy City

In place of the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago, which was cancelled in 1942 as a war measure, a second fat stock show will be held at the Chicago Stockyards from November 29 to December 3, 1943. As was the case in 1942, the show will consist of carload lot displays of fat and feeder cattle, sheep, and swine, as well as individual steers, lambs, and hogs in both open and junior classes. The same premiums which have been paid in recent years at the International Live Stock Exposition will be offered. Rate of the premiums being obtainable from the prospective exhibitors on application to the Manager of the International. Four large sales of purebred cattle will be held in conjunction with the show, including Shorthorns, Polled Shorthorns, Milking Shorthorns, and Herefords. The 1942 show drew an entry of over 5,000 animals, and was the largest of its kind that year.

TELEPHONE LINE

Long distance telephone calls from Edmonton have increased 125% per cent since Pearl Harbour. This amazing record was revealed this week by Mr. A. M. Mitchell, deputy minister of telephones with the Provincial Government. This is one of the ways in which the war-time conditions have increased telephone problems.

Mitchell says, he said, "this does not include calls of the American army. Those are carried on a line built by the Alberta Government especially for the purpose. Although it is not generally known it is not a military secret that the new line extends from Edmonton to the U. S. boundary at Coutts.

INTRODUCES SERIES

"A credit union is many things, all good," stated W. Ia King, deputy minister of Trade and Industry, when recently he opened a new series of broadcasts on the credit union movement. It is a co-operative society in which membership is entirely voluntary. It is a thrift institution combining modest regular savings. It is a school teaching its members good business methods."

Pointing out the advantages of farmers joining credit unions, Mr. King stated more than 50 per cent of the people in Alberta are in rural districts. Repayments can be made from sales of hogs or other farm produce, he said.

Broadcasts over CKUA in the same series will be heard at 9 p.m. each Thursday night. P. J. Fitzpatrick, Chas. Gould and H. D. Carlson will be heard the next three weeks in October.

THANKS TO ALL

More than one hundred communities have responded with historical data and tales as a result of the first month's work of the Alberta Folklore and local History Project according to Prof. Robert Gard who is in charge.

In commenting on the results Prof. Gard said this preliminary work shows clearly that Alberta is rich in traditions. "The quality and interest of local history matters in this Province is excellent", he said. "Many thanks to all those who are helping out in this historical work". Individuals wishing to communicate with Professor Gard may address him at the University of Alberta.

Coffee Cans Wanted; Tag Day Planned

The Overseas Parcel organization urgently requires coffee cans in which to pack cakes for our boys overseas. The need is an immediate one as the parcels have to be mailed by Nov. 1. Anyone having cans please leave at the Northern Hardware or at the Coffee Shop.

Four hundred dollars is needed to send cakes to boys from this district serving overseas. To help raise this amount a tag day will be held on Saturday Oct. 16 with Mrs. Ted Lamb-ridge as convener. Don't fail to buy your tag on that day and help send a parcel to one of our boys in some far corner of the fighting front.

NAMES OF LOCAL BOYS OVERSEAS WANTED

Christmas Parcels To Be Sent

The names of all boys who have come overseas since last Xmas should be handed in to Tom Wills at the Northern Hardware at once. It is probable that Christmas parcels will be sent to our boys overseas again this Xmas and we may not be able to get one unless someone thinks of him and hands in his name and address.

MAXIMUM LUMBER PRICES SET

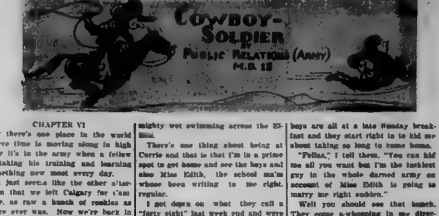
EDMONTON. Maximum retail prices for lumber and millwork from any shipping point in Alberta other than Edmonton and Calgary have been established by Wartime Prices and Trade Board order now effective. The listings of types of lumber governed by the order are being released to the trade.

MAIL CHRISTMAS PARCELS OVERSEAS BY NOV. 1st

Christmas boxes will have a much longer distance to travel, entailing more handling and reshipment to reach many members of Canada's fighting services this year. To enable all of the Dominion's men and women overseas to receive their gifts from home in time for Christmas Day, the Postmaster General, Hon. Wm. P. Mulock, K.C., M.P., calls on the public to Mail Early for Christmas Overseas—not later than November 1.

The date is 10 days earlier than last year's closing time, but with many of our men serving in the Mediterranean areas, etc., the "deadline" has been advanced to meet the rapidly changing conditions.

The public are cautioned to lose no time but to Mail Early for Xmas Overseas—now and during October—the earlier the better to ensure the timely arrival of the anxiously awaited gift. The more distant our Forces may be from Canada, the earlier they Christmas mail should be sent.



CHAPTER VI

If there's one place in the world where time is moving along in high gear it's in the army where a fellow is taking his training and learning something new most every day.

It just seems like the other afternoon that we left Calgary for 'cam-pose, as raw a bunch of rookies as there ever was. Now we're back in Calgary again, partly trained soldiers, up at Currie barracks where they're going to give us the final part of training before they send us over to where we can get some action.

I thought Camrose was busy as an army camp but brother was I ever got to see Currie if you want to really see something . . . fine, white, red roofed buildings surrounding the swell training square, runs and rows of neat huts, a mighty fine battle course and action all the time.

By the time you hit here they can tell pretty well whether or not you're going to make a real fighting man and I can tell you there isn't a man here that wants to be his squad down.

We go over the same kind of an obstacle course here as at basic but there's a difference. We used to go in single file and this time we and now we rip over the course with packs, rifles and other equipment.

We got on a new business the other morning and it's really something where team work counts—it's attacking through barbed wire.

They put up a series of wire in a little coulee near the centre and once us the low-down on how a platoon should advance through it.

It works something like this: When you get the go ahead sign the first man makes a run at the wire and throws himself down in front of it with his body. The next fellow leaps on the first man's back and vears down the rest of the wire and then the rest of the platoon stream across using the first two as a sort of human bridge. I'm telling you it's a fine system and when the boys are working together they can go over the wire and be on their way in no time at all.

LEARNING RIVER CROSSINGS

Another thing that we are learning is river crossings and I'm just mighty glad that it is summer and the river is a little warmer than it might have been a couple of months back.

This is just another of those things where you learn to sort of look after yourself.

We advanced through the brush to the river and then our officer in full kit dived in with a rope around him while we kept the river covered on the idea that the enemy might have snipers on the opposite bank.

As soon as he got across—the spot isn't awfully deep — we swung our rifles around our necks and followed, while this rope going on the boys with the mortars and Brens cut a couple of trees and made three-cornered rafts lashed with rope. Then they put brush over the poles, put the weapons on top and with the rafts in front of them headed across the river.

Some of the boys had to come through where it was quite a bit deeper so they wrapped packs and stuff in ground sheets and used the bundle as a sort of raft to make the crossing.

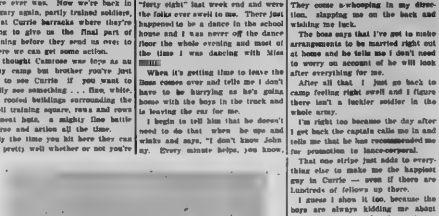
It's really something — this river crossing—even if a fellow does get mighty wet swimming across the Elbow.

There's one thing about being at Currie and that is that I'm in a prime spot to get home and see the boys and also Miss Edith, the school ma'm whose been writing to me right regular.

I got down on what they call a "forty eight" last week end and were the folks ever swell to me. There just happened to be a dance in the school house and I was never off the dance floor the whole evening and most of the time I was dancing with Miss Edith.

When it's getting time to leave the Boss comes over and tells me I don't have to be hurrying as he's going home with the boys in the truck and is leaving the car for me.

I begin to tell him that he doesn't need to do that when he ups and says, "I don't know about that, Every minute helps, you know.



"The first man takes a run at the wire and throws himself onto it."

and it shouldn't be long now before you're heading overseas."

Well after the Boss winds up I take the car and I drive Miss Edith to where she is staying about half a mile away from the school.

"You know, Johnny," she says, "it isn't going to be long until you're leaving and it would be nice to remember seeing the sun coming up over the hill and the light drifting down the valley."

It's then that I look at my watch and find that it is mighty close to being five o'clock and it isn't going to be long until the sun is creeping over the hill.

I start to thinking again and then I tell Miss Edith all about my idea of coming back and getting a piece of land of my own and raising a few cattle. I tell her that I'm thinking a fellow can't be doing that all by himself and in no time at all I've got around to asking her if she'll marry up with me when the war gets over and I come back.

"Johnny," she says, "Waiting is so hard, and I've missed you so. Perhaps it would be better if we were married before you leave."

LUCKIEST FELLOW IN WORLD

Well, I'm telling you, I suddenly figure I'm the luckiest fellow in the whole world.

I kiss her and just then the sun comes drifting up over the hill and floods the hilltops with gold then creeps down and lights up the valley where the deep shadows are still hiding.

We sit there for quite a spell more and talk about our getting married and then I take her home.

When I get back to the ranch the boys are all at a late Sunday breakfast and they start right in to kid me about taking so long to come home.

"Fellas," I tell them, "You can kid me all you want but I'm the luckiest guy in the whole darned army on account of Miss Edith is going to marry me right sudden."

Well you should see that bunch. They come a-whooping in my direction, slapping me on the back and wishing me luck.

The boss says that I've got to make arrangements to be married right out at home and he tells me I don't need to worry on account of he will look after everything for me.

After all that I just go back to camp feeling right swell and I figure there isn't a luckier soldier in the whole army.

I'm right too because the day after I get back the captain calls me in and tells me that I've recommended me for promotion to lance-corporal.

That one stripe just adds to everything else to make me the happiest guy in Currie — even if there are hundreds of fellows up there.

I guess I shen't be, because the boys are always kidding me about looking like a cat that has eaten a canary.

Canada Must Play A Part In Air Age Ahead

WINNIPEG. — "In the air age ahead Canada's outlook should embrace as many routes and services as may be required to maintain her position as the fourth largest trading nation in the world, and must see to it that Canadian air lines play their part in supplementing surface routes by providing essential global air services," C. H. Dickens, vice-president and general manager, Canadian Pacific Airlines, Montreal, told the Winnipeg Board of Trade here.

The pioneer Canadian flyer, now operating head of one of the world's most extensive airlines, was both optimistic and cautious in his word picture of post-war air developments.

With two-thirds of our total population in the east-west zone along the southern border, the existing air lines serve directly only one-third of our people. Another third can readily be reached by a planned system of feeder or local air lines extending to smaller manufacturing and agricultural industries. The system, based on key points of the present main lines services, would give Canadian business complete air transport service.

"No place in Canada would then be more than an overnight flight to any other place, and could be developed as a nation would be strengthened."

In his opinion, the airplane or glider would not, in the lifetime, supercede either trains or ships. Last year, he pointed out, Canadian railways carried 150,000,000 tons of freight while Canada's commercial airplanes carried 5,000 tons. This figure, multiplied a hundred times, is still a small part of the total tonnage and would not include any bulk commodities, such as grain, lumber or coal.

DEVELOP NEW POTATO

British Columbia Farmer Will Name or Variety The Atlieco

ST. ATWATER, B.C. — A new variety of potato produced by E. S. Simpson, farmer near this town in northeastern British Columbia, will be named Atlieco, Canada's governor-general has given permission for use of his name.

The potato is an early white variety, oval in shape. It is a free, mealy cooker. Mr. Simpson developed the new variety in an effort to produce an early plant needed for the short summers in the area.

The governor-general requested that samples of the potato be sent to him.

Germany Registering 50-Year-Old Men For Military Service

LONDON—The Germans now are registering 50-year-old men for military service—a stage they never reached in the First Great War—a spokesman for the ministry of economic warfare said.

Men of this class will not be called up at present, he added, but their registration gives plain evidence that Hitler now is scraping the bottom of his manpower reserve

Says Diplomats At Vatican Are Destroying Confidential Papers

LONDON. — Diplomats accredited to the Vatican are burning confidential papers in fear that the Germans will violate papal territory when they occupy Rome, the Daily Mail said in a dispatch from Madrid.

The story added that even Luigi Cardinal Maglione, papal secretary of state, was destroying documents which would disclose the identity of persons in Germany who have kept the Pope informed of Nazi steps against the church.

JAPANESE WEAKNESS

Being Defended In The Whole Solomons-New Guinea Area

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt said he detected signs of Japanese weakness in the whole Solomons Islands-New Guinea area.

Mr. Roosevelt, who also is commander-in-chief of United States forces, briefly reviewed the war situation at a press conference today. He said the way the Japanese were being defeated and were retiring in the Solomons-New Guinea area, plus the destruction of great numbers of their transport barges, was proof, in his opinion, of the enemy's weakness in the entire region.

Continuing, Mr. Roosevelt expressed belief that more attention should be given to this factor. The barges of wood and steel, he said, are the only Japanese means of island-to-island transport and great numbers have been destroyed in the past 30 days by Allied air forces.

Some escort vessels also have been sunk, he added.

TO PROVIDE WORK

Men From Prairies May Be Taken To [illegible]

FORT WILLIAM. — Winter work for farmers from the prairie provinces may be provided at Lakehead elevators where there is an acute shortage of labor.

Grain officials said the men would be recruited by elevator agents on the prairies, and if a plan under discussion is adopted the men would remain here until next spring. They would be engaged in laboring jobs at the elevators.

Under the plan, the men would be provided with free transportation by the federal government.

Canadian, Designer Of Baha'i Temple

A French Canadian architect, the late Louis Bourgeois, was the designer of this first Baha'i Temple in the western hemisphere. Finished after 30 years of work, it will be the centre of an international gathering of Baha'is on May 22, 1944. Baha'i followers emphasize a world faith absorbing all religions and the temple's nine sides symbolize the world's nine chief religions.

Huge Demands For Food For The United Kingdom

TORONTO. — Huge demands for food for the United Kingdom, Europe, and elsewhere mean that Canadians must use food carefully, and "we are not all practising" in bringing all possible information on proper use of food to the public," Dr. L. B. Pett, director of the pensions department's nutrition services, said here.

In an address prepared for delivery before the 24th annual meeting of the Health League of Canada here, Dr. Pett said the food rules prepared by nutrition services leave no margin for error, such as would be desirable, but in view of overseas food demands "we cannot provide a margin for error—we must insist on a careful use of food."

The right use of food has been widely publicized "just in time," because current demands for it were "making people in Ottawa very worried."

The food rules recently had been denounced as "thoroughly pernicious" because they advocated "slightly more food per person than some officials would like to make available to civilians," in view of needs elsewhere.

The nutrition division of the pensions department was established about two years ago, and though progress has been made in the nutritional field "we have still not achieved much real unification in this effort," said Dr. Pett.

WILL RETALIATE

Says Japanese Will Be Made To Pay For Beheading Allied Aviator

WASHINGTON. — The United States will call to account after the war the Japanese responsible for beheading an Allied aviator—an act which President Roosevelt said shows Japan's lack of civilization.

Asked for comment on the release by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters of a captured Japanese diary which described the killing, state department officials cited the note sent to Tokyo last April 12.

This note, transmitted through the Swiss government, protested the execution of some of the American fliers who fell into Japanese hands after the bombing of Tokyo. It warned the Japanese government that for this and any other "acts of criminal barbarity" against American prisoners the United States government "will visit upon the officers of the Japanese government responsible for such uncivilized and inhuman acts the punishment they deserve."

Balkans May Be Meeting Ground For The Allies

LONDON.—The Balkans, a possible future meeting ground for victorious Soviet, British and American armies, began to shape up as an important subject for discussion at the forthcoming three-power conference in Moscow

A Stockholm report that the American 7th Army of Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton is in Italy preparing for a Balkan invasion, was carried by Reuters news agency.

In addition discussions of the make-up of the American and British missions to Moscow underscores both the Balkan and the military aspects.

In the delegations will be outstanding experts of the United States department of state and the British foreign office on central European affairs. On the American side will be H. Freeman Matthews, head of the European division of the state department, and on the British will be William Strang, who supervises the southern and central European and the French departments of the foreign office

Gen Sir Hastings Ismay, military deputy secretary to the war cabinet who has accompanied Prime Minister Churchill to his conferences in the United States and Canada this year, will be a member of the British Moscow mission

Speculation was heard in London that Gen. George C. Marshall, United States chief of staff, might travel to Moscow with Secretary of State Cordell Hull as American kingpin in the military talks.

It has been known here for several days that military developments moving ahead of schedule both in Russia and in Italy, had made necessary a joint Anglo-American Soviet military mission.

Also sitting as an American delegate will be W. Averell Harriman, newly named ambassador to Moscow. There was a possibility he might not present his credentials to the Kremlin until after the three-power meeting so that he could attend as a delegate rather than as ambassador. It is expected here that Hull will be the chief American delegate, despite absence of a formal announcement from Washington, and it is known that the United States mission will include at least 10 others in addition to Harriman.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will head the British mission.

Making Plans For The Empire Air Conference

LONDON —Arrangements for the forthcoming empire air conference are in the hands of Lord Beaverbrook's newly appointed lord privy seal, and final plans are expected to be completed soon for the meetings which are to be held in London.

Representatives of British Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India are scheduled to attend the consultations, out of which it is hoped will emerge an empire post war commercial air policy to be used as a basis for discussions with the United States, Russia and other United Nations

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts of South Africa, reached London for consultations with the dominions office. While here he will sit with the war cabinet.

The Evening Standard said it should not be assumed that Prime Minister Smuts is the first arrival for the conference of dominion representatives mentioned in his speech by Prime Minister Churchill That meeting is unlikely to be held until early next year, The Standard said.

It was understood there is a good chance the South African government leader will visit the United States and possibly also go to Canada but his associates said nothing definite has been decided

OBITUARY

JOAN HARRINGTON — Clandonald
OLIVE WALKER — Dewberry

The communities of Clandonald and Dewberry, and all the surrounding districts were greatly shocked to hear of the tragic deaths of Olive Walker and Joan Harrington early on Saturday morning, Oct. 2nd. They car in which they were riding went off the ferry at Helsinburg and they were both drowned. When the car was brought to the surface both Olive and Joan were already dead and all the efforts of Dr. Miller of Elk Point and Dr. Sweet of Islay to restore life were of no avail. Olive was 17 years and 3 months and was born at Dewberry. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Walker. They have resided in Dewberry and Greenhaw districts for many years. Joan was 16 years and 6 months and was born near Marwayne. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Harrington of Calgary. They have resided in Clandonald for the past five years and only arrived in Calgary to make a new home the day before the accident occurred.

Olive and Joan were well known and were very popular in both districts. Olive lived with the Harrington family for the past year in Clandonald and both attended the high school there. The two girls were leaving on the week end to attend high school in Calgary.

The greatest sympathy is felt for both families in their bereavement as shown by the very large gathering of people who congregated at Dewberry on Tuesday, Oct. 5th to show their last respects. A double funeral service was held in the hall, conducted by the Rev. T. Haythorne of the Dewberry United church and the Rev. S. R. Faulks, of the parish of St. Peter's and Good Shepherd, Edmonton. The hymns sung were "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "God Moves in a Mysterious Way." "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" was also given as a duet by Mrs. Lee Green and Mrs. Redman.

The girls were interred side by side in the same grave in the Dewberry cemetery. The pall bearers for Joan were Donald Maddock, Tom Ryan, Alvin Lumley, Dick Burrell, Henry Durey and Frank Souder and those for Olive were Phillip Maddock, Ted Evans, Bartley Jutzy, Ted Borrowdell Durey and John Percyk.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Mother and Dad Joyce, Phyllis, Bobby and Earl, Mom and Dad, Betty, Ruth, Charlie, Jimmy and Grannie, Grandma and step-Dad Walker; Auntie Velma, Uncle Arch and Edna; Carl and Jessie Harrington; O. Skagway Pipe Line

Emergency Line Stretches A 1,000 Miles To Fairbanks

The U.S. army has revealed that an emergency gasoline pipe line stretching 1,000 miles from Skagway, Alaska, through the Yukon territory to Fairbanks has supplied thousands of gallons of gasoline to air bases in the interior of Alaska and Canada since its completion in January.

Although the line constructed by army engineers has been in use for nine months, no official announcement of its presence was made until recently.

"The Skagway - Fairbanks line really saved our bacon last winter," one airbase commander explained.

"We had hundreds of planes going through and it would have been utterly impossible to haul enough gas in by trucks or to fly it in."

The strategic supply line is routed from Skagway through Whitehorse to Fairbanks. Since the water route to Skagway is well protected through the inland passage the new line now makes a safer, shorter haul for tankers and removes a great burden from the Alaska railroad, which formerly had to freight thousands of gallons of gasoline to Fairbanks.

"The system will be operated for the army by the newly formed Standard Oil Company of Alaska on a dollar-a-year cost-plus basis.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

CHILDREN'S FEARS

"Children should develop many cautious, but few years," S. R. Laycock, Ph.D., educational psychologist at the University of Saskatchewan, and educational director of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene (Canada), says in an article contributed to "Health", the publication of the Health League of Canada.

Writing on the subject of "Children's Fears," Dr. Laycock says "Fears are a handicap in modern life."

Fears are not inherited, but homegrown, and result from experiences in home, school and community, according to the author. Some fears result from associations. Fears are built into some children by ghost stories and other frightening yarns. Many parents, Dr. Laycock regrets, deliberately build fears in their children to control them. It is a bad practice, he says; as bad as the practice of mothers using the father as a threat to control children.

Children are apt to "catch" the fears of their parents, too. Investigation has shown there is a definite correspondence between the fears of parents and their children.

Feelings of incompetence and weakness and of emotional insecurity are other causes of fear. If a child's basic needs for affection, belonging, independence, social approval and self-esteem in adulthood are not met, he is likely to have fears.

Scolding, punishment or ridicule will not help children get over fears, Doctor Laycock says. He counsels parents to set an example of fearlessness, improving children's self-reliance and their skills and knowledge.

"Don't forget that fears are often a general symptom of a child's lack of emotional security at home," the author cautions. "Be sure his basic needs are being satisfied."

Women Assigns A Tuberculosis X-Ray For Disease Detection

A woman designed the new tuberculosis X-ray camera that is now being used by the Minister of Health in London to simplify medical examinations for signs of the disease. Miss Kathleen Clarke, radiographer, was appointed by the extent of tuberculosis in Britain and began experimenting with a miniature camera. It took her three and a half years to complete the experiment. Patients now are photographed, the tiny films are projected on a screen. The doctors are then able to trace any symptoms of the disease at once.

Health And Education Program Planned For Ontario

A physical fitness program linking health and education was planned for Ontario by Premier Drew.

Addressing a reception for Dr. S. F. Vivian, provincial health minister, Col. Drew said provincial health authorities would be "backed to the limit" in any scheme to check diseases among young people in Ontario.

Premier Drew announced the appointment of C. A. Reynolds to survey youth training in connection with the Cadet Corps, Boy Canada and physical training in and out of

"From his report," he said, "we hope to extend this type of training and put it on a permanent basis."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 17

JESUS AND THE SABBATH

Golden text: And he said unto them, The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath. Mark 2:27.

Lesson: Exodus 20:8-11; Isaiah 58: 13, 14; Mark 2:23—3:6.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 1.

Explanations and Comments

Keep the Sabbath Differently From Other Days. Exodus 20:8-11. The root meaning of the word rendered "hallowed" in verse 11 is to "separate". the Sabbath is to be kept holy, separated from other days in the way it is spent.

Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work: note that this Fourth Commandment lays stress upon working as well as upon resting. There are many persons whose difficulty in keeping this commandment lies in the fact that they idle away their six days. The Sabbath is to be distinguished from other days by abstinence from labor.

The seventh day is a Sabbath unto Jehovah thy God. A fine statement of the purpose of the Sabbath is given by Bishop McConnell in these words: "The Sabbath is the institution which gave God his chance to utter to men some of the finer revelations likely to be missed in the uproar of week-day life."

In it thou shalt not do any work (any unnecessary work) thou . . . nor thy cattle. During the French Revolution an attempt was made to substitute one day in ten, instead of one day in seven, as a day of rest and recreation, but the attempt was a failure. The needs of body, mind and spirit require one day of rest in seven.

Blessing That Is Missed in the Ignoring of the Sabbath. Isaiah 58:13, 14. If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on my holy day (that is, if you turn away from what would profane the day); and . . . than . . . hath spoken it. The prophet Isaiah is sure that Sabbath-keeping will lead to prosperity, and he bases his plea for its observance upon its Godward aspect, as an act of homage to Jehovah. That argument still stands. Long experience has verified the truth which Isaiah emphasizes, that there are few things which we can do that are really more rewarding than this one of turning the one day in seven to the high purposes for which it was intended. To render unto God his due will be to serve our own best and holiest interests.

INDIA'S POPULATION

That part of India known as British India has eleven Provinces, with a total population of about 300,000,000 people; and the Indian States, ruled by hereditary princes, number more than 500 with a total population of about 93,000,000 people.

Bolivia's flag consists of three horizontal bars of equal width of red, green and yellow.

Pictures of Aircraft Urgently Needed

Western Canadians, although far removed from the scenes of actual conflict, can help sink enemy ships and down enemy planes simply by using their scissors or by digging up used magazines.

Allied airmen must be able to recognize instantly whether the plane or ship they see is one of "ours" or the enemy. His very life and the lives of his companions depend upon the accuracy of his observation.

Aircraft Recognition classes are held at all stations. There, students are shown pictures, screen slides and models of every available type of craft. Each airman also makes up a personal scrap book for study purposes. It follows that the more pictures he sees of craft from every possible angle, the better his observations will be when he takes to the air on operational flights.

That's where civilians can help. They are urgently asked to send on the nearest air force station or to the Recognition Officer at No. 1 Training Command Headquarters, Calgary, any magazines or clippings of aircraft, either black and white or colored. Any clippings or post cards or other reproductions of ships, either warships or merchant vessels, should be sent to the Recognition Officer also. Reproductions of all types of ships are required—not only of enemy nations but of all other countries as well. The need is real and constant.

BEEKEEPERS CONVENTION

The Alberta Beekeepers Association Convention will be held in Calgary at the Empress hotel on Dec. 2 this year. The program will be instructive and entertaining. Many of the major problems confronting the beekeeper will be discussed. (A member of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board will speak on rationing and assist in the discussions on honey prices. There will be a colored moving picture on beekeeping

Anyone interested in beekeeping is cordially invited to avail themselves of the opportunity to meet experienced beekeepers and learn about this enterprise.

LOSSES WITH MALTING BARLEY

There is a nice premium to be obtained by farmers for barley that is eligible for the malting grades. Samples of barley submitted by farmers to elevator companies for these grades are examined carefully by the Malting companies who pay the premium.

Some lots are accepted, but many other lots unfortunately are turned down because of admixture of varieties of barley which are not suitable for malting

Oftentimes, too, it is found that otherwise good malting barleys have to be turned down because of too close threshing which again spoils the barley for making good malt

For a number of years I endeavored to grow barley for the maltsters. I had some success and many disappointments. Some things I found out had to be done. One is to . . . particular care with each operation starting with the use of good Registered seed, sown on clean summerfallow if possible, then to watch each step of the management of the crop so that no other varieties of barleys would be present in the grain, to water, too that the kernel is not plump and in threshing which I . . . should be eager to avoid thresh . . . on the bees, and there is also . . . threshed separately for seed . . . The purchaser of new seed Registered seed or malting barley is . . . the first step of all

The Room At The Top of the Stairs

There is an empty room upstairs but it is empty only to the stranger. For there are pictures on the walls and pennants and trophies and knick-knacks on the bureau and he knows on his work and his play exactly where it can never be merely a narrow room any more.

This is where he grew up—this is the record of his life from the time we moved the cradle out of our room, and he was old enough and big enough to demand a room "all my very own."

Within this sanctuary he made his lures and his flies. Here he set up the microscope for which he had long saved his pennies. Here he kept his first goldfish. On this old maple bed he read "The Three Musketeers," "Treasure Island," "The Arabian Nights," "Sherlock Holmes," "King Solomon's Mines" "The White Company," and "Sixty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

The record of his day is mirrored on the walls. In the drawers. Distress—lying as he lost them—at baseball gloves and cricket shoes, boots of hunting and rubber trip-shells he found on the lake-shore his old catapult a dozen "inventions" he has organized in evening hours.

On the bureau stands the portrait of his "best girl" signed and framed. For she was his own and special "chum." How may anyone say this is an empty room. Very neat and trim it is. His mother has a look of "finding it. It is here that her quiet prayers are said. The room has been truly holy with sacrifice.

Between the boy and us is the span of oceans and the length of far horizons. Yet memory and the compassionately wrought in his childhood days bind us in love and communion. So helpless we feel, his mother and I, knowing the little we can now do for him who is our own warm flesh and blood.

Here we are, two people past the crest of the years, whose ambition it has been to watch the boy become a good man—and settle down and be happy in his home. We live in safety and in comfort only because his brave young body and gallant spirit stand between us and the evil things of war. Perhaps he was in our debt because we loved him as a child; now we are in his debt through his love for us.

Yet there is one thing we can do for him. We have bought a bond, a Victory Bond, token of our affection and loyalty. It shall be his when he returns, a nest egg for his beginning when the storm has passed. If the spirit of the Good Life has other plans—it we are not to meet again in this weary world—the bond stands as a mark of our faith in each other which none of us ever for one moment doubted. By this act we shall know that neither war nor the far horizon, nor death can destroy our mutual loyalty.

We have bought this bond at some cost. We shall go without comforts and conveniences. We shall buy other bonds. We shall go without much of the satisfaction and privileges that living in Canada has given us. How else could we be worthy of the men whose little room now stands open . . . [illegible] . . . spaces of . . . [illegible] . . . and who . . . [illegible] . . . the day whose coming . . . [illegible] . . . pays to us all death and all sorrow to be strong and loyal and true?

Of course we have bought a bond — Thank God.

DON'T BE A WALLFLOWER—LEARN TO DANCE

Dance Right

A girl should relax enough to follow readily, but she should keep her head up and avoid a dreamy pose.

Everyone can dance—it's simply a case of being completely relaxed but not sloppily so. You must not be tense while dancing. If you are you will never be a good dancer.

A woman must cultivate a sense of balance and keep herself pliable while dancing. She can build up her self-confidence by practicing new steps by herself.

Our 32-page booklet is full of all the basic dance steps with all the smart variations of popular dances like the rumba and the tango. But if you simply want to learn how to waltz, the booklet will help you not only with instructions, but also with direct-cut diagrams

An Empire Council

AS FAMILY TIES ARE FREQUENTLY strengthened in times of distress, so have the bonds which unite the various parts of the British Empire become stronger during the present war. There is no doubt but that the Axis nations were convinced that the Empire would not remain united under the trying circumstances of modern warfare, but contrary to their expectations, even the remotest British possessions have rallied to the fullest support of Great Britain at this time, and there have been magnificent contributions in manpower, supplies and money, from every part of the Empire. Apart from the tangible benefits which have resulted from this demonstration of Empire unity, there has also been cause for great satisfaction for all those who hope to see the British Commonwealth of Nations work as a body in co-operation with the other democratic countries in the post-war world, in furthering wide application of the principles for which we are now fighting.

* * * * *

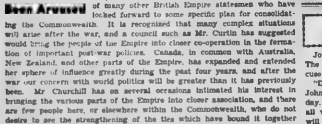
Would Permit Quick Action

Prime Minister John Curtin, of Australia, whose government was recently returned to power with a decisive majority, has made the timely suggestion, that after the war some sort of Empire machinery should be set up, which will permit quick joint action in matters of urgency. He has emphasized that such an Empire Council would not have executive powers, but would operate on "effective consultant lines." Premier Curtin also made it very clear that this plan would in no way involve the creation of an Empire bloc against the rest of the world, but would be instrumental in permitting a strongly united British Empire to work in close co-operation with the other democratic nations in the postwar years. The British Empire has for many years stood as a living example of what can be achieved through the practical use of democratic principles, and it will no doubt play a very important part in ensuring the application of these principles to the re-building of the liberated nations in the future.

* * * * *

Interest Has Been Aroused

This proposal has aroused interest in all parts of the Empire and has put into concrete form the hopes of many other British Empire statesmen who have looked forward to some specific plan for consolidating the Commonwealth. It is recognized that many complex situations will arise after the war, and a council such as Mr. Curtin has suggested would bring the people of the Empire into closer co-operation in the formation of important post-war policies. Canada, in common with Australia, New Zealand, and other parts of the Empire, has expanded and extended her sphere of influence greatly during the past four years, and after the war our concern with world politics will be greater than it has previously been. Mr Churchill has on several occasions intimated his interest in bringing the various parts of the Empire into closer association, and there are few people here, or elsewhere within the Commonwealth, who do not desire to see the strengthening of the ties which have bound it together and given it the unique place which it now holds in the history of the world.



TOMATOES DAILY!

As this is the time of the year when tomatoes are inexpensive and plentiful you should be using them daily to provide your family's supply of vitamin C and replace the scarce orange. To obtain the maximum vitamin C from tomatoes they must be handled with care. Do not leave them exposed to air for any length of time after they have been cut. When cooking tomatoes do not over-cook and serve immediately they are finished cooking.

Because of the great loss of vitamin C during cooking we should use tomatoes raw as much as possible. There are several methods of preparation besides the conventional method of slicing raw tomatoes. As an appetizer you may serve fresh tomato cocktail made by serving fully ripe fruit and adding the desired flavoring

If the tomatoes are to be used in the main course, you will find either stuffed raw tomatoes or stuffed baked tomatoes both different and delicious. Take five medium size tomatoes scoop out part of the pulp and replace with a combination of shredded cabbage, carrot, and raw beet mixed with salad dressing Or you could fill the tomato with cottage cheese, chopped cooked meat and celery or potato salad.

Stuffed baked tomatoes provides you with a great variety of dishes depending on your choice of stuffing.

BEEFED TOMATOES

1 cup diced bologna	1 cup cooked corn
½ tsp. salt	Pepper
1 tbsp. bread crumbs	1 tbsp. butter

Combine these and add to 6 large tomatoes after you have removed the pulp. Bake in a moderate oven at 350 degrees F. for 15-20 minutes.

In addition to this recipe the tomatoes may be filled with bread or potato dressing; macaroni and cheese; chicken, fish or cheese dressings; or a stuffing composed of minced vegetables and left over meats.

If you wish to feature the tomato in a supper dish, break an egg into the hollow of the tomato and bake 20 minutes at 250 degrees F. You will find this not only delicious but nourishing

British Prime Minister Tells Foreign Secretary Something About Age

Before the Quebec conference, Anthony Eden read the descriptions of himself which appeared in the American press In those dispatches there were references to his graying hair as "Al last," said Eden, "they no longer will say about me, 'the youthful diplomat'."

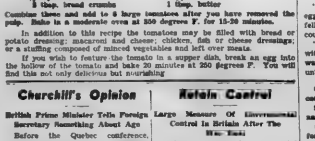
"You're wrong," Winston Churchill corrected him. "Remember MacDonald, Baldwin, Chamberlain and me. In British politics now, youth begins at 50 and middle age at 70."—New York Post.

Retain Control

Large Measure Of Governmental Control in Britain After The War

A large measure of governmental control over British social and economic life will have to be retained for a time after the war ends if a national catastrophe is to be avoided, according to Home Secretary Herbert Morrison.

Morrison warned business men in a speech that Britain will undergo another period of boom and bust, similar to that which followed the last war, if existing wartime controls are lifted too soon.



● When we're all doing our best to help win the war none of us can afford to be slowed up physically and mentally by common constipation . . . the kind caused by lack of "bulk" in the diet. If you're troubled that way, why not get right at the cause instead of "dosing" with purgatives that give, at best, only temporary relief.

Here's a simple, "better way" to prevent constipation caused by lack of "bulk"—eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day . . . grand-tasting as a cereal or in crispy muffins . . . drink plenty of water. Then see if you don't notice a big difference in the way you feel and look! Get started right today. Your grocer has ALL-BRAN in two convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

Roll your owners! Go for Ogden's

In the early days, "Tin Lizzies" did not always roll smoothly but odds-on bets will tell you that Ogden's has always been a smooth balance. Why? Because it's a distinctive blend of choice, ripe tobaccos—used by the famous name—Ogden's. You try it — and today.

Johnny Brown had missed school The next day he brought this excuse from his father:

"Dear Teacher: Please excuse John's absence from school yesterday. He fell in the river and got all wet. By doing the same you will oblige."

A policeman, whose evidence was taken on commission, deposed: "The prisoner was carrying a gun, a precious oath, a scarecrow, a ragamuffin and an idiot." And this being the conclusion of his deposition, his signature was preceded by the formal ending, "All of which I swear is true."

Freshman—Did you hear about old absent - minded Professor Freeze?

Senior—Why, no.

Freshman—He locked in the directory to find out where he lived and found he couldn't remember his name.

The teacher was explaining to her class what was meant by "economy."

"It means," she said, "having two wives at one time. Now, can any boy tell me what word means having only one wife?"

"I can teacher," said one boy; "monotony."

The doctor was discovered with mud and bruises.

"Why doctor, I never knew you painted?" exclaimed his friend.

"Oh, I just do it to kill time," replied the doctor.

"What! Haven't you got any patients?"

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By Ottawa Observer)

That war is a health-taking story which the Navy released late last month should be worth trying to open up Halifax harbor by sowing mines like beets in a garden. The men on the minesweepers who cleared the channel of the dangerous mines had a tough job but did it thoroughly. Among them were quite a number of Westerners, who seem to take to the navy like a duck to water. One of the mechanics who help's the Diesels on a minesweeper was Petty Officer Bill Shead of Selkirk, Man., and Lieut. Raineen Gravel of Gravelbourg, Sask. The latter said he found it "awful monotonous and would rather be on convoy work." Imagine, and him flirting with those deadly things all round his ship.

Sometimes we will be looking forward to the new CWACs in Vancouver band of 29 girls coming out during October, among them being some natives of the prairies. The leader of the band is Sgt. Nadia Svarich, who for eight years taught school around Vegreville and Camrose, Alta. Tooting are also a pair of sisters, Ptes. Isabel and Eva Johnson of Loon Lake, Sask.

* * * * *

There were 25 bright, smart lads among a convoy which landed at a British port recently, all from the first class to graduate from Royal Roads Naval College on Vancouver Island. Soon they will be stationed on battleships and cruisers. G. L. Topkins of Swift Current, Sask., and A. B. Corris of Westbrook, Alta., were in the party. Hopkins has four brothers in the forces and his father is Lieut.-Col. Hopkins, now back in Canada, who was a D.F.C. of the last war.

* * * * *

Some of your prairie sons are with the R.C.A.F. in the Aleutians, but, maybe you know little about this chain of islands, the last of which is nearer the Japan mainland than the Canadian mainland. The big Japanese base of Paramushiro is 700 miles from Attu. Kiska, believe it or not, is only 500 miles west of Hawaii. The lads have the toughest flying in the world there. But they have some compensations. The PX stores run by the U.S. army sure caters to them. They get 10 packs of cigs for 50 cents, 20 packs of best razor blades for $1.60 and a cigarette lighter that cost you $10 here, they can buy for $2.50. But no beer, liquor or wine.

* * * * *

Here's a fighting family, the Leighs of Calgary. When Daughter Mona, joined up she made the sixth in the family on active service. Her 2nd is Staff Sgt. Syd. Leighton.

* * * * *

Newspapermen at Winnipeg found out that Mrs. Guy Simonds, wife of the famous commander of the Canadian First Division in Italy, has real military background. Her grandfather was the first officer commanding Fort Osborne Barracks in Winnipeg, one of the oldest of military establishments in the West.

* * * * *

A Saskatchewan farmer's daughter came in all the way from the north to join up at Regina, but was turned down because she gave her age as sixteen. Was she disappointed.

* * * * *

While hairiness of the men in the forces stay strictly the same, there was the problem of the CWAC's hairdos. Many thought that they would like the Veronica Lake style lounging out from underneath their smart caps. But that was out and instead "the shorter the hair the better cut" which is pretty well standard.

MAIL IS BELIEVED

A parcel and two letters finally caught up to Aircraftsman Tom Brown of Healey Bar, Yorkshire, after travelling 50,000 miles in two years. He and his parents were overjoyed and the mail has travelled behind him since.

EMIGRATE TO BRITAIN

Large scale emigration to Britain since war started has partly solved Britain's unemployment problem. During 1942 nearly 53,000 travel permits were issued, compared to 35,000 in 1941 and 29,000 in 1940.

The average distance of the sun from the earth is 92,900,000,000 miles.

Firestone Dealers have always been mileage merchants. For 25 years Firestone has devoted much time and money teaching dealers how to help car owners get the most mileage from their tires with the greatest safety and at the lowest cost.

So put the care of your tires—no matter what make—in the hands of your nearby Firestone Dealer today. There is no priority or restrictions on the service and repairs he can give you, and now as always, he is pledged to serve you better and save you money.

IF YOU ARE CLOSELY TIRE WISE, SEEK HIS KITMARKED TIRES . . . be sure to see your nearby Firestone Dealer first. He is in constant touch with official sources of information, has the forms necessary to secure a tire ration permit, and will do everything he can to assist you.

Annual National Competition to Be Held At Toronto, Nov. 21st

Boys' and Girls' farm club teams, winners of honours in their respective provinces, under the Canadian Council on Boys' and Girls' Club Work, will assemble from all parts of Canada at Toronto on November 21, 1943, to commence a week's program of the annual national competitions. Because of the farm labour situation and the prospects of a late harvest in some areas, the date set is three weeks later than in 1942. As usual, the contests include judging of live stock and seeds and oral examinations in the six major projects of dairy cattle, beef cattle, swine, poultry, seed grain, and potatoes.

The oral examinations for all six projects will be conducted at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on November 22, but a change has been made with regard to the judging contests. Instead of taking the teams to various farms in the vicinity of Toronto and elsewhere for the judging classes, all the judging work will be done at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. The main reasons for the change are to avoid use of motor transportation and to permit the teams from point to point, and, in view of the lateness of the season, to provide comfortable surroundings for the contests. The teams will travel to Guelph by train. Following the completion of the actual contests on November 23, the remainder of the week will be spent on educational tours, with a visit to Ottawa on November 28.

PRAIRIE DOGS

A disease, the nature of which is still undetermined, is killing the prairie dogs of eastern Montana. Dr. W. J. Butler, state veterinarian, said the rodents are dying by the thousands and the condition is so bad he has been unable to find a live prairie dog with which to conduct experiments.

To Fit The Crime

Victims Of German Brutality Best Fitted To Punish Offenders

A general of the German elite guard was captured by Polish guerrillas, a Berne dispatch reports, tried by a "popular court" and then shot. The general was charged with responsibility for the execution of 100,000 Polish patriots.

Evidently it will be much more conducive to justice to permit the victims of German mass brutality to deal with its authors after the war than to let sentimental Americans or British to do so. And infinitely more conducive to justice than to turn the criminals over to a "reformed" Germany, as was done after the last war when of nearly 1,000 criminals only six were given even trifling sentences.—Kansas City Star.

MOTORING IN BRITAIN

Within 20 years after the war, the number of automobiles on the roads will be 50 per cent more than in 1939 and a constructive program must be inaugurated now else there will be "many deaths, slaughter and confusion on the road," said Noel Baker, parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of War Transport.

BACKACHE? Look out for Trouble With Your KIDNEYS

If your backache aches or if you have other symptoms of kidney trouble, setting look out for the [illegible] son is a sure sign that your kidneys are not fully ridding your blood of poisonous acids and wastes. When the kidneys slow up, wastes collect. Backache, dizzy spells, puffy eyes and rheumatic pains may follow.

Your kidneys need help—and there is a time-tried, proven way to help them known as GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. These Capsules contain carefully measured quantities of that widely known diuretic called Dutch Drops. You will find their action fast and effective.

Be sure you get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules, the genuine and original Dutch Drops—packed in Canada. Get a 60c package from your druggist.

SEES BIG FUTURE FOR VERMILION APEA

(Western Examiner)

Interested by Toronto reporters recently while on a business visit to Brown, Rochester, Minnesota, Mayor of Vermilion Constable J. Ellis said that he expected more than 75 more producing wells would be completed in Vermilion field before the season ends, in addition to the list of more than 30 already on the production list. His company now controls a good area of potential oil land in Vermilion area.

He told Toronto reporters that no enterprise a tremendous future for residents of lands after the war is in attention is directed that way and new industries and business would spring up in the area.

A total of 12 new bbls of oil for refining use has been shipped from the Vermilion Refinery, the Princess pipeline announced this week. Schedule has been boosted to 15,000 bbls a month.

Elks Fall Carnival Oct. 29-30, Nov. 1

$125.00 To Be Given Away to Advance Ticket Purchasers

Three main Carnival time for Vermilion and district is close at hand, and preparations for this big, enjoyable annual event are very full by Vermilion Elks, are almost completed. Dates, as previously announced, are Friday, Saturday and Monday, Oct. 29, 30 and Nov. 1st—let's go!

Advance tickets for the Elks annual Fall Carnival are now being sold by young ladies of the town and district and by school children. In this connection the local Elks wish to point out to the general public that a large percentage of the proceeds of their Carnival is given each year to charitable and worthy enterprises, and that this year the demands on this fund will be greater than ever. Intending patrons are therefore urged to purchase their tickets from those early. They sell at only 25c each, so buy several—at least one for every member of the family.

Besides giving admission to the big Carnival for all three nights for 25c each advance ticket purchased, with its prizes in prizes which will be given away the last night of the Carnival Monday Nov. 1. There will also be a big dance on Friday, the first night of the Carnival.

This birthday day event of fun, frolic and all-round enjoyment will be held as usual in the Elks hall, one more commodious than ever, on Fry day, Saturday, and Monday, Oct. 29, 30 and Nov 1. Festivities commence at 8 o'clock each evening and include dancing, bingo, darts, race horses, hula hula, bowling, fish pond, cigarette and merchandise wheels, in fact everything to provide the fun and excitement of carnival time.

All in all, the Elks annual Carnival provides for 25c the biggest week end of entertainment ever offered, and your advance tickets now—they are the only ones which participate in the big prize draw on the last night of the Carnival.

SWEET 16 — TOO YOUNG

There have been many instances of young Canadians trying to enlist in the Army at ages far below the min imum, but the recruiting centre in Regina had a new kind of case recently. Down from northern Saskatchewan to enlist was a comely young farmer's daughter who wanted to do her bit. They said "no". She was 16.

Advance Tickets for the Elks carnival are on sale at Doake's Drug store, Anderson Hardware, M. Weier & Son, Nelson-Hill Hardware, R. Simonds Lloyd Harris and many other business places. Get yours now—only 25c.

FINNISH VERMILION GIRL MARRIED AT VICTORIA

SIMPSON—BODINGTON

The marriage was solemnized by Msgr. A. G. Baker in the Bishop's House on Friday evening at 8 o'clock between Eileen Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bodington, 2211 Cook Street, Victoria, and P.O. William Bernard Simpson, R.C.N.V.R., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Simpson, of Calgary. A pretty afternoon frock of ice blue crepe was worn by the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. Her matching hat was trimmed with wine feathers round the brim and she carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas. Miss Sadie Ryan, bridesmaid, was dressed in rose crepe with brown accessories, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. Donald Simpson supported his brother. Mr. and Mrs. Bodington held a reception at the YW.C.A. after the ceremony, and were assisted in welcoming the guests by Mrs. George Schofield, Sidney, standing before a bank banked with pink and white gladioli and trailing grapevine in Autumn hues. The window ledges were banked with similar and lighted pink tapers adorned the supper table which was centred with a three-tier cake. Mr. Roy Hesnault, R.C.N.R., gave the toast. For a honeymoon on the Mainland the bride changed into a brown suit and hat with a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses. P.O. and Mrs. Simpson will make their home in Victoria temporarily.

ISLAY

School has finally re-opened. We haven't seen much of some time "i wish that it had opened the day after it closed". We think that person must have had a lot of work to do with we are very thankful.

Yvonne Mitchell and Marion Purves have transferred to the Vermilion high school for senior work.

Mr. Dexter has gone to Vermilion and Miss Sarah Olds has taken her post as night operator at the telephone exchange.

We have a change of C.N.R. agents again. Mr. Knowles takes on where Mr. Dash left off. The latter goes to Mannville on the line that Mr. Knowles was stationed at Wainwright for many years.

Thanksgiving Sunday service in the United church will be conducted as pleasing. The Rev. W. T. Crumb, post changed at all though it is six years since he left here, true and always is, in fine "fettle". I think that is the Scotch word as the writer has heard Mr. Murphy use it. The church was filled to capacity. A grand visit was enjoyed after the service too Mr. Crumb told us that his correspondence was to be to C. B. forces, and that one of them, Bill Young, was in North Africa at one time and when we leave visited his uncle, Major Bill Crumb

Our annual auction sale for the church is set for Oct. 23 with Mr. Gillies as M.C. Bring your gift for the sale and have a good visit.

The annual fowl supper will be held in the church on Thursday Nov. 4. The ladies of the country are asked to contribute fowl. The committee in charge is Mrs. D. Martin and Mrs. Bothwell.

Rain of the past few days has put a stop to threshing. One week would have wound up all the fields

Mr Dirk Bootsman was mauled by a bull and had to in hospital. He is improving nicely.

TWENTY CANNAR WELLS ARE NOW COMPLETED

Two More Drilling — Ten Wells On Production

The drilling of twenty Cannar wells has been completed in the extensive development program of Cannar Oils Limited and two more are presently to spud in. Ten of the wells are already on production.

Of the wells recently completed, Nos. 15 and 16 are on production, along with the former producers Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 12, 13 and 14. No. 17 which flowed by heads for some 48 hours, has become normal and is being placed on production. No. 18 is drilling out to test; No. 19 and No. 20 are standing cemented and are preparing to drill out to test; No. 21 is standing cemented and the rigs are on location for Nos. 22 and 24, preparing to spud in.

Only one dry hole has been struck so far. To date Nos. 12, 14, 18 and 18 have proved the heavier producers.

The whole program is proceeding in a very satisfactory manner and is providing the required results in hundreds of barrels of oil daily.

POREGO HALLOWE'EN "TRICKS OR TREATS"

Children Will Collect for Queen's Canadian Fund

Again this year, the pupils of the Public school have volunteered to forego their usual Hallowe'en "Tricks or Treats." As was done last year, they plan to canvass the town for donations to the Queen's Canadian Fund.

Since Hallowe'en this year falls on Sunday, Friday night, Oct. 29, has been chosen for the children's visit. The town has been divided into zones, with only two children canvassing in each zone. Only one call will be made, so please be at home between six and eight on Friday evening Oct. 29, as to be prepared to give to those less fortunate than ourselves.

PIPE AND MILITARY BANDS ATTEND C.W.A.C. GRADUATENC CEREMONY FRIDAY

One of the most impressive ceremonies at No. 2 Canadian Women's Army Corps Basic Training Centre, Vermilion, was the 20th graduation parade, Friday afternoon when the C.W.A.C. Military Band and Pipe Band were in attendance.

Led by the Pipe Band, the trainees marched onto the parade ground and were met by the Military Band, and were individually inspected by the commandant, Major Daisy I Rowat

Following the inspection the entire company marched past the reviewing stand when the salute was taken by Major Rowat

Later the presentation of cups was made to the four platoons. These included Gun, Fire Aid Headquarters Training, Basketball, Inter-platoon company, Organized Sports, Grand Challenge (presented to the platoon holding the highest percentage during the month of training) and the Drill cup. A special presentation was made to sergeant Dorothy Barrick, of Morgold, B.C., as best dressed trainee.

Friday evening a special concert was given by members of the Military and Pipe Bands which was broadcast over radio stations CFCN and CFRN.

Of the graduates, 29 are from B.C., 16 from Manitoba, 11 from Alberta, 12 from Saskatchewan, three from Ontario and one from the United States.

Graduates included the following Alberta girls: Anna M. Bowker, Beaver Crossing; Florence E. Pinnell, Kathleen E. Storey, Katherine A. Torpy, all of Calgary; Dorothy F. Brown, Edmonton; Thelma A. First Day of Loan Success In Vermilion

Succeeding Days Disappointing

The Vermilion-Mannville-Islay-Dewent Unit in the Fifth Victory Loan campaign soared to a new high for first day sales on Monday last, when seventy-two applications for a total of more than $77,000 were received by representatives; the first published list in the Edmonton papers placed the unit second only to Lacombe and indicated that this unit had been severely hit by the drought. The necessary daily average sales. There can be little doubt but that all our citizens are most anxious that our purchases fine record be maintained and the co-operation of all is asked at this time.

Vermilion Valley M.D. Invests $2000.00 In Victory Bonds

Favor Three M. D.'s for Large Unit —New Plan Unveiled

A meeting of the Council of the M.D. of Vermilion Valley No. 15, was held on the 16th inst. with others present Reeve Mr. N. McMillan, Dep Reeve Mr. H. Shepherd and Councillors Shepherd, Lord and Kelly.

Minutes of the meeting held Sept 14th were read. The minutes were approved as read. Following the minutes relating the sale of the 4's, 2651 were then adopted as amended A financial statement of receipts was read and accepted

The next meeting was set for Nov 27th. This was done because the Reeve and Dr. Shepherd will be attending the Convention in Calgary which will be held on Nov. 17-19.

The Reeve was authorized to apply for $7.00 in V. Very Bonds.

The Reeve reported on the meeting held in the Minister of Mun. Affairs. The Department favors amalgamating all six M.D.s in one large unit. The delegates were asked to present to their several bodies and advise the Department accordingly. The following resolution was unanimously passed:

"We, the Council of the M.D of Vermilion Valley are of the opinion that the proposed enlarged Municipal District is too large and unwieldy. That savings will not have any appreciable effect on the cost of the many extra services which will be incurred. Therefore, we recommend the formation of the original districts. North and South which were originally asked for. We are also of the opinion that the Reeve should be selected by the Council from their body after election. Without retracting from our protest in the least, if the six M.Ds are amalgamated, our opinion is that thirteen councillors would be needed. This resolution carried unanimously.

Mr. W. L. Brown's weed report was received. The Council ordered the municipal spray to be in operation at Mile 10 to be paid.

The Reeve and Dr. Shepherd were appointed as delegates to the convention

The application of Mr. Mike Kim ery for an old age pension was approved.

Three pay sheets were considered and bills amounting to $6.65 for public schools and hospital purposes were also passed and hereby sanctioned.

IMPORTANT WORK UNDER WAY AT THE AIRFIELD

One runway at the R.C.A.F. station field has been completely reconditioned, being scarified and bladed by a big road machine, and has been packed with 12 ton roller. Work was commenced on the second runway but has been held up by wet weather. It is expected many more runways will be the big machine, have been placed and hauled away.

The Department of Railways and Telephones will shortly move the telephone lines from the south and west sides of the field to the new highway a half mile south, according to word received this week from the Hon. Mr. Fallow, minister of that department.

DEATH OF RIVERTON PIONEER

George Mathison, aged 68 years passed away at the Islay hospital after a few days illness from heart trouble. He was a pioneer of the Riverton district where he farmed extensively thriving are his surviving widow and six sons. The funeral was held on Monday and interment took place in the Greenlawn cemetery.

Board of Trade Notes

The board o trade passed a motion vote of thanks to the Hon W.A. Fallow for his help in having some of the necessary reconditioning done on the town's landing field. The board members have much hopes for future development of this field as a commercial and appreciate the interest which Mr Fallow has always taken in the project and the help he has given. The field then from time to time as early as the runway of the two will be completed to the field then packed with a 12 ton roller but the present wet weather has held up work on the second runway. The Board also passed a resolution to which runs along the west and south sides of the field will search be moved south in the new highway, the hauling away quite a bit. The result of a report with regard to present and future benefits derived in connection with the airfield was received enthusiastically.

Supporting a resolution of the M.D of Vermilion Valley, the board went on record as favoring two enlarged municipal units of three districts each, rather than one large unit of six municipalities. It was felt that the latter proposal would be unwieldly from an administration point of view, and would thus not prove an economical set up.

On behalf of the overseas Parcel Fund, Mr. Parr reported a very successful tag day on Saturday, and Mr. Weier reminded everyone of the dance in aid of the fund on Wednesday next. The board donated $15 from the Salvage committee funds to the Overseas Parcel fund. It was noted that the community had shipped a further ten tons of rubber salvage to help out in Canada's wartime rubber shortage.

Attendance at the meeting slipped down to 14 and an appeal is made to all members to be present at next meeting on Wednesday next Mr. W. P. Pell hie acted as chairman and Mr Maurice of the Dept. of Municipal Affairs was a visitor to the meeting

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney E. Barwick celebrated their Golden Wedding on Monday October 18th.

They were married at Scarborough, Yorkshire England, on October 18th, 1893, and came to Canada in 1907, homesteading nine miles north of Vermilion. Here they carried on successful farming operations until 1929 when they retired and moved into Vermilion. They have two daughters, Mrs. S. J. Laughlin of Los Angeles, Mrs. E. E. Littlewood of Victoria, and one son, R.S. Barwick of Vermilion. There are five grandchildren

C.W.A.C. BANDS HERE OVER THE WEEK-END

Open Victory Loan Drive

The odd saying everyone hears a band was amply proven here over the week end when the Military and Pipe bands of the C.W.A.C were a big attraction, making a distinct hit with the public. They played at the graduation exercises of the Training Centre on Friday, and on Saturday afternoon paraded through streets of the town with the entire personnel of the Centre. Streets were lined with onlookers, most of whom were seeing women's bands for the first time.

Church parades were held in the United and Anglican churches on Sunday morning will one band accompanying each.

A concert was given by the two bands on Sunday afternoon in the park bandstand as an introduction to the 5th Victory Loan drive. The band members were welcomed by Mayor McIntosh, S. C. Stothert, Chairman for this district gave an address outlining the need of subscribing and plans for canvassing this area.

Resolved that Remembrance Day Nov. 11th be declared a civic holiday,

LEGION ASSURED NOV. 11th TO BE PROVINCIAL HOLIDAY

S. C. Heckbert, Provincial President of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L., telegraphed Premier E. C. Manning early this week urging that Nov. 11 be set aside as a Provincial holiday and a day of Remembrance; within a few hours a return telegram announced that the day would be so set apart.

The Dominion Government sanctioned this important day as a holiday about a year ago and elsewhere has been considerable dissatisfaction throughout Canada regarding such cancellation as Commands or our people have been taking advantage of this day on which to pay their tribute of respect to those who gave their lives in the Great War of 1914-18.

It is very pleasing to ex-servicemen and to the Canadian Legion to have the day restored at least throughout Alberta and it is hoped that correspondence will be held under the auspices of the Legion on Nov. 11th will be largely attended.

The Vermilion Branch is planning a continuation of its service at the Cenotaph, with an assembly in the Columbia theatre following immediately by the Mayor and Council of Vermilion but has not as yet made its intention that all places of business in Vermilion would be required to close and that the added weight of the Provincial proclamation which will be made public at once November 11th should be made a day of Remembrance in truth

The Rev. Father O'Sullivan was a business visitor to Colonia, this week.

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD AT CLINTON

The people of the Cummings community staged a surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mabery in honor of their son Matt, who was home on two weeks' leave from his R.C.A.F. training.

Despite the busy threshing season a very representative gathering attended. Everyone being tired, due to long hours of strenuous harvest, only games were not indulged in but a very pleasant evening was enjoyed visiting. A dainty lunch was served by the ladies. Subsequently, Mr. Brent Marchand, on behalf of Matt's many friends, made him a suitable presentation, at the same time wishing him luck and a safe return. Matt expressed his appreciation and thanks for their kindly thoughts and acts.

The gathering terminated with the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow", "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King. Matt left next day for his station at Calgary.

WEATHER CONTINUES BAD; SNOW THURSDAY MORNING

The weather which broke Thanksgiving day, Monday, Oct. 11th, has continued wet and cold. On Thursday morning a light snow fall covered the ground, but very little of that has been enjoyed during the past week and that was Sunday, Oct. 17th

Threshing operations are completed by bad up.

SALVAGE CORPS SHIP 18 TONS OF TIRES, TUBES

The Salvage committee of the board of trade shipped 20,000 pounds of tires and tubes to Edmonton during the past week via the Mix Transfer. This shipment completely cleans out the salvage depot.

A fresh supply of salvage materials is expected as soon as the school railcar plan is put into operation here.

The Salvage corps has now handled 115,000 pounds of mixed materials, exclusive of scrap iron and steel. The materials shipped included rubber, paper, rags and non-ferrous metals. In addition to this the elevator men who act as buying agents for the government have shipped out four large carloads of scrap iron and steel as accepting about 263,000 pounds.

WILDMERE WIRES

School has reopened since our last writing of the Wimes. We notice that many districts are without teachers which is a sad plight. We are fortunate in having a good teacher in the district in the person of Mrs. J Wilson. There is one beginner this term, Master Gay Chalmers, and he brings the number up to nine pupils in the school.

Rain and damp weather have surely put a damper on threshing this past ten days. Lots of it to do yet so here's hoping the weather prevails again for some weeks yet when this spell clears away. In the Battleview district hardly any one is threshed. Some combining has been done on wheat but oats and barley are still in the stook.

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher May, of Brocksville district on the birth of a baby daughter on Oct. 6th in the Vermilion hospital.

The B.W.B. club meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Wallington on Wednesday Oct. 6th. Owing to Mrs. Cliff Crathern being busy with the threshers she was unable to have them as planned. Being a busy time only ten members were present but a lot of urgent business was dealt with. Such as re-porking of dirty bags and parcels for the boys overseas. After the business the hostess served lunch which everyone seemed to enjoy. Next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Walter of Battleview. It is to be the annual xmas tag folks so be there to see what has been done in the year just past by all our faithful workers. We forgot to say that most of the articles are in for our district quota, but the chest itself was not finished to put them in. Mrs. Garnett is raffling off a wool blanket for the ready benefit to raise funds to carry on its welfare work.

Victor Howard went up to Edmonton last week and enlisted in the air force, making all the sons of Mr and Mrs Howard in the colors. Albert, Lloyd, and now Victor, surely a good record for one family. That makes eleven young men from our district to answer the call of King and Country. Victor reports for duty on Oct. 29th in Edmonton

The Victory Loan got going on Monday 18th. It would an over a bit bigger if farmers were able to sell their grain. The way the situation is at present they are unable to pay their men or the threshers when they can not sell wheat or coarse grains, which are the farmers dollar bills. Maybe

Relatives of persons whose names appear on the assessment roll can make application during the months of September and October for inclusion on the voters' list. This gives them the right to vote in the next municipal elections and is the only way they can exercise their franchise. No names can be added to the list on election day. It is strictly up to the individual, if you want to vote for your municipal officials, call at the town office before the end of October and have your name added to the voters' list. Don't blame anybody else if you go to vote next February, when we will probably have a hot election campaign, and find that you cannot because you neglected this little duty. If you are not a ratepayer this action has to be repeated yearly. For full particulars see the notice in this issue.

TOLLAND

Our summer weather seems to have deserted us for the present folks. Let's hope that we don't have a repetition of last fall's crops out under snow. A few days of dry weather would wind things up in good style for everyone

Mrs. R. Allison has left the sickbed, for the present at least, as she is in Ontario, having signed up with the W.R.C.N.S.

Miss Mary Preston who is taking a business course in Edmonton, spent the Thanksgiving week end at her home here.

Sgt. H. W. Webber of the R.C.A.F. is spending a few days' furlough visiting his mother here. He was accompanied by his two sons, and by his aunt, Mrs. R. H. Webber of Toronto.

Mrs. C. F. Hodge is recovering from the illness that confined her to the house.

Mrs. T.W. Holman is spending a few days in the district visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McGrath. On her way home she intends to attend the wedding in Edmonton of her youngest daughter Evelyn.

Mr. and Mrs. A.E. Trevithick visited at the home of Mr. O. H. Webber on Sunday last.

Our school here is to open on Nov. 1st. Miss O. Woychyshyn of Lloydminster will be in charge.

Visitors to Edmonton this week included Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cooper.

Will Send All Available Foods To Great Britain

OTTAWA.—Consideration now is being given contracts under which Canada will supply the United Kingdom with vital food supplies in 1944, with the certainty the Dominion will continue a major factor in maintaining British rations, it was learned here.

One of the first contracts to be decided will be that for bacon. This year Canada is seeking to supply 675,000,000 pounds and officials said it was believed this objective would be attained because of a tremendous gain in hog production.

"There is a limit to production and while it may not have been reached yet, the prospects are that Canada will not undertake to provide the United Kingdom with any 'additional' quantity in 1944," said one authority.

"Canadian contracts usually are worded in such a way that the Dominion agrees to supply the United Kingdom with "not less than the amount announced. Under such an arrangement the shipments may not be limited to the poundage figure mentioned, if conditions are such that an additional amount may be provided. This system is expected to remain operative during 1944."

On this basis, Canada might undertake to provide bacon to the quantity of 675,000,000 pounds in 1944, plus whatever could be produced in addition.

Besides bacon, Canada is making an all-out effort this year to provide the United Kingdom with 180,000,000 pounds of cheese and 450,000,000 dozen eggs. There is little prospect that these contracts will be met in full, but alternative shipments, such as butter, mean that the total Canadian contribution in food will not be far short of what the British expected.

Officials said that reduced crops this year may have their effect on the amount of food Canada can export next year, but the major feed crops, was in the west are a guarantee there will be no catastrophic reduction from this cause.

Labor and prices are important factors which cause some anxiety to the authorities who indicate to Britain that what Canada will be able to produce in the coming year.

The government free-freight policy for feed and ceilings giving protection on feed prices have been a safeguard for farmers increasing their farm output to meet overseas requirements, that with labor shortages, difficulties in obtaining machinery replacements and high wages in other industries, some farmers have indicated their desire for further price adjustments.

Beef may be added to the Canadian exports in the coming year. With good feed supplies in the west, farmers have made only moderate marketings thus far in the fall and a rush of well finished animals is expected later when the price ceiling on beef rises.

If a surplus is left after home requirements have been met shipments to the United Kingdom will be expect. Canadian beef also would be welcome among other United Nations.

THIRTY-DAY TRIP

Torpedoed Men Row 1,250mi1 2,800 Miles on Indian Ocean

LONDON — Nine seamen from a Norwegian tanker which was torpedoed by a Japanese submarine sailed and rowed a lifeboat more than 2,800 miles across the Indian ocean in a 30-day voyage, the Norwegian government reports

Nineteen men started the voyage after the tanker their ship ab- days out of an Australian port. Two died of wounds from shell splinters and from exhaustion during the trip, the captain said.

On the 18th day, after four had died, the boat capsized in a rough sea but the men managed to cling to the craft and right it.

During the next 12 days six more died but on the 30th day land was sighted. It proved to be Madagascar.

ORANGES FOR BRITAIN

LONDON. — Citrus-hungry Britain learned that 84,000,000 oranges had reached this country—for youngsters only. Food Minister Lord Woolton said children up to five will receive two pounds of oranges each, and those between five and 16 will get one pound. Retailers must reserve their supplies for children for five days after receiving their stocks, then the remainder can be cleared without restriction.

Occupation Of Azores Is Now Said In Progress

LONDON.—The Azores agreement was regarded in London as the initial victory in an Allied diplomatic offensive to complete the military and diplomatic isolation of Germany.

Next on the agenda, diplomatic observers believed, were:

1. Outright Spanish neutrality including withdrawal of the Spanish volunteers from Russia, the ending of the Nasi propaganda hierarchy in Spain and deportation of Nazi agents, and a ban on Spanish discrimination against the Allies.

2. Elimination of Finland from the war.

3. Elimination of as many as possible of the Balkan Axis satellites, with the Allies offering military assistance.

It was not expected that the entire program could be reached immediately, but it represents the minimum short-term objectives on which Allied diplomats are working.

"The Portuguese move also sets a precedent for possibly similar action by Turkey under the terms of the Anglo-Turkish alliance which has remained suspended thus far under circumstances generally paralleling those governing the Portuguese treaty.

It is obvious that transit rights for Allied troops and air bases in Turkey would be most useful for any Allied operations in the Balkans. Thus the British Ninth and Tenth Armies in the Levant could move directly into Greece and Bulgaria and have access to the Black Sea and the Bulgarian and Rumanian coasts.

Reports from Lisbon said British troops were landing on the principal islands of the Azores under cover of powerful naval escort while Prime Minister Churchill was announcing the agreement with Portugal in London.

R.A.F planes, including some carriers and others from coastal command airdromes, already have been dispersed on island air fields. Naval forces were on protective patrol about the island even before the agreement was announced.

A large British contingent was reported by Madrid to have landed on Terceira, second largest island in the mid Atlantic archipelago. The Nazi Transocean Telegraph bureau said Terceira contains the largest air base in the Azores and is heavily fortified. A large number of R.A.F. planes recently made "forced landings" on Terceira, Nazi reports said.

Technical groups, engineers, air forces personnel and anti-aircraft units were first ashore. Madrid heard. The troops landed directly on wharves, rather than from landing barges.

CHANNEL ISLANDS

Tea And Coffee Selling At $110 A Pound

LONDON.— Residents of the Nazi-occupied channel islands have to pay $25 approximately $110 — a pound for tea and coffee, unless they are content to drink acorn coffee and dandelion tea.

And even at that price, informed London sources say, supplies are available only from the black market, since ordinary stocks were exhausted two years.

It has also been reported that the Germans, adding insult to injury, sent the island's celebrated tomato crop to France for sale at two pence a pound.

PROBLEM SOLVED

Automatic Gadget Takes Bomber Through Barrage Balloon Cables

LONDON. — British bombers now "shoot" their way through any barrage balloon cables they hit with automatic Rube-Goldberg gadgets.

At points placed along the front wing edge are short plugs against which the cables catch with great impact due to the plane's speed. The impact works a trigger which sets off an explosive cartridge in the wing. The explosion drives forward a small nickel-chrome steel chisel which pins the cable against a little "anvil" in the plug and severs it.

All this happens so fast the plane's progress is unimpeded.

The gadget was patented by James Baker, an airplane plant manager before the war.

Canadian Artists To Record Work Of The R.C.A.F.

OTTAWA.—A. Y. Jackson, dean of Canadian painters, is on a government assignment to record the work of the R.C.A.F. on the Alaska highway, as well as other features of the great road, it was announced here.

Mr. Jackson is accompanied by H. G. Glyde, head of the art department of the Provincial Technical School, Calgary. Both artists are working under direction of the National Gallery of Canada.

Mussolini's Government Orders Death Penalty For Italian Patriots

AT THE SWISS-ITALIAN FRONTIER.—Mussolini's Fascist republican government, getting in step with the eastern measures of the Nazi occupation forces, ordered the death penalty for Italian civilians who fail to heed German and Fascist decrees.

The order was part of a program to quell patriot activities in northern Italy.

Numerous summary executions were reported throughout northern Italy where underground activities were said to endanger troop movements to the battlefronts in the Italian peninsula.

FILM DIRECTOR HONORED

OTTAWA.—Richard Rosson, who directed the film "Corvette K225," which tells the story of the Royal Canadian Navy's corvettes, will receive the "Certificate for Service" medal of the Navy League of Canada when he comes to Ottawa for the premiere of the film here, it was announced.

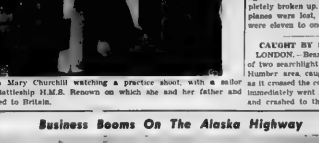
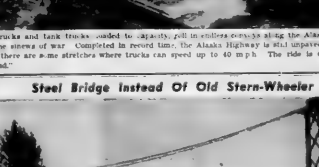
Business Booms On The Alaska Highway



Supply trucks and tank trucks headed to Fairbanks roll in endless convoys along the Alaska highway, going north with the stores of war Completed in record time, the Alaska Highway is still unpaved and pretty tough in spots, but there are some stretches where trucks can speed up to 40 m.p.h The ride is called the "world's toughest grind."

Steel Bridge Instead Of Old Stern-Wheeler



The first permanent steel bridge on the Alaska highway is this one over the Peace River Before it was opened army trucks speeding stores of war to northern outposts, were ferried over the river on the old stern-wheeler. Since the bridge was opened on Aug. 15, the volume of traffic has been greatly increased.

ALLIED AIR FORCES

Are Hastening Day Of Final Victory Declares Churchill

LONDON.—Prime Minister Churchill declared in congratulatory messages to the R.A.F and the United States 8th Air Force that "we shall together inexorably beat the life out of industrial Germany and thus hasten the day of final victory."

Mr. Churchill told the American unit His achievements in the Battle of Germany have contributed notably to the success of Allied arms everywhere."

The prime minister told the R.A.F that the war cabinet realized the significance of the fact that the bombing of Germany had forced the German air force "from the offensive to the defensive, both operationally and in new construction."

LONDON.— Beams from the lights of two searchlight crews in the river, Number area, caught a Nazi raider as it crossed the coast and the bomber immediately went into a shallow dive and crashed to the ground.

Rescue Plane To Be Sent To Lonely Fur Post

WINNIPEG.—Supplies for three white men and a woman isolated at Fort Ross, a fur trading post in the far north, may reach the lonely settlement early in November.

Plans for sending air relief, possibly with United States army air force plane, as soon as weather conditions permit were near completion here.

"We hope to have relief for the post about the first week in November," R. H. Chemblin, manager of the Hudson's Bay Company fur trade department, told The Canadian Press.

"If the plane is unable to land, supplies will be dropped by parachute," he said.

If a landing is possible, the post manager, his wife, an apprentice-clerk, and a police constable are expected to be brought out by plane.

Mr. Chemblin said if the manager and his staff are brought out, the post will be closed until a relief ship reaches Fort Ross, possibly sometime next year

The traders at Fort Ross have only a month's food supply The regular supply ship due to severe ice conditions has not been able to reach the post for two years

Fort Ross is 1,000 miles from Churchill, northern Manitoba port, and is some 400 miles north of the Arctic circle—farther north than any other Canadian settlement.

The staff at Fort Ross includes W. A. Heslop of Newcastle-on-Tyne, the post manager, his wife, the former Hahs Irwin of Winnipeg, D. W. Munroe, clerk, Clanwilliam, Man., and constable C. L. De Lisle, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Ottawa.

"They are in first class shape," said Mr. Chemblin. "We have exchanged messages, making plans for a possible airplane landing."

He said October was not a "good weather month" in the far north, with heavy fogs sweeping across the land, but generally conditions show improvement in the early days of November.

Giant Air Liner Is Planned To Be Built In Britain

LONDON. — Britain, conscious of the vital role aircraft will play in linking the countries of the world after the war, has given the "go ahead" signal for production of the Empire's "Queen Mary" of the skies.

Construction of the giant air liner will be a "spare time" job of the Bristol Aeroplane Company which builds the Blenheim, Beaufort and Beaufighter. The ministry of aircraft production which has passed the initial plans and specifications has issued instructions for the building to go ahead providing it does not interfere with normal war output.

Leslie G Pinkey, chief aeronautical engineer of the company, who was responsible for the designs of the Beaufort and Beaufighter, has just about completed the detailed plans. It is expected that they will shortly be transformed from the blue print into fact

"The new machine is not just a "blown up" version of the usual airplane shape," said an article in "London Calling," BBC publication "It is revolutionary in many ways—in structure motive power and even shape."

Most details naturally, are secret but some information has been permitted to pass censorship The aircraft's weight, without passengers, will be 150 tons and powered by special motors totalling 20,000 horsepower. It will have a cruising speed of about 200 miles an hour

It will carry 150 passengers across the Atlantic in about 15 hours for a fare which is expected to run about $200 a head Its journey will be made through the stratosphere because at such heights there is usually less wind and fewer "bumps".

PROTECT WORKS OF ART

LONDON —Sir James Grigg, war secretary, told the reconvened House of Commons that British and American experts in occupied Italian territory were taking over the protection and supervision of all ancient monuments, museums and art works. He added that damage due to the war was being repaired.

CHAPTER XII

I have believed that I'd feel it at some considerable travelling. But here we are headed for a spot the boss call renowned port and it's the first time since I was a nipper that I've felt sort of big.

Of course there is a reason for it but when I think about the last couple weeks and what is starting up in the future I can't help but believe it all what happens from now until the war is over can't happen too fast as me and get back to living our own kind of lives. And believe me, pal, I'm going to do my share to hustle the job when we can get those boats and planes and those little yelling tramps ring aside.

We got embarkating below the other week and but before it comes up the river and Miss Edith comes aboard to see me at the ship. We make a big thing of saying good-bye and I'm sure she's going to miss me. She looked back on the little church in the town near where the ranch is located. The Boss and I are the last to leave but before we do he tells me that he wants to talk for a spell.

"Johnny," he says. "You know that I've no boy of my own and for quite a spell I've been hoping to sort of sit back and take life easy. What with the war and young men needed to fight and the mighty big need for foodstuffs, I'd feel a slacker if I backed off right now, so I'll carry on. The thing is, though, that this war isn't going to last forever and some day soon I want to be able to sit back and rest. I've thought it all over and I figure I need a partner—you. So, my boy, from now on you're half owner of the spread—just a wedding present from me to you and Miss Edith. When you get through with the job you're doing now, you can settle home and take over here. And, good luck, boy."

Well I'm telling you, I can't believe my ears and all I can do is shake the boss's hand. He's worrying about serving me medals to start a spread of my own, and suddenly falling into a big lump and over the country. It's a mighty fine spread and just the kind of a place that is worth looking for.

Finally I turn old Paint for home

I get up before the sun is up and pull on an old pair of boots and trousers that I'd lent in the bunk house figuring I'll go down to the corral and borrow somebody's pony and ride a spell.

You can figure I'm plumb surprised that when I get there I find my old paint pony at the gate and my own saddle and bridle hanging on the top bar of the fence.

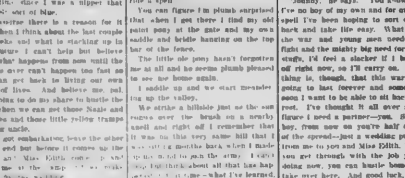
The little old pony hasn't forgotten me at all and he seems plumb pleased to see me home again.

I saddle up and we start meandering up the valley.

We strike a hillside just as the sun comes over the brush on a nearby knoll and right off I remember that it was on this very same hill that I was sitting on the back when I made up my mind to join the army. I can't help but think about all that has happened since to me—what I've learned. As well as likes I've made. The army, and those things are mixed looking up for me in the near future.

I am by just now, my saddle mare and roll me a smoke and just sit and over the country. It's a mighty fine spread and just the kind of a place that is worth looking for.

Finally I turn old Paint for home



The Boss drives us to the station"

Well when I get back all the boys are just getting around, but there are some of them that must have been up quite a spell. They've got me up in all and out on my bunk and you bet I'm glad to get my boots off.

We all go into breakfast but I'm not much on eating because my stomach is not a little nervous. You can bet the more I get into it the more I'm excited about it.

WE START FOR CHUPCH

Well we start out for the little church in the town near where the ranch is located. The Boss and I are the last to leave but before we do he tells me that he wants to talk for a spell.

"Johnny," he says. "You know that I've no boy of my own and for quite a spell I've been hoping to sort of sit back and take life easy. What with the war and young men needed to fight and the mighty big need for foodstuffs, I'd feel a slacker if I backed off right now, so I'll carry on. The thing is, though, that this war isn't going to last forever and some day soon I want to be able to sit back and rest. I've thought it all over and I figure I need a partner—you. So, my boy, from now on you're half owner of the spread—just a wedding present from me to you and Miss Edith. When you get through with the job you're doing now, you can settle home and take over here. And, good luck, boy."

Well I'm telling you, I can't believe my ears and all I can do is shake the boss's hand. He's worrying about serving me medals to start a spread of my own, and suddenly falling into a big lump and over the country. It's a mighty fine spread and just the kind of a place that is worth looking for.

Finally I turn old Paint for home

DON'T REMEMBER MUCH

Well I don't remember much about the next few minutes except that I say I do at the proper time and soon it is all over and we effort out of the church

The boys from the unit have got a right smart guard of honor drawn up outside and it sure makes me feel proud to realize that my friends want to all the trouble for me

We go back to the ranch for the wedding banquet and right off I start to thank the boys who formed the guard of honor and to tell them how sorry I am they've missed part of their leave just to come to the wedding

"They're missing nothing," the captain grins. "There are boys who have the special place to spend their leave and your friends here invited them all out to stay at the ranch, till the army wants them back."

You can see by the smiles on the boys' faces that they sure appreciate it too.

Well, we don't stay around long because soon the boss drives Miss Edith (I mean the wife) and I to the station. We head for Banff for our honey moon.

That sure goes quickly too and in no time at all we're back at the station to see me away and it isn't till then that I feel sad at all. When it's finally time to leave though, I wish I could stay behind—at least for a little spell.

SHE'S A REGULAR SOLDIER

The wife kisses me goodbye and she's a regular soldier because she doesn't cry at all

Take care of yourself, Johnny," she says. "And do come back soon."

"Son," he says, "this war can't go on forever because there isn't a combination in the world that can beat the Allies and the cause they're fighting for. It may be a tough kind and it may be quite a spell but some day, and not far away, we'll be back at the boss on the platform to welcome you back."

They yell "All Aboard" and we climb onto the train

The last thing I see is the wife waving her handkerchief and the boss waving his battered old sit-hat as the train pulls out

That's why I'm a little sad. It was hard saying goodbye to folks like them but they're the kind of folks the young fellows have to make sure aren't going to be pushed around by some dirty Nazi or Jap.

That's why we've got a job to do in a mighty big job — and that's why we've got to buckle up and get it over with quick.

Then we'll sure be nice to head back home.

Beau Jonathan
by J.B.Ryan

CHAPTER VII

THE metamorphosis from grimy chimney sweep into a clean dressed valet was soon made, but the change from Puritan to London beau was less speedy. While it required but a day to acquire the latest styled hats, the right coat and the black wig needed by Jonathan, and the gay public world he was about to be darkened as it appeared, the learning of the intricacies of dice and cards under the tutelage of Matt Tucker delayed for three days the appearance of London's most expensive hosiery of the dazzlingly garbed man whom that individual's attendant, engaging rooms for his master, described to the landlord as Master John Hale. Said the landlord, "Master John Hale."

The inn was orderly. Unlike the Golden Hind, there was no gambling in the room. Jonathan ordered wine and drank with his meal a bottle of the establishment's most expensive wine, then spoke to Tucker who sat again sought the landlord.

"It is a long time," said the crafty white chinned gossip, "since my master, who has just returned from the continent, has visited London. Could you suggest a place or two where a gentleman could find entertainment?"

Mine host, already impressed by the evident wealth of his patron's purse himself to Jonathan's table "Would you care for cards, Master Hale? Or dice? There is a room upstairs where some of the gaiety gather to amuse themselves—"

"That will be excellent," approved Jonathan, brushing a crumb from his embryo moustache. "I can see that I am going to enjoy my stay here."

The innkeeper conducted Jonathan up the stairs to a room entered by opening closed sliding doors. The room was cluttered with men on various ages and stations, dicing, playing cards and sitting at the table. The landlord accosted a dapper young fellow, spoke to him in an undertone for a moment, and then called for Jonathan to approach.

"This is Sir Maurice Blaine, said the Landlord. "Master John Hale."

Sir Maurice led the newcomer toward the tables. "What would you like to play?"

"Cards," said Jonathan. The gambling lessons of Tucker had showed Jonathan that dice was a game of pure chance, where as the fortunes at cards could be influenced in a large measure by the player's own judgment and ability to make decisions.

The gold in Mons. Deny's purse was low by this time, since Jonathan's determination to be the perfect man at cards had been realized at a price Yet the meagreness of his money supply caused him no qualms when he picked up the cards dealt him and made the first bet. He knew he would win, even as he had been successful when rolling dice for stakes.

The knowledge left him confident when the more experienced gamesters, particularly one beefy-faced man in the uniform of a captain of dragoons, sought to test him by increasing the size of the wager in the tavern. When the cards were laid down, reached out cooly and had the heap of coins raked and stacked before him even before a comparison of the hands disclosed that he had bested even the first round.

IT WAS that complete sang-f id that caused Jonathan to win again the losers, notified, shoved more money across the table in an effort to shatter his self-possession, betting more than the strength of their hands called for. Jonathan of his adornment was increased by the fact that, even while going through the mechanics of the game, he was examining every face in the room to see if the tall man, his bodyship, were among those present.

By the time Jonathan had assured himself that the towering personage which he was working would not be achieved this night, the pile of sterling before him was already larger than the sum Denys had carried away from the Golden Hind, and the reputation of Master John Hale was spreading. Tomorrow all London would know him as a polished, suave gentleman, able to hold his own with the best card players of England.

IT WAS dawn when the game ended. Jonathan was in possession of a small fortune. Capt. Shattuck, the heaviest loser, remained seated at the table as the others rose, watching Jonathan pocketing the gold and notes of hand. "You've had a run against me again, Hale," he sneered, "I might as well to remember that there are certain rules no gentleman ever evades."

Jonathan straightened. "You would be wise in not making me cheating."

The dragoon pushed back his chair. His face was red with anger, possibly resorting to trickery of some sort."

"You have drunk over-much this night, Shattuck," said Jonathan, "I give you a chance to blame your words on the wine."

"The words are mine!" snarled Shattuck. "Damme!"

Jonathan caught up a half-filled glass from the table and flung the contents into the beefy face. "Then, captain, for a poor loser," said he.

The other players were between them then, but the insult on both sides had been given. "Damme!" roared Shattuck. "You shall have my score for that, Hale!"

"At your service, captain," bowed Jonathan. "Pistols for preference, I fancy the blood-letting you need. You have your sword as I have mine. There is light enough for one in the courtyard behind this inn, and if you can find a second, Sir Maurice, I am sure, will act in like capacity for me."

"I shall be happy to oblige, Master Hale," said Sir Maurice. All night he had followed with pleasure the good luck of the man he had introduced, and was eager to be considered the best companion of this elegant and mouchant stranger.

THUS principals, seconds, and witnesses of this affair of honor trooped downstairs and into the rear yard of the tavern.

Shattuck drew his sword and faced the waiting Jonathan. Jonathan lifted his weapon and the pelnis touched in salute. The dragoon had the body of a trained fighting man. Trained, too, was the arm that sent the bright steel weaving before Jonathan.

Unlike Shattuck, Jonathan had never been schooled in the art of fencing. But he was born with an instinctive coordination of muscle which stood him in good stead now.

Captain Shattuck's moves were conscious, the result of what he had been taught in the days of drilling. Jonathan's actions were natural, quick and effortless as those of an animal.

Shattuck executed what Jonathan did not know was a thrust in tierce, but his blade moved, nonetheless, into the cursory parry, straightening the arm with which he guarded his body. With which he uniform of a captain of dragoons sought to test him by increasing the size of the wager in the tavern. When the cards were laid down, reached out cooly and had the heap of coins raked and stacked before him even before a comparison of the hands disclosed that he had bested even the first round.

IT WAS that complete sang-f id that caused Jonathan to win again the losers, notified, shoved more money across the table in an effort to shatter his self-possession, betting more than the strength of their hands called for. Jonathan

Prepare For Future

Victory Bonds Will Pay Off The Mortgage In Advance

In connection with the Victory Loan campaign, although most of the big shows and colourful spectacles have taken place in large cities, smaller communities and the rural districts have also realized the vital importance of these national appeals. From advance reports reaching national headquarters of the War Finance Committee, smaller Canadian centres are planning to support the fifth drive more than ever before.

The war has placed heavy responsibilities on Canadian farmers with food such a vitally important weapon of defensive and offensive operations. Farm labour is scarce; farm machinery is rationed. Particularly for the individual in the rural district who plans to pay off a mortgage on his farm or some other long term debt in the future, Dominion government securities are the safest way to keep savings intact until they are needed

Other Canadians, due to the exigencies of war, have been deprived of home ownership As a matter of fact in many communities they have been lucky to get even a roof over their heads. Today through the purchase of Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates these people can literally pay off the mortgage on their house in advance When the war ends they will be able to give a builder or contractor the go ahead signal and prepare to move right in

Canadians who invest $1 000 in this loan, and who have subscribed a similar amount in each of Canada's war loans to sale will have $5 000 plus interest available for home purchasing after the war They will have no need to pay off their mortgage in advance and can move into their new homes finance and worry free

Other families have been setting up regular funds through their purchases of Victory Bonds and War Saving Certificates to provide for their children a university education or for their own retirement Victory bonds will help each of these people pay for the things they are fighting for

SOUNDEST WAY

The soundest and quite possibly the most economical way of dealing with old age pensions is to make them in fact payable to everybody in reaching the stipulated age The application of a means test should be done away with, the need for a calculable staff would then disappear and the peace of mind and self respect of the old people would be real red

LETTER FROM BRITAIN

Solving 3,000,000 Problems—Citizens' Advice Bureaux Extend Real Helping Hand To Workers—Lightening War's Burdens

(By Sidney Harmilow)

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S fighting speeches have been an inspiration to the people of Britain, as well as to all those united with them in the common cause, through four long years of war. They have sometimes sounded a warning note, often urged caution, but they have always been encouraging And none more so than this review of the war on his return from the United States

News from the fighting fronts continues good; for four months no merchant vessel has been sunk by enemy action in the North Atlantic, preparations are being pushed ahead for the great assault on Germany from the West

But there is no tendency to regard the war as won, even though planning for post-war development is now being done in almost every sphere. There are no illusions about the fact that, as Mr Churchill reminded the nation, the bloodiest portion of the war both for Britain and the United States is fast approaching. So it is in a mood of sober confidence that the people of Britain face today respond to the increasing calls for output, and the changes in manufacture to provide the required kinds of weapons at the moment they are needed

London is brighter these days—not in appearance but in spirit. Every restaurant is cosmopolitan with the presence of soldiers, sailors and airmen wearing the uniforms of a score of nations, spending brief leaves and meeting each other in that spirit of camaraderie which is even more pronounced in this war than in the last. They are enjoying the same pleasures, the same concerts, the same plays and musical productions as before the war, except that they take back to their own countries an appreciation of English music and the drama as well as the technique of work ag together which has been tried so successfully in war and will be continued in peace

Smoothing Out Difficulties

As war makes still deeper inroads into the normal family life of the nation, and people find themselves working in strange places in strange jobs, they welcome more than ever the helping hand which is extended to them by a remarkable organization called the Citizen's Advice Bureaux. This service was started in 1939 on the day after war began. Two hundred offices were opened in various parts of the country. That number has since grown to more than a thousand, employing altogether about 7,000 people—almost all of whom are volunteers. After four years of war the Citizens' Advice Bureaux have answered more than 3,000 000 enquiries. They deal with 7,000 questions and applications for help each day. Their job really is to advise people who suddenly find themselves faced with some problem or domestic problem arising from the war.

The blitzes, the call up for the fighting services, the transference of young factory workers to strange new cities—all these things confronted men and women with unexpected queries and difficulties which the Citizens' Advice Bureaux set themselves to smooth out. Many Government Departments, particularly the Board of Trade which is concerned with clothes rationing, find the Advice Bureaux of great help in explaining to the public some of the more obscure points of the various rules and regulations

Ensuring Ai Health

One thing which has lightened the load of war on the shoulders of the nation as been the unfailing good health of the people Despite the strain of concentrated effort under adverse conditions. There have been no serious epidemics since the war began and for infectious disease 1942 has been one of the best years on record Britain's immunity in this respect is due in some measure to a) details to the ingenious precautions which have been taken by the health authorities

Hygiene squads with their staffs of inspect assistants were organized into mobile units ready to go at a moment's notice to any district in the country where infection showed signs of developing These squads, one of the emergency public Health Laboratories Service were stationed at various centres in such a way as to enable them to provide for the whole country with instantaneous help should it ever be needed

Peat Bogs

Production In Ontario And Quebec May Ease Coal Shortage

Canada is digging more deeply into peat bogs estimated to cover 37,000 square miles to help meet the present fuel shortage, but others said that coal in itself is no solution of the problem

Some 1,200 tons of peat representing new production has been turned out in Quebec this year, and Ontario output has been enlarged. An important sideline in the development of peat resources has been the collection of sphagnum moss found in peat bogs Used extensively for treating wounds during the first Great War, the moss now has greater value. It is employed in certain chemical processes, in assisting the preservation of vegetables, and in agricultural activities.

Lignite is a woody type of immature coal that splits up into slabs on drying.

MITH SUKED WITH ONE

When fattening poultry have drinking water left before them between feedings they gain a lot faster, it was shown in recent tests made by the Poultry Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms. So, even if fattening feed is given in very moist form, it is well worth while to supply birds with water between feeds.

FARM FOR VICTORY—175 LOCAL COMMITTEES ACTIVE

Approximately 175 communities have organized local Farm For Victory committees it was announced here by Hon. D. B. MacMillan minister of agriculture. Acting under the supervision of nine committees these local groups in turn are directed by a 9-member Provincial Farm For Victory committee, composed of Mr. R.M. Putnam, Director of Agricultural Extension Service, Mr. E. W. Brandon, Secretary of Alberta Federation of Agriculture and Mr. A. M. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner with the Alberta Government.

First organized last spring the program was launched in Alberta to encourage increased production of essential foods on the farm. Further objectives included effective distribution of available manpower and the greatest use of all farm equipment.

Achievements of local committees cover a wide range of activities said Mr. MacMillan, and valuable work has been done, particularly during the fall in the distribution of harvest labor. The committees are expected to assist in recruiting men who can be spared from farms to relieve the immediate labor situation in the packing industry and later on to provide men to work in other essential industries.

"Farm For Victory" is not a mere catch phrase. It is a command from the Government of Canada to the farmers of the Province to help achieve Victory for the United Nations.

$2563.00 BACK WAGES COLLECTED

Amount of wages due employees in Alberta, collected during the month of September is $2563 according to a report of the Board of Industrial Relations released by Premier Ernest C. Manning Minister of Trade and Industry. This brings the total collected by the Board since April 1st, 1942, to $27,227 as compared with $18,791 for the same period last year.

Appreciation for the work of the Board of Industrial Relations is felt by the many thousands of employees who have benefitted directly from its activities. It is seldom, however, that there is any expression of similar thanks from an employer. Nevertheless this is what happened recently when an organization doing business in Calgary was cheated up for not keeping proper records. The correct procedure was explained and adopted, whereafter a letter was received by the Board expressing the thanks of the company for the Board's kindness in the matter

HON. W. A. FALLOW GIVES MAJOR ADDRESS

Highway and road building as an important aspect of post-war reconstruction was discussed by Hon. W.A. Fallow, Minister of Public Works, in a recent broadcast. A special reserve fund for this purpose is being built up. Foundations are already laid he said, in the "pay-as-you-go" policy adopted by the Alberta Government some eight years ago by which money voted by the Legislature out of revenue is used to build and maintain highways with our own machinery and skilled staff.

In dealing with the importance of roads to the people of Alberta, Mr. Fallow declared this Province has enough bitumen to hard-surface all the roads on the American continent. Restrictions of war time have necessarily impeded the road program but in spite of this the minister stated "the current year has witnessed the greatest expansion of highways and roads in the history of Alberta".

Mr. Fallow revealed that the people of Alberta owe $44,000,000 on roads which he said no longer exist. "The roads have gone" he said, "but the debt of $44,000,000 continues, and even at the present reduced interest rates is costing the taxpayers over $1,000,000 annually."

JUDICIAL SALE OF FARM PROPERTY BY TENDER

Pursuant to an order of Honourable Mr. Justice Tweedie of the Supreme Court of Alberta, and of certain directions for sale, sealed tenders will be received for the purchase of the following parcel of farm property, situate 22 miles from Vermilion, Alberta, to be sold in one parcel:

The North West quarter of Section Eight (8), in Township Forty-eight (48), and Range Five (5), West of the Fourth Meridian, reserving thereout all mines and minerals, and the right to enter upon and work the same.

subject to the conditions and reservations contained in the original grant from the Crown or in the existing Certificate of Title thereto, and subject to all taxes, rates and assessments imposed thereon subsequent to the 31st day of December, 1942.

The land consists of 160 acres, more or less, of which 10-15 are brush, 40 acres in hay land, 85 acres cleared, 65 under cultivation. No acres could be broken.

The soil is black loam on clay, about 6 to 8 inches, with clay subsoil.

The buildings are in fair condition and consist of a frame house, 18 x 24, two straw barns, and one straw chicken house. There is one well in poor condition.

FARMERS AND FARM WORKERS

If Your Farm Work has Slackened for the Winter, You Are Needed Elsewhere in Essential Employment

Highly essential work—very important in Canada's war effort and for the welfare of the Nation—is threatened with shortages of workers. One of the few sources of men available for other high priority jobs is those men on the farm who will not be needed at home during the Fall and Winter. Heavy needs must be met in many lines—producing vitally essential forest products; in base metal and coal mining, in food processing, in railway track maintenance. If you live on a farm and are not needed at home during the Fall and Winter, you are urged to answer this national appeal.

Farmers engaged in essential work during the off season will be allowed to return home when needed. Also, those on postponement under Mobilization Regulations will continue on postponement while in approved essential work during the slack season on the farm.

Please answer this vital call NOW.

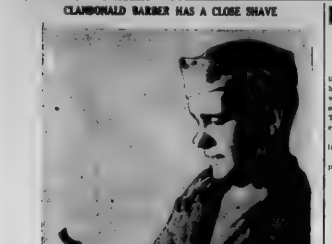
CLANDONALD BARBER HAS A CLOSE SHAVE



It was a close shave for Cpl Lincoln Ross (Liberty) Hill, 29, U. B. Marine Corps barber from Clandonald, Alta., when shrapnel from an enemy bomb nicked the razor which he examines here. He was in the "shop" at an overseas base stropping the razor in preparation for working on a customer when the bomb struck. The shrapnel missed Hill, but the razor was a total loss.

Corporal Hill is well known throughout the Vermilion and Clandonald districts, his brother Louis Hill resides here while two sisters, Mrs. Homer Campbell and Mrs. J. H. Hollenbeck live in the Clandonald district.

British Women At War

AN EVENT OF GREAT SIGNIFICANCE took place recently in England, when six thousand women, representing all branches of war workers, were invited to the Albert Hall in London as guests of the British government. Mr Churchill and all the members of his cabinet were present to address the gathering and to answer questions. Among the many fine tributes paid to the women assembled there, was that of Mr. Ernest Bevin, British Minister of Labor and National Service, who told them that "women had tipped the scales between defeat and victory." This point was also emphasized by the Prime Minister in a lengthy and impressive address, during which he warned his listeners that there was much bitter fighting ahead of us and that it would be disastrous if there should be any slackening of the national effort now. While all those present at the meeting were British women, it was felt that the tributes paid to them were for all women of the United Nations, who are carrying on in industry and in the services, thus releasing men for active duty.

Women Assumed New Positions

For many months after the fall of France, England was potentially a battle zone, and the magnificent determination with which the country was mobilized for defense is well known. At that time the women of Britain took on many new and unfamiliar duties, which they have continued to perform with great success. The British Ministry of Information has given out some interesting details of the way in which Britain's womanpower has been organized. We are told that there are 17,250 000 British women between the ages of eighteen and forty-five and that over 7,000.000 are employed in full-time paid work in the armed forces, civilian defense and in industry. Of these 10,000 000 of the 17,250 000 mentioned previously, are married women with children under fourteen years of age and they are not asked to undertake war work Married women with children over fourteen years old may take part-time employment and there are 500 000 housewives now engaged in part-time positions. Thus it is clear that there has been almost total mobilization of Britain's womanpower, and that by their efforts they may well have tipped the scales between defeat and defeat.

Replacing Men in Many Jobs

The extent to which British women are helping in the war industries is shown by figures given by the Ministry of Information These show that sixty per cent. of the employees in the Royal Ordnance factories are women. These factories are employed in making explosives, filling shells and making guns. Forty per cent. of the workers in the British aircraft industry are women, as are thirty-five per cent. of the employees in engineering and allied industries. While it is pointed out that those who are in war industries and in the services perform the most spectacular tasks, there is almost no occupation outside of actual fighting which the women of Britain have not undertaken. It is said that the female staff in post offices has risen from twenty-three per cent. in 1939 to forty one per cent. in 1942 Before the war, there were only three full time post-women and now there are over ten thousand. Eighty-five thousand women are now replacing men in all types of work on the railroads of Britain, and there are over sixty thousand women engaged in full time work in agriculture, in addition to many thousands of seasonal and part time workers. These are only a few of the many ways in which the women of Britain have assumed their share of the winning of the war. The women of the other United Nations are likewise doing their utmost and there is no doubt but that the tributes paid to them by the Government of Britain was a well earned one.

Some Cows Have Names That Belong To Social Register

Recently we heard of a cow called Springbank Rose Countess consider that for a few minutes. It calls up a picture of a high born beauty, richly and distant in manner but with a promise of warmth and affection upon closer acquaintance Another cow is called Glenview Pontiac Dora de Kol; there is a name which would not be amiss in the Social Register. Yet another is Doreen Fraucy Rag Apple, obviously a skittish, debutante, rare society sort of cow and another well-known to dairymen, is Susie Cowdyke Payne Lass, a name fit for a princess among cows.

Think of the thoughtful affection which appears in these names! Think of the pride of the milkmaid or cowman who walks to the pasture gate and calls "Here Susie Cowdyke Payne Lass! Here Doreen Fraucy Rag Apple"

And think of the terror of the cow who responds! Sh- will be no full-eyed old terror will, a crumpled horn, but a high stepping society cow, filled to the neck with cream Anyone who says that farmers have no imagination merely shows his ignorance – Stratford Beacon-Herald

New Procedure

In Respect To Sending Messages To Friends In Enemy Countries

New regulations regarding the sending of personal postal messages to relatives and friends, other than prisoners of war, residing in enemy-occupied territories, have been announced from Ottawa.

Instead of purchasing an international reply coupon and forwarding the message to the International committee of the Red Cross, Geneva, Switzerland, as formerly, senders must in future go through a more simple procedure. They must write the message on an official form obtainable at any post office and hand it, together with a postal note for 25 cents, to the postmaster for transmission to the chief postal censor, Ottawa. The 25 cent fee covers transmission of the message and reply from the addressee.

Personal postal messages cannot be accepted for prisoners of war or civilians interned abroad to whom letters may be forwarded free of charge but may be accepted from next-of-kin in Canada for prisoners of war in the Far East the regulations state Delivery of such messages cannot be guaranteed.

The message must be written in block letters and must not exceed 25 words It must be confined to family news or enquiries as to the well-being of the addressees, relatives or friends

Messages may be sent air mail, by payment of an additional 30 cents.

SMILE AWHILE

Passenger (to driver of old horse)—Can't you go any faster?

Driver—I could, sir, but I wouldn't like to leave my horse behind!

Guide—The castle has stood for 600 years. Not a stone has been touched, nothing altered, nothing moved.

Visitor—Um, they must have the same landlord we have.

"I don't know what I would have done if it hadn't been for you!" exclaimed the discharged prisoner.

"You'd have done time," was the dry comment of his attorney.

"I want a pound of better."

"The best?"

"What was the last I had?"

"The best."

"Give me a pound of the other."

Wife—The fortune-teller said my second husband would be handsome and clever.

Husband—Do you mean to say that you were married once before and never told me about it?

Mr. Smith—Your wife used to be so nervous, now she doesn't seem to show a sign of it. What did you do for her?

Mr. Brown—That was easy; the doctor simply told her nervousness was a sign of old age.

Mother: "Now, before you get serious with him, be sure he is always kind."

Daughter: "Oh, I'm sure he is. I heard him say he put his shirt on a horse that was scratched."

Wife: "I'm afraid the mountain air would disagree with me."

Hubby: "My dear, it wouldn't dare!"

"Pup, if I saved you a dollar, would you give me 50 cents of it?"

"Yes, I guess so, son."

"Grab, I saved it for you. You told me you would give me a dollar if I passed in arithmetic, and I didn't pass."

"How did the finish wedding go off?"

"Fine, until the parson asked the bride if she'd obey her husband."

"What happened then?"

"She replied: 'Do you think I'm crazy?' and the groom, who was in a sort of daze, replied, 'I do'."

"Does your husband talk in his sleep?"

"No, and it's terribly unsporting. He has nothing to."

"Johnson's address was well timed, wasn't it?"

"Yes, two-thirds of the audience had their watches out before he finished."

Lady Movie Patron (turning to man sitting behind her): "Shall I remove my hat?"

Man: "No, that's not necessary, madam. It's much funnier than the comedy on the screen."

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By Ottawa Observer)

On the recent Jewish New Year religious holidays, Canadians of that faith were given leave from the armed forces, and in some camps special services were held by chaplains of the Jewish personnel.

Lt.-Col. Charlie E. Bailey, D.S.O., M.C., has returned from overseas to organize a unit of stevedores now serving in the Canadian Army. Although a resident of Vancouver, he was born in Kamloops, that pretty town on the junction of the north and south Thompson rivers.

A number of Western men were among the 41 Canadian Engineer sub-lieutenants of the Royal Canadian Navy who are doing duty now with the Royal Navy. There is Alan M. Cameron of Saskatoon; George Irvin Loucks from out at Inverness, Sask.; Arnold Sobering of Gretna, Manitoba, and E. L. Park of Edmonton. These Western lads are in keen demand in the navy.

A pupil took over from a former instructor at a Canadian fighter wing in the Old Country, when Squadron Leader J. E. Walker, D.F.C. and two bars, succeeded Wing Commander K. Hodson, D.F.C. and bar. The former is an Alberta man, now hailing for Edmonton. He will be administrative station commander.

Flying Officer H. T. Brown, of Biggar, Sask., one of the small town boys who was a step for the Royal Train back in 1938, won the D.F.C. recently, when one engine crocked as he was on his way to Germany, but he kept on and dropped his load successfully. Two nights later he was again on the wing, this time over Berlin.

Long range Liberators of the North Atlantic Command have a sweet time hunting the Germans pig boats. One of the first to register a successful attack, a crew member and co-pilot on one, was Warrant Officer Art Adamson of Vegreville, Alta., Helping to drop those lethal depth charges on another U-boat was Sgt. Lloyd Conlin, a fellow Albertan from Drumheller.

Decorations have been coming thick and fast to Canadians in the three services and Western boys are sure in the "getting" class. From Lilac Siding, a little farming community, was Squadron Leader W. C. Klassen, who got a Bar to his D.F.C. and very high praise. Pilot Officer C. W. Paddock of Elkhorn, Man., has been recognized with a D.F.C., as was P/O. G. W. Duffield, Lloydminster, Sask., and S. E. Finlayson, of Broadview, was awarded a Distinguished Flying Medal.

Now that the army lads have been on the push through Sicily and Italy, acknowledgments of bravery are being announced for them, two privates, Wilfred Reilly, of Neepawa, Man., and L. J. Tupper, of Winfield, Alta., get the coveted Military Medal.

A new fast-shooting combination called Twin-Bren Guns which can do double execution was demonstrated for the first time not so long ago at Currie Barracks, Calgary, and the boys think it's something which the Jerries won't like.

The party of two officers and 12 ratings of the Wrens (Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service) were certainly given a grand reception in London, first of their kind to arrive for overseas service. Bomb scarred London, veteran of four years of war, her streets studded with uniforms of members of all the United Nations forces, but still the capital of the Empire, everyone took the gals to their hearts and really made them welcome. Press photographers and newsreel men vied with each other for interviews.

WINTERING BEES

Mainly because the honey in northern countries is gathered from clover, it is more wholesome for wintering bees than honey from the south. Dandelion honey has proved fatal to bees. Honey from the maple, or from pure alfalfa, and honey from white goldenrod, granulates so hard in the comb that wintering bees are unable to use it.

MAKE YOUR PARTY A SUCCESS WITH THESE GAMES

A Party Game

Don't sit and worry about your party being a success." If you're entertaining a few servicemen at your home but not at a loan as to how to entertain them It's so easy to work up a few interesting games.

The illustration above shows the animal music game The leader of this imaginary orchestra stands in front of players who sit in semi circle. To begin, leader pantomimes a violinist, and players imitate trumpeters. When the leader changes and blows a saxophone, the orchestra begins to fiddle.

As the leader switches from one instrument to another, players immediately start to perform on the instrument the leader has just stopped playing. Those failing to do so, pay a forfeit when game stops.

Our 32 page booklet is full of games for all kinds of parties. The games are of all types from brain teasers to rollicking action games. No party will be dull with them to play.

You can easily make your party a success with a few of these games.

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

MENTAL ILLNESS

An individual is just as apt to suffer from a sick mind as from an infected appendix or gastric ulcers, but to most people mental illness still spells a major crisis with serious social and economic implications for the relatives as well as the patient. The stigma that is still attached to mental illness, militates against seeking early medical advice, and accepting that advice when treatment is counselled. A rational, understanding conception of such misfortune, when it comes, will help to put the patient under competent medical care promptly, assure his protection, and relieve relatives of much of the sense of stigma, which is only a hangover from the days of witchcraft and casting out devils.

A major contribution to bringing about a more rational public attitude toward mental illness has been made by Edith M. Stern, an authoritative lay writer, whose little book, "Mental Illness: A Guide for the Family," has been published by The Commonwealth Fund, New York ($1.00 U.S.) Mrs. Stern answers the anxious questions of those who have mentally ill relatives

Two well known Canadian authorities in the mental health field recommend that this book be made available to all public health nurses. It would make a good handbook for physicians as well as nurses but since mental ill health may strike any one, we recommend it for general reading. The language and presentation are in simple English. The contents reveal a thorough understanding of the subject. In appendices, the author lists United States mental hospitals and mental hygiene societies. It is to be hoped that a Canadian edition containing this useful information will be published, or that any subsequent American editions will include Canadian directory.—

CALIBRE OF GUNS

A naval cannon's caliber is the diameter of its bore, but if we speak of a 14-inch gun of 45 caliber, it refers to a cannon whose bore is 14 inches, and whose length of barrel is 45 times 14.

Sailor's Life For Me

The best is none too good for Canadian sailors at sea, and cooks aboard corvettes, minesweepers and destroyers must be good at their jobs. So that men can be released for duty at sea, there have to be Wren cooks to do the work in naval training establishments ashore. In the picture above, Wren Bunting and Wren Randell, both from Toronto, are hard at work helping to feed naval ratings, officers and Wrens in their establishment. They say "It's a satisfying job when you hear what the sailors say about the improved menus now that the women are in charge!" Slogs or maybe not women without dependent children are accepted for enlistment as long as they are from 18 to 45 years of age.

Believe It Or Not

Ripley Could Use This Story About Two Box Cars

Six years ago, railroad yards in eastern Canada built a series of new box cars. One car was No. 471,901 and the next was No. 471,902. Since then tens of thousands of cars have been constructed. A short time ago both of these units turned up on a loading platform of a Winnipeg war plant, one right behind the other. Railroad statistical experts say they wouldn't even hazard a guess as to when such a coincidence might occur again.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 24

HONORING OUR PARENTS

Golden text: Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right. Ephesians 6:1.

Lesson: Exodus 20:12; Luke 2:48-51; Mark 7:9-13; John 19:25-27.

Devotional Reading: Proverbs 4: 10-18.

Explanations and Comments

Honor Parents, Exodus 20:12. Honor—love and respect—thy father and mother. The promise of length of days—that thy days may be long in the land which Jehovah thy God giveth thee—was not so much a promise for the individual Israelite as it was for the nation Itself. Such a relation between children and parents will be good for the national life, will conduce to the virility and stability of the people as a whole, and will make for the long life and prosperity of the nation. A prosperous national life is dependent upon proper care for authority. Few people have lived up to this commandment as have the Jews. The family has been central with them more than it has been with certain other races, and no doubt the secret of their persistence as a people and the longevity of their racial spirit have their explanation largely here. A right relationship between parents and children is a virtue which brings many other virtues in its train. A home in which parents and children are at continual cross-purposes will be a menace to the moral health of the community.

"Happy is the child who passes by many steps from hearing his father to believing the name of his God; and happy the parent whose character is such that their children discover in them a foreshadowing of the nature of God himself." (F. W. Meyer).

Jesus as a Boy Honored His Parents, Luke 2:40-51. Here we have part of that beautiful story about Jesus in the temple as a lad of 12 years, the parents' search for him, his mother's rebuke, his saying which they understood not that he must be in his Father's house. Then after that great experience he went back to Nazareth with them and was subject unto them.

High Quality Flax

Canadian Flax Compares Favorably With That Of Other Countries

The quality of Canadian flax in comparison with that of other countries is very favourable, states the Dominion Department of Agriculture in a report on Oil Seeds Investigations. Iodine in the oil content is important. In a study of four varieties of flax grown at 84 stations from Alaska to Mexico, the iodine number from the samples grown in Canada exceeded those from any other region except those grown in the southwest under irrigation. As compared with the Great Plains and Northern Prairie regions where most of the U.S. crop is grown, the Canadian grown flax averaged 12 points better in iodine number. In fast comparisons between Argentine and Canadian flax, the iodine content of the Canadian flaxseed was somewhat higher.

Bells Ring Again

Canadian Oil Sound Free From Twice-Stopped Churches Of Malta

Malta's bells, those that are left, are ringing again; the need for keeping them mute has passed. Bartarin bells! Anyone who has not heard them crashing and booming over Malta's struggling streets has missed an unforgettable experience, states the Manchester Guardian. Cascades of sound pour down from the twin-steepled churches to roll their brazen discord over the sunbaked roofs. On the many "feste" days to the name of the bells is added the splattering explosions of hundreds of crackers and crackers. And all the while, in the steeples the uncontrolled bell-ringers keep up their attack of sound. Boys and youths, they ring every bell together and enjoy the effect.

If cornered, a badger digs himself underground with lightning-like rapidity.

Stan Waldenberger has had unsurpassing done and a recent inspection put in at his home to the west end. He is now having a kitchen addition built by Chas Lipsey.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mackenzie of Edmonton and for many years Vermilion residents, are receiving congratulations this week on the birth of a baby daughter Colleen, in the Provincial hospital on Oct. 15th

Tony Kelow of New Westminster, B.C., is home on a visit to his mother and the family here. It is five years since Tony left Vermilion to make his home in the coastal province.

Wm. Dight received an interesting letter recently from Rev. Hunt who is now located at Arctic Bay, N.W.T. Ken says the mode of travel up there is by dog team and he gets quite a bit of pleasure in handling teams of 14 to 24 huskies and that they surely take a lot of handling at times. Although kept really busy Ken manages to get out snowshoeing or mushing a little in the winter, and in the summer and autumn he finds time for recreation. There are two seasons in that far northern spot, winter and the month of August However in the latter summer there is an abundance of different colored flowers and a multitude of small birds which look like our sparrow but sound more like a meadow lark. The 24 hours daylight period is enjoyable but the 24 hours of darkness certainly does not appeal to Ken. Living in a snow house or "igloo" is quite an experience for a gentleman to say.n

JOAN WHITBY MARRIED SATURDAY TO SQDN. LDR. JAMES E. WALKER

White and bronze chrysanthemums were banked on the altar and adorned the chancel rail of Christ church Edmonton, on Saturday for an early afternoon wedding service, when Miss Barbara Joan Whitby, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lionel Whitby of Vermilion, pledged marriage vows with Sqdn.-Ldr. James Eir ale Walker, D.F.C. and two Bars, R.C.A.F., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker of Edmonton. The Rev. E. S. Ottley officiated.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Alberta, receiving her degree in Arts at the convocation of 1940. She is a member of Delta Delta fraternity. Sqdn.-Ldr. Walker returned recently from operations in Britain, N. Africa and Russia, where he gained wide fame as a fighter, and was awarded the D.F.C. and two Bars for heroic action.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride made a charming picture in her slipper-length gown of white silk jersey styled on slim, long torso lines. Her only piece of jewelry was a string of pearls, and completing her ensemble, she carried a bouquet of gardenias and baby chrysanthemums.

Mrs. P. B. McCalla, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor. Gowned in a floor-length ensemble of Mediterranean-blue georgette, she made a charming attendant

Best man was Flt. Sgt. Roy Walker, R.C.A.F., brother of the bridegroom

One hundred and thirty friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr and Mrs. Walker, 10004 95 Avenue Edmonton, following the ceremony.

Sqdn. Ldr. Walker and his bride took a wedding trip to Calgary and Banff. For travelling the bride wore a tailored suit in brown tweed, alligator shoes and purse, and tweed topcoat

VERMILION MAN IS MARRIED IN EDMONTON

In St. Andrew's Roman Catholic church, Edmonton, Miss Dorothy Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hayes, of St. Albert trail, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Acheson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Acheson, of South Edmonton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. O'Sullivan, of Vermilion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white sheer, and chapel veil. She carried American Beauty roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Audrey Hayes and Miss Mary Acheson, were in blue with matching veils and corsage bouquets of pink carnations and yellow roses.

Mr. Edward Acheson and Mr. George Hayes, jr., attended the groom.

A wedding breakfast to relatives and friends was held at the Royal George hotel, and later there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents. In the evening a dance to 65 guests was held at the home of the groom's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Telford just could not find a girl to help her, so Dorothy and Viola Bennett volunteered to help with the general housework and the chores. They both learned to milk and to feed calves and many more chores too numerous to mention. They even tried their hand at stooking.

Their efforts were surely appreciated and when they returned to their home in town in time for school open it had small but ample a sum of money to shop for their work.

JOHNS, R.C.A.F.

Andrew J. Sadownik, son of Mr. and Mrs Isaac Sadownik of Vermilion, enlisted in the R.C.A.F. as a cheese cutter, this week and expects to leave for No. 2 Manning pool, Edmonton the same day. Andy won a diploma for cheese at a district festival in 1941. He has been employed in Edmonton recently as a butcher at the Queen City Market.

TWO LITTLE GIRLS HELP OUT ON THE FARM

Here are two smart little girls aged 12 and 9 years, who did their bits in helping out the labor shortage on the farm.

HIGH SCHOOL ATTENDANCE CLIMBS TO 138 STUDENTS

Three More Next Week—50 Students from Outside Districts

High school attendance climbed to 138 this week with three more students registered to commence attending the first of next week, according to information given the Standard by Principal L. D. Russell. At the present time fifty of the students come from outside of the Vermilion centre school district, thus greatly augmenting the local district's income in the way of tuition fees and also putting considerable money into circulation among the town's hotel and lodging, school supplies, clothing etc. The Vermilion High school problem attracts as large or larger percentage of outside students than any school in the province.

The names of students from out of town, together with the names of the divisions and districts they come from are as follows:

Peace River Division:

Cecile Day, Jackapine R.D.

Two Hills Division:

Frank Malinosz, Clive Dorey, Lostine Lake.

Islay S. D.:

Lorraine Purvis, Maurice Uhlich, Dorine Mitchell.

Vegreville School Division:

Grace Stewart, Indian Lake; Margaret Tovell, David Tovell, Violet Tovell, Bird Hill; Dorothy Eyben, Antonia Leaf; Elizabeth Mickelson, Claymore; Georgia Marnah, Heatherbell; Jean Duncan, Eltham; Zena Mahler, Jenny Mahler, Wilderness; Lorne Schneider, Stanley Kaszeczka, Carleton.

Vermilion School Division:

HE WAS ANGRY!

Yes he was angry, this farmer who was trekking from somewhere to a farm farm near Derwent. He was travelling tractor and pulling a fully rack heavily loaded with good farm equipment. Behind this was tied a team of horses. He came from the south and made the mistake of continuing straight ahead past the Vermilion-Derwent turn, where the road suddenly stops, instead of finding the right road through the river valley. He was angry however you can't back an outfit like that up. The wagon and its flat rack wouldn't back, and the farmer stated rather strongly that there should be a sign at the corner corner warning people that there was a dead end road ahead. As he was in no mood to back the outfit he let them to the pump railing. He had to unhook his tractor from the front of the wagon, swing it around, and promise a strong hitch to the rear of the wagon. All of this took considerable time, and trouble, and caused him to stay overnight in town and continue his journey in the morning. On top of all this his horses became startled at the noise of the tractor back from phoese they came, probably many miles away. Yes, this man was quite angry, and he said that a good sign directing him to the proper road would have saved him a lot of trouble and worry, so that he hasn't very pleasant recollections of Vermilion.

EASTERN HARVESTER LOSES ROLL OF $110.00

One of the eastern harvesters employed on a threshing crew near Islay had the sickening experience of losing his entire roll of bills amounting to $110- and then had the joy of finding it again. Said harvester was engaged as a spike pitcher and had the money in an old tobacco pouch. At supper she might he discovered that the pouch was gone out of his pocket He told the farmer for whom the crew was working at the time, George McFadyen, that he had to go back to the scene and explained that he had lost his roll in a tobacco pouch. "Tobacco pouch" said George. "Why I picked up a pouch just as I left to come home and shoved it in my overalls pocket thinking I was about some tobacco, maybe that's it."

Examination revealed that it was, and that the 5 twenties and 2 fives snugly repaired therein.

BUYS FIRE TOWN HOUSE

W. E. McCrae has purchased the fine residence on Vermilion street recently bought and completely remodeled by Leith Tyner. Mr. and Mrs. Tyner only moved into the rebuilt home a month ago but will now go to Edmonton where Mr. Tyner is already working in a new position.

While buying one house which he will probably live in himself, Mr. McCrae sold a house and two lots on the south side, to the present occupant, Mr. Milo Brower. This property is located just west of the Donnelly property, facing on the highway.

Victory Loan on Last Lap

VERMILION DISTRICT LAGS

Away back in 1940 Lord Shaftesbury said, "Nothing can save the British Empire from shipwreck"; in more recent years and months Adolph Hitler has claimed to have Britain beaten to her knees and her associated allies full of desire for peace at any price. Today, however, the picture is considerably changed and Canada, along with the other nations of the British Commonwealth and our allies is preparing to strike the final blow for Victory.

Our men are in the various services in all parts of the world placing their lives at the disposal of the forces of freedom; we are producing armaments as never before and at this stage we must use our effort. The money in the hands of our people still has a most essential job to do and if we, of the Vermilion area, are to live up with the rest of Canada we must put forth a worthwhile effort in the next seven or eight days and buy more and more Victory Bonds.

Bad weather and almost impassable roads have hampered the efforts of canvassers in previous issues; victory effort will be made in the final week of the loan to contact as many citizens as possible, but whether you are canvassed or not will you make it a point to see that YOU have bought YOUR bonds, not merely as a token purchase but all you can afford to provide money which must be forthcoming if our boys are to be spared many of the horrors of a lengthy struggle. Individuals having savings accounts in their bank are earning one and one half per cent on such investments; these funds might well be placed in Victory Bonds so as to earn a yield of three per cent and there is little question but that if you do not put the money into the hands of Canada the banks will and they will reap the increased interest yield rather than you.

Persons canvassed by loan representatives have refused to buy bonds because they do not like this or that section of the Government of Canada, but it should be borne in mind that the Government will not suffer where such refusals are invoked as an excuse for not buying bonds; the men who are facing death will be the ones who will see their efforts hampered by a lack of armaments and essential supplies.

A few residents of this district have stated to loan representatives that they will not buy bonds because they feel the Government should "produce" the necessary money by means of their printing presses; theories of this nature are quite harmless in peace time possibly, but certainly have no place in a wartime psychology when our country is engaged in a fight to the death. The advance of such theories in the face of an urgent need of ready cooperation for the purpose of raising urgently required funds must be taken merely as an excuse, rather than a reason for not placing surplus funds in the best security in Canada.

The local unit of the Canadian Women's Army Corps Training Centre at Vermilion have already purchased bonds to the extent of $12,250, or an average purchase of $350 per unit, a worthwhile record for each member; of the Corps; this is a most excellent showing and should be a fine example for we civilians who have been relied upon for no sacrifice whatever up to the present time.

There seems to be a fairly general idea that in subscribing for Victory Bonds that we are "giving" something to Canada at this time; such is not the case, however, and those of us who do subscribe are merely placing our funds in the safest investment in Canada at the highest rate or interest compatible with absolute safety. Funds which are at present in bank savings accounts awaiting the opportunity of erecting homes or purchasing stock or equipment in the post war period might well be invested at least temporarily, in the bonds of Canada as bonds are readily cashable and proceeds of the bonds may be made available immediately when the money is required.

For the convenience of all who wish to purchase bonds we appoint a Bell as loan representatives, any one of whom will be glad to contact any prospective buyer at once upon request; telephone numbers are given so that you can arrange for a call to be made to you from you than your telephone. Please lend your weight to the effort by contacting your representative TODAY.

ISLAY PIONEER PASSES AWAY

Death of James C. Mooney on Tuesday

James C. Mooney, one of the very early settlers in the Islay district, passed away on Tuesday afternoon, October 26th in the Islay hospital He was 79 years of age and had been ill for the past three months.

The funeral services will be held under Masonic auspices this Thursday afternoon, October 28th, at 2 o'clock from the Knox United church, Islay, interment will take place in the Islay cemetery.

Mr. Mooney was born at Stardale, East Hawkesbury township, in Ontario, on Sept. 18, 1864. He came west in 1902 and lived for two years at Strathcona (South Edmonton), in 1904, a few before the advent of the railroad, he moved to the Islay district and homesteaded the present James Allan farm a mile straight west of the village, later moving to the well known Mooney farm a mile northeast of Islay. A great worker, keen and industrious, considerable success marked his farming operations and he early retired from active participation in 1911. More than time he and Mrs. Mooney have lived in Vermilion and Victoria.

Surviving members of the family are his wife and three sons, also daughter Mrs. H. D. Houston of Islay, and one son Charles of Prince Albert, Sask. There are six grandchildren.

RICH OIL SAND AT MIDFIELD No. 4 WELL

An exceptionally rich oil sand was struck at Midfield well No. 4 on Monday. Depth of the top of the sand was 1522 feet. The C. H. Withers rig is drilling and waiting on the oil field interests. This makes the fourth completed Midfield well, two of these are producing and a fifth will be brought out. No. 4 which is now cemented, while the No. 3 well is on production. Mr. Withers is now moving his crew to Unity where they will drill a well with a new ultra-modern machine recently purchased. This will be the term for further operations in the Vermilion field

MORE SETTLED WEATHER —

SPEED THE VICTORY

We hear a lot of talk about security and a better world . . . after it is all right and proper but let a part of your duty to make this world better start right now! I suggested that we, and make our quota $2500.00 instead of the $1500.00 we have been asking for and would have been achieved were it not for adverse weather and road conditions. We can possibly get back with over 90 per cent of our quota still to be subscribed The eye canvass deserve a great deal of praise for their efforts to make this loan a success.

The importance of raising this loan is well known to the public and it is not the case of letting George do it, it is up to you and I to me. Neither is the case of public or religious duty, it is the case of the safety and freedom of nations that are at stake It is this country gives you a living and the freedom and tolerance that you enjoy, if, then it is worth fighting for If you cannot go into active service you can send and your representative may be his duty to go, then don't you It is up to you to see that your quota is subscribed by your full ability? If you refuse this assistance, what are you going to do to help your boys from these communities overseas, if they are wounded, and what YOU are doing about this. Are you going to let them down? If you subscribe less than your full ability you need the name of a "quitter" in the list of those who are not willing to do their share in the matter of victory.

September Output Of 11,694 Barrels Sets A New High Mark

For Vermilion Field — More Wells Producing

With three new Cannar Oils' pumps now adding initial production during the month, output of Vermilion oil field reached a new high of 11,694 bbls., during September, according to a survey by the "Oil Bulletin".

Twenty-three Vermilion wells operated during September, including 3 Cannar tests. Largest September yield was from the Holl No. 1, which pumped 1,241 bbls., an average of 41 bbls daily.

New producers in September included: Cannar No. 3, placed on the pump Sept. 6 with initial rate about 36 bbls daily, to pump a total of 624 bbls. during the month, an average of 25 bbls. daily; Cannar No. 12, on pump Sept. 15, with initial 74 bbls., to pump 732 bbls by the end of the month, an average of 16 bbls daily; Cannar No 14, placed on pump Sept 22, to yield 377 bbls by the end of the month. This would represent an average of 44 bbls daily for 9 days on pump, but it is possible that a portion of the reported September yield was obtained during bailing operations prior to going on pump Vermilion's October production will be augmented by output from several additional wells. Cannar No. 15 started on the pump Sept. 29 and Cannar No. 16 on Oct. 8, each with an initial of about 45 bbls. per day. Initial yield of 60 bbls will be reported this month. Cannar No. 17 drilling Oct. 19, flowed 210 bbls in 28 hours after under its own power, died, and then continued on production by bailing. It will go on pump in the immediate future, with initial rate perhaps as much as 100 bbls. daily. Vermilion-Grand Prairie No. 1 has just completed drilling the plug and is begs starting bailing It will also probably go on pump in the immediate future. Vermilion Oils Nos. 3 and 4 and several more Oils emplacements are standing with casing set, and are expected to start production tests shortly.

The new school district on Turkey Hill No. 2211 is asking for tenders for the erection of a schoolhouse.

F. G. Miller has sold his homestead the N.E. of 24-50-7 2 miles south west of town to George Dandy for $1000.

John Welch of Hensell, Ont., an old settler of ten years experience has been engaged by the town to take charge of the new power plant.

The hospital board of Islay hospital are calling for tenders for the foundation work of the building.

VERMILION OFFICER RECEIVES PROMOTION

Lillian M. Bunker Now Lieutenant

The appointment of Second-Lieut. Lillian M. Bunker to the rank of lieutenant has been announced by Canadian Women's Army Corps officials.

Lieut. Bunker enlisted with the C.W.A.C. in January 1942. After completing her basic training at No. 2 C.W.A.C. Basic Training Centre, Vermilion, she was attached there as an instructor before taking an officers' training course at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que. Following that she took an instructors' course and was requested to Vermilion as a platoon officer.

Her mother, Mrs. Ernestine Ethel Bunker, resides in Saskatoon.

REMARKABLE RECORD

10 From 1 Section of Land in Armed Forces

Section 8-18-1 located in the Vanrei district, some 30 miles south-east of Vermilion has the remarkable record of having ten members from the four homes located on the section in Canada's active service forces. Four families farm this section, a quarter each and in the services are representatives from each family. Three Hamiltons, three Spencers, two Davidsons, and two Allisons.

Art Gould or Islay drops the editor an interesting letter from out on the west coast where he is now Chief Motor Mechanic on board H.M.C.S. Chatham. Art hasn't been home for the past two years and has done quite a bit of travelling since joining the navy. Among Vermilion boys recently met were Cliff Donnelly and Bunny Payne. The latter by the way certainly agrees with him but a long enough leave to visit home would also be very acceptable according to Art.

Telephone Insulators Are Expensive Rifle Targets

On Sunday, with nothing much to do, a number of us at Kaleland decided to go shooting. Game was scarce, but there's always a band, larger than the telephone line. Abby Gorgichuk took careful aim and scored a bull's eye. The insulator broke in many pieces and fell to the ground. In fact it wasn't such a good shot he says but when he appeared in court to answer a charge of unlawfully damaging a telephone line, the property of the Government of Alberta, and had to pay the sum of $20 for damages and costs.

A good many people use telephone or telegraph insulators for a target forgetting that damaging same is a criminal offence and carries a penalty of two years imprisonment.

TEACHER PROBLEM

There hundred and twenty-five normal school trainees will be ready to take up their duties as teachers after Nov. 1, it was stated here recently by Dr. W.H. Swift. Chief Inspector of schools for Alberta. This will help relieve the teacher shortage now responsible for 235 closed schools in the Province, he said.

In discussing the problem, Dr. Swift said that normal students are being given three months intensive training after which they receive a War Emergency Certificate. This is not equivalent, he explained to a regular teachers certificate but it is one method which has been adopted during wartime to solve this serious problem. Dr. Swift added it was anticipated that further training would be necessary before the "emergency" certificate would be exchanged for a regular professional certificate

MORRISON

Many cars were seen in town on Sunday last week from the surrounding districts headed with folks to see and hear the C.W.A.C. pipe and skirl band concert. They certainly well worth hearing and the girls deserve much praise for their good work.

Rain and snow which fell during the week and some people are beginning to doubt if threshing will get under way again.

The meeting of the W.W.I. which was held at Mrs. Miller's home on the 13th was poorly attended owing to muddy roads and wet weather We hope that everyone can get out to Mrs Art Bonham's on the 27th. Next meeting is going on just the same and ditty bags are being filled

Mrs Harley White is now living in town. We all hope that her health continues to improve and that she is able to attend the meetings as usual.

SURVEY VALUE LONG HOLIDAY

Forms surveying the results of the extended holiday for Alberta schools are now out to various centres of the province, it has been announced by Dr. G. Fred McNally, Deputy Minister of Education. We want to determine as accurately as possible whether or not any benefit was secured from pupils who would otherwise have been going to school, he stated.

Survey form consists of five sections. Application for holiday girls between the ages of 12 and 16, it asks how many were engaged in farm work and in gainful occupations other than farming during period Sept. 1 to Oct. 10th. From the forms returned to the Department of Education it will be decided whether or not the holiday next year during August and September or, if it is not worthwhile, to go back to the usual months of July and August.

All teamsters should take note of the warning contained elsewhere in this issue to the effect that driving across the runways at the landing field is absolutely prohibited and that prosecutions will follow violations of the order. Drivers are advised to go around the main road of the field in order to reach the town dump. Road ruts in runways can cause serious smash-ups with aircraft.

DON'T LIQUIDATE SWINE HERDS

Appeal to swine producers not to liquidate their swine herds was issued last week by Hon. D.B. MacMillan, Minister of Agriculture. "Concern is being felt by the Department regarding reports that farmers owning large swine breeding stock are being sent to market. If these reports are correct, the Minister stated, it suggests that swine production will be reduced.

While the relationship between feed grains and hog prices, he continued, has been altered by the recent increase in the price of oats and barley, and although the price of hogs under the best bacon contract has not yet been announced, farmers would be well advised to await developments in the new bacon contract before liquidating their swine herds.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

Vermilion, Alta., Oct. 25, 1943.
Editor, Vermilion Standard,
Vermilion.
Dear Sir,

As this letter is of general interest to residents of Vermilion and district I ask you to print same in your paper. This is an open letter to the reeve and councillors of Vermilion Valley M.D. regarding the road leading from Vermilion from the north-west, particularly from Baker's corner to the main road north of town. This has always been the neglected corner of this municipality and there has been nothing done to this portion of the road except for the odd load of gravel dumped in the mud hole (opposite Kearn's gate) for the last five years. This is a main market road and all traffic from a big area to the north-west has to come over this miserable piece of road.

There have been petitions and deputations from the district to the west to have this road improved. Did we ever get from the municipal council is promises which are never kept and excuses about no money being available. The latest excuse is that the grader blades are worn out and that they can't get new ones, yet I see by the last Standard in box 500 letters that Vermilion Valley is investing heavily in Victory bonds, a very worthy cause, but why neglect the roads, over which we have to haul our produce. The main road north of town is also in very bad repair and about anyone coming from the west.

Two years ago I hauled a car out with the team on this portion of road and the driver who had come from B.C. Paul remarked that he certainly never expected anything like this so close to the town of Vermilion. Yet today this same piece of road is almost impossible for motor traffic, and to think that there is a good gravel pit only a half mile from the worst part of this road which is the west end.

Right now there are lots of teams and men idle during this wet spell, also two trucks with gravel boxes all waiting for some work within a very short of this bad spot. For $200 or less the worst piece of this road, about one-quarter of a mile could be made passable by gravelling, and you could forget about the grader blades

Will this council act now on this suggestion—or will this piece of road be left as memorial to the good old system of local councillors before the enlarged unit takes over? If the reeve and councillors will come and inspect this road now, before freeze up, they will not have to take my word for it that this is the worst piece of road in Alberta. Don't forget to go over it, especially the west end.

MACDONALD'S Fine Cut

Beau Jonathan
by J. B. Ryan

CHAPTER VIII.

SIR MAURICE BLAINE was at the top next night with an invitation for Mister John Hale to accompany him to an exclusive club. There, as on the previous evening, cards were the diversion. This was an even more select gathering, with several impressive titles among the names of those to whom Jonathan was introduced, but once again Jonathan's hope of finding the letter of Denys was unrealised. How much longer, he wondered, must he keep this up?

He had gone for Miss Tucker when he returned to the inn—and more in the days that followed. No attempt was made to save money; over and above what might be called working capital, every penny went to add to the magnificence that was making the name of John Hale a legend.

At the end of the week, Tucker announced that the house on Pall Mall was ready for occupancy, with a full staff of servants engaged. "It is my luck now that I have a home of my own," Jonathan said to the faithful man, "and I am grateful to you, "to return the hospitality shown me by you and your friends. All of you must be my guests for the first evening."

THEIR housewarming of Master John if it got under way in brilliant style. Liveried footmen in flaming silks and powdered wigs were turning instruments already in position in the kitchen, new servants perplexed over oven and spit. Jonathan moved among his arriving guests, greeting those he already knew, Sir Maurice Blaine at his side to present those who were still strangers.

Jonathan acknowledged an introduction to the Earl of Chelsea, an empty-faced man in flaming silks. "Egad, Master Hale," beamed Chelsea, "I have been looking forward to this meeting. What will it be worth to whisper in my ear the name of your tailor?"

"The name of the horse you are grooming for the race next month," laughed Jonathan.

"The bargain, Hale!" agreed the Earl. "Before I leave, you and I shall make an exchange of secrets."

A tall man in somber garments appeared beside the brightly have Earl. "Good evening, Blaine," he nodded.

"Ah, your lordship!" Sir Maurice bowed. "Lord Farquhar, allow me to present our host, Master John Hale."

It was fortunate, indeed, that Lord Farquhar inclined his head once more, bowing with an elaborateness that consumed a full instant. Otherwise he would have observed the startled recognition in the eyes of Jonathan that no schooling could control. There was no mistaking that harsh face with the bony nose and grim-set jaws. This tall man in black . . . red and black silk was his lordship, with whom Jonathan had fought in the tavern at Winsset.

"I had to attend this rout," said Lord Farquhar. "They tell me, Master Hale, that you are a veritable devil at cards. I have a passion for the pastimeors myself. Now that we have become acquainted it should be easy to arrange a meeting to test our respective skills."

Sir Maurice said, "His lordship is a devil with women, too, Hale. And Satan himself with the folk." "I heard how Hale taught Shattuck a lesson," said Farquhar. "But it is cards that interest me at the moment."

JONATHAN'S deep-set eyes lifted slowly, but by now he had his features composed, although the blood was still pounding in his ears. "I shall be at your convenience at any time, my lord," he said.

The tall man did not recognize Jonathan, a circumstance that was really no wonder. There was more than periwig and fine clothes to create in Farquhar's mind a picture entirely different from the awkward, plainly dressed young Puritan he remembered. The week of masquerade had left its mark on Jonathan, making him appear older, tainting him with an aura of cynical sophistication.

Farquhar glanced about at the assembling crowd and suddenly brightened. "You will excuse me, gentlemen? I have just spied her Grace, the Duchess Catherine, and she is something I must whisper in her pretty ear."

JONATHAN watched the tall, arrogant figure move away, unaware that his hand had stolen to his side, feeling for the sword he had discarded for the evening. Lord Farquhar's fellow could not escape him now! Now that Jonathan knew the name of his enemy, he could find his lordship at any hour of any day or night and call him to account for the death of Senator Denys.

The muted music from the ballroom swelled and settled into royal . . . Sir Maurice touched Jonathan's sleeve. "Come, Master Hale, you must not miss this. The masque about to be presented will redound to your credit as an entertainer."

"There is something I must first attend to," Jonathan withdrew his arm. "Take my place among the guests, Blaine. I shall be with you as soon as possible."

Before he could protest, Jonathan had strode away. Jonathan had to find Tucker. The chimney sweep, with his knowledge of London, would know the location of the Tweedsmere town house. While his host's attention was occupied in the house on Pall Mall, Tucker and Jonathan could slip out, go to the Farquhar home and, by whatever means necessary, search the place. If they found Anne Jamieson, they would take her away, then Jonathan could return here to accomplish the overdue reckoning with Farquhar.

WHILE search for his elusive servant brought Jonathan at length to the crowded ballroom. Perhaps if he remained still for a few minutes his man would put in an appearance. He had told the chimney sweep to inform Tucker that the master required him.

The walls of the ballroom were lined with spectators watching the entertainment progressing in the centre of the floor. Sir Maurice had engaged a group of mummers to put on a pageant interspersed with music, dancing and song. The program was now near its end for Jonathan could grasp the meanings of gestures and pantomime, but he eyed the parading masked figures with interest nevertheless.

Among the players was a girl in white mask and wig and white and blue silks, with reddish-brown hair—she so resembled Anne in her actions that Jonathan was tempted to be sure.

A blare of music broke the tableau that concluded the spectacle. Sir Maurice Blaine, clapping vigorously, seamed upon Jonathan. "How did you like it, Hale?"

Jonathan smiled — that girl with the red hair—she had been looking directly at Jonathan . . . Lord Farquhar, pushing through the crowd, clasped young Blaine on the back. "Where did you pick up those players, Sir Maurice?" he inquired. "There are some fine-looking wenches in that outfit."

The sight of Farquhar reminded Jonathan that he was wasting valuable time. He edged away, quitting the ballroom as unobtrusively as possible, and hurried toward the stairway. He could not be delayed longer by this fruitless search for Tucker. He would go to his room, strap on his father's sword and steal out of the house alone and unseen. Without Tucker, he would reach Farquhar's residence less soon, perhaps, but he would find the place nevertheless . . .

He stopped abruptly in the doorway of his room. The bedroom was lighted and standing over the desk under the wall-light was the dancing girl, now wearing a spangled blue cape over her white silk dress and still concealing her features with the mask.

IS STILL STRONG

Axis airpower was lacking in Tunisia and Sicily, and Frank Germant in Collier's says some of it is in basic bugs in Ki Akmets, some at the bottom of the Mediterranean, but the real truth of the matter is that there is still a great big Luftwaffe. However, Allied production has simply caught up with it. Therefore, Allied production must continue all-out because the Luftwaffe has not ceased to exist. 2030

To Save Fuel

Maintain High Humidity In The Home And Its More Comfortable

A favourite summer complaint is "It's not the heat, but the humidity." In the winter, however, they become words of wisdom. By maintaining high humidity in the home, householders will be more comfortable even though temperatures are lower. On top of that, they will save many a shovelful of coal.

Even if it were not necessary to save every bit of fuel possible, health alone would indicate plenty of moisture in the air. In winter the air is dry and thirsty. It must absorb moisture from somewhere, and that somewhere is often from an individual's body and nasal passages. Doctors agree that there would be fewer colds and nose infections if humidity were higher in Canadian homes.

There are several simple things that will help to maintain high-er humidity. Here are a few of them:

Keep the pan in the hot air furnace if there is one, well-filled with water. If this is not sufficient, pans of water just inside the registers, not where they'll show, but where they will do their work effectively.

After taking a bath, leave the hot water standing in the tub until it is cold. At the same time leave the bathroom door open so that the moisture can penetrate into the other rooms.

Slitted plants make good humidifiers, if they're kept well-watered. Their porous pots literally ooze moisture.

Humidifiers heated by stoves need have no humidifying problems. Just keep a kettle of water standing on the back of the stove.

HOME SERVICE

YOU MUST KNOW FUNDAMENTALS OF HOME NURSING

Making Bed With Patient

Today everyone should know a bit about home nursing for one can never tell when an emergency may arise. Particularly at wartime, a knowledge of how to care for a patient at home is absolutely necessary.

Do you know how to make a bed with your patient in it? Some patients cannot be moved out of bed so you have to know what to do. The illustration above is a guide. Full instructions how to do this are in our 32-page booklet, along with many other necessary things in the daily care of a patient.

Our booklet gives the home nurse the important do's and a few of the don'ts are also in order.

As well as the daily care of a bed patient it gives instructions how to care for a bed patient, how to care for a patient after an operation, a patient with a contagious disease and also how to nurse common ailments such as colds and convulsions.

Baby care is also included.

Send 15c in coins for your copy or "What You Should Know About Home Nursing" to Home Service Dept. Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and name of booklet.

No One Too Busy

To Take Care Of The Ordinary Acts Of Courtesy

A lot of people have lapsed into small lacks of courtesy and blame it all on the war, says Adelaide Kerr, writing on Common Courtesy. Too busy with war work and problems, they say, to get this or that done.

Better check up on yourself and see whether the shoe fits you.

When did you last write your mother? (Your handwriting looks as good to her now as it ever did.)

How many times have you been late to dates in the past month?

There is an old axiom: The more you have to do the more you can get done.

How about using some of the time you spend feeling sorry for yourself in getting things done.

Wheat Surplus

More Wheat Has Been Sold Since The War Began

A new peak in the carry-over stocks of wheat in Canada, the United States, Australia, and Argentina was reached at the close of the crop year 1942-43, states a recent issue of the Monthly Review of the Wheat Situation. These four countries had a combined surplus of 1,-378,000,000 bushels of wheat, or 187,-000,000 bushels more than they held a year ago. Four years of war have witnessed a steady rise in wheat surplus stocks in the major exporting countries. This accumulation has sometimes been attributed to lack of export markets, but this, the Review points out, is not supported by statistics. In actual fact, the group of countries has disposed of about 400,000,000 bushels more wheat in the four war years than in the four years preceding the outbreak of hostilities, taking into account both exports and domestic utilization of wheat.

Was Always Kind

Ralph Waldo Emerson Would Never Speak Harshly Of Anyone

Ralph Waldo Emerson, gentle, the kind-hearted gentleman, was always reluctant to speak harshly of his fellow beings. One day at the Emerson dinner table there was some mention of a woman who was well known as an inveterate seeker after celebrities. Mrs. Emerson said the woman was a snob. Emerson thought the term too harsh. His wife inquired how he would describe the lady. "I should say," replied the philosopher, speaking very slowly, "that she is a person having great sympathy with success."

WAR PRICES IN BRITAIN

Wholesale prices of all commodities in Great Britain rose by 42.8% during the first year of the war; by 9.4% in the second year; by 3.6% in the third; and by only 2.1% in the fourth year.

French colonies total 22 times the area of France itself.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

A WORD OF CAUTION

TO MEN OF MILITARY AGE AND TO THEIR EMPLOYERS

National Selective Service Civilian Regulations authorize the Minister of Labour to require that male employees furnish their employers with evidence that they have not failed to comply with National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (i.e., the Military Call-Up).

It is intended that an order will be issued shortly, requiring employers to carry out the necessary check on their male employees, and to report any men who do not produce the required evidence of compliance.

The check up will cover every male employee who has reached the age of 18 years and six months and has not reached his 38th birthday. The man will have to show evidence in one of the following forms:—

(a) A man discharged from the Armed Forces following service during the present war should have his discharge certificate. A discharged man who has not a certificate should apply for one in the following manner:—

Army—District Officer Commanding, Military District in which discharge took place.
Air—Records Officer, R.C.A.F. Headquarters, No. 3 Temporary Building, Ottawa, Ont.
Navy—Secretary of Naval Board, Ottawa, Ont.

(b) A man who has responded to a direction from a Registrar of a Divisional Mobilization Board, to report for medical examination under Mobilization Regulations, should have either a certificate of exemption or an order for postponement of military training from the Divisional Registrar. (A man entitled to either document who has lost his copies should immediately apply to the Divisional Registrar who issued the original, for a duplicate.)

(c) A man who has been rejected on application for voluntary enlistment in the Army since the beginning of the war, should have a certificate showing that he was rejected through medical unfitness. (If a man entitled to such a certificate does not possess it, he should apply to the District Military Headquarters of the District in which he applied for enlistment, in order to procure the necessary form.)

(d) A man in the designated classes who has not reached his 38th birthday, who was married on or after July 15th, 1940, or who, having been married before that date, is a widower with children, must be prepared to furnish evidence, such as a marriage certificate or birth certificate of a child, to show that he was married before July 15th, 1940, and that he is now either married or is a widower with children.

(e) A man who has reported for enrolment in the Army under the Soldier—Militia Training issued under the Mobilization Regulations and who has been rejected should have a certificate showing he was rejected through medical unfitness. If a man entitled to such certificate does not possess it, he should apply to the District Officer Commanding the Military District in which he was rejected.

(f) (i) A man who is not subject to the Mobilization Regulations because he is an enemy alien who has not made application for naturalization but will obtain a certificate from a registrar of his Divisional Mobilization Board indicating that the Mobilization Regulations do not apply to him and such certificates must be obtained by all such enemy aliens:

(ii) A man who is an alien and neither a national of Belgium, Czechoslovakia, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, the United States nor Yugoslavia who has not applied for naturalization may be relieved of his duty under Mobilization Regulations, but he gives up his rights to future Canadian citizenship when the war is over when such men have applied for such relief and been granted such status, certificates will be issued by registrars in appropriate cases.

This caution is issued to facilitate compliance with the order which is proposed. A reasonable interval will be allowed to permit men to provide themselves with whatever document, as referred to above, they may be entitled to hold.

Employers are requested to give notice of this proposal to their male employees, to facilitate the operation of the order when issued.

Price Control in Canada Succeeds

LONDON — But Byrne Dain Sandercock, director of the Consumer Branch, Prices and Trade Board, asserted here that price control in Canada has been successful. Cases in any other nation. In the United States for instance the cost of living has risen by 12 per cent since December, 1941, while in Canada has increased by only 2.5 per cent. In China, moreover, the prices of many commodities have soared as much as 2,500 per cent.

Extend Range of Canned Goods

OTTAWA. — A larger variety of canned goods for winter use than was originally anticipated is effected by relaxation of canning restrictions. Containers set aside for the dome-tic crop are now available for other uses because that crop was short of expectations. Accordingly, apple pie filler, fruits for salads, mushrooms, sauerkraut, mincemeat, pea soup, pork and beans and spaghetti have been added to the commodities which may now be packed in metal. The amount of baby food packed in metal has also been raised to from 175 to 200 percent of the 1941 pack. This is a temporary provision and expires next March 31.

NEW FEDERAL ORDER WILL ALIGNMENT TIRES

Some relief to the motor car problem is expected to be given by the federal order removing restrictions on retreading of passenger automobile tires. More cars are expected to be put in shape for operation on the highways, which also may mean an increased number of car registrations in the present license year.

It is claimed that there are hundreds of passenger car owners who have been waiting for the federal order to become effective so that the tires could be retreaded. Thus, tires will be given a longer life and another step taken along the line of conservation.

Information received by the Alberta Motor Association indicates that no great difficulty is anticipated by retreading service shops in obtaining necessary material for retreading passenger car tires. While securing of supplies was difficult last year, it has not been so this year.

The new ruling also will prove of great benefit to war workers who make use of this transportation to a great extent in each community where such plants have been established.

In some quarters it has been suggested that the general situation will be substantially eased when synthetic rubber is made available, possibly later on this year from the new plant under construction at Sarnia, Ont.

Torpedo Victim is Hospital Bound

FOREST, Ont. — Edward "Mac" Wilson, Trans-Canada Air Lines radio operator at Moncton, N.B., benefitted from blood transfusions when both his feet were amputated as the result of spending four days in an open boat after being torpedoed two years ago when he was with the Merchant Marine. "I figure I still owe them another", he said, when he donated his blood at the clinic in his home town, here.

FARMERS AND FARM WORKERS

If Your Farm Work has Slackened for the Winter, You Are Needed Elsewhere in Essential Employment

Highly essential work—very important in Canada's war effort and for the welfare of the Nation—is threatened with shortages of workers. One of the few sources of men available for other high priority jobs is those men on the farm who will not be needed at home during the Fall and Winter. Heavy needs must be met in many lines—producing vitally essential forest products; in base metal and coal mining, in food processing, in railway track maintenance. If you live on a farm and are not needed at home during the Fall and Winter, you are urged to answer this national appeal.

Farmers engaged in essential work during the off season will be allowed to return home when needed. Also, those on postponement under Mobilization Regulations will continue on postponement while in approved essential work during the slack season on the farm.

Please answer this vital call NOW.

Strain Of Sawfly Resistant Wheat Is Developed

CALGARY.—One of the greatest forward steps ever taken in Western Canadian agriculture, successful development of a sawfly-resistant, rustless wheat, has been announced by the Dominion Experimental Station at Swift Current, it was revealed in Calgary.

Recognized as the most serious problem confronting wheat growers in southern Alberta and Saskatchewan, elimination of the sawfly is seen as an early possibility as a result of the Swift Current development.

The announcement, made by L. S. Thomson, superintendent of the experimental station, indicated that while no seed is yet available, it is hoped to have seed for the new wheat strain in sufficient quantity to permit distribution in two or three years.

Started by H. J. Kemp, assistant superintendent, 13 years ago, development of the sawfly-resistant wheat is credited mainly to Arnold Platt, graduate of the University of Alberta, and his assistant, John Dore, who have worked on the problem for the past seven years. Platt, who graduated from the Alberta university in 1935, is already recognized as one of the outstanding agricultural scientists in the Dominion.

The new wheat which has a stalk too tough for the sawfly larvae to borne into, is expected to supplant "trap crop" control methods which have been developed in the Lethbridge area but which need a reduction in productive wheat acreage to be successful.

LAUNCHING PETITION

OTTAWA.—The Canadian national committee on refugees announced it is launching a petition to be signed by Canadians 18 years of age and over, in "an effort to show the government that there is strong popular support for admission of refugees to Canada." MUSSOLINI MAY RESIGN

BERNE.—In a Budapest despatch to the Swiss newspaper Gazette de Lausanne said that Mussolini had indicated his intention to resign as head of Italy's "Fascist Republican government" and had asked the directors of the party in Berlin to name Marshal Rodolfo Graziani as his successor. The despatch said Mussolini never had left Germany.

BELGIAN COMMANDOS

ALGIERS.—A Belgian commando unit—first Belgian infantry to reenter the struggle against the Germans since the 1940 campaign—has arrived in North Africa, it was disclosed. Trained in Britain, the unit includes troops who reached England in May, 1940.

RETURNING FROM NORTH

EDMONTON.—Railway and airline officials said that hundreds of Canadian and American civilians who have spent 12 to 14 months working on northern projects, are en route home through Edmonton. Traffic "has been terrific" from the north in the last 10 days, they said.

St. Croix Survivor And Rescuer

Urges Irrigation On Prairies For Post-War Plan

TORONTO.—Southern Alberta can add 850,000 acres and Saskatchewan 500,000 of land for mixed farming by means of available irrigation, John R. MacNicol, M.P. for Davenport riding, Toronto, informed the Rotarians in an address here.

More than 87,000 farmers deserted southern Saskatchewan land during the depression and engineers estimate that more than 500,000 acres of irrigated land can be reclaimed by means of a South Saskatchewan river project, Mr. MacNicol said.

"That would re-establish 87,000 farmers in diversified farming in Saskatchewan and would be as cheap at any other place," said Mr. MacNicol. "In southern Alberta water for irrigation comes from rivers originating in United States, and division of the volume of water allocated to United States and Canada is fixed by treaty and under the terms of the treaty both countries must construct reservoirs within a time limit. The United States has completed her reservoirs. Canada must act or lose most valuable water rights.

"The reservoir sites are available in Canada to conserve all the water allocated under the treaty. The construction of these reservoirs is a matter begun immediately after the war," began immediately after the war," said Mr. MacNicol.

"The cost of the whole additional southern Alberta irrigation program would be approximately $20,000,000 and the beneficial results tremendous. Three people live in each square mile of held-headed prairie land but 29 on each square mile of irrigated land. That would add at least 26,000 farm population and as many more in service villages in southern Alberta."

In 1942 two factories in Alberta produced 900,000 bags of sugar and canning factories at Tabor and Lethbridge shipped 750,000 cases of canned corn, each case containing 24 tins, all grown on irrigated land, Mr. MacNicol said.

"There is a vision for Canadians of a west studded with sugar and canning factories with abbattoirs and pork packing plants, a rich and prosperous farming area instead of dried out and deserted farms and a post-war project that will provide many thousands of jobs with self-liquidating costs," said Mr MacNicol.

CARDS IMPORTANT

Registration Ukrainian May Theorize

Permanent Place in Canadian Life

OTTAWA.—National registration certificates, originally intended merely as a proof that Canadians had fulfilled requirements of the 1940 registration, are becoming increasingly important in the life of the average Canadian and it may be that they will gain a permanent place after the war.

Reports reaching here are that the provinces are finding the certificates particularly useful and there are some indications they may seek to have it made permanent.

There is no suggestion to officials or circles of a new registration; but if the certificates were to gain a permanent place in Canadian life it is likely they would have to be given some more permanent form than the present single flimsy paper. Change of address would probably have to be recorded on the certificates.

The present address changes are marked only on the master card and no change is made on the certificate which the individual carries.

ASK FOR BETTER FOOD

LONDON—The Japanese government has been pressed to remedy deficiencies in rations of prisoners of war, Sir James Grigg, the secretary for war, told the House of Commons.

Says A Terrific Fight Ahead For United Nations

WASHINGTON.—Members of the house of representatives heard a grim and graphic account of the war in a secret session in the auditorium of the library of congress, leaving the white marble building convinced that a terrific struggle lies ahead of the United Nations.

The congressmen heard Gen. Geo. C. Marshall, chief of the staff of the United States army; War Secretary Henry Stimson and other military leaders give detailed accounts of the fighting on every battlefield. They left the building visibly sobered by what they had heard, with some of them determined to combat public optimism through urging the freest release of information by the war and navy departments.

The session was an off-the-record one, but house members reported the military men supplied this information as part of the global picture:

1. The task of defending them makes it difficult, at this time, to think of using Russian bases in Siberia to strike at the Japanese, even with Russia's consent. Japan has 500,000 troops within a short distance of Siberia.

2. The Germans are building up their fighter strength which today is their first line of defence, just as the fighter squadrons of the R.A.F. were Britain's shield in 1940.

3. Allied air forces in the Pacific are knocking down Japanese planes at a satisfactory rate but not so fast as Japan is building them. Japan's air force is increasing in numbers, despite battle losses.

4. Japan's war effort is not being impeded by a manpower shortage; in fact the problem of mobilizing her people is not as serious as the one existing in the United States.

5. The over-all problem of transporting supplies to the war fronts is a brake on the Allied war effort. The airplane is still a long distance from superceding the ship.

"Gen. Marshall gave us the impression that we are in one hell of a war," said one member.

HONOR FOR PILOT

Missing Australian Who Saved Crew Members Won Victoria Cross

LONDON.—An Australian bomber pilot who disdained taking evasive action to avoid enemy attack during his 52 operational flights and now is reported missing after an heroic attempt to save his crew from falling into Japanese hands, been awarded the 75th Victoria ...n of the war.

He is Flt. Lt. William Newton, 34, of the Royal Australian air force and the citation said his "many examples of conspicuous bravery rarely have been equalled."

Leading an attack last March, his bomber burst into flames. Newton wanted to get the crew as far as possible from enemy positions so he flew along the shoreline until he was forced to land the blazing aircraft in the water. Two members of the crew drowned themselves but Newton is missing.

INDIAN EXTREMIST

NEW YORK.—The Tokyo radio said that Japan had set up a "provisional government of India" in Singapore under Subhas Chandra Bose, Indian extremist who fled from India in 1941 when he was ordered to trial for subversion.

Allied Bombing Has Put Enemy On Defensive

LONDON. — Half of Germany's leading cities now have been severely damaged by Allied bombings, an R.A.F. commentator said, 17 of them so badly they are more of a liability than an asset to the war effort, tying up more men in repairs than in production.

Fourteen additional cities were said to have been damaged heavily by blitz-period standards, with Hamburg having received in acreage damage to its industrial machine equivalent to 60 Coventrys, Cologne to 17 Coventrys, Duesseldorf 12 and Essen 10.

The Nazis radical swing to the defensive in the air war was reflected in the increase of one-third in her fighter force since January—at the cost of bomber production—and the relation of this to the Britain-based air campaign was indicated in the fact that the proportion of the force on the Russian front dropped from one-third in January to less than one-fifth at present, the spokesman said.

Germany's defensive position is also emphasized in the fact she let 100 days pass at the height of the raiding season, between July 9 and Oct. 17, without dropping a bomb by daylight on England. In contrast during the same period of 1940 the Germans made 30,000 daylight sorties with individual plane flights) over Britain, and in the same period this year the R.A.F. made 87,000 daylight sor—largely by fighters—and the American air force made 24,000.

BRING PROSPERITY

Economic Cure—Back Of Liberated Countries Follows Allied Advances

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt pointed to North Africa as an example of the affluence and self-sufficiency that follows in the wake of advancing Allied armies.

In the early days of the Tunisian campaign, soon after the Allied landings in French North Africa, it was necessary to ship thousands of tons of food for the civilian population but today this vast area is self-supporting and the French authorities are beginning to accumulate food reserves for distribution in metropolitan France after its liberation.

Like North Africa, Sicily had been bled white, the president told a press conference. The German occupation forces seized at least five-eighths of the island's produce and years of fascist government had reduced yields and acreage.

But today, he continued, the Sicilian farmers are beginning to realize they can keep 100 per cent. of their crops and, instead of being robbed, they can sell their surplus production to Allied authorities.

The economic come-back of North Africa was revealed in a series of figures, comparing food shipments for military purposes before and after the completion of the Tunisian campaign in May, 1943.

VERMILION OIL FIELD ATTRACTS DOMINION-WIDE ATTENTION

Statements Given by H. C. Vaughan, President of C.N.R., and Dr. G. S. Hume, Dominion Geologist

TEN NEW VERMILION WELLS NOW YIELD 350 BBL. DAILY

Eighty Well Program Augments Fuel Supply C.N.R. in West

(Western Business)

With control of 62% acres at Vermilion, Alta., on the Canadian National north line between Edmonton and Saskatoon Canmar Oils Limited a subsidiary of the Canadian National has begun production of fuel oil for the railway's locomotives in Western Canada, H. C. Vaughan chairman and president, announced on his return from a visit to the field. Already 20 wells have been drilled out of a planned 80 and 10 are now producing 350 barrels a day. Other operations are pending in the same field and the railway leases the entire output of the Vermilion Refinery Company's operating plant at Borradaile close to Vermilion

The Vermilion oil field is known in all circles as a shallow field and the oil producing sands are located at depths of between 1,300 and 1,900 feet. The field was recommended by the Dominion government geologist and J.M. Penney, manager of Canmar Oils, who has had many years experience in the oil fields of South America and elsewhere, is optimistic of the future.

"We are opening the wells," Mr. Vaughan said, "as a wartime measure of precaution to secure an adequate supply and reserve of fuel oil for the railway's western services. Operation in British Columbia and Alberta is, at present, largely dependent on fuel oil supplies brought through Pacific Coast ports and any interruption to this supply would seriously disrupt our service. Bituminous coal is so scarce that it is impossible to use it as a substitute for oil. At present levels of traffic, fuel requirements of the Canadian National in Western Canada are 1,050,000 barrels a year."

On his recent western tour, Mr. Vaughan visited Vermilion and inspected Mahon and tested the wells and the cleansing plant

VERMILION FIELD YIELDS LARGE SUPPLY OF VALUABLE FUEL

(Edmonton Journal)

Heavy oil shipments are being made from the Vermilion field, according to Dr. G. S. Hume, of Calgary, representative in Alberta for the oil controller, who returned to the city on Saturday from an inspection of that area.

During September, 61 carloads or approximately 12,000 barrels were shipped from the refinery, according to information given him by J. E. Swanson, plant manager, said Dr. Hume.

"That is not a bad record at all for September," the official commented. Fuel oil from the Vermilion field is being taken by the C.N.R. in substantial quantities, according to a recent official statement from Montreal.

Dr. Hume said good progress is being made with drilling in the Vermilion field. Canmar Oils Ltd., a C.N.R. subsidiary, which has drilled 20 wells, is preparing to drill two more. Vermilion Oils, which drilled four wells in quick time, is preparing to put one on production.

Dr. Hume will submit a detailed report of his inspection trip to the oil controller.

Rain, sleet, snow and overcast since all the time makes everyone feel rather gloomy lately. Quite a few or people are not threshed at all yet and several are partly threshed while almost everyone has reseeded not yet. Trying to cheer each other a bit, we keep recalling past years, when October rains disappeared completely and November threshing was successfully completed, but last year's early winter is too fresh in our memory to make anyone a firm believer in a late Indian summer.

Arpa Friedland came to the district with the Ontario harvesters, worked in Yaxwood's outfit and is staying with his parents at present, planning to join Essen Bros. on Quick. Hughie Potter might accompany his uncle back to Ontario. His mother and he will spend most of this winter in Edmonton, where Mr. Potter and Verna live at present. Gordon Dixon will look after their place during their absence.

In our last news, several weeks ago, we mentioned Edmonton as a noisy place with so much street drilling going on, but apparently it is a good city for rats. We hear that several of the Edmonton girls have planted ten pounds in a few weeks. It seems that the Americans there have not eaten all the Edmonton rats.

Courageous people still are seen slithering over the roads in cars, but they have quite a time and driving could get there faster if they walked—

When Mr. T. Hawkes, the R.O.P. inspector wanted to come to Woodvale, he could not reach the farmer as the phone pins cut of order (just for a few days, this time). Mr. Ogston very kindly took him up to Woodvale school and with a lot of pushing, lifting of stones into the back of the car, Army willing.

INFORMATION

For Western Farmers Selling Feed Grains to Eastern Farmers

WHEAT · OATS · BARLEY

1. Wheat, up to 14 lbs. per authorized acre and one car of oats and/or barley over the quota may be shipped.

2. Every seller must apply to the Canadian Wheat Board, Winnipeg, for a permit to ship each carload before loading for shipment.

3. Cars shipped will be inspected at Winnipeg for grade and dockage. On the basis of sample inspection, certificates will be issued by the Board of Grain Commissioners, for cars held "too full" for regular inspection. The Inspection Certificate establishes the grade and dockage.

4. Dockage up to 3% is allowed. Dockage above 1% cannot be charged for, and payment will not be made for the difference in weight between 1% and the actual dockage.

5. Elevs or scale tickets or railway weights must accompany the bill of lading. Freight charges are to be paid by the farmer in Eastern Canada.

PRICE INFORMATION

On oats and barley the price per bushel to be charged the eastern farmer is the ceiling price (or the cash price if it is lower), basis in store at Fort William or Port Arthur.

GOVERNMENT SUBSIDIES AVAILABLE

As announced by the Dominion Government, the subsidy of 10c per bushel on oats and 15c per bushel on barley applies on oats and barley sold by any western farmer to a farmer of feed dealer east of Fort William-Port Arthur. Special applications must be made to the Canadian Wheat Board, Winnipeg, in order to secure payment. Special forms for this purpose will be provided by the Canadian Wheat Board on request. These subsidies will also be paid on community sales between farmer and farmer in western Canada, provided the farmer delivers the grain over an elevator scale and meets other requirements of the Wheat Board.

Sugar Beet Production

Irrigation Areas In Southern Alberta Suited To This Industry

Sugar beet production in particularly suited to Southern Alberta's irrigation areas. In no other part of Canada can the industry be so efficiently conducted. If it can be further mechanized as that labor costs will be brought down, it is within the realm of possibility that Southern Alberta may be able to supply the bulk of Canada's sugar needs in the years to come.

Alberta is short of industries and it seems to be well worth while to encourage the development of such an industry as sugar manufacturing.

Not only does it provide a good market for a specialty farm crop and bring excellent returns to the producer, but it also gives employment to a considerable number of people in the operation of the sugar factories.—Calgary Herald.

Have Great Future

U.S. Scientists Finding Dozens Of New Uses For Feathers

A small, ambitious group of U.S. government scientists believes that the future belongs to the feather.

Feathers—100 per cent. protein—are considered on the basis of experimentation to be excellent material for plastics. The Federal Feather Committee, headed by H. L. Shrader of the Department of Agriculture, is convinced these plastics may assume myriad forms from surgical sutures to bomber noses and from lamp bases to thread for textiles. Or by a simpler process feathers may be compressed into fibreboard for insulation and soundproofing. In primitive form feathers are already doing war duty in camouflage (details a military secret) and as the warm stuffing for thousands of infantrymen's sleeping bags and aviators' jackets.

Keeps Up Brave Front

Luxury Hotel In London Doing Its Best

A Canadian officer spending a recent week-end leave in London dined at one of the famous luxury hotels, frequented in happier days by cosmopolitan millionaires. He reports that, all things considered, the institution is keeping up a brave front, but the little refinements of peacetime are represented by symbols instead of substance.

The menus, for example, are still beautifully printed, but the typography does not conceal a shortage of food and a lack of variety of which the hotel would once have been ashamed. Nor does the French bits which the menus are still translated conceal the fact that the patrons are now offered mere plebeian dishes than pheasant and caviar.

On the day of our correspondent's dinner, the artist of translation had broken down the maitre d'hotel. His had faithfully found French equivalents for all the dishes until he came to the sweet. That was frankly listed as "Le brand-and-butter pudding."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 31

BIBLE TEACHING ON ABSTINENCE

(International Temperance Sunday)

Golden text: Beware, I pray thee, and drink no wine nor strong drink—Judges 13:4.

Lesson: Leviticus 10:1, 2, 8-11; Proverbs 31:4, 5; Luke 1:13-16.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 4.

Explanations and Comments

The Sin of Nadab and Abihu, Leviticus 10:1, 2. Nadab and Abihu sinned with which the story begins seems to indicate that Nadab and Abihu offered strange fire immediately after the fire from Jehovah had consumed the appointed sacrifice where all had been done "as the Lord commanded," chapter 9. Aaron and his two sons had been consecrated as priests just a week earlier, and on this first occasion when the sons discharge their priestly function they fail to follow the prescribed regulations. From the direction to avoid strong drink given in this connection, verses 8-11, it may be assumed that they erred because intoxicated. They lighted the incense with "strange fire," not from the burning coals on the brazen altar as was the command. Dr. Rankin Commentary suggests that as they perished not within the tabernacle but in front of it, they may have been making an ostentatious and irreverent display of their ministration to accompany the shouts of the people. The offense for which they were immediately visited with outward punishment was thus a flagrant outrage on the solemn order of the divine service, while the cause of their offense was their use of strong drink.

The instant death that befell these young men may seem to us a great punishment for a slight sin, but we must not forget how important were forms at this stage of the people's religion, and if the priests had set the example of contempt therefor and gone unpunished, what would not the people have done? The greater their privilege, the nearer they were to God in his worship, the greater their responsibility, the greater their sin.

Aaron Forbade Wine to Abandon Drink, Leviticus 10:9-11. These verses in Moffatt's translation read: When you or your sons enter into the Meeting Tent, never drink wine or liquor, lest you die. this is to be a standing rule from generation to generation, that you may distinguish what is sacred and what is profane, what is unclean and what is clean, and that you may teach the Israelites all the rules that the Eternal has given them by Moses.

Our chapter ends with these words: Aaron and his sons did all the things which the Lord commanded.

Admiralty Ruling

Petty Officer Wins The Right To Wear A Monocle

Because a Royal Navy non-commissioned officer insisted on wearing his monocle aboard ship the Admiralty had to write a new section to the Navy's general fleet orders.

The sailor who boldly declared that he had worn a monocle for four years before the war and did not intend to relinquish it is Chief Petty Officer Willis Mather.

His commanding officer found nothing in the books covering the situation and finally sought on official ruling. The Admiralty held that a rating may choose between spectacles and a monocle so long as it does not interfere with his efficient discharge of duties.

Two families of insect-eating birds on every acre of a 160-acre farm would devour as many as 40,000,000 insects in a cropping season.

Just Another Job

Canadian Seaman Risk Lives To Make Explosives Secure

At the height of an Atlantic gale, Sub. Lt. John Minick of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve and four ratings wrestled for 3½ hours to pin down "live" depth charges which broke loose and were crashing about the deck of the corvette Celandine. Minick, 21-year-old native of Bermuda, and former university student at Halifax, volunteered with the seamen to secure the charges. Although they knew these, weighing nearly a quarter-ton each, could break their legs like matchsticks. One by one, however, they were roped to the deck.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Memories of France"

A True Story

Written by Corporal A. Hildreth, formerly of Hindcliffe, a veteran of the World War 1914-18, and now in service again with No. 8 Company, Atlantic Command Signals. He is stationed on the east coast of Canada. The memories are true in every detail and have recently been written with a view to being published in his home paper during the Fifth Victory Loan campaign.

It was Whitsuntide 1917 when we received orders to pack up at once and proceed to a series of numbers on a map. We soon found out that the point in question was situated between Etaples and Camiers on the main road. We worked feverishly to complete the move in record time, taking with us everything we possessed including engines, generators, searchlights and guns. We made the trip by road using motor vehicles and arrived at 02 hours, thirsty, dirty and tired. We labored on, no time for rest, we must get ready for action first, we had mules lots of bully-beef and bread while in the trucks on our next hope was to locate a water supply. This didn't take our hardened old coast very long, for before we reported ready for action at 04 hours, coffee had been served twice, and, a water supply sufficient to cope with all a cold bath was in waiting. But it is breaking day, the sky is clearing in the east as we pitch our tents on the sandy slopes, the skylark flutters merrily overhead and the swallows fly swiftly by, the skrill cry of the curlew remind us we are near the sea.

With sadness you notice a steady stream of ambulances pass by. These are all driven by V.A.D. nurses, whose services will never be forgotten by the boys of the First Great War. You wonder who is inside, perhaps your own brother, your sister's beau, a sweetheart or best pal—who knows. The boom of the guns never seem to stop, and, sometimes the very earth you stand upon will heave in response.

It is daylight now and you look around eagerly; the officer yells out, "Tea b., a get some rest," but you just can't rest, you have a longing to see everything, anxious to notice every detail. The sun shines brightly, the sky is clear and blue, in the distance you can see the sea and a flock of gulls combing the beach, hospitals marked with a huge Red Cross, the rich green of the trees in a nearby Mansion seem to offer shelter and security for the half hidden chateau beyond; the noted shores of Paris Plages come crowed with pleasure hunters has now a desert like appearance while the huge hotel in the background has become a H.Q.

The hum of planes overhead remind you there is a war on, but why worry, it's true we can hear the guns, but they'll never come near here. It's spreading head first to the rear of us are grim work, he has labored long down but not out, you are more determined than ever before to pay your friend the day has not yet passed, you have learned to love so much. But where did the bombs fall? You wonder, but will not know until the next day. Yes, you know they hit the town but what? Exactly you enquire in town with the intention of going out and, it is here where you really find out what kilters the German nerve. You find he has bombs—hospitals, churches, homes, have well up to your eyes no matter how hard Lolled you may be, while you are stupified at the desolation and the structure. Memories of home creep in, what if this should happen with home and to those you have left behind. You bite your lip and turn away in an effort to hold back real tears. It was here that I lost my best pal Matty, where I found a real wreck suffering with shell-shock and his engine and dynamo blown from us of the engineshouse. I shall never forget that hazardous week. We were in action five nights out of six but the thing that impressed me most was after the second night's raid as soon as daylight appeared there began a steady stream of French refugees on the road toward Camiers their destination we knew not, but I never want to see such a heartbreaking sight again. They were pitiful, practically as many possessions as they could load on a cart, bedding, perambulators, baskets and prams—a more fortunate had broken carts and horses, while others struggled on carrying their bags loads pots pathetic looking lot we felt a little children to have experienced in hysteria. Many were crying but terly, both old and young. My was touched when I noticed one elderly the aged to [illegible] as they put be the wash [illegible] whether to proceed or turn back. It was hard on them to leave their homes and now they had become [illegible] refugees. Many of them were [illegible] terrible experience [illegible] Some had walked [illegible] We could understand [illegible] had been [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Future Of Agriculture

ANY PLANS FOR POST-WAR reconstruction and rehabilitation, both as special to Canada and to the world at large, are of vital interest to those who live in the Western Provinces The prosperity of the farmers of Western Canada always depends on general economic conditions in Canada, as well as on the demand in the world markets for grain and other agricultural products At the present time the farmers are playing a most important part in the winning of the war. Agricultural products from the Prairies are helping to feed Canada's armed forces and her civilian population. In addition, great quantities of Canadian foodstuffs are being shipped to Britain and to the other United Nations who require it. There is also in storage great supplies of Western Canadian wheat which will be available for the starving people of the Occupied Countries when they are liberated. The vital need for farm products in wartime leaves no doubt as to the place of agriculture in Canada at present, but those concerned with this industry have much interest in what may be in store for it in the post-war years.

* * * * *

Chief Reason Is Agriculture

Dr. L. E. Kirk, dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of Saskatchewan, in a recent address on "Reconstruction and Rehabilitation," pointed out some interesting facts concerning these problems, as related to Western Canada. "The West," Dr Kirk said, "is deeply concerned, not only with the outcome of the war, but with the international relations which will obtain after peace is established. Indeed, the future of this country rests mainly on a secure peace, the restoration of international trade and a generous policy of international co-operation after the war." While there is now some industrial development in the West and there are possibilities for further utilization of water-power, minerals and other natural resources, Dr Kirk pointed out that in all three Prairie Provinces the agricultural resources greatly exceed all the other resources combined There appears to be no doubt but that this should be a great food producing area, but Dr. Kirk raised the question of markets and stated that without a great improvement in the standard of living in our own and other countries, great co-operation between nations, and guarantees for future peace, there is little hope for any great improvement in farming conditions here after the war.

* * * * *

Many Problems Are Expected

It is apparent that agriculture will share fully with other groups in having many difficult problems with which to deal after the war, and it is felt that in this, as in all other problems, some preparations should be made to meet the difficulties which will arise The Canadian Federation of Agriculture has recently made a number of recommendations to the agricultural sub-committee of the parliamentary committee on post-war reconstruction These recommendations advised, among other things a "long term national planning through a comprehensive marketing and production program for agriculture." It was further stated that unless we are much better prepared to meet the dislocations of the post-war years than we were after the First Great War, a disastrous collapse in our agriculture is possible." The farmers of Western Canada withstood the trying conditions of drought and depression during the "thirties", and they are now carrying on steadfastly in spite of labour shortages and wartime restrictions, which present many difficulties. It is to be sincerely hoped that post war conditions both here and abroad will be such as to provide sound prosperity for this great food-producing area of our Dominion

Mobile Baths

Research Into The Cause Of Blindness And Other Problems

Oxford University, London, is to create a Department of Ophthalmology whose activities will include research into the causes of blindness and into the problems of eye disease, teaching and the treatment of patients Lord Nuffield has already presented £2,000 ($11,000) for the promotion of research in this field with the formed University Opthalmological Research Endowment Committee is aiming at raising a further £10,000 ($11,000) to build equip and endow research laboratories at Oxford

Being Used In The Industrial Centres Of Great Britain

Mobile baths are being used in some industrial centres in Great Britain where war movements of population have resulted in an inadequate number of baths There are fifteen mobile bathrooms operating throughout the country, able to supply free of charge and with towels and soap included, up to 2,000 baths a week.

To produce 1,000,000 pounds of war goods daily, an ordnance plant making a further 18,000,000 pounds of material, enough to fill 500 freight cars must haul in and out

ALL-BRAN TASTES SO SOMETHING ABOUT CONSTIPATION

When you're busy as most of us are, working to help win the war, it's doubly important to know what ALL-BRAN can do to relieve the causes of constipation due to the lack of the right amount of "bulk" in the diet. It's a "better way" than forcing yourself to take purgatives that offer only temporary relief.

Eat ALL-BRAN every morning. That's the simple means that thousands use to keep regular... NATURALLY! Enjoy it as a cereal or in muffins... drink plenty of water... and see what it does for you! Buy ALL-BRAN at your grocer's, and in two convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

UNDERGROUND FACTORY

Allied troops in Naples found a "completely equipped aircraft engine factory in four of the huge caverns underneath the city," used to turn out many engines for Messerschmitt fighters, the BBC said recently In another vast grotto were the main repair shops of the chief technical headquarters of the Italian air force.

Cars includes hundreds of agricultural varieties that may be classified into seven principal groups, namely, pod, pop, Stat, dent, soft, sweet, and starchy-sweet.

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By Ottawa Observer)

A COMBINED Services campaign (Army, Navy and Air Force) is at present being carried on throughout Canada to hasten the enlistment of another 65,000 more service women to release men for combat duty. The war is just getting into stride as far as the Canadian armed services are concerned.

One of the best known fellows in the Canadian Navy, Nicholas John Evenic, of Regina and Victoria, who has done so much to build up morale of the navy lads, has been promoted to Warrant Master-At-Arms. He was educated in Regina, a graduate of St. Mary's Separate School.

Flying Officer Bitney Grant, who hails from Watrous, Sask., got in the news lately by "seeing" Paris, loitering around an airfield in the dark there until he was able to shoot down a Dornier 217, chasing the flaming ship downwards. He has a dad who is also in air force blue, Squadron Leader W. W. Grant, a signals expert in Ottawa. Bitney says he never expected to see the Eiffel Tower under such circumstances. As a train buster he has 12 engines to his credit.

Among the men serving on the R.C.A.F. flying boat units from a Canadian east coast station, are many prairie lads, some of whom now have well earned decorations. A Distinguished Flying Medal recently went to Corporal Harold Kneibinsky, second engineer, of Shadworth, Sask., who on a trip was first to sight an enemy submarine, which was engaged. Another D.F.M. went to Sergeant William Bedwell, first engineer, whose home is at Marchwell, Sask. He has spent a year and a half on anti-submarine patrol work.

R.C.A.F. fighter pilots still stand by within a few dozen miles of Kisbey, Sask., and wonder, "Where do we go from here?" But it wasn't always like that, if you can remember back a few months before the Japs turned tail and fled. Weather or no weather, the Canadian boys would run boys no mercy whenever the fog lifted. Here's how the records show that it lifted on July 30 last, and the boys went on the wave missions, sinking seven direct hits on Jap fighter ships. In this group enjoying the fun was Flying Officer A. C. Fanning of Dominion City, Manitoba.

MET HIS MATCH

A barrister became somewhat acrimonious in his cross-examination, but the little woman in the witness-box remained calm.

"Now, madam counsel said: "You say you had no education, but you answered my questions smartly enough."

"Yes," she replied, "You don't have to be a scholar to answer silly questions."

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS

Since September, 1939, tuberculosis has caused 34,000 deaths in Canada and 75,000 persons developed the disease, Dr. G. J. Wherrett, executive secretary of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, reported at the association's annual meeting in Toronto. Even if the present war lasted considerably longer, it was doubtful if the Canadian casualties would equal those caused by tuberculosis in the period mentioned, Dr. Wherrett declared.

Calling for an intensified campaign against tuberculosis, Doctor Wherrett said Canada was short 6,680 sanatorium beds for white patients and 1,200 beds for Indians. He said fluorographic surveys of the population would become general in all the Provinces as soon as the equipment and personnel were available. Doctor Wherrett suggested a five-point program against tuberculosis, and intensive educational work on a national scale.

Mortality rates for 1942, reported at the meeting, showed that Saskatchewan remained first place with a combined white and Indian rate of 28.1 per 100,000 of population, with Ontario a close second, with a rate of 28.9. In the preceding year Ontario nosed Saskatchewan out of a last Loan hard for many years.

The Saskatchewan Anti Tuberculosis League this summer conducted a survey of the population of Saskatoon (43,000), in which 30,000 persons were fluorographed. Investigators discovered 39 open cases of tuberculosis, of which two were "active" spreaders. Ten thousand persons failed to take advantage of the free survey.

ONE DIFFERENCE

It's only natural, if not very original, to compare the adventure of the midget submarines against the Tirpitz with the adventure of David against Goliath. But even there the analogy suffers by the comparison—at least the Philistine champion came forth to battle. The Nazi dreadnought didn't.

CARD OF THANKS

Their have been so man kind friends who have given me most valuable and comforting assistance during this present time of sorrow and have so generously it would be a hard task to write to each one personally

To those who helped at the time of the funeral of my husband, and those who sent such lovely gifts of flowers, I thank most sincerely; the last sacred duty we did for him leaves a peaceful and holy memory in our mind

To those who so quickly and willingly took over the duties of the Ladies Aid groups thankful for relieving me of much care and anxiety to those who generously served at the sale

There are the friends who have given me valuable advice to guide me as I have had to take over duties which the head of house usually undertakes in them I give deep and humble gratitude

Lastly to the many kind friends who have sent me such comforting messages letters, cards and flowers I assure you have done much to cheer us, your prayers have come up on behalf and I feel sure much help and strength and courage to pursue every by step, helped in material ways by you all and guided by Divine Power

My grateful thanks to you all, may God bless and reward you in His own way

Mrs. Shirley Irene and Master

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother

Mrs Mary A Laughlin

who passed away on this date 1941

It's two years since you passed away
And left us here to mourn
When one we loved was called away
Our grief was sore
And took our home it was like Hell
But in our hearts she dwells well
To us she is not dead, but living
It is sweet to breathe thy name
In fancy we can see and talk
And feel her presence near —Ever remembered by her loving daughters and sons, Sylvia, Nora, Roy, Lay, also Grandchildren Marvin, Laura and Maurice.

BEACON LIGHT, ILLUMINATED WIND SOCK, SMALL HOUSE

All Scheduled for Vermilion Air Field

Officials of No. 2 Air Observers school in Edmonton have made plans for the immediate installation of a thousand watt revolving beacon light as a guide to airmen at night. The light will be put on the roof of the town hall and will be visible from the air for many miles.

An illuminated wind sock will be erected on the field and lighted by electricity. Besides this a small house will be built on the field by the observers' school officials for the convenience of air mechanics while engaged in repairing planes, and also for warming up place formed down in the winter.

ORDERED TO LAND HERE

Pilots out on training flights and flying on the beam were ordered to return to Vermilion for landing due to poor visibility in Edmonton airport on Monday. The planes had no difficulty making the landing here and the crews seemed to enjoy their short layover in Vermilion. Three planes were down at one time.

ASSIGNED PAY of your boy in the forces might well be invested in VICTORY BONDS.

Stagette Notes

On Tuesday last, the 19th the local stagette club turned out in full force to formally welcome into the club nine new members namely: Eva Clark, Evelyn Taylor, Barbara Taylor, Norma Taylor, Agnes McDonald, Margaret Girvan, Beth Elder, Ethel Nelson and Dorothy Chisholm.

After the singing of the club song and a short business meeting there was a short program and club officers which resulted as follows:

President — Norah Nelson
Past President—Mi Noonan
Vice President — Margaret Girvan
Secretary — Beth Elder
Treasurer—Lavonne Broughton
Press Representative—Mil Noonan
Social Convener — Dorothy Chisholm
Educational Convention — Jessie Swanson
Charity Convener—Dolly Isley
Membership Convener—Lee Hodgeberg
Rink Convener — Kay Lee
Scrap Book Reg.—Agnes McDonald.

The past president, Mil Noonan, then gave a resume of the Club Constitution and by-laws and an address of welcome to the new members.

Now the fun began! With Betty Caldwell in charge of the less serious side of initiation ceremonies a hilarious time was had by all. The ridiculous looking characters you may have caught sight of on the main thoroughfare shortly after 5 p.m. were Stagette rookies proving usual grand aspects they are. The initiating committee decked them out in the most picturesque attires and marched them forth to the tune of the club song with the black and white initiation banner waving aloft. The girls all took in the good fun with true Stagette spirit. We are proud to welcome them.

The parade wound up in the Beacon cafe where a tasty lunch awaited. After appetites were satisfied the girls burst forth into song and enjoyed a surprise half hour before returning to the club room. All better acquainted after the evening's fun.

With everything off to such a fine start the girls are looking forward to a very successful season.

The retiring executive extend run congratulations and best wishes to those taking over their duties.

The Stagette club met on Tuesday, October 19th with twenty members present We are now needing greater seating accommodation and are in the market for a rough or two. We now need but four members to bring our membership up to the maximum of twenty five.

We were very pleased to have Joan Calvert again in our midst for a short visit We enjoyed another visit it on by Betty Trapp former member but June Birch who was transferred to the Peoples bank

Discussion was held regarding the advisability of Christmas Dinner and the making out of decorative Christmas Bells agreed to take large in this part of the work Plans were made to meet for this purpose on Thursday night

It was noted that the Educational committee be made responsible for the arrangements for the next meeting.

The girls then adjourned for coffee

MISS SARAH TASSEY IS WEDNESDAY BRIDE

The wedding took place Wednesday at St. Joseph's cathedral of Miss Sarah Tassey, of Chandendal, and Mr. Raymond Sheehar, son of Mr. Henry Sheehar, of Streamo. The ceremony was performed by Father A. Chillon.

Given away by her brother, Mr. William Tassey, the bride wore white sheer with silver trim. Her veil of white tulle hung from a lace cap, and she carried American Beauty roses.

Miss Ellen Tassey was her sister's bridesmaid. She wore old rose with gold trim, a chapel veil to tone, and bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Alice Loughlin, was in dust rose, with navy blue trim and hat to match. Her flowers were Talisman roses.

Best man was Mr. Joseph Sheelar, a cousin of the groom.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Royal George. The bride's table, centred with a tiered wedding cake, was decorated by pink and white sweet peas. Rev. W. A. Reynolds proposed the toast to the bride.

After a short trip to Banff the newlyweds will be at home at Streamo.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Louise Lafontaine Potvin

The death took place at the Tofield cottage hospital, Alberta, on Thursday morning, October 20th, of Mrs. Louise Lafontaine Potvin, at the age of 70 years and 4 months. She was born in Quebec in 1847 and in 1880 she married Edward Potvin. Three years later they came to Alberta settling near Wetaskiwin. In the early days of 1906 the deceased came with her family to Vermilion and afterwards lived on a spot where the Bowtell school now stands. She later moved north to Islay where she lived until 1927 when she went to St. Paul, Alta.

Last July Mrs. Potvin became ill with a heart disease and disposed of her home in St. Paul and moved to St. Albert where she lived quietly until she passed away.

She is survived by her loving husband at St. Albert, two daughters Mrs. P. Kennedy of Islay, Mrs. A. Roberge of Beaumaliou and four sons Alfred and Henry of Vancouver, B.C. Edward at Toronto, Wilfred of Islay. There are fifteen grandchildren.

The funeral services were held on Saturday morning October 23rd from the St. Albert Parish church. Interment took place in the St. Albert Roman Catholic cemetery. The Rev. Father J. Bidault officiated.

WILDMERE WINES

Our damp weather still continues, and each day gone by brings us closer to winter. Surely two years won't elapse before we see Arrowhead standing until spring again.

Mrs. Rhodes, formerly of Trienale and now of Lethbridge, visited for a few days with her old neighbor Mrs. Martin, also of Trienale.

Don't worry folks our B.M.R. rink meeting at Mrs. Walter's on Wednesday, Nov. 3rd.

Had the pleasure of meeting for the first time since she joined the colors nine month ago, Pte. Jean Gill home from was a former neighbor of ours ere her folks moved away. We were pleased to see her once more and looking as well and happy.

Pte. Donald Gibson is home on furlough visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. G. Gibson, Basswood. Don has spent the past six months at Wainwright but expects to be sent elsewhere when he returns to duty.

A/C Hoel Darnett of the air force returned to his station last Thursday after spending two months on harvest leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Darnett, Basswood.

Here is a correction to an item that appeared in our news last week. It was Mr. and Mrs. Dibbon not Dibben.

Mr. and Mrs. Bathe, John Jr. and Dorothy were visitors at the Wildmere ton home on Monday; also Henry Lumsden and Tom Peet.

In a recent letter Mrs. Riley in town received from her son overseas he stated he is only eight miles from Cpl. Graham the writer's brother so those in Wildmere here boys should be able to see each other once in a while.

A farewell party will be held on Sunday evening Oct. 31 at his parents' home in Basswood for Pte Jim Gibson Everyone is welcome and will indeed please bring lunch. Dan leaves on Nov. 2 so keep this party in mind folks and give him a real send-off

RED CROSS NEWS

The monthly meeting of the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross was held in the Memorial hall on Monday Oct. 25th. Vera. Archdeacon W. Leversedge presiding.

Mr. T. Dick gave a report on the progress made by the Overseas Parcels committee. The work is well in hand and it is expected that parcels will be ready for shipment by the end of the present week.

No shipment of goods has been possible since early last month and tentative plans were discussed with a view to again endeavoring to increase the present number of Red Cross workers.

Jams, jellies and canned fruit received on behalf of the Crippled Children's hospital will be shipped direct to Calgary at the end of October, up to which date further donations will be accepted gladly by Mrs. E. H. Buckingham or may be left at the office of the District Agriculturist.

A letter has been received from John B. Dower, Chairman of Northern Alberta campaign committee, advised ediing with thanks cheque received for Campaign funds also expressing appreciation of generous contribution of $50 to purchase coats for children.

Legion Sponsors Remembrance Period

Ceremony at Cenotaph—Memorial Service in Theatre—Annual Smoker and Dance

The local branch of the Canadian Legion will commemorate the Remembrance Day which has meant so much since the close of the last war, by holding a Remembrance Day service at the Cenotaph in the town park at 10.40 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 11th. The ceremony at the Cenotaph will be brief, concluding with the placing of wreaths by various organizations and individuals. Immediately the service has ended citizens are invited to proceed to the Columbia theatre for the annual Memorial Service.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The Rev. E. H. Raikie, recently indicted in the pulpit of the First United church will deliver the address and those who have made the supreme sacrifice will be honored. The C.W.L.A.C. will take part in the service and members of the public are urged to attend as a mark of respect to the memory of brave men and women who placed their lives on the altar of sacrifice in the last war and during the present struggle.

ANNUAL SMOKER

Ex-servicemen, whether members of the Canadian Legion or not, are all cordially invited to attend the annual smoker in the Memorial hall on the evening of Nov. 11th. Veterans will have an opportunity of renewing old friendships with their comrades of former years and an interesting program is assured.

ARMISTICE BALL

The annual Armistice ball will be held in the Elks hall on Wednesday evening, Nov. 10th, and a general invitation is extended to all who enjoy good music. The floor of this popular hall has been enlarged and a pleasant evening is anticipated. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 and the orchestra has promised a fine program.

POPPY DAY

The increasingly popular Poppy day will be held on Saturday, Nov. 6th and volunteer ladies under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion will appreciate the generous co-operation of the public in making the 1943 Poppy Day unusually successful. Merchants are to display wreaths in their windows as a tribute of respect for the sacrifice that has meant so much to Canada and all funds received from Poppy day will be available for the relief of needy ex-service men and their families.

The Canadian Legion membership is sure that the public will support all the above activities and especially request that the Memorial Service and Poppy Day be given unqualified support.

GRAND TIME HAD AT ELKS' ANNUAL CARNIVAL

Three Day Event Great Success

The Elks' three day carnival, especially gaining in popularity year by year, was held in their spacious hall last Friday, Saturday and Monday evenings. All present seemed to enjoy themselves and those few who possibly lost a little too much on the games of chance for their own comfort can console themselves with the thought that all the proceeds of the affair are used for charity and welfare work.

Winners of the prizes drawn for on Monday night were: $50 Victory Bond —Mrs. Agnes Thompson; $10 War Savings certificate—Ted Heidebrecht; $25 War Savings certificate — Allan Kennedy, R.R. 3, $10 door prize on Friday night went to Jas. J. Pitt.

Carl Fry headed the ticket sellers, Gladys Cuttle was second with Mildred Conboy and Alice Link each selling a third prize.

The carnival which necessitates a enormous amount of work in preparation and co-operation by the Bros Bill, was admirably managed through and proved quite an immense success in amusement and entertainment

NEW INTERESTS ACQUIRED IN VERMILION OIL FIELD

Investment of $22,385 Made

Additional interests were acquired by Hamal Oils Ltd., representing total investment of $22,385, during the week ended June 30, 1943. The new interests are in the Vermilion field and similar ones that in keeping with a policy of increasing revenue sources they consider acquisition of further properties or interests in this field desirable.

New Vermilion holdings of the company are: One-quarter net interest in the Meeklu well, currently producing 30 bbl. daily, 30 per cent in Marina well producing 25 bbl. daily and 25 and 25 per cent equity units, and a substantial share interest in Alberta Southern (ola Ltd. and in the well operating contract. At beta Southern No. 1 is producing 10 bbl. daily, the report states. Contract for sale of output assures a good revenue for the company, the report said.

K. G. URQUHART BREAKS ARM CRANKING TRUCK

Ken G. Urquhart, manager of Oil-field Motors suffered a fractured wrist on Sunday evening while cranking a truck The truck had been left outside Mr Urquhart's residence to be run into the garage downtown The battery was too low to start the motor and the injury was suffered when attempting to crank the big machine.

To Every Canadian - - - From Canadian Military Overseas

"In Italy, Canadian soldiers, who realize that only constant pressure will bring final enemy collapse, and who are not sparing themselves in achieving that end, urge ALL Canadians to back this effort by purchasing an extra Victory Bond during the next three days to help speed the Victory.

MAJOR-GENERAL SIMMONDS."

The above message from Maj.-Gen. Simmonds is most urgent The problem in the Vermilion-Mannville-Islay district reaches much further Many citizens have not made their original purchase. Salesmen may not now be able to reach you. Do not wait for him. Call at your bank or loan headquarters, or the home or your nearest salesman today. Vermilion Unit Slow In Response to Victory Loan Needs

Officials of the Fifth Victory loan in the Vermilion-Mannville-Islay district which has been made in connection with the Fifth Victory loan drive, have the response to the general appeal which has been made in connection with the Fifth Victory loan drive, received about two years ago and occupied some by K. G. Urquhart and Jas. Kirk. His son, unable to be with home by W. M. Holdridge, has send out fifty-eight more, and it is hoped that by the time the drive closes on Friday night at least 100 more will be made by him. THREE MORE WELLS DRILLED FOR VERMILATA

Big Production at New Well

Three new and promising wells have just been completed for the Vermilion Oil Co., in the heart of the Vermilion oil field. Drilling was done in fast time by Denton and Spencer of L. B. Dowsen is the field engineer.

The wells completed are the Vermilata No. 2, 3 and 5. No. 2 is being drilled into production at present. The No. 2 well is the original Vermilata drilled two years ago and proving steadily since.

The Vermilata-Grand Prairie No. 1 well has been on production a week ago, pumped 140 barrels in the first 20 hours and has now settled down as a regular producer of 70 barrels per day. A feature of this well is the very clean oil, as it is 99% content being less than two-tenths of one per cent

R. C. M. P. TAKE OVER TOWN POLICING

Constable Quartered at Fire Hall

On Monday Nov. 1 the administration of town policing, in other words the earliest days of the town, ceased into the discard and the R.C.M.P. assumed the task of enforcement duties in the town of Vermilion

Constable Ed Hill is in charge of the detachment and Constable D. Kennedy is the new member. It is possible that a third constable may be added.

On Tuesday night persons appointed in police court to answer charges of breaking various laws on Monday. The fine counted at the back of the fire hall have been renovated for the accommodation of Constable Kennedy and in future the phone call for either fire or police is 279

GROWN IN SUNNY SOUTHERN ONTARIO

The Air Blockade

FOR MANY MONTHS PAST, there have been few days on which we have not heard reports of large-scale Allied air raids on Germany, and on German occupied territory. It is apparent that these raids are a part of the great Allied offensive and that they form one part of the master plan for the destruction of Germany. We are told that this great air offensive had its beginning in the Battle of Britain, a little more than three years ago, when the Royal Air Force, greatly outnumbered in both men and machines by the Luftwaffe, destroyed 2,375 German 'planes, with a loss of only 735 British machines. At this time the supremacy of the air over Britain was established by the Royal Air Force, and that supremacy was gradually extended over the English Channel and farther and farther into the skies over Europe. As greatly increased numbers of planes and men have become available, the Allies have steadily developed these air attacks, which are without doubt hastening the downfall of Germany.

• • • • •

R.A.F. Trained For Offensive

It has been pointed out that the Luftwaffe was built up in Germany for years before the war, as a supporting weapon for Germany's land armies. In contrast, Britain's strategy included plans for the R.A.F. to be supreme in air battles on enemy territory, to supplement the already well tried naval blockade. It has been calculated that land forces constitute only one-fifth of a nation's war strength, and that the other four-fifths is the war industries and transport systems. Accordingly, the Royal Air Force was trained not only for combat, but to carry on the destruction of the main part of the enemy's military might. Results of the large raids of recent months have shown how effective this strategy has been.

Hamburg, Essen, Cologne, and other German cities have been demolished, and with them many important war industries. The effect of these raids on the production of war materials, and on the morale of the German people will no doubt be an important factor in Germany's ultimate defeat.

• • • • •

Oil Supplies Are Reduced

In carrying out this great air blockade, the Royal Air Force has in some cases increased the effectiveness of the attack by the use of heavy bombs. Many of these have been shown in the case of Nazi oil supplies. The Royal Navy cut off 80% of Hitler's pre-war imports, and subsequently air attacks have been carried out on refineries whose products were available to Germany. Likewise, while the navy has disrupted German shipping near the coast of Europe, the Air Force has destroyed great numbers of trains and locomotives in enemy territory. In 1939 it is said that Germany had a shortage of 4,000 locomotives and 113,000 freight cars. "Train busting raids", in which many Canadians take part, have now become a part of the air offensive, and it is estimated that German locomotives are damaged each month in these raids. In addition, German locomotive factories are frequently attacked and it is known that the railway systems in Germany and occupied Europe are badly disrupted. These facts all show the great importance of the air offensive in the Allied plan for the defeat of Hitler.

CANADIAN PURE FOODS

Since you are not allowed sugar for pickling, pre-war recipes are no longer much use. Even though pickles have little nutritional value, the housewife has this year new reasons to add variety and interest to meals which are becoming simpler and less varied every day. For this reason I feel sure you will treasure pickle recipes and call for little or no sugar. The Consumer Information Service of the Wartime Information Board have several such recipes. I have chosen two of the unusual relishes:

Vegetable Marrow Chutney

8 lbs. vegetable marrow	1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 cup salt	¼ cup brown sugar or honey
1 tablespoon mustard	2 sweet red peppers
2½ pints malt vinegar	2 teaspoons turmeric
1 lb. onions, chopped fine

Peel a ripe vegetable marrow, cut in half and remove all seeds and stringy parts. Cut marrow into small pieces, cover with the salt and leave for 12 hours. Mix mustard and turmeric with a little of the vinegar, add remaining vinegar and all other ingredients except the marrow, and boil 15 minutes. Drain and wash marrow, add to boiling mixture and cook until marrow is soft. Pour into sterilized jars and seal. Makes about 2½ pints. Malt vinegar gives a colour and flavour that approximates that of imported chutneys.

Uncooked Vegetable Salad Pickle

1 gallon ripe tomatoes	2 tbsp. cinnamon
3 green or red peppers	1 tbsp. cloves
6 medium onions	1 tsp. pepper
1 head celery, finely chopped	4 small hot peppers (chillies)
1 cup salt	OR ¼ tsp cayenne pepper
1½ cups sugar	1 quart vinegar

Peel and cut tomatoes into small pieces. Add chopped peppers, onions and celery. Put salt on vegetables and let stand overnight. Drain well. This is most important as otherwise a very juicy mixture will result. Mix sugar and spices with vinegar and pour over vegetables. Pour into sterilized jars and seal tightly. Makes about 6 pints.

Low-sugar pickle recipes are available on request from the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Ask for Wartime Pickles and Relishes

United Kingdom Bears The Bulk Of Colonial Empire Costs

The United Kingdom bears the bulk of the cost of defence of the Colonial Empire, these territories pay only a little more than they did in peacetime, which was generally under five per cent. of their total budgets. Britain gives financial help on a large scale for India's defences, to the extent of millions of pounds sterling, and bears the cost of India's troops abroad.

NOTE symbols of the heroic stand of the First Battalion, Winnipeg Grenadiers at Hong Kong in 1941, a decided, black maple scarred bugle and a Royal Winnipeg hat badge has come among others sent to Lt. John F. Chester, Manitou. Among the Military Medal awards winners also were: Corp. R. W. Elsenwood, Edmonton, Alta. and G./Cpl. McBride of Vancouver and Carlyle, Sask.

U.S. reaction to the rescue of ten survivors of the M.M.M. "Flying Clan" in the shadow of icebergs in the cold Atlantic was enthusiastic and thrilling. Lieut. Hedley Mahaffy, Western lads who assisted, included Bomber Petty Officer Sidney Francis of North Battleford, Sask.; Cadet John Baker, Moose Jaw, Sask.; Able Seaman Carl Thordsden, Canrose, Alta. and Signalman Jack Gregory, Winnipeg and Vancouver. One of our boys said: "It was really touching to see them go through these wet garments to locate pictures of wives and families. They kept kissing the pictures and praising the seamen all over Newfy. Each of the airmen wrote words of praise and thanks in the ship's log, which is unusual."

An incident which should propel us all toward the blood donor bank. A young Army lieutenant, busby and foot-sore Lieut. Edward Reed of Hamilton, Ont., on operational duties on the Atlantic coast, was injured in a motorcycle spill near Glace Bay, N.S. He was discovered by an army sergeant, taken to an R.C.A.F. hospital by a passing civilian motorist, flown to Montreal three hours later with a Navy nurse, and given also transfusions with blood collected by the Red Cross. What team work! And the officer has been able to tell the story himself.

Railway Appointment

E. H. JENKINS

Succeeding A. A. Campbell, who has retired owing to ill health after 33 years of faithful service, E. H. Jenkins, of Edmonton, has been appointed assistant general superintendent, car equipment, Canadian National Railways, according to an announcement by A. Beardshaw, general superintendent. Mr. Jenkins' headquarters will be in Winnipeg.

Mr. Jenkins entered railway service in 1910 as a coach carpenter at Fort Rough shops and after serving at Belmont and Rainy River, moved to Edmonton in 1920 where he has remained since. Mr. Campbell started his railway career in 1903 as a car repairer at Rivers and moved to Transcona in 1913. He was appointed to his present position in 1937.

Ship Tonnage

So Many Variations Proves A Puzzle To The Londoners

As we hear it, there are at least six different ways of reckoning a ship's tonnage. There is "deadweight tonnage"; there is "gross tonnage"; displacement tonnage"; "net tonnage"; "cargo tonnage" and "bale cubic capacity".

Maybe those variations are all clear enough to the seafarer, but to the landsman they are more than muddling. Some months ago Prime Minister Roosevelt instructed the War Shipping Administrator and the Navy Department to devise some uniform method of arriving at a calculation of marine tonnage. If this can be done, the public will certainly find itself able much better to understand a good many statistics concerning ship losses and building programmes—and to criticize them.—Halifax Chronicle.

SWINE ERYSIPELAS

Usual Among Young Pigs During Spring, Summer Or Fall

Swine Erysipelas has for many years been one of the most important diseases affecting swine in Continental Europe and the British Isles. It made its appearance on this continent about 1921 and since that time has become very prevalent in this province. Swine of all ages are not susceptible, but as a rule outbreaks of swine erysipelas are confined to pigs under six months of age. It is more common during the spring, summer and fall, but may occur at any season of the year.

The cause of swine erysipelas is an organism known as the erysipelothrix rhusiopathiae. It is very resistant to adverse conditions and has been known to live in the soil or pen manure material for many months. This is important in dealing with outbreaks of this disease. The organism can live in the soil, the infection tends to occur in definite areas. litters of pigs. It is also known that this germ may be harboured in the bodies of apparently healthy swine. These animals act as carriers and may transmit the infection when placed in contact with healthy pigs. The disease is thought to be spread by healthy hogs consuming food or water which has become contaminated by discharge from diseased animals.

Symptoms. The disease displayed by pigs is acted with this disease are very sud den and are usually of an acute, chronic, and skin types. In the acute type the heart is pushed and animals may be found dead without any previous symptoms being noted. In the chronic type, several pigs may be found sick with temperatures ranging from 106 to 108 degrees. They may eat and are active when disturbed. Later they refuse to food. Dullness, jerky breathing, with vomiting and constipation are often observed. Tender swellings may develop on the legs, and the animals appear stiff when forced to exercise. Pigs suffering from the acute type may die in a few days; others may completely recover, while others show a gradual improvement and lapse into the chronic form.

Skin Type. From twenty four to forty-eight hours after the onset of the disease, irregular red or purple patches, which are neither swollen nor tender, may be seen in the lighter parts of the skin. These patches vary in size from 1 to 1½ inches in diameter, and as they are roughly diamond shaped the name commonly given to this type of swine erysipelas is diamond skin disease. This type of erysipelas is not often fatal, many pigs showing these symptoms make a complete recovery.

Chronic Type. In this type the joints become enlarged and painful. Marked stiffness is shown, and if the animal is forced to exercise, may appear reluctant of great pain. Loss of weight and general unthriftiness is usually observed. In addition to form of the chronic type, litters will do well until they are two to three months old, when in spite of good care they become unthrifty, the skin loses its bright clear appearance, becoming dry and scaly, and the hair appears long and shaggy. Pigs suffering from this type fail to develop and frequently weigh only 25 to 40 lbs. when six months old. Animals suffering from the chronic type of swine erysipelas often live for months and then die; some, however, slowly recover but usually remain unthrifty, poor hogs.

Post Mortems. Post Mortems held on pigs dying from this disease reveal no definite lesions. In the acute form, the lungs may show evidence of pneumonia, being filled with a clear serous fluid. The spleen is usually enlarged, and the pulp of this organ is very dark in colour. The surface of the spleen may be studded with small elevations from the size of a pea to a large bean. Small hemorrhages may be found on the lining of the heart, and in the chronic form, cauliflower-like growths may found on the heart valves.

Diagnosis. The diagnosis of swine erysipelas should always be confirmed by sending a sick pig to a laboratory for examination. Recently a new method of diagnosis has been developed, whereby blood samples can be collected from suspected pigs and forwarded to a laboratory where a definite diagnosis can be made by means of a blood test.

Treatment. All affected pigs should be isolated from healthy animals, placed on soft, easily digested food and kept in comfortable surroundings. If given in the early stages, anti swine erysipelas serum has proved valuable in the treatment of this disease. It should be given in doses of not less than 20 cc per 100 lbs. of pig, injected under the skin. This dose should be repeated every 12 to 24 hours until improvement is noted. This serum can also be used to give immediate protection to healthy swine which have been exposed to outbreaks of this disease: a 10 to 20 cc dose, according to the size of the pig, should be used. In the treatment of the chronic forms of erysipelas, the anti-serum has proved of little value and is not recommended.

Prevention. On premises where swine erysipelas has been known to exist, it is wise to protect young pigs by the following method. Inject each pig when two weeks of age with 10 cc of anti swine erysipelas serum, 5 cc in each side behind the elbow. This dose should be repeated in thirty days. This method is effective during the life of the average pig. Smaller doses of anti swine erysipelas serum are frequently recommended for the prevention of swine erysipelas in baby pigs, but doses of less than 10 cc have not proven very satisfactory.

On premises where the disease has been known to exist, healthy swine should be placed on clean, contaminated houses, pens and pastures. Swine known to have been infected with this disease should not be kept in these pens. Contaminated houses, pens, etc., should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.

Cheaper Credit For The Farmer Said Necessary

REGINOLY CLUB, Que.—Agricultural reconstruction must start with the farmer himself and he must have facilities whereby he can improve his business, Dr. E. S. Archibald, director of Dominion experimental farms, said here.

"This obviously involves cheaper credit comparable at least to that which is available in industry," he said in an address prepared for delivery to the Canadian chamber of commerce annual meeting.

Farmers would prefer fair prices for their products without subsidies, bonuses, subventions and the like, he added.

"In my opinion 75 per cent. of the urban consumers of foodstuffs, if questioned at the present time, would claim that the farmers of Canada were not only highly prosperous but, thinking of terms of retail prices, may still brand the farmers as extortionists and robbers.

"It is true that leading businessmen realize that the producers of our foodstuffs are paying income taxes in such small numbers, but of their own choice, but for the simple reason that the earning power in labor income on the average farm in Canada, even with the free labor of wife and children thrown in, is little less than that which industry and governments pay to a grade 1 stenographer.

Next to the farmer's own ability, the condition of the soil would continue to govern food production. There had to be conservation, rehabilitation and adequate fertilization.

Soil surveys were beginning to show the position of deficiencies and danger signals. Millions of acres of good soil were "getting out of kilter" and needed skilful attention.

Many farm machines were worn obsolete, and with the farmer's present purchasing power he found it impossible to purchase adequately re-equipment. This farm with the most modern labor-saving machinery. Without doubt modern labor-saving machinery would to a greater extent be co-operatively owned or operated by farmers.

"Canadian farmers must have more modern farm machinery and power, must have it at a much reduced price, and must have it in standardized that repairs and replacements will be vastly cheaper than in the past."

Research work had to be extended with the development of new grain varieties, new and improved types of fruits and vegetables, and new and better forms of preservation. Industry must encourage enlarged soybean production, in association with the development of new uses for farm products, Dr. Archibald said

COST IS HEAVY

LONDON—The ministry of economic warfare estimated that Nazi domination in ceding occupied countries of Europe nearly $1,200,000,000 ($5,400,000,000) a year in German financial levies in addition to £500,000,000 a year in unpaid export balances.

URGES EXTENSION

Canada's Three-Mile Limit Too Small For Fishing Purposes

VANCOUVER—Possible extension of the three-mile limit for fishing of Canada's coasts to 10 miles or an even greater distance was forecast here by Hon. Ernest Bertrand, federal minister of fisheries, as a measure to protect the Dominion's fishing industry and increase its revenue.

Such a move would largely prevent any recurrence of the situation existent before the war when huge Japanese "floating canneries" operated outside the three-mile limit off British Columbia coast and carried away much choice fish.

It would also cut down considerably the amount of fish now caught by United States boats operating off the B.C. coast.

"The three-mile limit is too small for fishing purposes," the minister said in an interview.

"We should be able to control fishing right off the coast than that," he said. "In many cases fish spawn and live outside the three-mile limit; no one has any control over these."

BENEFITS CANADA

Value Of Alaska Highway Cannot Be Over-Estimated

VANCOUVER—Maj.-Gen. W. W. Foster, special commissioner for defence projects in northwest Canada, said a memorandum he submitted stating that the strategic value of the Alaska highway and airfields chain cannot be over-estimated in defending the Northwest passage and fighting this continent directly with our Russian ally.

In addition, he said, the highway opens possibilities for undreamed of commercial benefits to Canada. He predicted that a projected national park, embracing the greatest glacier area on the continent, would prove an outstanding recreation area and tourist attraction.

Gen. Foster makes his headquarters at Edmonton.

Put into full production less than two years ago, this article iron, as it is known, is the product of years of research. It is being used on an increasing scale in armaments and in certain vital munition parts.

JAPAN WORRIED

Plans Air Raids And Industries Being Moved From Cities

LONDON—Japanese worries over the possibilities of air raids were reflected in a "complete reorganization of the air raid precaution system" calling for the evacuation of the population of large towns.

The Berlin radio reported the plans, saying they were announced in the Japanese diet by Kisaburo Ando, minister of interior.

Factories and industries to rural parts of the country is to be speeded up, the broadcast said.

Allied Air Raids Cause Lowered German Morale

BERNE—A new story of lowered German morale which is "gnawing at the foundation of the Nazi regime" and a description of a desolate Reich where "the people no longer are interested in official communiques and no longer listen to Hitler" was told in a dispatch to the Swiss newspaper Gazette de Lausanne.

It said the causes of the "psychological collapse," were cumulative, including the military reverses beginning with El Alamein and Stalingrad, "but above all, the Allied air offensive."

The writer said Hitler had ordered the present German stand in southern Italy for propaganda purposes, acting against the advice of his high command, which recommended withdrawal to the north.

"I cannot insist enough on the disastrous effects wrought on German morale of the night raids of the R.A.F. and the U.S.A.A.F.", he wrote.

"Not only have they annihilated Hamburg, reduced Berlin to a mass of rubble, ravaged Cologne, Duesseldorf and Rostock, but all cities and villages, including distant districts, have been submitting to the nightly fur over a year. Germans must worry without fear."

All authorized voices in the Reich from Hitler to the smallest provincial newspaper are seeking a means of explaining the tendency the people suddenly are manifesting to interpret everything with discouragement, the dispatch declared.

Yet the German people "are too deprived of initiative to create an opposition movement. There is no strong underground organization.

AMENDED ORDER

WE Allow Neighbors Small Exchanges Of Sugar For Tea

OTTAWA.—Now, when Mrs. Jones wants to borrow a pinch of tea, you can trade her a cup of sugar and do it legal-like.

Not that the practice has been frowned upon officially, but the prices board announced an amendment to its consolidated ration order to permit neighborly exchanges of rationed goods that have been lawfully acquired. The amendment is now effective.

Under the rationing order, gifts, loans or exchanges of rationed commodities have been prohibited as a "necessary provision" to minimize opportunity for "deliberate abuses and evasions" of regulations.

There's never been any intention, says the board, to restrict normal quantities and no steps have been taken to stop them, although—on paper—they have been prohibited since rationing began.

New Campaign To Keep Down Cost Of Living

OTTAWA—The prices board, as managing director of the government's organization to keep down the cost of living, stands ready to back up the labor department in a new campaign against inflation.

While government policy still has to be announced, Ottawa sources have expressed belief the cost-of-living bonus is likely to disappear, to be replaced by a structure of basic wage rates which will include the present bonus.

Authorities here said they thought a basic rate structure alone could be made acceptable if some guarantee were given that a dollar would buy as much of the necessities of life next year as it does now.

The prices board through existing machinery, could give that guarantee. Already the board, under instructions from the finance department of which it forms part, has used its subsidy machinery to check a rise in the cost-of-living index.

In December, 1942, when an increase in the index threatened, the board instituted subsidies reducing the price to consumers of coffee, tea and milk. The price of oranges also was lower.

By this means, at a cost estimated at $40,000,000 a year, the threatened rise in the index was checked. Since then, however, the index has risen, with the prospect bonuses will have to be revised upward Nov. 15.

Informed sources said subsidies paid by the prices board might well prove less costly than continuing the bonus system and meeting each new rise in the index with new payments to workers.

A rise of one percentage point in the index equivalent to 25 cents a week in wage payments to hundreds of thousands of workers, means exports have to pay about $39 000 000 more annually.

All estimates paid by the prices board this year may reach a total of $120 000 000 but officials said it is felt they have been less than anticipated and that they are well justified by results.

Under an extended subsidy policy, designed to maintain the dollar value of the basic wage, the board would continue to use all its experience and authority to hold prices without the use of subsidies but if uncontrollable costs the board would be able to pay such subsidies as were deemed necessary to protect the consumer

Thus the protection against further increased costs would be given solely by the government, rather than by a combination of the government and employers

Merge Canadian Paratroops With British Division

LONDON.—It was learned that the Canadian parachute unit in Britain has been merged with a British parachute division and is preparing for action with it.

There had been conjecture since formation of the unit was announced whether it would be fitted into the Canadian overseas army and if so, how.

Training with Britons presumably means it will fight as part of the British formation similar to the way the Canadian 1st Division joined the British 8th Army in Sicily and continued with Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery in Italy.

The knowledge added further to speculation whether any plans to keep the Canadians as an entity are definitely finished

On the other hand, it also raised the possibility that the Britain-based Canadians-to-be overseas army is known to contain five divisions, three infantry, two armored—will be used as part of the spearhead of a big British or Allied army in some future action in which parachute troops may figure as they did with the American 7th Army in Sicily

In this event Canadian paratroops would still be fighting with Canadians

The parachute unit has been in Britain for some months adding to the training gained at Fort Benning, Ga., and Shilo, Man

OTTAWA.— Employment of the Canadian parachute unit in Britain with a British airborne division is a matter for Canadian military authorities overseas, it was stated at defence headquarters.

(A London despatch said it was learned the battalion is preparing to join a British airborne division.)

The Canadian policy applicable to the whole army overseas is that it is to remain intact, to be in whole or in part wherever the high command considers it can best contribute to victory. The 1st division was detached from the Canadian army and sent to Sicily and later to Italy with the British 8th Army.

It is expected other Canadian units and formations may from time to time serve with larger British or composite United Nations forces as conditions warrant.

Board of Trade Notes

An unusually interesting meeting of the Board of Trade was held on Wednesday Oct. 27th with 22 members present and C. L. Whitby in the chair. A delicious meal served by George Caputos put the men in attendance in humorous frames of mind and some eloquence was displayed then mind.

A motion was passed asking that the town council take immediate action in having the river hill road leading into town from the north regravelled as considerable difficulty has been experienced in getting up the hill due to the fact the previous coat of gravel has entirely disappeared.

A. C. Heckbert gave a short report on the progress of the Victory Loan, from Watts on the Overseas Parcel fund and the fact that we have 120 boys from this district at present overseas. Ashley Cooper gave a few items of progress on the airfield covered in our last issue, and J. K. Swanson gave a brief talk on oil development.

It was decided to issue invitations to Premier Manning and Hon. A. A. Fallow to attend a board of trade luncheon when they pay a visit here on Nov. 12th, and Mr John Bracken on the occasion of his meeting here on Nov. 13th. More information will be forthcoming when definite arrangements are made for these interesting events.

SAVING LIVES BY BUYING —

It may seem strange that we have to keep reminding ourselves to buy Victory Bonds, but that's the way we are built. We know it's a necessity.

We—not some of us, but all of us—must keep buying Victory Bonds and we must do it now. We can't put off until tomorrow what we should do today. There certainly will be no tomorrow for some—tomorrow in which we could live—unless we win this war and win it decisively. And the only way in which we can win it is to pour our money, through Victory Bonds, into guns, planes, ships, ammunition and food and equipment for the men in our fighting forces.

It is doubtful that there is a family or a single citizen of this country without a relative, a close friend or a former near neighbor in the Army, the Navy, or the Air Force. These men—and women, too—are giving everything. Many of them face great hardships—not tomorrow, but now, this very minute. Some have been killed, wounded or captured. While we billed, wounded or captured. While we billed, wounded or captured. The faster we buy Victory Bonds the sooner we shall achieve victory and halt the horrible wastage of war. We can't afford to send out these fighting forces and then abandon them if they lose, we are lost.

WILDMERE WINKS

Nice weather has again come to us. Here's hoping threshing can be resumed and finished up before the weather breaks again.

We wish to extend our own and the community's heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. H. Hodgson and her daughter Mrs. E. Sinclair Bothe of Vermilion on the loss overseas of a dear son and brother. One more hero who has given his all for our freedom.

Mrs. Wednesday evening Pte. Tom Gibson, his mother and brother Howard were visitors at the Wallington home.

We wish to take this opportunity to extend thanks on behalf of three boys in the cottage hospital Howard, Ted Hall and Noel Garnett to their many friends and neighbors for the nice gifts given them. The writer had letters from all three and they said it gives them very great pleasure to be thought of like that, and no one knows what that means to the army from home. Once again, thanks folks.

A party was held Sunday evening for Tom Gibson at his home when over forty people gathered to wish him all the best in his army life in the future. He left for Prince George on Tuesday. A few games were played which caused a lot of merriment. The affair ended with a splendid lunch and the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The writer was able to attend the Carnival on Saturday evening through the kindness of our better half who looked after the family and kind neighbors for a ride to town. A large crowd was in attendance

FARMERS AND FARM WORKERS

If Your Farm Work has Slackened for the Winter, You Are Needed Elsewhere in Essential Employment

Highly essential work—very important in Canada's war effort and for the welfare of the Nation—is threatened with shortages of workers. One of the few sources of men available for other high priority jobs is those men on the farm who will not be needed at home during the Fall and Winter. Heavy needs must be met in many lines—producing vitally essential forest products; in base metal and coal mining, in food processing, in railway track maintenance. If you live on a farm and are not needed at home during the Fall and Winter, you are urged to answer this national appeal.

Farmers engaged in essential work during the off season will be allowed to return home when needed. Also, those on postponement under Mobilization Regulations will continue on postponement while in approved essential work during the slack season on the farm.

Please answer this vital call NOW.

Sixteen Years Ago To-day

Interesting Items Gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard 16 YEARS AGO TODAY — 1927

Nov. 3, 1927

The Alberta Livery barn was completely destroyed by fire on Thursday night last. Hugh McIntosh the night man was asleep upstairs and had to jump into a blanket below to escape the flames. This makes the third Alberta livery barn to fall prey to flames and five livery barns in all in Vermilion to be burned.

Public school enrolment was 246 with 95 students attending the High school

A new special fire escape has been ordered for the public school

The school board has counsel as chiterts to draft plans for the proposed new high school

Prize winners at a Hallow'een masquerade were Miss Eva Newton, Miss Donalda Robertson, Dr. Fister and James Stewart.

Thirty-two Years Ago Today

Nov. 1, 1911

The new residences of W. J. Seed, Hugh McLean and R. Canton are nearing completion.

The first meeting of the Pelican Lake quilting club took place at the home of Mrs. James Dow. Those present were Mesdames Armstrong, Wilson, Jones, McPhee, Simmet, Allison, L. Allison, G. Jones and the Misses McIlvain and McPhee.

C. V. Cesar, Mayor Dunsmore, Jas. McKone and Postmaster Brimacombe leave by auto on Monday next for the Pipe Lake country on a big game hunt.

The frame work of the electric light plant is up and a fair start has been made on the brickwork.

Four provincial by-elections were all won by Conservatives over their Liberal opponents.

A new livery and feed barn is going up on the west end of Railway street across the road from the mill.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

Alberta Farmers' Union,
206-7 Agnew Bldg., Edmonton.
October 30, 1943.

Dear Sir:

There is no doubt that the recent statement made by Mr. Gardiner with regard to the new bacon quota with a lower minimum will have a profound effect on the minds and actions of all hog raisers in Western Canada.

We have made a careful study of all the implications involved so far as we can see them and we wish to point out to Mr. Gardiner the official representative of Agriculture in the Government that this proposed new agreement if effected seems almost a complete reversal of previous Government policies. "Greater Hog Production" has been their slogan for two years and the farmers have responded. And Mr. Gardiner does not need to be told under what handicaps. He has ably recounted them himself. Now when the stage was set for the steady grind to at least maintain production at the peak this bombshell of a lower quota is exploded; with a slight increase in price that thoroughly disappears when the hogs reach the bacon bunyed up to the last minute with the hope that at least as much consideration would be given to the hog raiser as has been shown to the grower of coarse grains.

The disappointment is bitter and is already being reflected in the number of feed sows that are being rushed to market. Don't be mistaken, this is only the beginning and unless immediate action is taken with a declaration of policy which will give some consideration to the raisers of hogs we may well be disastrous to the Nation's whole war effort. The fact that a lower minimum has been placed on the amount of the new quota will convince farmers who are already disappointed with present prices that hogs are not now being produced and it is extremely doubtful if even the minimum amount will be obtained. While the reasons stated by Mr Gardiner that a shortage of feed will result in lower production, may be true of Ontario, it is not true in Alberta which is now the greatest hog producing Province in the Dominion of Canada.

The farmers of Alberta would have continued to produce enough hogs to fill their share of the former large quota if they had been given encouragement through the necessary increased price; but being faced with the long seasonable factors i.e., insufficient price raise and a lowered quota they are forced to the conclusion that the Canadian Government has now changed its policy and wishes them to considerably reduce their hog production.

This will be acceptable news to them for the reasons that owing to the severe labor shortage the ever burden of work has become unendurable and they were not making any money at it anyway, as present prices on coarse grains offer a more favorable alternative return.

If a drastic reduction in hogs from Alberta is what this Government wants the policy they are now following is the right way to get it and we respect it our duty to make the fact explain to the Government that there shall be no possibility of being misunderstood; because theirs is the responsibility

In the event of this being the case there can be no further justification for maintaining the ceilings on hogs and cattle going into the United States because markets there being higher than here, they must need livestock for the war effort more than Canada does and we think our production should be allowed to go as much over place it is most needed in order to render the greatest possible assistance to the war effort of the Allied cause and at the same time allow the farmers to get a more equitable price.

Yours truly,
H. E. Nichols,
Sec'y, Alberta Farmers' Union.

THE DEPARTMENT OF MUNITIONS AND SUPPLY HONOURABLE

The Canadian Army has its own factory of stainless steel machines which sort out men and materials, tabulating returns on virtually every phase of Army supply in a few minutes.

CLAYMORE CLIPPINGS

The time of the church service which is held every second Sunday in the Claymore school has been changed to 11 a.m. instead of 3 o'clock as formerly.

John Cook from Empress Alta., has been in the neighborhood for some weeks hauling harvest work. He is now helping R. MacMillan with fall work.

Miss Lena and Miss Bertha Mikkelsen leaving this week-end to visit their parents Mr. and Mrs. P. Miller at Fields Alta., for a few weeks.

Albert Van Nest who has been home for several weeks on sick leave left last week on return to his R.C.A.F. station at Trenton, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Shand spent last week-end in Edmonton.

Peter Kleshinsky has been busily engaged in doing some sawing around the neighborhood this week-end. With the shortage of coal we will probably need lots of wood stored up for the winter.

There is now a full attendance of 38 pupils at the school. Mrs. W. Mitchell is our teacher again this year and we feel very fortunate in having an experienced teacher as there are four pupils taking grade 9.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Williamson spent Sunday visitors at the home of their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Joe Seymour.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Cortsman have moved to Kitscoty to visit their son and family Mr. and Mrs. W. Cortsman.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

Threshing has started again in the Ottawa district. Arthur Tovell having started on Monday. The weather remains ideal for threshing and as per usual everybody will get finished in the fall after all.

Ray Hutchinson, who has been away on the Alaska highway for the past eighteen months, is home again.

George Indiliver who has been receiving acquaintances in and around Vermilion, was a visitor at Jim Thompson's last week.

J. H. Thompson spent the week of Friday 22nd to Friday 29th in town visiting his daughter Mrs. W. J. Fonks. Baby Pat Thompson, who had been in town for three weeks came home on the 29th.

Tea parties still flocking together in pretty numbers, at present we have two tea parties on the same day. Mrs. Bert Moses was hostess on Monday 25th when he was assisted in the face by his horse. Mrs. Moses sustained a broken nose and was in hospital until the following Saturday. He expects to be back at school on Monday.

The whist drive and dance held at the school last Friday night was well attended by a large crowd. Refreshments were served during the evening. Whist prizes were won by Mrs. Bert Moses and Mrs. Bert Hutchinson. Lucky draw prizes were won by Mrs. Hughes, coffee by George Neuman, sugar and cream were also donated. Music was voluntarily supplied by Mrs. E. Thompson, Lloyd and Hugh Gehalestoon, Jim Thompson and Jim Panter. A nice sum was realized, as expenses (some prizes) amounted to two dollars and $10.50 was collected. A donation of one dollar has received from M. Smith hence we have the sum of $9.50 from this party and $1.75 on hand from our spring's whist drive, towards our Xmas tree fund.

Mrs. W. J. Fonks, Jimmie and Kitty came out from town to attend our whist drive and dance.

Mrs. Bert Moses was also a visitor to the whist drive and dance with Mr. and Mrs. A. Mann.

Pt. Sgt. Aymond is prisoner. 12765 in Stalag IX C (in German). He was first reported missing, then a prisoner-of-war. He recently had his leg amputated above the knee. The other day his mother visited Canadian Red Cross headquarters in Montreal. She came to make a donation of twenty five dollars. In his last letter Pt. Sgt. Aymond requested that this sum be taken from his savings and given to the Canadian Red Cross to show his appreciation for the great the society is doing for prisoners-of-war.

TRUST FUNDS for children draw three per cent interest in the TORY BONUS.

BATTLEVIEW ECHOES

The Battleview War Service league held a pie social and dance at the Battleview school on Friday Oct. 29. There was a large crowd of young people in attendance and $30 was cleared for the league work. The music was good and a really fine time was enjoyed. Every success is wished this Battleview organization as they surely work for a worthy cause.

Threshing started again this week after a long spell of wet weather. Nearly half the crop in this district is to be threshed yet and everyone is hoping that the weather holds until all the fields are cleared.

The signal "L for Lanky", heard each Sunday at 5.30 p.m. over CJCA means thrilling radio entertainment. It's the new story of a Lancaster bomber — dramatizing true, exciting experiences in R.C.A.F. operations.

WEDDING BELLS

HUTCHINSON—TOVELL

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized in the Alliance chapel on Wednesday evening, Oct. 27th, when Miss Catherine Tovell, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Tovell of Vermilion, became the bride of Mr. Allen Hutchinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchinson of Islay. The Rev. E. S. Relkie officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a floor length gown of heavenly blue crepe with a chapel veil caught by a wreath of apple blossoms. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and white carnations. Her only ornament was a gold wrist watch, a gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Tovell, sister of the bride, wore a floor length gown of shell pink set over satin. She carried a bouquet of baby 'mums. Gene Hutchinson was best man.

During the signing of the register Miss Grace Stewart sang "I Love You Truly", accompanied by Miss Bette Kaiser, organist.

After the wedding a reception was held in the Upper Deck of George's, to thirty guests, immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

The bride's mother received in an aqua blue dress with brown accessories, while the groom's mother received in a black suit with accessories to match.

The bride and groom left on the midnight train for a short honeymoon in Banff. For travelling the bride changed to a navy suit with navy accessories.

The young couple will reside in Calgary where the groom is now stationed.

KIRKPATRICK—CONVEY

A wedding of local interest took place in Clandonald on Saturday Oct. 30th. The Reverend Father McPhee officiated at the ceremony. The contracting parties were Miss Mary Convey, a member of the teaching staff of Vermilion School Division, and daughter of Mr. Mary Convey and the late Mr. John Convey of Clandonald.

The bridegroom was Flying Officer Kirkpatrick, a former member of the staff of the Edmonton Normal school.

The bride was charmingly attired in an ivory brocaded floor length satin dress with fitted lines. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. The antique gold brooch which was worn by the bride was a gift from the bridegroom's mother. Mrs. George Cann, acted as matron-of-honor. She wore a pale blue sheer dress and carried a bouquet of deep red carnations.

Mr. George Convey carried out the duties of groomsman. The bride's mother wore a black two piece crepe dress and had a corsage of ox-eye daisies. A dinner was served to invited guests at the home of the bride.

Many other friends called in after the ceremonies to the happy couple. Mrs. Kirkpatrick received her guests and a very enjoyable time was spent. The table was attended by Miss Patty Cannell, Miss Ella Smith and Miss Betty Cusack. The dinner being arranged by Mrs. E. Cusack, Mrs. H. Burke and Mrs. A. Hometree.

The bride received many beautiful gifts.

After lunch was served, Mr. Harry Scott on behalf of all those in the gathering, presented a suitable gift to Mr and Mrs. Rogan.

BRIDE-ELECT SHOWERED

On Wednesday evening October 27, Miss Joan Calvert was guest of honor at a shower held in the Parish hall of St. Saviour's church. Mrs. W. A. Rogan, Mrs. K. Hicks and Mrs. Harry Scott were hostesses to some fifty guests. The evening was spent in games and songs. After refreshments had been served Joan was presented with many beautiful gifts after which Ven. Archdeacon Ferrisdale spoke of Joan and wished her much happiness in her married life.

Shower for Bride-Elect

An event of great interest took place on Wednesday evening Oct 27 when friends and neighbors of Amy Bellamy were gathered at the Salvation Army hall to wish her future happiness at her shower for which many useful gifts were received. A social time was spent in various games and contests after which Ven. Archdeacon Ferrisdale spoke of Amy and wished her much happiness in her married life. Amy was greatly surprised by the many beautiful gifts received. A solo sung by Amy was greatly enjoyed by all. After a very sumptuous lunch, a basket overflowing with gifts, was brought in and admired by all present. At the close of the gathering Amy very graciously thanked everyone for their kindness and good wishes.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Maj.-Gen. Jens Knox, director of Britain's auxiliary territorial service, has resigned because of ill health.

Malta's famous "Victory kitchens"—communal kitchens where all classes of the population were served during the siege have been closed.

Patricia Mountbatten, elder daughter of Lord and Lady Louis Mountbatten, has joined the Women's Royal Naval Service. She is 19.

Japan is reported to have an artificial "meat" made from protein, vitamins and other substances extracted from wheat-stalks, sweet potatoes and various materials.

Old London taxicabs are being stripped to provide essential parts for operating cabs, thus alleviating to some extent the acute shortage of spare parts.

The ashes of Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, who died 16 days after he resigned as First Sea Lord, were scattered at sea after funeral services.

More than 60,000,000 books have been collected in Britain in a national drive to collect books for the armed forces, for restocking bombed libraries and for salvage.

At the urgent request of his advisers, Prime Minister Churchill has agreed not to fly on any future state journeys except in cases of extreme necessity, the News of the World said.

Since war started, the International Red Cross committee at Geneva has dealt with more than 50,000,000 letters, all concerning prisoners of war and sickening persons, from their next of kin.

SMILE AWHILE

Customer (tactfully)—You ought to be in the zoo instead of in the grocery store.

Proprietor—What makes you say that?

Customer—No enemy could stand up to the way you charge.

• • • •

Johnny (at zoo)—Isn't that monkey just like Uncle Sammy?

Mother—Johnny! he so rude.

Johnny—But the monkey didn't bow.

• • • •

Judge—Why did you steal the lady's carpet?

Tramp—I did not.

Judge—She says you did.

Tramp—Yes, I did take the carpet and beat it.

• • • •

Husband—My dear wife, I have taken you safely over all the rough spots of life, haven't I?

Wife—Yes, I don't believe you missed any of them.

• • • •

Wife—What's the idea of poking the broom in the baby's face this morning?

Hubby—I just wanted to get him used to kissing his grandfather.

• • • •

Miss—Waiter, oyster fat?

Boy—I beat my sister.

Miss—Where?

Boy—In Saint Virginia.

Miss—She sister?

Boy—She cousined it.

"Have you got an ear that you can distinguish classical music?" asked Mrs. Newrich.

"I think so," replied her husband. "When a piece threatens every minute to be a tune and always disappoints you, it's classical."

• • • •

Judge—It seems to me I've seen you before.

Prisoner—You have, your Honor. I gave your daughter singing lessons.

Judge—Thirty years!

• • • •

"Johnnie, what did you have for breakfast?"

"Fwenches, I et six eggs."

"Why, Johnnie! You should say 'ate'."

"Well maybe it was 'eight' that I et."

• • • •

Captain—Well, Private Smith, what did you have for dinner?

Private—Tubers, sir.

Captain (to sergeant) — What does he mean by "tubers", sergeant?

Sergeant—It's only his ignorance, sir. He means "spuds".

Huge marine engines for Canada's busy shipyards are here shown on a Canadian Pacific Railway depressed-centre flat car ready for shipment from the C.P.R.'s Angus Shops in Montreal, where they have been made since the completion of an order there for 1,400 Valentine tanks which are battle service in Russia and North Africa. In being carried to their destination in Quebec City the engines require special handling to spaces them past permanent installations such as bridges with novice on their movement being given by the company's engineering department.

Nazis And The Church

No Teaching Of Christianity For The New Order In Germany

"Nothing will prevent me from tearing up Christianity root and branch—and annihilating it in Germany. We are not out against the hundreds and one different kinds of Christianity, but against Christianity itself."—Hitler.

"Both the Catholic Church and the Evangelical Confessional Church, they exist at present, must vanish from the life of our people."—Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi "cultural expert".

"The teaching of mercy and love of one's neighbour is foreign to the German race, and the Sermon on the Mount is . . . an ethic for cowards and idiots."—From Nazi textbook, "Bolshevism in the Bible".

PROTEIN ABSENT

IN WHITEY BREAD

For the 12-year period 1937-1948, the average protein content of shipments of Western Canadian wheat is estimated as 13.2 per cent. If no wheat had been shipped from the northern zone, says the report of a recent investigation, the average protein level would have increased by about 0.5 per cent.

No Doubt About It

But Caribbean Will Prove Very Compulsory Savings Are Source

Great numbers of Canadian taxpayers will be glad to receive the certificates showing the amounts of compulsory war savings standing to their credit. Mischievous talk has sown doubt regarding these funds, and some gullible persons have believed the alarmists who said: "You will never see that money again." These certificates give the lie to that charge—as whispering and shouting assure the public that their compulsory savings are just as secure, and as certain of being repaid to them with interest after war, as money in the bank. Canada's pledge stands behind these funds, and Canada has never broken her solemn word.—Hamilton Spectator.

PREPARE FOR THE DAY

Boys and girls, in woodworking shops throughout Britain, now are making "surprise" boxes which will be packed with foodstuffs, comforts, chocolates and cigarettes for distribution to the conquered people of Europe when they are freed of the Nazis.

Air Force Graduates

From No. 8 Bombing And Gunnery School At Lethbridge

The majority of wireless operator air gunners graduating at No. 8 Bombing and Gunnery School at Lethbridge recently were western Canadians. Included in the class also were a number of airmen from the United Kingdom, Australia and one from the Panama Canal Zone.

British Columbia—Sergeants: Nick Andreanchuk, Trail; Chester Hanson and Wilfred Stevenson, Duncan; Vancouver; William G. Watson, Victoria and Henry A. Kaschtel, Bridgeburg, Ont.

Alberta—Sergeants: Arlo Bertrum Grant, Ledue; Robert H. McIntosh, Millet; Harold W. Bengsun and John McGregor, both of Calgary.

U.S.A.—Sergeant Claude D. L. Wilkins of South Dorchester, Vt.

Manitoba—Sgt. Robert C. Cawston, of Winnipeg.

The annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the United States occurred Aug. 13, 1897.

Has Proud Record

R.M.S. Argus, Great Britain's first flush-deck aircraft carrier, has celebrated her 25th year at sea. Built originally with a sloping deck to aid low-powered aircraft in taking off the Argus was modernized in 1930. Last year she supplied Malta with planes and participated in the North Africa landings. Since that time she had been serving as a battle school for pilots.—New York Sun.

TRINIDAD RESOURCES

Trinidad is the British Empire's principal producer of pitchcrete, and export sugar, citrus fruits and wild rubber. All of Trinidad's exportable surplus of wild rubber is to be bought by the U.S.A. until the end of 1946.

In Valetta, Malta, grain is stored under the street. Grain elevators are sunk in the ground to protect the grain supply from the sun and keep it cool and dry.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 7

THE BLESSEDNESS OF HUMAN LIFE

Golden text: Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer. 1 John 3:15.

Lesson: Exodus 20:13; Matthew 5:21-26, 43-45.

Devotional Reading: James 4:1-10.

Explanations and Comments

The Sanctity of Human Life. Exodus 20:13. The sixth commandment reads, Thou shalt not kill. The Hebrew word translated "kill" is not the usual word for that verb, and the English Revised Version (and the American) translates the sentence, "Thou shalt do no murder." Knowing that the prohibition does not include every kind of killing, we may say that kind which we call murder.

In our courts one who kills another in order to save his own life or the lives of others, or who kills another accidentally, is charged with manslaughter, not with murder. One who commits murder is actuated by personal motive or passion. The soldier in battle is not actuated by any personal feeling against the one whom he kills; he is fighting for his country, for the lives of others, and does not violate this commandment.

Jesus Extends the Sixth Commandment to Include Angry Words and Feelings of Hatred. Matthew 5:21-26. Ye have heard that it was said to them of old time, Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment. "In danger of" originally meant "in the power of," as Shakespeare's use in the sentence "You stand within his danger, do you not?" shows. The Greek verb means "hold" or "bound" here. Liable, subject to: "The judgment" was the lower Jewish court, the local tribunal of seven men found in every village. "But I say unto you," continues in the first part of the Sermon on the Mount these words are repeated that not only demand the fulfilment of the Mosaic law but in each case carry that fulfilment beyond the letter of the law into the realm of the spirit of the law. "But I say unto you, that everyone who is angry with his brother shall be in danger of the judgment." Jesus forbids the breaking of the law in thought. He traces the sin back to its source and forbids the angry thought that leads to the angry word and sometimes to the angry deed of murder. "The hand must not strike the murderous blow," said Moses. "The thought that devils within the heart" must go, the sin of striking the blow is equally guilty," declares Jesus.

Since anger is wicked, one should seek reconciliation with any brother whom he has offended. If therefore you are offering your gift at the altar and remember that your brother holds anything against you, do not postpone your duty of seeking reconciliation to a more convenient time, but leave the gift there, go at once and become reconciled with him, then return to present your gift.

IN HIS COUNTRY'S SERVICE

A Salvation Army lassie whispered to a young veteran of a naval action: "I'm sorry you lost your arm." He shook his head and replied: "I didn't lose it, ma'am. I gave it."

Beau Jonathan by J. B. Ryan

CHAPTER IX.

THE girl straightened at Jonathan's step and turned, the eyes in the white oval of her face watchful as she backed against the desk. She was obviously trying to screen from Jonathan the object that had been engaging her attention. But Jonathan had glimpsed already his own purse and the gold scattered over the little table-top.

"Well, my girl," Jonathan raised his brows, "has Sir Maurice paid you so little that you must steal from me? Or has you some trade explanation for your presence in my quarters?"

The girl lifted her hand and slowly removed the mask from her face. "I did not come to steal, Jonathan."

The man stared open-mouthed, thunderstruck with amazement. The surprise that had been his when confronted unexpectedly with Lord Farquhar was nothing compared to the shock that went through him at sight of the girl's face. He had not been mistaken, then, about that instinct.

"Anne!" he managed to gasp.

"Anne Jamieson that was, Jonathan, we meet again."

"Anne" he cried once more. Then a long stride took him to the desk beside her. But before his outstretched arms could close about her, the girl said:

"Do not touch me—you murderer!"

"Anne!" He tried to smile. "Surely you recognize me—Jonathan Hale."

"I recognized you down in the ballroom," she said slowly. "I joined those mummers merely to come here—to see for myself if Master John Hale, about whom all London is talking, was the Jonathan Hale I knew. I did not see how a poor Parisian from Wimsnet could be the new beau of London unless—"

"ANNE, I do not care what you think! From the bottom of my heart I thank God that you are free. Ever since you ran away from me the thought that you were in the power of Farquhar has kept me in torment. I—"

She opened her eyes at last, but made no effort to remove herself from his embrace. "Don't ever say again, Jonathan," she whispered shakily. "Keep me with you—always."

"You shall be my wife before you leave this house," he smiled back at her. "Surely Sir Maurice Blaine did not forget the clergy when making out the list of my guests." Then a shadow dimmed the brightness of his countenance. "But—there still remains a bit of unfinished business—my Lord Farquhar."

His arms shared the tremor that went through her. "What do you intend, Jonathan?"

"Nothing," and yet told you why I became a London gallant. You see, Anne, that tonight I did not know the name of his lordship nor where to find him. This was the only way I could find him and—so I thought—avenge you."

"But—now that you have found me, must you continue this quarrel? After all, his lordship has not harmed me."

"It was Farquhar, Anne, who killed Denys. He did not wield the knife, but it is he, more than the servants who acted for him, who is the inspirer of the men who was our friend. I promised Denys that I would be avenged."

Her white face, paler than he went, remained mute when he paused. "Denys loved you, Anne," he reminded her. "And to me, even in the short while I knew him, he proved himself everything a friend should be. I must cross blades with Farquhar."

She took a long breath, then relaxed in a little sigh. "You can not do otherwise Sir Jonathan . . ."

His arms tightened about her and he kissed her once more. Then he released her and stepped back. "My sword is in that closet," he said, turning toward a paneled wardrobe. "You will remain here until I return. I shall send up a maid to attend to your wants."

A SARDONIC voice cut into the instructions. "Keep away from that closet, Hale! If you step any nearer to that sword, I shall send a ball through your head."

In the opened doorway of the bedroom stood Lord Farquhar, the barrel of a pistol aimed straight at Jonathan Hale. While Jonathan and Anne stared at the black-garbed figure, his lordship advanced a step into the room and closed the door.

"You!" he prompted grimly, when he paused. "And now, Anne?"

Her hands reached beseechingly. "I find you different—so changed, Jonathan. You are like those other Londoners. You are not the lad who loved and offered me his name. What—what happened to you, Jonathan?"

"I HAVE not changed, Anne," he said. "What you see is only a shell I am forced to discard. Even if Denys were alive he would tell you that faith is you has been unwavered. He met his death while helping one search for you. Now that I do not know that if he did not even it was you who was in error of it, his misunderstanding at the . . . the Theatre?"

"No," she admitted. "But this purse—"

"I took it from Denys,' he nodded. "And I used the gold as a foundation for this splendor that puzzles you. Yet in spite of all that, I can ask you to have faith in me."

"Jonathan—" Her face moved tremulously. "I want to believe in you."

He reached out and she came unhesitatingly when he drew her closer. "Anne," he murmured, "look at me. Do you still believe I killed Denys?"

She refused to meet his gaze. Instead, her head went down and then, in a sudden, convulsive movement, she was clinging to him, face buried among the buttons and velvet of his doublet. "No, Jonathan," he heard her muffled sob. "Down in my heart I knew you to be incapable of such wickedness."

Jonathan pressed his face down into that curling, red-brown hair. "Anne, my Anne!" His voice was husky as her own. Tenderly he placed an arm about her and raised a finger of his free hand under her chin, forcing the bowed head to raise. As her face lifted under his he kissed her again and again, pressing his lips on the lids of her eyes, her smooth cheek and finally on the soft, responsive mouth.

She opened her eyes at last, but made no effort to remove herself from his embrace. "Don't ever say again, Jonathan," she whispered shakily. "Keep me with you—always."

"You shall be my wife before you leave this house," he smiled back at her. "Surely Sir Maurice Blaine did not forget the clergy when making out the list of my guests." Then a shadow dimmed the brightness of his countenance. "But—there still remains a bit of unfinished business—my Lord Farquhar."

Vermilion Oil Wells

Railway Is Taking Extra Output For Western Lines

R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president of Canadian National Railways, announced that Cansar Oils Limited, a subsidiary of the C.N.R., has begun production of fuel oil from well's at Vermilion, Alta., for the railway's locomotives in western Canada.

Cansar Oils controls 620 acres of Vermilion, where 20 wells have been drilled, 10 of which are producing 250 barrels a day. A total of 50 wells is planned.

In addition, the railway is taking the entire output of the Vermilion refinery under a treating plant close to Vermilion, the announcement said.

"We are opening the wells," Mr. Vaughan said, "as a wartime measure of precaution to secure an adequate supply and reserve of fuel oil for the railway's western services."

Calories And Crackers

Great Difference In The Calorie Values Of Different Foods

(By Molly O'Dale)

Calories are units of measurement used by nutritionists to express the potential energy values of foods and the energy requirements of the human body. Calories have nothing to do with food classifications, such as proteins, fats or carbohydrates, or with vitamins.

The number of calories needed each day vary according to age, sex and character of employment, from 900 calories needed by an infant up to 4500 needed by men engaged in very active work. Adults of both sexes, regardless of activity, should never use less than 2500 calories per day.

There are great differences in the calorie values of different foods. Butter rates highest, with 3272 calories to the pound. Biscuits and soda crackers come next with 1976 to the pound, with cheese ranking third at 1870 calories to the pound. A quart of all is spinach, which has only 110 calories to the pound.

There is unquestionably a sound scientific basis for the perennial popularity of crackers and cheese. This simple diet — buttered soda crackers with cheese, combines the three food items that are at the top of the calorie list.

The high calorie value of biscuits and crackers is due to the wheat flour and many other food ingredients they contain, plus the elimination of moisture, or dehydration, which results in a crisp, tasty biscuit that can be kept almost indefinitely without risk of spoiling and to its adaptability in menu-making.

Old-Timers Appreciated

Record Chalked Up By Members Of The Gotta Perche & Rubber Company

Imagine working for one firm for from 25 to 56 years!

That's the record chalked up by 956 members of the Gotta Perche & Rubber Limited, staff throughout Canada.

The unique in the history of the rubber industry of Canada—in some of Canadian industry at large is the record that the firm celebrated by forming a 25 Year Club and presenting to each of the members an engraved gold watch

In Toronto over a thousand employees gathered on October 8th, at a reception in the Royal York Hotel to the 244 Old timers from that city and the President Mr. F. A. Warren told them of his warm affection and respect for all his "old friends" and regretted that he could not be present at like banquets held on the same date at Vancouver, Winnipeg, Montreal and Halifax for 22 other members of the 25 Year Club, while at Edmonton, October 15 was the date

The Honorary President of the 25 Year Club is Walter J. Scott, a senior member with 56 years service to his credit, and on behalf of the Charter Members he presented a desk set to Mr Warren.

There is something heart-warming and non-commercial about a firm which so respects and recognizes its men who have been faithful and loyal That is the hope of the future generation too, because without this spirit wars will have been fought in vain. After all one quarter of a century means over 1,000 to have served 25 years or more is some record!

Japan Optimistic

High Officials Confident They Will Eventually Win The War

High Japanese officials appear to expect that Germany will collapse, but declare the war will continue for five years after that, a Chilean correspondent for Imparcial of Santiago, returning home on the exchange ship Tein Maru, asserted.

The correspondent said the official Japanese position was that the German collapse would not affect the Japanese greatly because Japan was prepared to stand alone. On the other hand, the Japanese feel that Germany's fate is greatly effected by Japan's decree.

The correspondent, not a repatriate since his country is not at war with Japan, said so far as he was able to ascertain from shared appearance the Japanese people still are confident they will win the war.

He said the Japanese had been relatively successful in winning the support of local populations in all parts of their captured territory except the Philippines, where the people remained hostile.

Cost Of War

Civilization Pays For War At Rate Of $25,000 Second

Cmdr. Stephen King-Hall, British Conservative M.P., told an Empire Conference in Toronto that the price civilization is paying for war totals $50,000 a second or $432,000,000 a day

"I do not say this is too high a price to pay," he said. "It's price can be too high provided, when the account is settled, we achieve our purpose."

Cmdr King-Hall said events will take care of the question of British-American co-operation after the war, but he warned against the "dangerous and syrup-soothing" doctrine that every nation has the right to choose its own form of government.

"If you mean the actual style of government, I agree," he said. "If you mean the principle of government, I disagree."

Following the war some fraction of what is spent on destruction must be devoted to peace and constructive purposes or the peace will not last, he said.

Chinese soldiers no longer wear queues because they were a sign of submission to the Manchu dynasty and were cut off when the republic was established.

Even Small Cooks Can Make Perfect Muffins

Proud as punch is this very young lady as she turns out a batch of perfect muffins. She made them all by herself and declares it is so easy she can be sure others will be made with the same ease of mixing operation. The only trick is Milk, don't over beat!

If you have a young daughter in your house, why not let her try her hand at making muffins for you? Here is the recipe our juvenile chef pronounces Simply Scrumptious!

BUSY HOUSEWIFE'S RECIPE FOR MUFFINS

2 tablespoons shortening	¼ cup milk
1 egg	1 cup flour
1 tablespoon sugar	½ teaspoon salt
1 cup All-Bran	2½ teaspoons baking powder

Cream shortening and sugar, add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder, add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (two degrees F. about 30 minutes. Yield 8 large muffins (8 inches in diameter) 12 small muffins (3 inches in diameter).

Note. When sour milk or buttermilk is used instead of sweet milk, reduce baking powder to one teaspoon and add ½ teaspoon soda.

I STOPPED "BOXING" MY CONSTIPATION AND CORRECTED THE CAUSE!

● In these busy days of war you owe it to your country—as well as to yourself—to keep "in the pink". That's why it's so important to avoid the common type of constipation caused by lack of "bulk" in the diet. And do it by getting right at the cause instead of "boxing" with harsh purgatives that give only temporary relief. Just follow the simple plan. Eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day! It's delicious as a cereal or in bran muffins. Drink plenty of water. Then see if you don't agree ALL-BRAN is the "better way" to natural regularity. But remember, eat ALL-BRAN every day!

Growers have ALL-BRAN in two convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

WEDDING BELLS

BRENNAN—BLAIR

On Wednesday, Oct. 27th, a quiet wedding took place at "Lone Spruce Farm", Red Deer, residence of Mr. and Mrs. R.D. Blair when their second daughter Fannie Mae, was united in marriage to Claude N. Brennan, only son of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Brennan, Vermilion, Alta.

The bride, wearing a crepe ensemble in Queen's blue, slightly trimmed in gold nail beads, with matching halo hat of felt, carried a shower bouquet of pink and white talisman roses. She entered the living room on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Jean Parker.

The ceremony, which took place beneath an arch of evergreen, banked in ferns and potted plants, with bronze and white chrysanthemums, was solemnized by the bride's uncle, Rev. A. L. Blair, of Lacombe.

The bride and groom were unattended. During the signing of the register, Mr. Fred Parker rendered "Because".

A reception was held when congratulations and good wishes were extended to the bride and groom. Mrs. Blair, mother of the bride, wore an afternoon dress of black crepe with white and pink roses. Her corsage was of white and pink roses.

Mrs. Brennan, mother of the groom, chose navy blue crepe. Her corsage was of pink and white roses.

The bride's table, laid in white linen was centred by a tiered wedding cake embellished in pink and white leaves, tall white tapers in crystal holders, and decorated with white roses and buds.

The toast was proposed by Capt. W. H. Scott

Mrs. Brennan left on the afternoon train for Kelowna, B.C., for their honeymoon, the bride travelling in an ultra green wool suit, her accessories were in black and top coat of British tweed.

The bride is a graduate in nursing of Red Deer Municipal hospital and before her marriage was on the staff of Vermilion hospital.

On their return Mr and Mrs. Brennan will take up residence in Vermilion

WILSON—DOYLE

The Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute was the scene of a very pretty wedding Saturday evening, Oct. 23rd when Miss Margaret Lois Doyle of Hoosier, Sask., became the bride of Mr. Mervin Thomas Wilson of Vermilion, Alta. Mr. Cyril Hutchinson of the Institute officiated at the ceremony.

The bride looked charming in a floor - length dress of embroidered white marquisette, with chapel veil caught with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of pink and cream carnations and fern. She was attended by her sister Miss Velma Doyle who wore a floor-length dress of pink triple sheer, and carried a bouquet of cream and pink carnations and fern. Mr. Mahan Hill of Vermilion was best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Corven Doyle, and during the signing of the register Miss Marcella Ollhauser sang very sweetly, "Because".

Following the ceremony the bridal party and immediate relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, where a three-tiered wedding supper was served by Miss Hattie Williams, assisted by young friends of the couple. The bride was received by a beautiful three-tier wedding cake, which was made by the bride's mother. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Hutchinson and ably responded to by the groom.

Following the supper a very happy time was spent with music and dancing. Miss Ollhauser presiding at the piano, in the course of which a very beautiful solo entitled "Calvary" was sung by Mr. Hutchinson and greatly enjoyed by all. After a short honeymoon spent at Banff Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will make their home in Calgary where they will join Mrs. Wilson's parents who have moved there from Toronto.

CAR RUNS ON REPUTATION 7 MILES WITHOUT BATTERY

The old saying that a car runs on its reputation was just that—a saying —but Frank Kyseo claims that his car did run on its reputation for 7 miles. Frank was headed for home in a hurry on Monday, but noticed that every once in a while his engine seemed to miss. The car kept going however as long as he was hitting a good clip but he made the mistake of slowing down and the engine promptly died On checking up for possible trouble he noticed that the gas usually accomplied by the battery was empty. That very necessary piece of equipment had disappeared, it was found seven miles back on the road, quite a bit the worse for wear. As long as the car was travelling fast the generator supplied enough spark but once she slowed down Frank was out of luck.

FORMER VERMILION BOYS ARE MISSING OVERSEAS

Two former Vermilion boys have now been officially reported missing after air operations over Europe late in September. The boys were members of the same crew, a night bomber, and were Flying Officer Ronald Hubert Sherbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Sherbeck who lived here for quite a number of years and then moved to Vancouver, B.C. Ronald was pilot of the plane and had made quite a number of operational flights. His wife lives at Calgary. Flying Officer Frank Thorlakur Johnson was navigator on the same ship and is also missing following the same flight. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dawson Manson who now live at Squamish, B.C. Frank practically grew up in Vermilion taking his high schooling here and was a well known member of the orchestra, and was popular with the young people of the town.

Back at the field where they had taken off, was another Vermilion boy, Jim Regan, waiting anxiously but vainly for his friends' return.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETS WEDNESDAY, NOV. 17th

PREMIER AND MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS ADDRESS PUBLIC MEETING

Attract Large Audience

Some 250 people gathered from all parts of the district on Tuesday evening to hear addresses given by the Hon. Ernest C. Manning, premier of the province of Alberta, and the Hon. W.A. Fallow, minister of public works, Robert Fair, M.P. also spoke briefly.

Premier Manning gave a brilliant discourse on the record of his government and showed an amazing grasp of the multitude of matters dealt with. He impressed by his evident sincerity and his genuine desire to see a system in force which would mean economic freedom for all of the people all of the time. He mentioned briefly various services which had been greatly extended during the past year or two including health and nursing units, cancer clinic, extended and improved roads, government insurance and government handling of machinery repairs. The Premier paid tribute to the local member, Mr. Fallow, stating that he was held in high esteem by his fellow members and that he was handling difficult depart ments in an excellent manner.

Premier Manning asserted "Canada is not ready for peace. On all sides people are talking of a near order, but the fact is that a lasting peace cannot be established until the war is won." Canada is not prepared. The same economic difficulties that existed previous to the war exist today. There is every reason to dread what the future holds unless we are getting down to it."

Mr. Fallow who immediately preceded the Premier with his talk dealt with the road building program of the province. He stated that there had been more miles of road built and well built, in Alberta in the past year than in any other year in the province's history. More than usually interesting here at the present time was the note taken up by the speaker, of the reformed municipal unit. Mr. Fallow defended the new set up, saying that already the advantages were so apparent that the new units were in operation that they were safer for even larger areas. The enlarged unit had a revenue and it is hoped to make the boundaries of the new M.D.s coordinate with the school division boundaries, health unit and hospital boundaries, agricultural districts as to electoral areas. There was a tremendous field for advancement and losing the hostilities of the late municipal unit. It was here too that road improvement would come about up and back to road built on a high way scale and supervised by government engineers was already, can be attested to by the larger districts formed within the last two years formed by the people having to come to a fair central place for government services, the services under the enlarged district set up would be taken to the people of his tour. Mr. Fallow in pressed all with his friendly disposition and his burning desire for a higher standard of living in post war Canada.

Other visitors present were Mr. Wilde of Red Deer, A. E. Wallace and John Bryden of Mannville, and Mr. Jack, who is the Progressive Conservative leader - executive

BOARD OF TRADE ENTERTAINS MR. JOHN BRACKEN

Fifty-one Present at Luncheon

John Bracken leader of the Progressive-Conservative party of Canada, was the guest of honor and chief speaker at a strictly non-political gathering on Thursday evening when the members of the Vermilion Board of Trade were his hosts at a banquet in the Dining Room of the Bracken Hotel. Fifty-one members and their guests including Mayor Morrison and Reeve Bracken were present and Mr. Bracken was introduced by Mr. Morrison in the absence of the president Mr. Bracken was given a hearty welcome by the fifty-one members present and from his address it was evident that he was in his element as he addressed a meeting of over three hundred people in the Columbia theatre in Vermilion on Thursday night. The audience represented all shades of political thought but all were impressed with the obvious sincerity of Mr. Bracken. He is not a politician, he is a statesman" was the common opinion expressed after the meeting

Mr. Bracken was introduced to the audience by Mayor Morrison and on the platform with him were Geo. Maxwell president of the local conservative association and Mr. Wilde provincial organizer of the party.

In his preliminary remarks Mr. Bracken gave a short history of his early life on a farm in Ontario coming on to his acre-allotted experience in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. He formed of hgs he became premier of Manitoba, which was a case of the people seeking the man, and he left it to be termed the best job in Manitoba that of Dean or Agriculture to take the board, that of premier not to be. He now found himself head of a party which he formerly opposed because that party had proceeded in a new platform which contained in its broad creed not less a new deal for agriculture than a possible solution to the labor troubles. As he accepted the task of leadership he had set out to familiarize himself with every part of the Dominion and this had led to the tour which he is now making

Noting the number of young people present Mr. Bracken heralded off on a grave a brief survey of what he had seen on each province on his tour telling a little about the people their habits and industries. He stressed how things for the south of Canada to remember, these were the people with achieve education, habits of industry and develop strength of character. The present time is the most interesting period of human history in civilizations, as the economists—and no organization prior to this knew as well how to lay the foundation of a better world

Mr Bracken went on to say that we have something far greater than war than anything now in existence. We should determine our objectives and from them be determined to reach them.

His post war proposals were not a job for every interest, every group, no one interest or group but for every interest and group.

To make a living a decent living for every man, so that all citizens million, could have and feel themselves secure in the possession of the necessities of life, the state that the collapse of the early thirties will not occur again.

These were his suggestions for the south and for besides there must feel that they are masters in our own home, security for our children. We are doing something along this line but not enough. An expanding economy is the only way to meet these and we must make the world a better place for the common man.

JOHN BRACKEN ADDRESSES LARGE VERMILION AUDIENCE

Leader Impresses People

Vermilion Unit Over The Top In Fifth Victory Loan

Making a surprising effort in the dying hours of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign the Vermilion-Mannville-Islay-Derwent unit has once more taken its place well up with the top group in raising money essential to the war effort of Canada.

On Friday morning, when the last issue of the Standard was just going into the hands of its readers, the Unit needed more than $30,000 in order to fulfil its obligation to the campaign; by Saturday night, when the campaign closed the $180,000 quota had been exceeded by approximately $10,000 and at the time of going to press this week the Unit is able to report just over $200,000 worth of bonds sold in the campaign.

The allocation made by the unit organizer to the various sub units and the amount raised by each of the con-

	Quota	Subscribed
Mannville	$ 30,000	$ 36,000
Islay	12,000	12,150
Derwent	12,000	11,750
R.C.A.F.	12,000	14,000
Vermilion	114,000	120,000

The thanks of the Unit headquarters is extended to all who worked diligently for the success of the Fifth Victory Loan, to the individuals who put in their bids congratulations are also extended, and because of the fact that they assisted in this most necessary effort, but because they have made the best investment available in any country of the United Nations in vestors need have no fear of the security of bonds of the Dominion of Canada and all are invited to keep in touch with the unit organizer to make provision for the opportunity which will doubtless come during 1944 of adding to their holdings of the gilt edge securities obtainable through an investment in Victory, and the Bonds of the Dominion

VERMILION POST-WAR COMMITTEE ORGANIZED

Addressed by H. D. Carrigan

The Vermilion Post-War committee was formally organized Monday evening at a meeting in the Legion Hall at which H D Carrigan Secretary of the Post War Re-construction committee of the Provincial government was the guest speaker. The Committee elected Mayor Morrison as chairman, J. A. Wener as vice-chairman and H Buckingham as secretary It was decided to have another meeting shortly at which sub-committees will be named. These committees will then study and make recommendations on such matters as public works, housing, education, agriculture and so on.

Mr. Carrigan in his address reviewed the program the Post War Reconstruction of Alberta had outlined and the different activities upon which it was now gathering information, and in connection with which such committees as the one at Vermilion he said would be most useful in gathering data for submission to the provincial government of the federal government at the case might be. Women Of Royal Canadian Air Force Study Aerial Photography

Taking every lucky bump as women photographers of the Royal Canadian Air Force while training for "ground crew" are in service darkrooms and laboratories.

From take-off to landing, they are in for a thrill a-minute in this course of instruction. The girls average three flights under the supervision of trained instructors at the R.C.A.F. photographic school at Rockcliffe Air Station near Ottawa. They are taught all ground crew photographic processes, and also given brief aerial photographic experience so they will understand problems that confront flying men who turn their films over to the airwomen for finishing. Previous to one recent flight, ground preparations were carried out by the girls.

Following four and one-half months' instruction in both aerial and ground photography, the airwomen travel on posting to stations in all parts of Canada, where they are releasing men for air crew duties.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 14

THE SANCTITY OF THE HOME

Golden text: Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. Matthew 5 8.

Lesson: Exodus 20:14; Matthew 5: 27-30, Mark 10:2-12.

Devotional Reading: Proverbs 2: 11-22.

Explanations and Comments

The Law of Purity, Exodus 20:14. "Thou shalt not commit adultery." Concubinage was quite common among the Hebrew people, and adultery was probably thought of more as an invasion of the rights of another than as a lessening in morals. That concubinage was found to be a really demoralizing influence in the life of the people is very clear."

New Jews Expanded the Seventh Commandment, Matthew 5:27-30. Ye have heard that it was said . . . but I say unto you: Jesus finds the germ of adultery in the inactivities book. The unlawful act is wicked. The ugly desire which would crawl into the heart it could and dared is also wicked. The greedy gaze which is intended to keep alive an unseemly longing is a thing hateful in Jesus' sight. The righteousness which extends the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees has to do with outer secret thoughts.

And if thy right eye causeth thee to stumble, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: As in our text last Sunday, Jesus is here making use of hyperbole, a rhetorical device for making a statement emphatic, a figure of speech in which one says more than he means for the purpose of creating a strong effect. For it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not thy whole body go into hell. "Hell" is "Gehenna", the place of final punishment. The meaning of this saying is that those who are seriously tempted should discipline themselves with the greatest severity, depriving themselves even of lawful pleasures. Thus certain amusements and certain kinds of reading, in themselves harmless, are to some occasions of sin. Such persons ought to avoid them altogether. Others find friendships that they value so dangerous that they ought to give them up. This giving up of what is pleasant and lawful, because to us personally it is a spiritual peril, is what our Lord means by plucking out the right eye and cutting off the right hand. Asceticism of this kind is different from the asceticism of those eastern religions which regard the body as evil. Its principle is that it is better to live a sinless life than a complete and useful life.

BIG'LAR PELLERS—Embarrassing Question

Canadian Salt Chief Invests U.S. Colonel

It's news when a Canadian railway president invests a Colonel of the United States with the eagle insignia of his new rank. This unique ceremony took place somewhere in northern Manitoba where Lieut.-Col. J. F. Parkin, Officer Commanding, United States Army Forces, Central Canada, headquarters Winnipeg, received news from Washington that he had been appointed full Colonel. He was on a trip inspecting the Canadian National Railways' northern facilities with R.C. Vaughan, chairman and president. The investiture took place in Mr. Vaughan's car, "Bonaventure", which was taken as an omen of "good going" for the Colonel. Born in Kentucky himself, he was long alive an unseemly longing in a thing hateful in Jesus' sight. The righteousness which exceeds the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees has to do with outer secret thoughts.

Fireproof Clothing

Will Soon Be A Reality Due To New Chemical

The discovery of a new chemical fire retardant known as "CR" has put into the hands of man another potent weapon to keep fire, his most valued but least trusted servant, in check, according to John Harwood-Jones, writing in C-I-L Oval. Clothing of all kinds, from little girls' frilly party frocks, sheerest negligee, velvet evening gowns, to ace welders' fire retardant hoods and aprons may be made fire resistant by dipping or spraying them with the chemical so that, though they may char upon contact with fire, they will not burst into flame. Moreover, this chemical newcomer does not affect the "feel" or appearance of fabrics and it would take an expert, or a flame, to distinguish between treated and untreated materials. The most immediate use of this fire retardant chemical, however, will be in the treatment of soldiers', sailors' and airmen's uniforms, and of textiles for war machines such as tank linings, civilian use bowing once again to uniforms.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

CAMPAIGN AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Eighteen hundred student nurses and exposed hospital and sanatorium employees in Saskatchewan have been vaccinated for tuberculosis since March, 1939, Dr. R. G. Ferguson, medical director of the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League, reported at the annual meeting of the Canadian Public Health Association in Toronto.

Doctor Ferguson said that of all those vaccinated only 10 persons had developed tuberculosis lesions. During a five-year period preceding the use of vaccine, 20 employees who entered the service with negative tuberculin tests developed lesions.

"The protection of staffs, particularly nurses in general hospitals, mental hospitals and sanatoria, against tuberculosis is a responsibility that rests upon all health workers, and particularly on tuberculosis workers," Doctor Ferguson said. "This was an increasing problem in Saskatchewan, which, despite not-withstanding improved nurses' homes, better food, supervised by dietitians, and better training in infectious technique. The problem is acute wherever the incidence of infection is fall-ing."

Experience in vaccination of 423 Indian babies during the past 10 years had shown a mortality reduction of 70 per cent., when these immunised as compared with those not protected.

The vaccine employed is Bacillus Calmette Guerin, originated by the Pasteur Institute, Paris, and introduced to Canada in 1925. The vaccine consists of living attenuated bacilli which are harmless but, upon entering the human body, set in motion the resistant bodies which provide a degree of immunity.

Reporting on other phases on the campaign against tuberculosis, Doctor Ferguson said the use of mini-ture films had made mass surveys possible at a cost of 15 to 30 cents per person or $20,000 for 100,000 individuals. The photofluorographic unit, he said, also makes possible rapid selection of definite tuberculosis cases.

The Poor Man's Lawyer Association Is Operating In Britain

Since the outbreak of war, further steps have been taken in the United Kingdom to ensure that free legal advice reaches those who would otherwise be unable to afford it. The Poor Man's Lawyer Association—which is run by the Law Society and was established before the war—continues to give free legal advice to poor persons. In addition, the Poor Man's Lawyer Association, introduced since the war, has been set up by surveyors and others to give free advice on the War Damage Act.

MAKES A DIFFERENCE

When Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery was talking to the boys of Aneseboy school in Great Britain, shortly before he left for the attack on Sicily, he told them: "I would say that the chief difference between the German and the British soldier is the investiture took place in Mr. Vaughan's car, "Bonaventure", which was taken as an omen of "good going" for the Colonel. Born in Kentucky himself, he was long alive an unseemly longing in a thing hateful in Jesus' sight. The righteousness which exceeds the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees has to do with outer secret thoughts.

Has Big Possibilities

But Helicopter Not Yet Adapted For General Use

According to the experts mass production of the helicopter is not the answer to the readjustment problem which will face the airplane industry when the war demand drops off. The helicopter is technically safe and fool proof in the hands of a trained operator. It needs no airfield. But engineers liken it to the automobiles made before the last war. It has big possibilities in the future when it has been through many stages of refinement and perfection. Also, the helicopter is not yet cheap to build.

BRITISH ARE PAYING

Some idea of how the British people are paying as well as fighting is seen in the fact that the total amount of the contributions of the British people to war loans, post office savings and other government funds, from November 23, 1939, until Sept. 24, 1943, was $37,222,820,136. And of this amount, $390,631,840 has been lent to the British Government without interest.

Beau Jonathan

by J.B.Ryan

CHAPTER X.

ANNE looked up questioningly and even Jonathan frowned, for neither the girl nor the man knew the net being woven by the tall dark man. "I am willing," said Lord Farquhar, "to let Master Hale go his way—for a price."

"And that price, my lord?" inquired Jonathan.

"Is that Mistress Jamieson go away with me."

"Nay!" Anne, Jonathan leaped up and would have flung himself upon Lindsay in spite of the drawing pistol had not Anne sprung forward also, catching him about the arms. As he struggled with the girl Lord Farquhar laughed and quickly shouted. "Summon the bailiffs, Farquhar! I'll swing from a handsome gibbets before I let her even listen to your infamous proposal!"

"Wait, Anne! Wait!" implored Anne. "I do not want you to be hitched." As Jonathan subsided she clung to him still, and turned her head to speak over her shoulder. "I accept, my lord. Spare this man and I—I shall go with you."

"Anne!" cried Jonathan. "Send this devil about his business. If you love me—"

Her face was colorless. "I do this because I love you, Jonathan—please do not make it harder for me—"

"I will not permit it! I shall follow you downstairs and, if Farquhar will not fight me, I shall order my servants to seize him!"

"If you show your nose in the stairs," said Farquhar, "I shall tell what I know concerning you."

"Stay, Anne, Jonathan!" Anne's smile was wan.

"But—Anne—even the shame you would accept will not save me. Lord Farquhar's promises are worthless. What is to prevent him from having me arrested after he has taken you?"

Farquhar sneered. "You can make an absolutely certain of saving your worthless carcass by getting out of London this very night."

Jonathan broke away from the girl. But sudden as was his lunge, the desperate Anne hampered his movements to such an extent that Farquhar, securing the man's purpose, was beside Jonathan as he was free. His lordship's lifted arm descended savagely, crashing the butt of the pistol against Jonathan's head, and the stricken man fell forward to the floor and into darkness

WHEN his senses cleared, Jonathan found himself propped in a hazy stupor, a gag in his mouth, Farquhar kneeling to knot the cloth that, like the strips already about Jonathan's wrists, bound his legs securely to the frame of the chair. To one side stood Anne, her face as white as the silk of her dress, her anxious eyes were fixed on Jonathan, but when she saw that he had revived, her glance lowered, her downcast lashes making dark brown curves against her cheek.

"Your servants should find you presently and set you free," said Farquhar. "For your own good, Hale, consider yourself the loser in this game. I shall arm my servants to-night and them agitated your way if possible coming. If you attempt to molest me, you shall be shot on sight."

The gag made it impossible for Jonathan to answer. But the eyes that glared at Farquhar were as eloquent as any words. Farquhar hesitated, fingering the pistol that lay beside him, then nodded to himself and stepped to Jonathan's desk.

His back to the room, Farquhar, his lordship wrote hastily for a full minute, Jonathan tried to signal for Anne to grasp the opportunity to run while Farquhar's back was turned. But Anne remained quiet and passive, as much a prisoner as the man in the chair.

FARQUHAR folded the paper, dropped wax on the flap and stamped it with the seal lying on the desk. "See this document, Hale? You are to be taken to Newgate prison and there remain until you have signed it. Then you will be released. Not before. Anne, I shall be back in an hour. Be ready to go with me."

"I will be ready, my lord," said Anne.

Farquhar left the room. Before the door had closed on the triumphant Lord Farquhar, Jonathan knew that Anne was writing in the chair, and, at long last, the door moved and Matt Tucker peered into the room.

Entering hastily, he ripped the cloth away from Jonathan's wrists and ankles. "What happened, sir? Has the place been robbed" All our men are dead—or dead—"

Jonathan tore the gag out of his mouth. "Get—get horses, Tucker! I've managed in spite of the dry tongue. "Hurry—I have no time to explain! This is a matter of life and death!"

Without question Tucker darted from the room. Jonathan pushed himself erect and staggered to the wardrobe on wooden feet. He grabbed the sword down from the wall, fastened it about his waist and, holding back his impatience to be gone, bandied a brace of pistols and found the weapons through the sash about his waist. Then he raced into the hall and down the stairs.

The first person he encountered on the ground floor was Sir Maurice Blaine.

"Ah, Hale!" exclaimed Sir Maurice. "Dash it all, man, where have you been? I've been searching for you—"

Jonathan interrupted. "Have you seen Lord Farquhar?"

"Farquhar has gone," Blaine nodded, his lips moving in a faint, suggestive grin. "Glad, Hale, you should have seen the attractive baggage he helped into his carriage!"

Jonathan's knotted fist drove into the face of the speaker. "You fool!" he gasped. "Why didn't you stop him?"

Blaine reeled back, his face livid with pain and rage. "Damme, Hale!" he snarled thickly. "I demand satisfaction for that blow!"

Jonathan regretted the blow but he had not time for apology. He shrugged. His favorite saddle was into the startled onlookers. "I'll see you at, sir, at—Blue 16 Inn!"

MATT TUCKER had one horse saddled when Jonathan reached the stables. Jonathan caught a nag from and saddle and by the time he had tightened the girth, the servant had the bridles on both horses. Jonathan handed one of the pistols to the sweep.

"Do you know where Lord Farquhar lives, Tucker?"

Tucker's wrinkled face screwed up, then he nodded. "It lies some distance from here, sir. We shall have to cross most of the city to reach the place." He stared doubtfully at the gun in his hand. "There is to be trouble?"

"The role of Beau Jonathan has come to an end, Tucker." In spite of his haste, Jonathan had to acquaint the loyal old fellow with what might lay ahead. "Tomorrow is to be killed tonight. Before morning I may be dead—and you may be also on the floor of a gaol. You, too, may come to grief if you accompany me."

Tucker shoved the pistol beneath his coat and grabbed the reins of the nearest horse. "I shall not desert you now, sir."

"Then on you, Tucker," Jonathan smiled gratefully. "But I give you your choice. From now on, our association is ended. I have given you money enough to keep you for the remainder of your days—"

"I have that," nodded Tucker. "But even so, I am with you to the bitter end. Come, sir, and I will show you the way to his lordship's residence."

The old sweep who had climbed into the saddle during the conversation, flicked his mount with his reins and turned the horse into the alley behind the stables. The moon was up, making it possible to travel the streets at a fast, but safe pace. In fact, they were able to move more rapidly because of the absence of daylight. Most of London was asleep, and even the thoroughfares cleared of the usual traffic.

The horses went through the night at a brisk gallop. The inn at Blue Lime Tucker had ridden, and he had journeyed considerably at the same breakneck clip cobblestones, but by hanging tenaciously to the saddle Jonathan managed to keep abreast of the more graceful Jonathan.

In the vicinity of their destination they slowed and proceeded at a more cautious gait. Like Damon pulling down the lamps, willing to die if his enemies perished with him, Jonathan Hale had no thought of self in his desire to come to grips with Farquhar. Though he himself fell, he would gladly have brought the entire city with him in better days Farquhar's doors. But that would not have been reason enough. Any premature investigation would result in Jonathan being hustled off to Newgate, leaving Anne still in the house of his enemy.

Bombs And Biscuits

The Nutritional Value Of Boils Cracked In Well-Known

(By Molly O'Dale)

Important items in the equipment of lifeboats and life-rafts on vessels of the navy are the biscuit tins. These are usually hermetically sealed tins containing hard biscuits designed to provide the maximum quantity of food compressed into the smallest possible space. These biscuits are called "Emergency Rations" and are lineal descendants of the "Sea-Biscuits" used as bread on old-time sailing ships which were at sea sometimes for months on end.

They are chiefly remembered, too, to the Soda Crackers which are so universally used in Canadian homes.

Soda Crackers have much to recommend them besides their tasty flavor. They are really the "Staff of Life" dehydrated. Good white bread, for instance, contains moisture to 38% of its weight, but, in Soda Crackers the moisture content is reduced to less than 6%. Unlike the majority of dehydrated food products, Soda Crackers do not lose their nutritive value. You eat them as they come. They are always ready to serve.

Then, when it comes to calories, it's hard to beat Soda Crackers which, on the average, give you 100 calories for your money. That is only one-fifth to navy beans which give 100 calories for a cent—and miles ahead of chicken which gives only eight calories for a cent.

But add them their high nutritive value and economy. Biscuits and Soda Crackers are particularly valuable because of adaptability. You can enjoy them alone, spread with a little butter. They go fine with milk cheese jam, marmalade soup, peanut butter, etc. And they are handy both for serving at regular mealtimes or as a between-meal or bedtime snack.

Food Supply

Agriculture Is Given First Place In Post-War Affairs

Food and agriculture have been given first place in post-war national and international affairs relieving recognition to an extent previously unknown Dr G S H Barton Federal Deputy Minister of Agriculture, said in addressing the Canadian Chamber of Commerce annual meeting.

The basic concept that a secure adequate and suitable supply of food for every man is the first requisite of Freedom from want" has had universal acceptance and has reached a responsive chord in public opinion.

"All the governments of the United Nations have participated in establishing the Interim Commission for Food and Agriculture. Dr. Hannah, minister counsellor Canadian Legation in the United States, has been chosen as chairman and there is every reason to believe that the proposed permanent organization will be established.

Tree Protection

Satisfactory Repellent To Ward Off Depredations Of Rabbits

For the protection of trees against the depredations of rabbits in winter time, the Dominion Experimental Stations, Scott, Saskatchewan, has tested many repellents, the best of which is a mixture of resin and alcohol, states C. D. Matthews, the superintendent. This repellent is easy to prepare; the rabbits do not eat the bark of trees where the repellent is applied, and it does not injure the trees. Like most things around the farm, the making of the repellent calls for attention to a few details which must be followed to obtain the desired results. The alcohol used must be denatured (not "drunk" in under wartime regulations), available through hardware or paint stores. Lamp resin is used but it must be finely powdered before dissolving. The lumps can be crushed by placing them in a sack and using a wooden mallet. The resin can then be sifted through a piece of fly screen. The proportions are eight pounds of powdered resin to a gallon of denatured ethyl alcohol. It is preferable to mix two pounds to a quart and use it right away as it must be kept in an airtight container or it will dry out. The resin and alcohol are stirred until dissolved. Under no circumstances must the solution be heated. It is well to keep in mind size of container when mixing, as the addition of the resin to the alcohol causes it to swell.

A small paint brush is used to apply this repellent to the trees. It will become gummy while using, a small amount of alcohol can be added to restore the original condition. When applying the repellent, the bark must be absolutely dry, without mold or falling snow being present at the time. All parts of the trees which can or may be reached by the rabbits during the winter are treated. It is advisable to treat the trees as early as possible in the fall for protection during the winter.

Made Safe Landing

Paratrooper Used Only One Foot To Stop His Fall

A student paratrooper's chute failed to open and he plummeted to earth at an estimated speed of 50 miles an hour.

But he lived to tell the tale.

The British Medical Journal says that he made a unique, and a happy ending simply because the student landed on one foot instead of two.

Had he done things the usual way the full force of the shock from a 700-foot plunge earthward would have killed him instantly.

By using only one foot to stop his fall he prevented all of the shock from travelling up the spine to his skull, remained conscious on the ground, and ended up with a spine fracture.

Now, he's doing nicely, thank you.

Robert J. B. Fleming Of Saskatoon Wins Double Award In Forthcoming Eight Society Competition

Last Spring the Canadian Performing Right Society conducted their annual competition for Canadian Composers with five cash prizes of $1000 each.

The results have just been given out by the distinguished judges, and for the second time the youngest competitor, Robert J B Fleming of Saskatoon was a winner.

Only in his early twenties the double winning of a major award in this open competition bespeaks a brilliant musical future for the young Westerner. His offering was a nursery Suite "Around the House" for full orchestra and piano.

Here's the Way to Buy NEW, USED OR RETREADED TIRES Under Wartime Regulations

SEE YOUR Firestone DEALER

PARENERS . . .

Time we have rooters, sometimes and trucks are eligible for replacement provided they have been operated or are to be traveled. Furthermore, any farmer not owning a truck may purchase the tires on his passenger car and tubes. For further information see the nearest Firestone Dealer.

TO save time, first go to your nearest Firestone Dealer who has complete official tire information. He will advise you if you are eligible and what class you are in. Then he will help you fill out the Application for a Ration Permit, furnish the dealer's Declaration Report, and do everything he can to assist you.

While new and used tires and retreaded tires are restricted to essential buyers, no permit is necessary for tire repairs or retreading. If you have only a minor bruise or cut, have it repaired immediately. If tube cuts are needed, make arrangements now to have them extended. Better still, have the Firestone Dealer give your tires a complete expert inspection, and put their worst in his hands.

DISTRICT COURT

District Court chambers were held at Vermilion Tuesday of last week, Judge Dubue presiding. Considerable business took place re income estate when it was sought by J. McCrory Kitscoty, to have the administrator called into court and pass his accounts, claiming that although appointed some time ago he has not attended properly to the administration of the affairs of the estate. A.L. Gibson K.C. Edmonton, represented one of the beneficiaries and J.D. Adam, K.C., the Administrator. The Judge ordered that the whole matter be turned over to the Public Administrator for adjustment.

Another interesting matter to come before the Court was a motion by Mr. McCrory to have a caveat filed against title issued in Dewberry contained Collins, the plaintiff, claimed one Finch of California, owed him some money in connection with the sale of a parcel of land at Dewberry. J.W.H. Morrison, K.C., opposed the motion on behalf of Finch, stating the point as to whether Collins had a current able interest in the property at date of registration of caveat, and also stressing the fact that one could not be filed under such a claim and that there could not be an extension unless a certain order signed by the Judge had been filed. The Judge decided that he would give an extension of 2 days. A.W.H. Mitchell, K.C., got an order for sale of chattels in the case of the Imperial Lumber Co. vs. Scub.

Probate was granted to J. D. Adam K.C., in the estate of H. H. Castle and to J.W.H. Morrison, K.C., in the estate of Alexander J. Morrison and of George A. Kelley late of Vancouver, B.C., and administration in the estate of John McKenzie of Helmsberg.

MORRISON

A number of the boys of the district are leaving shortly for Edmonton where they expect to obtain jobs for a few weeks. This will help to break the monotony of farm life.

Miss Lila Bowser expects to leave for the east and various other points soon and will be away until spring.

Albert Dupuis and family have now moved to their new home, previously occupied by J. E. Forsyth.

The party held at the school last Friday night in honor of Harold McLellan, who is home on furlough, was attended by a large number of his friends who presented him with a shaving set. The Victory orchestra donated the music and a lovely time was enjoyed by all.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. Bert Cloud is a patient in the Islay hospital and the whole district wishes her a speedy recovery.

A letter was received from Lloyd Cloud saying that he was fit and fine and doesn't care overly much for England's damp weather.

Lawrence Gould has been wounded in the knee. We all sincerely hope that it is not serious.

BATTLEVIEW ECHOES

(Written for last week this bulletin was received too late for inclusion in that issue.)

Not much threshing was accomplished in the short spell of nice weather we had before the snow. There is still considerable threshing to be done in this district and it begins to look as if not much more of it will be finished up this fall.

The Battleview war service league held their last meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Symes. Five dozen parcels were made up to send to the boys overseas. There was a good attendance at the meeting and at the close a lovely lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting is scheduled for Mrs. Garth Hetherington's.

The quilt made and raffled by the league was won by Mrs. Andy Carlson.

Cpl Manet Costello from Camp Shilo, Man., has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. Bert Prissell.

Word has been received from overseas that Napier Howard Prissell has met his brother Bill, and has been transferred to the 24th Field Ambulance with Bill.

Word received by his family indicates that Pte. Arnold Winter has been sent to Africa

The Course to Follow

Grain congestion is very severe at the present time. The small initial wheat delivery quota amply demonstrates the truth of this statement.

In face of such conditions it is difficult for farmers to direct their limited quotas to the elevators of their choice, which in most cases is the Pool Elevators. The Pool Elevator system acknowledges that the problem is a complicated one. To tell the farmers to deliver all their grain to Pool elevators when space is so limited is simply not common sense.

But the Wheat Pool does suggest that where farmers have any selection in the matter the Pool elevators should get the preference. Furthermore, if you are compelled by unavoidable circumstances to deliver your grain elsewhere, do not forget that you should return to Pool elevators whenever the situation clears up and the congestion is relieved.

WILDMERE WINKS

Pte. Earl Graham of Calgary made a short visit last week to see his children at Wallington's. He reports Mrs. Graham getting along very nicely at the Soo.

The snow last week put a halt to the threshing once more — too bad when so much is to be done yet. It's very sad, indeed, for those who have small children to feed and clothe and for ones who have a lot of stock to feed. We really think winter is not here yet, as hundreds and hundreds of ducks are still around and have kept a real quiet in the lake so far. Whether the grain will dry out enough in this short daylight is an other question

Pte. Norman Smith spent the week end at his home in Wildmere. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, of Edmonton are to come today, (Tuesday) for a short visit with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Adam Smith, Wildmere, and Mr. and Mrs. Cleland of Amberside

Miss Leona Phillips of Heinsburg who has worked the past summer for Mrs. Grandmother Mrs. Geo. Crutcher, returned to her home on Monday. Mr. Cliff Crutchers taking her home in the truck

We were very pleased to see the news sent in from Battleview — Keep up the good work scribe.

We omitted the name of Cpl. Tom Riley in that item of thanks last week. He extends the same good wishes to all who contributed to his gift.

Visitors to the home of Mr. and Mrs John Wilson on Sunday were 2 brothers, Bob Battle, Geo. Wilson and Wallington's and the Graham children.

Farming is still in the minds of the local fans as several turned out on Monday to work on the rink to get it in shape to start bonding with science of a good sheet of ice in the offing.

A bee is being made this week to supply the Wildmere-Tolland Mutual Telephone line. C. Wallington and Billie Smith found the trouble of the last week in a twisted wire near Geo. Hudson's home.

Funniest thing noticed around — Booby Graham, who unable to buy ready in town on Saturday bought himself a dinner worth of shingle nails instead—going to amuse himself somehow!

NO FIRES

MONTREAL — "Not a single fire was reported during Fire Prevention Week on any property of the Canadian National Railways throughout Canada," states H. C. Carrington, insurance commissioner for the system.

DART of the Canadian Pacific Railway's campaign for rigid conservation of coal during the heating season is a special booklet of instructions, the front cover of which is illustrated above, and which, all those immediately responsible for handling coal and coal ashes, are supplementing the Railway's general appeal to bear a special share of the load. Some 20,000 employees of the company and the subsidiary lines have a consulting interest in the campaign, which, like all phases of the campaign, announced by W. M. Neal, the Vice-president, are expected to save 200,000 tons of coal throughout the system itself, with the home savings by Canadian Pacific people expected to add considerably even to that impressive figure. The company saving will be 10 per cent, on the approximate 3,000,000 tons of coal required annually—a remarkable saving, when considered in the light of the Canadian Pacific's own conservation campaign to increase operating efficiency, which has been intensively pursued for 10 years.

NAVY WEEK NOVEMBER 21 - 27

Appeal for Donations for Comforts

Upwards of fifty thousand Canadian sailors, and other thousands of the Merchant Marine, through fuel and duty vessels, through the terrible dangers of the sea and hurling U-boat, keep the life lines of the United Nations open, and carry the munitions and food to the armies that will bring Victory for democracy.

These men give unselfishly of their services to the Nation so that the way of life that we have enjoyed — that way of life which our forefathers have established in us — is maintained. They suffer tremendous hardships, face perils that would daunt the hardiest spirit, and yet at the end of their long go down to the sea in ships Party to them never to return.

November 21 to 27th is Navy Week, and we are celebrating the deeds accomplished by the Canadian Navy. We are paying tribute to the services which they have rendered and routine daily to make us that we 'em may retain throughout the war.

And you are asked to help the men of Canada's Navy. The men who go up the great waters in the filth, uncomfortable, dangerous corvettes that have faced high hazard and have their pals with courage and devotion, of which every Nelson would be proud.

Week by week little ships, destroyers, corvettes and mine sweepers are shipped down the ways that have built on great waters. Always there have been men, waiting to man these ships. In place of the 5,000 men of the Canadian Navy at the outbreak of war there are now upwards of seventy men in the Navy.

These men of the ——— the ships that are the greatest weapon against U-boats. The thrilling stories of the many victories of Canadian corvettes over German undersea craft have thrilled us all. Let us all thrill for the men of our Navy by subscribing as liberally as possible to the Navy League of Canada's Christmas fund.

The Navy League of Canada, which is charged with the responsibility of supplying comforts to the men of the Navy and the Merchant Marine, is taking a leading part in a campaign being carried out in connection with Navy Week, to appeal to the people of Canada to donate as liberally as possible so that comforts can be sent to every man in the Merchant Marine and the Navy this Christmas.

An objective of 150,000 dirty hare has been set by the Navy League. These hare will contain woolen articles, toilet articles, candies razor blades, and many other articles that are indispensable to the comfort of these heroes of the sea.

You can help by sending a donation to the secretary of the League at Edmonton, or by making your donation through the chartered bank in your district

WOODVALE

It looks as if threshing is all over for the fall season with still a great many fields in stook and some farmers with not even a bushel threshed. Of course, as someone told the writer, one never can tell in Alberta and there seem to be a good many years when early November snow completely disappeared and dust was flying afterwards. The rain was still on the damp side when threshing was resumed last week and the snow that stopped the work was extremely wet. Well, we sincerely hope that this is one of those years when the unexpected happens and everyone gets his grain in the bins and green feed all stacked.

The time club is going to give another dance after several months of inactivity and the date is Nov. 26th. We like to draw special attention to it as the lobby of the Canton-Watson Red Cross auxiliary will be a bazaar that same evening at the Woodvale school, so combining the two events for the one night. All articles for sale will be suitable for Christmas presents, so be sure to remember the date, November 26th at Woodvale school and come to have a good time and help raise some money for a worthy purpose.

Gladys Young of Daysland is leaving this week to take a position at the Stettler hospital. THE FUNDS of the depositor are the first concern of Canada's Chartered Banks.

Canada's Chartered Banks are the proud custodians of more than 4,350,000 savings deposit accounts. These accounts, averaging $391, represent the work and thrift of you and your neighbours—of heads of businesses and heads of families.

Naturally, the first concern of these depositors is that their money, or any part of it, shall be available when called for. That is the banks' first concern, too.

The Bank Act specifies the types of transactions in which the Chartered Banks of Canada may engage. But it is the banks' responsibility to analyze the assets and prospects of the intending borrower. They must be such as would satisfy you if you were asked to lend your money.

Funds deposited with the Chartered Banks form the basis for loans to individuals, businesses, institutions and Government. Your savings thus help to sustain business activity and the general welfare of the nation.

EYE OPENER REMINDER!

Have you got some old copies of "The Eye Opener" safely laid away? The title means only one thing here in Alberta—that internationally famous little newspaper edited by Bob Edwards during the early years of this century. Published at various places in Alberta, "The Eye Opener" existed longest at High River and Calgary, but its rich satire was known all over the continent.

Now, of course, copies of the paper are scarce. But the Alberta Folklore and Local History Project believe they should be available for the early story of the Province. So anyone owning copies, or anyone who knows where they may be obtained is urged to write to Robert E. Gard, Director, Alberta Folklore and Local History Project, University of Alberta.

CANCER CAMPAIGN

"Choose to Live," a film on cancer, has been obtained through the cooperation of the Provincial Department of Health and the University Extension Department and will shortly be put into circulation throughout Alberta. Full cost of examination and early treatment is now borne by the Government of Alberta and cancer clinics have been operating in Calgary and Edmonton for some time. Records of the Department of Health show that in 1941 and 1942 more than 2200 free examinations were conducted, fifty per cent of which were found to be cancer. The public is warned not to take a chance with cancer. Early recognition and prompt treatment will cut the death rate in half.

FREE BULLETINS

Many Alberta home-makers do not know that they can get bulletins and leaflets to help them out in their present problems. Those are being sent out by the Women's Extension Service of the Provincial Department of Agriculture and are abundantly fine—increased demand is very gratifying. Vera Richard's Marjonald, director of the service asks today, but the number is still not enough.

Timely bulletins housewives will enjoy include such titles as Wild Rose Jam for Vitamin C, The Salad Bowl, Variety in the Use of Vegetables, Baking for Victory, the Meat Ration and Canning Fruit. They will be sent free or charge upon request.

MAYNARD BROADCAST

Free legal assistance to farmers regarding their debt problems is being given by Alberta's Debtor's Assistance Board, Hon. Lorren Maynard, Attorney General, stated in a recent broadcast He said efforts were being made to turn public opinion against the farm debtor on the way in which mortgage debts are being handled.

Value of farm equipment has shrunk from 1143 millions in 1936 to 1253 millions in 1941 the Minister said.

In dealing with the recent amend ments to the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act, Mr. Maynard said it is in some respects less beneficial to the farmer than the original act. Applications for reduction of debts are now limited to those two thirds of which were incurred before May 1935

EGGS AND POULTRY

Poultry farmers in Alberta have been working harder according to statistics made public by Premier E C. Manning, Minister of Trade and Industry. Covering the first nine months of 1942, the report shows that they marketed more than 11,455,000 dozen eggs, half of which were shipped out of Alberta. This means an increase in production of 78 per cent over the same period of last year. Poultry production increased only 6 per cent in the seven months but the enhanced value of dressed birds made an increase of 42 per cent in sale price. Poultry marketed weighed 8,187,000 pounds and was valued at $622,189. That makes the average price a matter of 28½ cents per pound.

LABOR RELATIONS

With $1,500 in back wages collected during the month of September the total for the year is more than $27,000. This was contained in a report of the Board of Industrial Relations released this week by Premier Ernest C. Manning, Minister of Trade and Industry. To date this year 123 employees have received increased wages totalling $238 per week. Some 8 shop inspections have been made which have affected more than 30,000 employees throughout the Province.

APPRECIATES EDITORS

Appreciation for the opportunity he enjoyed to meet Alberta members of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association was expressed recently by Hon. G. E. Gerhart, Minister of Municipal Affairs. He declared that the annual convention, the first which he had attended in his capacity as a Minister, had afforded him a splendid opportunity to meet many editors who hold positions of influence in their communities.

"I appreciated very much this opportunity to explain to these newsmen many of the details of the plan for the enlarged municipal districts; to correct, possibly a few misunderstandings and to report upon progress already made", Mr. Gerhart stated. "It was gratifying to note the keen interest these editors took in this important subject", he concluded, "and I can assure them that if there is any specific information which they would like and which we can give them in relation to their own districts, we will be glad to supply it through the Publicity Bureau"

Security In The Future

WE ARE FREQUENTLY TOLD that in looking forward to the time when the war is at an end, we must not expect conditions to be the same as they were before the outbreak of hostilities in 1939. It is quite apparent that nations could not go through such a trying period without sustaining changes in national economy and outlook which would be to some extent permanent. In many cases, these changes may be in the nature of improvements. In some countries, opposing factions have forgotten their differences and joined in a common effort to defeat the enemy, and this may be taught to many people and nations an unforgettable lesson in the values of universal understanding and co-operation.

* * * *

For Mutual Aid And Tolerance

The importance of mutual aid and tolerance between nations has been fully realized and is likely to result in a more secure world in the future, both from the military and the economic point of view. Within many countries, too, the war has brought into clearer outline the necessity for providing for a greater measure of security for the people. While here and in all the Allied countries, we are hopeful of an early peace, there is no desire for a return of the unstable economic conditions which prevailed before the war. We are told that if the democratic principles for which we are now fighting are to be preserved in the future, the democratic countries must proceed with some measures of social legislation, to do away with the conditions of economic insecurity under which a large part of the population has lived in the past.

* * * *

Problems Are Now Realized

These problems are fully realized in most of the democratic countries. In England, present social measures are likely to be augmented by the adoption of some form of the Beveridge Plan for Social Security. Australia and New Zealand are well advanced in this respect, and in the United States much has been done in recent years to improve social conditions there. In Canada there are as yet no extensive provisions for social security. This is no doubt due in some measure to the fact that we have a relatively small population, and an extensive population as a source of a large national income is desirable for any ambitious program of social legislation. There is some basis in existence here our system of Unemployment Insurance, as well as Old Age Pensions, Mothers' Allowances and Workmen's Compensation Act. A few months ago, a plan for National Health Insurance was drawn up by the Department of Pensions and National Health and submitted to the Parliamentary Committee on Social Security. It is anticipated that some form of Health Insurance will soon be established in Canada. If the war helps to bring about better social and economic conditions, and greater tolerance between nations, there will be some compensation for the sacrifices and hardships which we are now experiencing.

APPLE DAY

For many years we have been taking the Canadian apple for granted. Not so this year! The apple will be in first place instead of being just a fruit filler-in when bananas, peaches, plums and apricots are scarce. Apples are our cheapest fruit, and like no other Canadian fruit are in season throughout the year.

Apples should be firm, well coloured, tart flavour, and medium size. They may be bought by the pound or bushel. You will find it most economical to buy the fruit in large quantities. They can be stored in a dry, cool moist place, after all the bruised and decayed fruit are removed. It is best for economy's as well as flavour's sake to buy each variety at its proper season. You should also consider whether the apple is to be served raw or cooked as they vary in flavour and texture. The varieties excellent for cooking are Duchess, Gravenstein, Wealthy, Wolfe River, Transparent and Mcintosh. For eating Mcintosh, Snow Delicious, Tolman Sweet, Stark, Wealthy and Melba.

Although apples can not replace the vitamin C rich citrus fruits and tomatoes, nevertheless they are valued for their vitamin and mineral contribution to the diet. They are comparable to peaches, pears, bananas.

I know you will have many favourite recipes for serving apples cooked or raw today I am going to stress ways of serving the apple raw First of all you must remember to maintain the cut portions of apple with lemon juice to prevent discolouration. You should not expose the cut fruit to the air for any length of time.

Raw apples may be used in combination with other foods to make appetizing salads. Diced apples, celery, walnuts and mayonnaise make a salad well known Waldorf salad. Or you may combine diced bananas, (when you can get them), orange, apples and stoned cherries with dressing for a fruit salad. A side salad of diced apples, cubed cheese and walnuts when blended together with mayonnaise dressing would add colour and flavour to a special occasion dinner.

These are only a few methods for serving the versatile apple. If you wish further recipes write to the Western Division Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By J. G.)

NOW prairie boys get around! 'Bob' Lisle, R. L. (Dick) Gordon of Edmonton, now back in London after serving on a landing craft in the Mediterranean, at one time under the command of Earl David Beatty, son of the famous late Admiral Beatty, makes his experiences sound romantic. He said in part during an interview: "I don't think Hell could offer anything more violent than the shore projected to us, as our monitors lobbed the big stuff into Catania, and the Nazis and Italians blew up their own ammunition dumps And to cap it all, acting as a backdrop to the scene, was old Etna in eruption, fire belching forth and setting up a terrific glow in the night sky. There was something unreal and frightening about it all."

Four estates in Canada have been taken over by the Government, two more on the way, to be converted into homes for men of the R.C.A.F. Intermediary in the transactions is Wartime Convalescent Homes War Charity Fund, Inc., a private, non-profit company without share capital.

More Western lads proudly wear the D.F.C. on their tunic Most recent Pilot Officer C. McMillan, of Lanigan, Sask., was captain of an aircraft which bombed Bremen, Hamburg, Sperla and Stettin. For pressing home attacks against still resistance on countless sorties, the medal went to Pilot Officer J. A. Mowbray, Weyburn, Sask. Pilot Officer M. G. Jensen an air gunner of Hanley, Sask., there married cut his share of grief for the Nazis. He's from Woodford, Alta.

* * * *

A Distinguished Flying Medal has been awarded Sergt. E. F. Smith, Herschel, Sask. Since receiving his commission, he has completed his tour of operations, all by night bombing overseas. Pilot Officer W. H. Schmitt of Aberfeld, Sask., got the D.F.C. He safely landed a badly damaged bomber, and on another trip he manoeuvred his plane so that his gunner shot down an enemy night fighter. Then there was Sgt. T. Bisbeho, of Winnip, who won the D.F.M. as a flight engineer with Bomber Command operations missions successfully concluded, and assistance in training his air crews.

Here's a story of a navy squall, who looks after hundreds of rats—white ones, white, and some with pedigreed backgrounds. In the medical building at the University of Toronto these rodents are doing an important job as technicians do research work for the nation's rations. Putting the results on paper in a nearby office 's a girl from Fort Erie, Ont., Miss E. F. Gardiner. She worked at the Fort Erie branch of the Imperial Bank before enlisting in the W.R.C.N.S.

* * * *

The navy boasts of having some of the most versatile athletes in the service, but so have the army and the air force. Sergt. Jack Kelly, R.C.A.F., shows a few the Gaye Stewart of the Toronto Maple Leafs, Claude Warwick, Regina, Canadian featherweight boxing champion; Jake Edwards of the Ottawa Rough Riders, and many more. You will also recognize Cheer Millman of the Calgary Bronco' hockey club.

If the boy friend comes home from the army on leave, don't ask him to polish gasoline if something else like dubbin or other boot dressing off, because it may dirty a uniform. The army has decided against such things being done, because such practice to obtain a high polish, shortens the life of the boot by removing original oils and leather preservatives."

Training Pilots In Africa

Southern Rhodesia First In Empire To Open A Training School

The Southern Rhodesian Training Group was the first in the Empire to open a school, the first to turn out trained pilots. The scheme has assumed proportions vastly in excess of what was originally contemplated. It is a co-operative scheme, training men from United Kingdom, the African territories, the Belgian Congo and other countries. Cost is borne by the United Kingdom and Southern Rhodesia, and the contribution to the war effort made by these oh-training schools is of great value.

West Has A Future

More And Larger Industries Will Be Located In Western Provinces

(Monetary Times)

Modern transportation and electrification will make possible the location of vast and hitherto raised as wilderness. The Western and Northern country should prove a treasure house of new materials which will be needed by the entire American continent—and indeed the whole world.

"Air routes and roads throughout these areas have been pioneered as a military necessity, but the wealth which should result from their future use should enrich the whole of Canada.

"I think that there will be located in the Western provinces more and larger industries, with a decentralization of the bulk of Canadian industry in the East. Thousands of workers from the prairies engaged now in Eastern factories will be available to such industries established in the West."—From a statement made by H. M. Turner, vice-president, Canadian General Electric, in Calgary, Alberta.

Sees No Lack Of Opportunities In Post-War Years

NEW YORK.—George W. Spinney, president of the Bank of Montreal, said that the postwar task of the United Nations would be "to rebuild a world in which between men of different nations, undertakings great and small may be initiated in confidence and in which promises may be fulfilled in honor and in safety."

In an address prepared for delivery before the Investment Bankers' Association of America, Mr. Spinney said the rewards of success in such a task would be "dazzling", but the consequences of failure were "too bleak even to contemplate."

"It is idle," he said, "to ignore the magnitude and complexity of the problems which the postwar world will have to face, but it is equally idle to shut our eyes to the tremendous opportunities for enterprise and initiative which the very task of reconstruction will present.

"Until the teeming millions of the as yet undeveloped areas of the world, have satisfied their full material desire, I do not think we need to worry about lack of markets or lack of opportunities, nor do I think that a country can need to start eyeing each other uneasily as postwar competitors in a restricted world."

The principal cause to earn would disappear with the end of the war, and some people would want to cash bonds to satisfy long-deferred wants, he said.

"The concept of a mad rush to cash bonds at the end of the war is something that I myself am not inclined to accept without considerable reservation. . . . Any desire to save can be projected into the postwar years if we see to it that the act of saving is made easy, is profitable and that savings will be respected."

That, he added, presupposed continued confidence in the individual nation and its currency, and "to provide an atmosphere conducive to this confidence we shall have to ensure that the post-war years will give the individual a philosophy of life and freedom which we are lurking in certain quarters today."

"Basically, the condition necessary to the attachment of all these objectives is a high and increasing national income, not in terms of high and increasing prices, but in terms of high and increasing productivity.

"That is the key to the problems of postwar debt, postwar employment and postwar prosperity."

MORE HOME NEWS

Is To Be Provided For Canadian Troops In Britain

OTTAWA.—Canadians in Italy will get more home news from the Eighth Army paper, published in the field through arrangements for increased wordage supplied by The Canadian Press to 600 daily.

Since the beginning of September CF has provided a weekly budget of items for the "Eighth Army News" which has been read by Canadians in the absence of The Canadian Press News, published weekly in London for distribution to Canadian troops in Britain. The latter has been shipped regularly to Italy but is not yet reaching the troops effectively.

It is understood the Canadian army is investigating means of expediting even small shipments of the CP news in view of its full Canadian content and because Canadian news is considered of great importance to morale of the troops.

COURTESY REWARDED

LONDON.—Stanley Ernest Hepworth, retired cloth manufacturer who died last April, was impressed by the courtesy of the young shop girl who waited on him in an electrical store here years ago. Probate of his will recently disclosed he left the girl, Mrs. Ali Earnshaw, now 28 and daughter of the shop-owner, the equivalent of $9),000.

LEAVES NEW YORK

NEW YORK.—The U.S.S. Lafayette, former French liner Normandie, has lifted anchor and departed for an unknown destination. The big liner recently was raised from the Hudson river. She had lain on her side since the disastrous fire which swept the ship in February, 1942.

LONDON.—Reuters news agency, quoting the Malmoe correspondent of the Swedish Svenska Dagbladet, said that a state of emergency had been decreed in Berlin and 60 other German cities. The report was confirmed by travellers, arriving from Germany. 1941

Critical Battle Coming In War Over Inflation

OTTAWA.—Finance Minister [illegible] said that the "most critical" battle in the war against inflation is "just getting under way" and that the government is considering shortly decisions arising from a review of the price and wage stabilization program.

Commenting on the announcement of an increase in the cost-of-living bonus, Mr. Ilsley said in a statement that rising wage costs cannot continue "indefinitely" and it is "clear that in the national interest the price ceiling must be held."

Describing the rise in the cost-of-living index during the past few months as "some indication of the great strains" on the price ceiling, Mr. Ilsley said:

"It is my belief that the most critical battle in the war against inflation is just getting under way. Canada has been more successful than most of the countries in holding prices, but these successes could be swept away in the space of a few short months if controls were to be relaxed now.

"While wage earners will be compensated for the higher living costs by a higher bonus, costs of production will also rise and it will become increasingly difficult for goods to be sold at ceiling prices.

"This process of rising wage costs cannot continue indefinitely without wrecking the price structure. The government is fully alive to the dangers and sure in preserving the whole price and wage stabilization program. It is hoped that the government will be able to announce its decisions shortly. It is clear that in the national interest the price ceiling must be held."

HEALTHY TROOPS

Standards Required in Canada Highest In World

MONTREAL.—Brig. J. C. Meakins, deputy director general of medical services, Canadian army, says in an article in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Journal that it is unjust to say that physically Canada is a "C" category country.

Brig Meakins says that "the individual A1 category citizen was an Adonis of almost mythological perfection and it is an admirable compliment to the manhood of Canada that there were so many available in its hour of need."

"The anatomical physical standards required of the Canadian army were the highest in the world," he said.

HOT STUDENTS

EDMONTON.—School students in Edmonton are growing taller and broader and, says R. S. Sheppard, superintendent of schools, that's not good for the school desks. He reported to the school board that desks, especially in the intermediate schools, are getting too small for the pupils. The board approved purchase of 80 large movable desks at about $13 each.

CIANO ON SPOT

Said Captured By Germans And Taken Before Hitler

BERNE, Switzerland.—Count Galeazzo Ciano, former Italian foreign minister, was captured by the Germans despite a disguise and taken before Mussolini in a stormy scene with his father-in-law, a despatch to the Geneva newspaper La Suisse said. Ciano was said to omit Mussolini when Italy was toppling.

Ciano was reported jailed at Verona awaiting trial by the Fascist puppet government on treason charges.

CANADIAN TROOPS

Bring Compliments From A German War Reporter

LONDON.—The quality of Canadian troops fighting in Italy is drawing compliments from the Germans.

A German officer on the radio said the Canadians are particularly well trained for mountain fighting and "very clever" in taking advantage of mountain terrain. A German war reporter said the Canadians are "tougher" soldiers than either British or American troops.

Empire Council Is Subject Of Talk In London

LONDON.—The present system of consultation between members of the Commonwealth has "proved quite satisfactory" to the dominions and most of the needs of wartime conditions," Viscount Cranborne, the dominions secretary, told the house of lords.

Lord Cranborne, winding up a debate initiated by Lord Elibank's support of a proposal by Premier John Curtin of Australia for a permanent empire council, said the system entails visits of dominions and British ministers to other empire countries and daily conferences between the dominions secretary and empire high commissioners in London but Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand had been unable to come because of illness and Curtin can not make the trip at present.

Lord Elibank suggested Ottawa as the ideal location for the empire council because Canada is the geographical centre of the empire and the natural link between the Empire and the United States.

Lord Cranborne responded that the government would "consider more sympathetically" acceptable suggestions for the improvement of the structure of imperial collaboration This presumably would include Curtin's recent suggestion. The Australian premier had said Britain could not manage the Empire on the basis of a government sitting in London.

Viscount Bennett, former prime minister of Canada, said if Curtin's words meant that Britain sought to separate the dominions, the Statute of Westminster showed this was at variance with fact.

Lord Bennett said an effective league of nations could not be formed "unless we can create a real commonwealth" and he declared "there must be one foreign policy for the Empire or else the Empire would disappear."

Lord Lang, the former Archbishop of Canterbury, suggested an "more permanent and definite" Dan Curtin's proposal.

NEW CREDIT ACT

Bill Governing Debt Arrangement For Prairie Farmers Being Amended

OTTAWA.—Early proclamation of a bill amending and extending the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act was forecast by federal authorities as finance department officials and prairie attorneys-general conferred on the setting-up of the new administrative machinery which will be required.

Hon. Lucien Maynard of Alberta, Hon. J. W. Estey of Saskatchewan and Hon. J. O. McLenaghan of Manitoba met Finance Minister Ilsley and promised their co-operation in establishing the new system under which court rather than boards of review, will deal with cases of debt arrangement between prairie farmers and their creditors.

proposal an imperial council composed of representatives appointed by the dominion parliaments for a certain period and in numbers proportionate to each country's population.

Lord Lang asked whether reorganization of the present commonwealth set-up had not become imperative to fulfil the many tasks necessary after the war.

Asking for machinery for establishment of machinery for joint action and consultation, Lord Craigmyle said:

"In wealth, in population and in power the rest of the Empire will in days to come be far greater than the United Kingdom and the Empire possesses no central machinery adequate to its needs or its inherent resources."

Western Canada Will Benefit By Research Work

SASKATOON.— Butylene gived produced from wheat by fermentation, now entering pilot-stage development at Ottawa, holds great promise as a base of chemical industry for plastics and as an antifreeze in addition to its use for artificial rubber, according to information given to the prairie regional committee of the national research council, at its meeting here.

The committee reviewed recent research and developments in the industrial utilization of agricultural products for both non-food and food uses. Plans for extended research in western Canada on western problems were being made.

Representatives of departments of agriculture reported good stands of milkweed and forecast new hybrid sunflower varieties yielding 40 per cent, more seed. Milkweed reports are promising as blending materials for synthetic rubbers. New methods borrowed from mining are under study at the local research laboratories and are expected to lessen the cost of isolating the resins. The use of milkweed floss to replace kapok, a buoyant filling material which is in short supply, is now firmly established.

The time lag between research findings and their application by industry or farmers was stressed, and ways of al-vtating it were discussed. A balanced picture of western agriculture problems was presented to the committee which considered production and food uses as well as industrial non-food uses.

Expansion of many research studies, now in progress but hampered by manpower shortages, was considered essential to the sound development of post-war plans. Soil surveys, especially fertilizer requirements and land-use recommendations, expanded research in Canadian wool and in vegetable and small fruits, are examples

Dehydration methods are investigating and the industry is expected to hold its own after the war, particularly when production is far from consumer markets, it was said. Dried eggs which cannot be distinguished from fresh eggs are now available and will be widely used in the food industry. Skim milk powder is also well developed but problems are yet to be solved in producing whole milk powder and dehydrated vegetables are being pursued. When this has become available the canning of many new Canadian products was thought to hold great promise for the west.

CANADA TOWN

New Soldiers' Resort Is Established In Italy

CANADA TOWN, Italy. — You wont find Canada Town under that name in any Gazetteer but it is a name that will be recorded in the story of Canada's participation in the Italian campaign and one that will be the lips of many an old soldier after the war

Canada Town is a pleasant mountain city captured by Canadians who, with typical thoroughness, have given it a new name, even to the extent of naming streets after familiar thoroughfares back home, opened theatres and generally converted it into a rest centre where soldiers can get a breather from front line duties.

There is an occasional reminder in the form of a few shells that the Germans are not far away

Auxiliary services have opened an "Aldershot Officers' club" for commissioned officers and a "Beaver club" for other ranks. Two movie houses are doing a thriving business. A third will be opened shortly and there have been promises of a stage show with 'legs'

Life revolves around a big square in the heart of Canada Town, which has "Piccadilly Circus" painted in bold black letters at each corner. Portage Avenue is the name given one street

The Officers' club, managed by Capt. Doug Burke, 23, Swift Current, Sask., has a comfortable reading room stocked with Canadian papers and magazines, a banquet hall, bar, billiard room and card rooms.

The Beaver club's most popular feature is the hostel set up on the top floor by Major R. O. Wilkes of Winnipeg. Anglican padre of the Royal Canadian Regiment. A hundred men can be accommodated overnight.

When I visited the canteen groups of men were reading papers, writing letters and playing darts. Catching up on the news was Sapper Bruce Ahistrom, 23, Livelong, Sask.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 21

HONESTY IN ALL THINGS

Golden text: Thou shalt not steal Exodus 20:15.

Lesson: Exodus 20:15; Leviticus 19: 13, 13. Luke 19:1-10, 45, 46.

Devotional Reading: Matthew 6 24-33.

Explanations and Comments:

The Eighth Commandment: the Law of Honesty. Exodus 20:15. Thou shalt not steal.

No Law Against Stealing and Defrauding. Leviticus 19 11, 13. Thou shalt not oppress thy neighbor, nor rob him— by paying him less than a servant, if he is in thy employ, by giving him scant measure, if he is thy customer, by requiring long hours of service if she is a maid in thy house. The wages of a hired servant shall not abide with thee all night until the morning, that is, you shall pay for service when payment is due. Is it indifference or careless ness, or is it the inability to put oneself in another's place, that makes a householder fail to realize how important to a worker is the receipt of wages on the day they are due?

A Business Man Admits His Business to the Teaching of Jesus regarding Honesty. Luke 19:1-10 It was when Jesus was on his final journey to Jerusalem that this incident took place at Jericho. Very familiar is the story of Zaccheus, the tax collector, whom Jesus by a visit at his home changed from the grasping, dishonest dealer into an honest man, eager to make reparation for his dishonesty in the past and to keep from being a grafter in the future.

Dishonesty in the Temple. Luke 19 45, 46. In the temple precincts animals were sold for sacrifices and money was changed for offerings. This temple market arose for the sake of Jewish pilgrims from afar who needed to secure for sacrifices beasts and birds duly certified as "clean," and to change their foreign money into Jewish coins. But the temple market had become "a den of robbers," Jesus declared. It was a monopoly and was owned, or leased, by the sons of the High Priest Annas as we learn from rabbinic literature, and they were noted for their greed and dishonesty

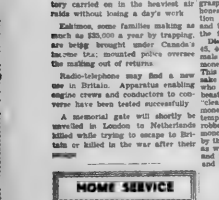
DREAMS DISE FROM YOUR SECRET SELF



Another "Tow" Where in Sleep

Do you know you have two selves? One is the self everyone knows. The other not even YOU want to know. It thinks thoughts you're ashamed to recognize. It does things you'd never do.

And you can't get rid of it! It wakes when you sleep. It makes you dream of the weirdest, most puzzling things. Riding to work, your train whizzes past your station and the next one and the next one! You're filled with panic!

This is because your secret self, your "subconscious," is seeking with problems, emotions you ignore. It dreams it tries to tell you about them, using its own strange, symbolic language.

In the dream of the train it says: "Don't let your impulses run away with you!" If you've been attracted by someone else's beau, that is an obvious warning!

Our 20 page booklet explains many such common dreams and dream symbols — according to psychoanalysis, including flying, falling off cliffs.

Refugees From Rome Say Nazis Have Mined The City

Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio liberi radio said in a domestic broadcast that refugees from Rome report the Nazis have mined all important buildings there and had stated that "they want to leave only the memory of Rome."

"German sappers have mined all large public and private buildings," said the broadcast, recorded by United States government monitors. "Tons of explosives have been placed under all ministries Bridges, hotels and the aqueduct that supplies water to the city also have been mined."

The volume of underground water in the earth has been estimated at nearly one-third the amount of the sea.

In the battle of Jutland in 1916 there were only 382 ships on both sides.

Peasant For Railway Employees

Over the top for the Fifth Victory Loan with 91 per cent. contributing, employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Weston Shops, at Winnipeg, Manitoba, formally received the loan pennant from W S Hall, general superintendent Manitoba District and chairman of the loan committee. Weston has subscribed $132,000, representing 1,700 employees. This is more than $50,000 above their subscriptions to the fourth loan. L. B. George, works manager received the pennant from Mr Hall and handed it over to W. Holland, carman, chairman of the Federated Trades, representing the staff.

Since the outbreak of this mechanized war no fewer than 176 apprentices from Weston Shops, have enlisted as some one of the three services, thereby transferring their activities from the railway to the armed forces. Mr. George made this statement, in reporting the victory loan pennant to indicate that Canada benefits in no small degree from the fact that such a pool of efficiently trained men was available when their services were needed.

In 1939 the apprentice staff at Weston totalled only 106 boys. In the increased number of 176 is evident the extent of the contribution the shops has made to the technical branches of the navy, the army and the air force. In most cases the lads have enlisted to do the specific kind of work for which they were trained at Weston. They are scattered now to practically every theatre of war.

The majority have chosen the navy, and today, Mr. George said, the engineering staffs of Canada's ships list no fewer than 84 officers and ratings who only recently answered to the whistle at Weston.

Twenty apprentices are in khaki, many of them, Mr. George explained, in the armoured or engineering corps, where their training makes them most useful. An 18 pdrdr, navigation and engine mechanics, 58 are to be found in air force blue. Two of these lads have been reported missing in action, a comparatively small toll in proportion to enlistment figures.

The Fifth Victory Loan pennant for a total of 91 per cent. of the staff subscribing is hoisted to the shops' flagpole at Weston Shops, Winnipeg.

Wanted Right Time

And Fuel Department Felt Quite Sure They Got It

A Lieutenant who had just taken charge of the fuel accounting department at one of the United States Army Air Force navigation schools noticed that his secretary's telephone rang every morning at approximately a quarter to twelve. She would glance at the wall clock, consult the time, and hang up. Finally he asked who was doing the calling. "I don't know," she said. "I never thought to ask. They just call up and ask the time, and I tell them."

Being a high scout, the lieutenant instructed her to find out who was calling, and why. The next day, after interrupting the call herself, the secretary told him that it was the post fire department. "They want the right time every day at exactly noon siren," she said. "Well, how do you know that our clock has the right time?" he asked. "Oh," she said. "Not now. I've been checking it by the noon siren."

Would Not Talk

Even The Queen Could Not Get Information From Hooker

The Halifax Herald says an English magazine, in a story referring to a recent visit of the King and Queen to Glasgow, relates an incident at a Merchant Navy hostel in that city:

Here the Queen asked Hugh McCutcheon, a stoker, how long it would be before he went to sea again. Saluting, the man replied: "I canna tell ye that, Your Majesty. It would be careless talk."

There followed a brief chat and a royal handshake.

Nose Will Escape

German Will Likely Wreck Cities In All Occupied Countries

Thinking of Rome, the mind naturally turns to other cities in enemy hands. How will Paris fare when the Germans leave? She escaped the worst when they entered, but when they vacate their lumpur will be very different. There is Marseilles, too, and many other French towns; Brussels, Antwerp, Rotterdam and Amsterdam also. When they must withdraw from Denmark, will the Germans spare Copenhagen? The trouble is that we are dealing with people in whom the spirit of the old Vandals, Goths and Huns is still alive. Rome has known these in the past.—Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

BEG'LAR FELLERS—Ready For Anything

BY GENE BYRNES

Beau Jonathan

by J. B. Ryan

CHAPTER XI.

FROM a dark side-street where they had left the horses, Jonathan and Tucker approached the town house of Lord Farquhar on foot. Jonathan's plan was to gain entrance in some manner, find Anne and get her out of the place. The task promised to be difficult, since Farquhar would be aware that Jonathan would attempt something of the sort. Every door and window would be secured and guarded by his lordship's servants, men who, Jonathan knew, would be very willing to kill at a word from their master.

Jonathan peered through a break in the shrubbery surrounding the Elizabethan structure. At one side of the building was a few yards away, so situated that Jonathan could see both the front and one side of the house. The verandah covering the entrance was deep with shadow, but along the side was a narrow space of jutting windows, panes yellow with the candle-glow of lighted rooms. The windows were too high for Jonathan to peer within, but he was confident that Anne, Lamerence and Lord Farquhar were in one of these rooms.

"We'll have to find a window we know to be unguarded," he muttered to Tucker's ear, and moved from the trellis to a rosebush closer to the rear of the house. From this new position he could view the remainder of that section of the house in complete darkness. Jonathan found a pebble, aimed it at dirt and tossed it toward the most likely looking window.

The missile sputtered against the pane. For a moment the experiment brought no results. Then Tucker's fingers touched Jonathan's knee in warning. He, too, had glimpsed the blacker shadow that was moving over the darkened window.

There was no window, as there was no door, that Lord Farquhar had left unguarded. Undaunted by this checkmate, Jonathan was silent and still even when the blurred outlines of the figure at the window had faded away.

Tucker shuffled closer. "There is only one way to get in, sir. There is a low-roofed porch at the back of the house. I could reach your shoulders and crawl up on that porch top and go down one more chimney. The night is warm and the fireplace will be unlighted. Once inside the house I can use the knife or the pistol on the guard at a side door and admit you."

If you think the thing can be done," Jonathan eyed the big-gabbled man "go ahead."

ON HANDS and knees they crept over the ground to the side of the house, but before he could reach it, the first man was in the room.

"My lord—" the servant began, then stopped at sight of the naked steel and ready pistols. Jonathan blocked the door shut. "Take care of this fellow, Tucker," he said briefly, and the struggle that followed was between the trapped servant and the room's only exit.

It was late now for Jonathan to sprint Anne out of the house through the door unlocked by Tucker. The quiet house was full of sound, noises that Jonathan had heard through the closed door. Jonathan hoped that the clash of steel would be covered by his lordship's sweep. "You have your blade in your hand, my lord. Will you fight me?"

"Why should I?" Farquhar had detected also the evidence of activity about the house. "I have only to call my men to put you to death at once. I assure you. Isn't that right, Davis?"

Davis, the servant, blinked. "I do not understand, my lord. I only came to tell you that at the front door, where I was on watch, a gentleman who gave his name as Sir Maurice Rainer—" He seems to think I am Master Hale, whom you were expecting, is with you. The Earl of Chelsea is there too—and at least a dozen other gentlemen."

JONATHAN turned to the girl. "Anne, go with Tucker. I shall remain here a bit longer so neither Farquhar nor his servants will have you stopped before you leave the house. You must get away before Sir Maurice is admitted."

"But, you—" Anne's gray eyes searched his face. "No, I shall not leave you, Jonathan."

"Davis!" Farquhar shouted. "Admit Blaine and the others." With a swift movement he tried to trip Jonathan and drive Tucker away from the door with a slash of his sword. But Jonathan, acting just as quickly, planted himself before the rushing man and his own weapon halted the swing of his blade. Farquhar retreated, disengaged the blades, then attacked with desperate fury. The sword, blurred into invisibility by very speed, cut a whistling path through the air. Only the movement of his antagonist's arm and shoulder gave a hint to the direction of the sword. Purely by instinct Jonathan blocked each murderous shock sending a tremor up the length of his arm. Before Tucker could return, Farquhar had stepped back out of range and lowered his sword.

His rage dissolved into a thin smile. "I never thought to be encounter such resistance from you, Hale," he remarked. "This little exchange has awakened the thirst I have long had for your blood. You will permit me to prepare for the contest in proper fashion?"

"I await your pleasure, my lord," Jonathan said, placing his own sword in its sheath.

Keeps Him Warm

Full Flying Equipment For Rear Gunner Weighs 135 Pounds

A recent article in the London Daily Mail gives the reason for many of the changes in fabrics used for women's clothing these days. The story, dealing with the clothing worn by "Tail-End Taffy", a rear gunner on operations, shows where much of the silk and woollen material goes.

The Air Ministry clothes the rear-gunner in his transport hurtel behind his guns, in silk and leather and wool and the women of the nation willing do with less or without in see that he is kept warm while manning the skies for Nazi planes twenty thousand feet above the earth Up there, minus forty degrees is pretty cold

Taffy's flying equipment, which weighs 135 pounds to his own 140 pounds, keeps him warm, all except his face, which cannot be covered

Three years ago Taffy rose at dawn to jump into trousers or single suit and hurry off to drive a delivery engine at a South Wales pit. Now, he arrives back at dawn after "ops" and picks off fifteen garments. It takes him three quarters of an hour to dress

"You see, we have to take our time or else we sweat, and this freezes on the skin with serious consequences, he explains

So the crew dress carefully, in a cool place, just an hour before operations. For the same reason, they are driven instead of walking, to their aircraft.

CODDLED APPLES

8 medium apples, tart and firm
8 whole cloves
1½ cups boiling water
Small stick cinnamon
¾ to 1 cup Crown Brand Corn Syrup (exact amount depending upon sweetness of apples)

Wash and core apples, do not peel. Place in large, flat greased baking dish and stick a whole clove in each apple. Add water, cinnamon, corn syrup Cover and cook in a slow oven (300 to 325 degrees F.) until apples are tender, about 30 minutes. Remove from pan and baste with the syrup Serve warm or chilled plain or with cream Serves 8.

NO MORE "DOSING" MY CONSTIPATION —I'VE CORRECTED THE CAUSE!

"Regularity" is important any time, but it's vitally important in these busy war days when all of us are working harder than ever. Don't you be "slowed down" by that common type of constipation due to lack of "bulk" in your diet. And be sensible . . . correct the trouble right at its source instead of "dosing" with harsh purgatives that give only temporary relief.

Klondike Gold Rush

Now Sending Supplies Up North Over The Old Yukon Trail

The R.C.A.F. pilot exhaled a long breath and vowed: "Believe me, I'll never take a trip like this again I'll sure have my parachute along."

He wasn't in a sky-climbing aircraft, but nested solidly on the plush seat of a passenger coach of the White Pass railway as it crept and the jerky cliffs of the White Pass behind this Alaskan scenery.

Hundreds of feet below a foaming torrent was like a thread in the V of the valley. As far as the eye could peer upward were cloud-swathed peaks. And the three-foot gauge of the railway seemed to take up every inch of the ledge along which it wound.

Yet up this valley 45 years ago men toiled on foot to reach the fabled gold of the Yukon. The railway construction crew was not far behind blasting much of the right-of-way out of solid rock Now the United States army has taken over, and sturdy little engines puff over the 111-mile line to Whitehorse night and day with supplies for the Alaska Highway or the Northwest Staging air route

The White Pass and Yukon is one of the few railways that paid for itself as it was built. As it crept up the Pass in 1898 and 1899 a load of freight to whatever point happened to be the end of the line and the packers-bearers that were waiting for food stopping with backbreaking loads

From the train today one can see faint traces of the famous Trail of '98 looking more like a goat track (for agile goats only) than a highway, of which men clambered into the Yukon

To it the thousand men came crippled in building the railroad, which cost $100,000 a foot in some places. The tubes traverse a mile high. In the day in 1900 1,700 employees spilt en masse to join a gold stampede to the Yukon

BATTLEVIEW ECHOES

Several threshing machines have started again. Here is hoping that the weather stays good until threshing is really all finished.

The Battleview women met at the home of Mrs Garth Hetherington on Wednesday. They made plans for a banquet to the Battleview school in the near future. At the close of the meeting a dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

There will be a dance and rummage sale at the Battleview school on Nov. 26, sponsored by the teacher Miss Allen. Proceeds are in aid of the Xmas tree fund.

The B.W.B club held their annual meeting at Mrs Wolters of Battle View. A lot of lovely work has been done during the past year by the members of this club.

Mr and Mrs A. E. Steele and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Neale were Edmonton visitors last week.

Mrs Maud Monaghan and Mr and Mrs. Jim Monaghan were visitors in Killam over the week end. Jim Monaghan is the proud possessor of a new car.

Mrs. Pim M Peterson is spending the winter with Mrs Fosterburg in Vermilion.

We understand that Joan Winter and Allan Kennedy have gone to Edmonton for the winter.

AGES OF ALBERTA FARMERS

The latest census figures give some interesting facts about the age of Alberta farmers. One interesting feature is that whereas in 1931, 32.2% of 96,605 farmers reporting their ages were 55 years and over, in 1941, 42% of the reporting farmers were 55 and over.

The number of farmers in 1931 who were 29 years and over was 11.9%, whereas the number in that group in 1941 totalled 31.6%.

The number of farmers between 20 and 29 years of age was 52.8% of the total in 1931 and 46.6% of the total in 1941.

All of which goes to show that the average age of Alberta farmers is gradually creeping upward and during the decade between 1931 and 1941 young men were not supplanting older men on Alberta farms in sufficient numbers to keep average age down.

The following table gives the number in each age group in 1941 and 1931:

	1941	1931
No. occupied farms	99,216	97,605
No. reporting ages	96,782	96,605
Under 20 years	238	661
20 to 24	2,865	4,189
25 to 29	7,191	8,040
30 to 34	9,805	9,936
35 to 39	11,056	11,017
40 to 44	12,035	12,045
45 to 49	12,249	12,211
50 to 54	12,170	9,815

VERMILION FIELD PRODUCTION FOR SEPTEMBER HIGHEST YET

24 Wells Yield Total of 11,694 Barrels of Oil

Vermilion oil field production for September continues to show steady growth and jumped into second place again according to figures just released by the Alberta Conservation board. 24 wells were pumping and contributed to the grand total of 11,694 barrels, compared with 10,411 for the previous month.

Figures for October when available will show a further increase in both the number of wells pumping and the total production.

MEN REQUIRED FOR ESSENTIAL INDUSTRIES

Under the Dominion Provincial Farm Labour agreement, arrangements have been made to recruit men, who can be spared from farms during the winter months, to work in the essential industries of logging, lumbering, mining, fishing and packing. Only men who can be spared are being asked to take employment in these industries. To safeguard agriculture it is proposed that men who leave the farm for work of the type mentioned must first obtain approval of a District Agriculturist or Farm Labour representative before they are issued permits to work outside of agriculture. To ensure the return of men to the farms in the spring, permits will expire on March 31st.

The recruiting of men, who can be spared from farms, will be done through the organization which was set up to distribute farm workers during the summer and fall months. As soon as farm work is completed this fall, every man who can leave the farm, should get in touch with the District Agriculturist, or with a Farm for Victory Committee or Local Labour representative, who will be in a position to advise him of the proper procedure to follow to take employment in one of these other industries. There is a demand already for workers in some of these industries and men who have completed their farm work can find employment immediately.

Men who are on postponement, as farm workers, will not prejudice their position by taking employment in these essential industries, providing they notify their Mobilization Board of the change of address and new employment.

An appeal is made to every man who is not needed on the farm this winter, to present himself for work in these other essential industries. The need is urgent and the co-operation of everyone is requested in this campaign.

WILDMERE WINKS

Congratulations even if a little late to Mr. and Mrs. Ivan McGinnis of the Cummings district on the birth of a baby girl, to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cruthers (overseas) and Mrs. Cruthers (nee Beulah Stone) of the Vermilion district on Saturday Nov. 13th a baby girl.

R.W.B. Welfare club held its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Wolters on Thurs. Nov. 11th. There was a good attendance despite slippery roads. Two visitors were in attendance, Mrs. Abe Prissell and Mrs. Mrs. Smith. Not quite so much work was done in the club as in the year before owing to fewer members, but around 100 articles were completed, which is a nice tidy bit for our local institution and for less fortunate people than ourselves. In the election of officers Mrs. Garnett is President, Mrs. J. Wilson Vice-President, Mrs. Washington Secretary, and the executive committee is composed of Mrs. F. Gibson, Mrs. Whitbeck, Mrs. Jensen, Mrs. A. Smith; on the sick committee are Mrs. Jensen, Mrs. Cruthers and Mrs. Blake. Quarterly vote of thanks was given our retiring president and secretary Mrs. J. Wilson and Mrs. F. Gibson for their good and faithful work during the two years they held office. It was decided to hold a banquet and dance in our school on Friday, Dec. 3, also to raffle off the hope chest now on display in Mr. Simpson's window. Next meeting at the school on Dec. 1st. Mrs. Cairns and Mrs. Reddell hostesses.

We forgot to mention at the close of the meeting Mrs. Wolters and Mrs. Jensen served a splendid lunch.

A large crowd attended the sheets and bazaar held at Tribune on Sept. in aid of the Red Cross and Xmas tree fund. Everything sold well and bidding was fairly brisk. Arnold Jensen won the quilt which was raffled off. Templeton Bros. furnished the music and Iva Cooper was M.C.

John Isley, Tribune, had a fresh pig born on his farm on Saturday last. The pig had eighteen. It counted out at birth with one head and perfectly formed shoulder. The little fresh animal was born dead.

J. C. Walbaum received the sad news over the week end of the death of his oldest sister Emily at Golden, B.C. She was yet apparently a young woman, 43 years old. Of seventeen children only two daughters and a son survive her, and her husband still at Golden, B.C. She also leaves her aged mother, two sisters and two brothers to mourn her loss.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

The following members of the C.W.A.C. and of the R.A.F. were guests recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Repp—Pte. Ellen Towner, Pte. Lena Roth, Pte. Helen Morris and W. Taylor, R.A.F., London, Eng., T. Cairns, Corporal, W. Shaw, Manchester, D. Pratley, London.

A meeting of persons was called recently to discuss plans for the Xmas concert. Due to the long holiday and the children losing so much school time the parents decided against having a concert. A social evening will be held instead with treats etc., and of course Santa will pay a visit and the usual Xmas tree will probably be loaded with gifts as in former years. Plans were made for the raising of the necessary funds. Tombs and presents will be looked after by a committee of six comprised of Miss Smith, Mrs. Perkins, Mrs Walker, Mrs. Repp, Mr. McNeice and Mr. Harrison. Hot pepsis are selling tickets on a moose, lot; duck, 2nd and rooster 3rd. Those who donated by Leslie Sherwood, William Walker and Mrs. J. Brady respectively. The Busy Bees are sponsoring a dance and everyone is urged to support it on Nov. 26. Look for particulars or dance elsewhere in this issue.

Our teacher Miss Rhena Smith attended the convention in Lloydminster last Thursday and Friday and when spent the week end at her home near Dewberry.

The annual meeting of the Pine Lakers was held at the home of Mrs Harrison. There were twelve members present and also four visitors Mrs. Moses, Mrs. Bertram, Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Mapes. Three boxes were packed for overseas and it was decided that each member would buy 25 cigarettes to five children in December instead of parcels.

The following were elected to office: President—Mrs. Hall; Vice President—Mrs. H. Harrison; Secretary—Mrs. T. Sherwood; Treasurer — Mrs. Repp; Auditor—Mrs. N. Sherwood.

The Busy Bees decided to hold a dance lunch to be provided by the parents. Mrs. Kendall kindly donated the gas. Mrs. Repp read roll and also Smith the raffle. The draw at the dance will also be made for the two mentioned prizes. Tickets on which are being sold by the children. Mr. Repp will take the tickets and Mr. T. Sherwood will be responsible for the dance on Nov. 26th.

The next meetingsof the Busy Bees will be held at Mrs. Dudley's home.

Mrs. Mortsteed kindly donated 2lb to the children's Xmas treats.

Mrs. Shoemaker reports having lost a number of sheep to coyotes. These latter animals are very numerous this year.

Thank you, Grandma Robertson of Onion Lake, we know you read our column.

DON'T FEED NEW WHEAT TO POULTRY

The Poultry Branch and the Provincial Veterinary Laboratory are again receiving specimens of poultry with complaints regarding sickness in the flocks due to the fact that newly threshed wheat is being fed. Practically all newly threshed wheat, especially wheat that has been combined contains a considerable portion of immature kernels. These kernels when fed to poultry are likely to bring about a condition of Enteritis which may result in heavy mortality.

C. W. Traves, Poultry Commissioner, recommends that wheat be allowed to age at least one month after threshing before being fed to poultry

Now items of all kinds are always welcomed by the Standard.

Guides Governor General

WALTER NIXON, veteran "mountain man", Canadian Rockies guide and rancher, guided the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice on their four trip trips, up the East Kootenay area during which the Governor General bagged a fine Rocky Mountain goat.

Walter Nixon, pictured above, is one of the last famous guides for big game hunting on the western slopes of the Canadian Rockies, covering the Bompass Summit and Mount Assiniboine, which districts he trips during the winter months.

Originally from Ontario, Guide Nixon has resided in the Upper Columbia Valley, B.C., for almost forty years; has been a game warden in that area and in the Kootenay River and Launched districts.

In addition, he was one of the founders and charter members of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, an organization now world-famous, and one which has brought great happiness to hundreds of lovers of the Great Outdoors.

this year on the construction of a Under an agreement between the two provinces, the Meridian road will be reconstructed and put in proper shape. This road from Grimshaw or some point further west.

A new highway also is to be completed to improve the motoring facilities on the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary, south of Lloydminster, provinces to the Peace River district. This may run from Fishing Grimshaw or some Plans were made for the improvement of the entire system of highways despite the requirements of wartime emergency conditions, as it is recognized that the war period may be given precedence in these times.

ALBERTA AND SASK. FARMS GET $6,000,000 BONUS

OTTAWA — Agricultural minister Gardiner announced today that $6,000,000 would be paid in grain bonuses in Alberta and Saskatchewan under a special fund set up under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act.

Under the act, western farmers pay into the fund one percent of the amount received from grain sales each year. The minister said there were approximately 500 townships in the two provinces which this year experienced crop failures or near failures, and which would therefore receive benefit from the fund.

Teachers of Vermilion A.T.A. In Convention at Lloydminster

The teachers of the Vermilion Local of the Alberta Teachers' Association held their annual Fall convention at Lloydminster on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 4 and 12. Eighty-eight members of the Local attended. The Convention opened at 10.00 a.m. on Thursday with prayer by the Local, Mr. J. A. Smith of Kitscoty presiding. The invocation was given by Rev. C. E. Rogers, The mayor of Lloydminster, Hy. G. L. Cook welcomed the teachers to the convention and assured them that the town of Lloydminster would do everything possible to make the stay of the teachers a pleasant one. During the course of his remarks Mr. Cook stressed the need for greater attention to health o; students and urged that more use be made of the opportunity for vaccination and inoculations at the present time. The close of present hostilities would bring with it the grave possibilities of widespread outbreaks of influenzas, smallpox and even malaria. He assured the teachers that he, and his fellow physicians in the town of Lloydminster were only too glad at any time to give all the assistance they could to deal with health problems. He suggested that at some future time it might be well to arrange a joint convention of Alberta and Saskatchewan teachers at Lloydminster. At the conclusion of Dr. Cook's remarks the convention adjourned to the high school building.

The remainder of the morning period was devoted to discussion groups. Mr. L. H. Bussard, Principal of Vermilion high school presided over the high school group, at which Mr. D. M. Sullivan inspector of High Schools, attended. The work in this group was carried on in an informal fashion with all present contributing freely on matters of local interest. Several were introduced by Mr. Bussard and Mr Sullivan urged that teachers interpret and apply the true spirit of the new high school program. He pointed out that 90% of high school students never reach University and that it is therefore incumbent upon the high school to prepare students for the post-war world; to give them training for the vocation into which they would enter, and to fit them to take their places happily in an improved system of society. Sessions of the high school section continued in the afternoon.

During the morning elementary and intermediate teachers met in four discussion groups: Elementary Reading, under leadership of Miss I. Hendrickson, Marwayne and Miss N. Redmond, Kitscoty; Intermediate Science, under leadership of Mrs. O'Brien, Vermilion and Mr. M. Somerville, Paradise Valley; Elementary Science — under leadership of Mrs. G. Hay, Vermilion and Miss D. Gibbons, Vermilion; Choral Speech and Remedial Reading — leaders, Mr. P. Walker, Vermilion, Miss E. Swanson, Kitscoty and Miss E. Doull, Streamstown.

On Thursday afternoon two discussion groups for secondary and intermediate teachers was held. The first dealt with Elementary Mathematics and by Miss B. Easton, Marwayne, and Miss G. Dusanne, Dewberry. The second considered Health and Community Relationships and was led by Miss A. Wilson, Kitscoty and Miss J. Shaw, Clandonald.

The final period on Thursday was occupied by an address by Mr. C. E. Lavery, Superintendent of the Vermilion School Division. Mr. Lavery contended the individual teacher must develop a keen sense of professional consciousness and demanded that security be the keynote of a teacher's work in the classroom. Mr. Lavery maintained that it would be little use for a teacher to expound correct health practices in a classroom in which he or she were overlooking unhygienic features in the classroom environment. Such practice would build warped habits of thought which would be a very poor foundation for the type of citizenship demanded by modern society. Mr. C. A. Richard son acted as chairman during this period

On Thursday evening eighty-five teachers and their guests sat down to a sumptuous banquet served by the Anglican Ladies' aid in St. John's hall Mr J. A. Smith presided during after dinner speeches. Guest present were, T. and Mrs Cook, Mr. Mossman, Mr. J. T. Boyd Calmon and Mrs. Harmer, Mr. and Mrs. Avery B. M. Sullivan Mr F. Page, Mr. C. M. Lavery and Mr. H. B. Hall. The evening at the head table were introduced by Mr. Smith. Mr Avery, Principal of the Lloydminster public school, brought greetings from Saskatchewan teachers and followed up with an interesting report on diagnostic procedures in dealing with difficulties of individual students. The guest speaker of the evening was Mr. F. Page, inspector of the Correspondence school of the Alberta Department of Education. Mr Page spoke on the subject "Your Other Mind" and dealt in a very skilful and entertaining manner with a fundamental psychological concept. Mr Page pointed out that every individual has two minds; the primitive mind which is as old as life itself, and which governs our every day animal passions, and the relatively recent logical mind which demands reason for our actions and which expresses itself in words and symbols." The primitive animal mind is constantly seeking for an outlet for the repressions of the more logical mind, which explains many instances of peculiar and startling human behavior. Mr. Page emphasized his generalizations with many graphic illustrations which held the close attention of his audience. He listed "jazz" and "swing" as mild examples of an outlet for the primitive mind after the stress and strain of the first great war. In applying the psychological principles of which he was speaking to education, Mr Page pointed out that teachers must be treated as an individual there was no such thing as "the average child", that each child is in need of affection of the unfortunate kind; and that the school is the institution in society in that it has the opportunity not shared by any other institution in being able to deal with the individual during his formative period.

The Friday morning session was devoted to the annual general meeting of the Vermilion Local. A report of the Local's activities during the year was presented; financial statements were presented, and reports of committees were heard The Resolutions committee recommended that a committee be set up to investigate the possibility of carrying out a series of diagnostic tests in the high schools of the Division. The program of the present convention and plans for next conventions were discussed at length. It was felt that the group discussions had been successful and that such groups could profitably be a part of future conventions. The work done by discussion groups during the present convention is to be carried on in the various sub-locals and reports published in the news letter of the Local. The importance of sub-local activities was stressed by several present and teachers were urged to attend at sub-local meetings. The following officers were re-elected by acclamation for the year 1943-44—President, Mr. J. A. Smith, Kitscoty; Vice-President, Mr. C. A. Richardson, Paradise Valley; Sec.-Treasurer, Mr. A. Aalborg, Rivercourse.

The Hon. Alfred Hooke, Provincial Secretary for Alberta, was the guest speaker at the final session of the convention on Friday afternoon Mr. Hooke was introduced to the teachers by Mr. S. A. Berg, M.L.A., Marwayne. During the course of his address Mr. Hooke dealt fully with the financial position in the post-war world. He urged that teachers acquaint themselves thoroughly with present social conditions and the probable course of events in the post war world in order that they may be better able to look after not only the educational welfare of their students, but their economic and personal welfare as well Mr. Hooke pointed out that the struggle now going on in the world is a struggle between paganism and virtue between the most notable Christianity and democracy Democracy is the Christian way of life. In democracy the individual must be guaranteed economic freedom together with personal freedom. Mr. Hooke concluded his address that the boys in the air force must be treated as individuals if they are to be returned to civilian life as well adjusted men.

Czechoslovakia

AMONG THE FIRST of the smaller nations to fall under Nazi domination was the Republic of Czechoslovakia. Since that time, the Czechs in exile have continued to fight for their independence, led by their premier, Edouard Benes, and by Jan Masaryk, son of Thomas Masaryk, the founder of the republic. Recently, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the day on which Czechoslovakia became a free and independent state, was observed, and tributes came from all parts of the United Nations to the people of that country, who have so stoutly upheld the ideals of democracy. Although their country has been occupied, and the people there subjected to all forms of Nazi persecution, the Czechs are not down and in exile. They have fought the enemy in every possible way, and have never faltered in their determination to re-establish democratic government in their country when the Germans are driven out.

• • • •

Long Struggle For Democracy

Czechoslovakia was formerly a part of the Austrian Empire and for many years her people struggled for their independence. This was finally achieved after the First World War, and following the Versailles Peace Conference the Republic of Czechoslovakia was created. Thomas Masaryk, who was the first prime minister, was a great leader, and under his guidance the people of Czechoslovakia established a system of government, which embodied all the democratic ideals for which they had been fighting for many years. Having gained their independence, they desired to live at peace with other nations. At the same time, they realized the vulnerability of their position in Europe, and they were well prepared to resist aggression. They had the Skoda Works, which had been outnumbered in men and machines by the then mighty German army.

• • • •

Small Nations Need Security

Czechoslovakia was attacked and overcome at a time when the other democratic nations could not send help to avert such a disaster. Since that time democracy has been on the defensive, and is a striking example of the need for collective security. It has been pointed out that no country in the world suffered more strongly to the principles of democracy, or declared more earnestly to avoid war, yet all their idealism and preparations against the attack of a mighty and unprincipled aggressor. It is clear that if, in the future nations are to be safe from this sort of aggression we must remove the danger that Germany will ever again build up the military might which made it possible for her to destroy the greater part of the continent of Europe in the early months of the war. The people of Czechoslovakia, and the other oppressed countries, will look for some provision for their future security, when plans for the reconstruction of Europe are completed

SQUASH AN IMPORTANT VEGETABLE

Squash is becoming an important vegetable in our diet. If more was known about the varieties and methods of serving this vegetable, more would probably use it more often. We will consider the varieties first. Squash is classified as winter and summer squash.

Winter—These varieties mature in the fall and will keep well into the winter. They should be fully matured before being stored in a dry room at a temperature between 50-60 degrees F. Some common varieties are Acorn or Pepper (small and green) Golden Hubbard, Hubbard (green), Banana squash Golden Table Queen. You may not have realized that winter squash is an excellent source of Vitamin A.

Summer—These mature early and do not keep as well The straight neck, White Bush, Scallop and Zucca are the most common types of summer squash. Their nutritional content is similar to the winter varieties, but they are much lower in Vitamin A.

Next we will examine various methods of serving winter squash. You have probably been serving squash in the same way for many years and found they tire quickly of these two. There is no need for monotony in your meals when you are serving winter squash. It lends itself to many combinations and may be used in a wide variety of ways. As a dessert, main dish, vegetable or soup squash can also be a appearance in any course.

In preparing squash you should wash it, remove the seeds and pithy part and cut to desired size for serving

Glazed Squash prepare as shown and peel. Steam until partially tender brush each piece with melted butter, season, sprinkle thickly with brown sugar and finish cooking in hot oven

Squash and Pepper Casserole—prepare as above, cut squash into 1½ inch slices and bake at 350 degrees F for 25 minutes in a covered casserole with thin rings of green pepper. A little onion, butter, bread crumbs The Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture has several recipes for squash dishes. The following is recommended by this section:

SQUASH PUFF

2 cups mashed squash	½ teaspoon baking powder
1 cup soft, stale bread crumbs	2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt	1 tablespoon melted fat
¼ teaspoon pepper	1 tablespoon brown sugar

Combine squash, bread crumbs, salt, pepper and baking powder Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a greased casserole, brush over with melted fat and sprinkle with brown sugar Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., until well puffed and set about 40 minutes Six to eight servings

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By J. G.)

THE folks out Morden, Manitoba, way, will be proud of the exploits of H M C S "Morden", a corvette which won awards for efficiency in her work. The Morden rescued 102 members of the British merchant vessel Daughter of Gwyn, Manitoba, and Signalman Joe Sinclair, Regina, Sask., were in the action.

If you see a Canadian with ribbon decoration on his breast, green, scarlet, royal blue, scarlet and green, you will know it is the new Canadian Volunteer Medal, awarded for more than 18 months voluntary active service. Those who have served outside of Canada, will wear a little silver maple leaf on the ribbon.

Men in the Royal Canadian Navy are really jack of all trades. Recently, when they completed their great appreciation for seamen of the R.C.N. and Merchant Navy their shore leave helping out on farms in Northern Ontario, while ships were in British ports. Here's the story told by Able Seaman Donald MacRae Although his ship was a minesweeper, he did not sweep mines. The sea except minesweeping. They engaged in convoy escort duties, submarine and even anti-aircraft duty among the Arabs "Slave trading Arabs" were not all kinds of trouble in the Gulf. They'd go into a port and, through the local ships the offer of good paying jobs, and then ship them across the Gulf into the desert, and they'd never be heard from again. Our job was to protect the Arab ships and warn the people. It was a pretty trickish job.

Canadian sailors standing watch on the North Atlantic this winter may be outfitted with many gadgets to keep them dry and warm, called a Waterproof Protective Suit. The new outfit consists of two sets of coveralls. The inner one of galvanized, windproof and spray-resistant material, lined with double pile wool, and the outer of light weight rubber, a material being hailed as the successor to oilskin. Zippers are employed and the whole can be shed in seconds in an emergency

Stoker Petty Officer Richard J. War, of New Westminster, B.C., was the "first bridegroom" in the first changed constructed by sailors at H.M.C.S. "Niobe" mansion and club of the Canadian Navy overseas. The beds were put on a fancy wedding for the occasion. He married Nursing Sister Mary Ann Cowan, of Vancouver. Also, the ship's organ was played by Sub-Lieut. Ted Smith of Regina, and the ship's choir sang. Best man was R.P.O. Harry Ball, of Regina, and one of the bridesmaids was Wren who was R.P.O. Bill Gibbs, of Winnipeg, and R.P.O. Herbert Popp, of Penfield.

WHERE PRICES ARE HIGH

The Lethbridge Herald says when you complain of food prices as being high, think of Shelburg, Labrador, where milk is 25 cents a quart, bread 15 cents a loaf, butter 72 cents a pound, beef 70 cents a pound, ham and eggs $1, and an ice cream cone 20 cents.

Post Office Very Efficient In Looking After Military Mail

The post office is today functioning at a high peak of efficiency, especially in regard to military mail. Remembering the hazards run by such mail and the way in which soldiers move around across more from station to station, often hundreds and thousands of miles apart, it is remarkable that such few letters should be reported and that, on the whole, military mail should move with such despatch and safety. The post office deserves a special vote of thanks from relatives of active service personnel for the extremely efficient service that it is rendering—Brockville Recorder and Times.

An Excellent Reservoir

Old Oil Field In California Is A Storage Tank For Natural Gas

An old oil field near the city of Los Angeles, California, is being put to valuable wartime use as a natural tank to store natural gas. The Playa Del Rey oil field, covering some 319 acres, contains a layer of porous oil sands about 85 feet thick from which the oil has been drained. This provides an excellent reservoir for some two billion cubic feet of natural gas, which can be pumped into the subterranean deposits through abandoned oil wells.

The problem of storing gas in the Los Angeles area becomes more acute as the growth of war industry and population, and when the need was thus created, natural gas tanks became scarce for the same reason.

AIR CADETS GROWING

WINNIPEG — By the end of the year, we hope to have attained our objective of 50,000 cadets," said Wing Commander R. B. MacLaren, president of the Air Cadet League of Canada, just before he left Winnipeg after a conference here. At present he said 25,000 boys were enrolled. Visiting Newfoundland on Trans-Canada Air Lines business (he is superintendent of passenger services) Mr. MacLaren helped organize an Air Cadet unit in Newfoundland. The Canadian government is still helping finance it and will supply uniforms and equipment.

MONTREAL — With Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply and H. J. Symington, K.C., president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, as passengers, and carrying 4,700 pounds of mail for Canadians on active service overseas, a large transport plane operated by T.C.A. in the Dominion Government's trans-Atlantic service, recently established a new Montreal to Botwood record of 11 hours 20 minutes. It was 2½ minutes better than the previous record made by a T.C.A. crew when the service was inaugurated in July.

BRING IN THAT RUBBER

ISLAY

Well, we are going on new time again for the winter—school opens at 9 a.m. and closes at 4.30 p.m.

There is good skating on the slough just over the railway tracks. A rink is being roped off there.

We are quite enjoying our afternoon church services. We have had the church fairly well filled. Those who have not yet taken advantage of attending are really missing something good. Rev. sinclair Rethie or Vermilion takes the service. He also has quite an interesting section for the children.

Our W.A. bazaar has been set for Saturday afternoon of Dec. 4 at 3 o'clock. This will be an opportunity to obtain some Xmas gifts. There are to be two fish ponds so children save up your pennies and come to this. Tea tables will be set, so we may enjoy one tea and a visit at the same time.

We hear that Miss Melinda Purves, teacher, is enjoying her experiences in the north, miles out from the railway somewhere here from Grande Prairie. No great bonus was offered these girls in this school, they just went for the love of teaching and the thrill of the north. Miss Purves is senior teacher in this two-roomed school and Miss Reid from Ponoka is junior teacher. They have a cabin together and they carry their water and chop their own wood. We think the girls will have many interesting tales to relate when they come out.

We notice Gordon Purves's car standing in front of the Eaton's house occasionally — Some are wondering when we should get ready for a christmas!

News on the street these days is that the Gilchrist farm known as the Jim Gilchrist farm, and for the last few years owned by Mrs. Supply for Islay has been sold to Ralph Anderson who is now on the George Robertson farm just north of Mr. Pete Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin have moved into their new home, having purchased what used to be the Superior Lumber Co. house.

Miss Lila Dexter leaves this week end for B.C. going to Trail first, then on to New Westminster and other points.

Mr. Hd McFadyen is building a full sized barn, stable and loft, a good deal of root-cut work is involved, and he is the carpenter.

Some fine specimens of live poultry shipped from H.H. Young's last week for Woodland Co. something more than two tons went out by C.N.R. —

WEDDING BELLS

MACNEMUR—EYBEN

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the United Church manse on Friday afternoon Nov. 12 when Miss Mabel, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Eyben, became the bride of Gnr. William Hayworth, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hassenik of Vermilion Rev. E. S. Rethie conducted the ceremony.

The bride entered the room on the arm of her father to the strains of the Wedding March played by Mr. Henry Eyben, cousin of the bride. The bride was charming in a tea-length gown of white sheer fashioned on a sweetheart neckline with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her veil of white bridal illusion was held in place about her head with a circlet of white baby chrysanthemums and she carried a shower bouquet of American Beauty roses. Her only jewelry was a gold cross, a gift of the groom.

Miss Kaye Hassenik of Edmonton, sister of the groom, wearing a floor-length gown of white sheer, with corsage of white carnations, and Miss Isobel Cleland, in a tea-length gown of pale Alexia, with corsage of white carnations, acted as bridesmaids. Both had pink roses in their hair.

Mr. Frank Eyben, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

During the signing of the register Henry Eyben played "I Love You Truly."

The reception was held in the banquet room at George's where twenty-five guests were seated. The table was decorated with pink and white streamers and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake. Rev. Sinclair Rethie proposed the toast to the bride, which was fittingly responded to by the groom The young couple will reside in Calgary where the groom is stationed.

DALE—HOLMAN

The marriage of Evelyn Maud, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Holman, of Vermilion, Alta., and formerly of Tofield, Alberta, to Theodore Howard Dale, only son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Dale, of Vancouver, B.C., was solemnized on St. Mark's Anglican church, by the Rev. A. Elliott.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white taffeta, made with a torso waist with a sweetheart neckline, and a full-gored skirt. The shoulder-length veil was of fine silk-embroidered lace. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Blanche Wilkinson, of Vermilion, Alberta, attended as bridesmaid. She was dressed in pink sheer, and matching pompadour hat. She carried pink and white carnations.

Mr. Walter Standinger, of Sylvan Lake, Alberta, was the best man Mr. Herbert Reid was the usher.

The organist played the wedding marches.

A reception was held afterwards. Mrs. U. W. Holman received in a wine crepe dress, wine hat, and white accessories. She wore a corsage of sweet peas.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. W. Standinger, Mr. E. Hilman, Mrs. M. Prisch, all of Sylvan Lake, Alta., Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Tattersall of Edmonton, Mrs. A. Johnson, Mrs. H. Johnson, Miss B. Wichard, Miss G. Kerr, and Mr. P. Krell.

Phil and Mrs. Carnations decorated the bride's table which was centred with the wedding cake.

Mr. J. R. Tattersall proposed the toast to the bride.

For going away the bride wore a green wool suit with saddle brown accessories.

After a short honeymoon in Calgary the happy couple will make their home in Edmonton.

Post-War Reconstruction Committee Submits Brief

The Vermilion Post-War Reconstruction Committee at a meeting on Monday night when recommendations and suggestions of projects which might be undertaken in this district were considered and submitted in the form of a brief to the Hon. H. E. Tanner, chairman of the Alberta Post-War Reconstruction committee. The provincial committee asked for both general suggestions and also for specific projects which could be undertaken in the town and district.

Under the heading of general suggestions the local brief contained the following:

1. That low cost money and grants be made available for municipal projects and housing.

2. That health units and state medicine be established.

3. That facilities for vocational and agricultural training at the Vermilion agricultural school be made use of and extended.

4. That senior governments share in the cost of primary and secondary education.

5. That parity prices for agricultural produce be established in order that purchasing power and a satisfactory standard of living be maintained.

The brief called for the following specific local projects for the post-war period:

1. Water and sewage system for the town.

2. Housing program to include co-operative housing association

3. Damming of the Vermilion river to provide a lake for recreational facilities and to assist in water and moisture conservation.

4. The extension and improvement of the local airport.

Considerable thought was also given to district projects that would provide employment and lead to bring about conditions that would lead to economic security and happiness. Included in this section were:

1. Secondary and district roads, with special mention of a high-way from Vermilion to Kitscoty, via Elk Point, Dunnyville and Cold Lake, to Wainwright and points south. This would include a bridge across the Saskatchewan river at Elk Point.

2. Electrification of farm homes

3. Plants to produce by-products of local cereal crops.

O, the graduates, 26 are from the province of Manitoba, five from Ontario, 21 from Saskatchewan, 14 from Alberta, 26 from British Columbia, and three from the United States, the latter enlisting at the Pacific Command.

Graduates include the following girls from Vermilion district:

Private H. Peacock, Bruce. Winifred C Offer, Carbon. Joyce Umbler, Cochrane; Irene Weisenburger Dunbarne; Doris M Melnos Heidelberg; Mary P Barkly, Lethbridge; Kathleen M.E. Fulsher, Millet; Kathleen L. McIlwee, New Dayton; Miriam Lynch-Staunton, Pincher Creek; Lily Sinnett, Rednaw; Betty M Warnecott, Strathcona; Retta P.M Mcnaren Wetaskiwin; Stella May, St. Edouard Anna Chomett, Mahamen.

NEW HOUSES APPEAR IN THE EAST END

Three Dwellings in Course of Completion

Three additional residences are under the course of erection and improvement in the east end of town, all of which contributes to alleviate the scarcity of living accommodation here.

Two of the houses are now build ings and are being erected immediately south of the home of Mrs Annie Cameron. The first of these belongs to Mr. A. Noonan and is a large two-storied structure The second is owned by Danny Hindale and is rapidly nearing completion. The third new residence is owned by Norman Grey and has been moved into town from the former Bundy farm It is being entirely remodelled, set on a cement foundation and should make a fine roomy house. The location is on Lot 1 of Block 23, next door west of Lloyd McFadden's residence.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The Vermilion Agricultural society will hold its annual meeting on Friday Dec. 3rd in the Memorial hall, Vermilion, according to an announcement by Mr. Norman McClellan, the president of the society. The meeting will start at 2.30 in the afternoon and a cordial invitation is extended to farmers and town residents alike.

President McClellan advises that the 1943 season was one of the best in the history of Vermilion Fair, with livestock exhibits taking a prominent part in the exhibition. Compliments have been received in regard to the fine showing of Shorthorn cattle and the splendid horse show and plans will be laid at the forthcoming meeting to make the 1944 exhibition the best ever.

A large attendance will greatly assist in the formulation of policies for the future and all will be welcome.

REFINERY OUTPUT REACHES NEW HIGH

Over 16,000 Barrels Shipped In October

Output of cleaned oil from the refinery reached a new high for October when 66 cars of fuel oil were shipped. Each car contains approximately 250 barrels and it is estimated that 16,000 barrels were put through the plant. This is a considerable jump from the previous month's figures. Officials state that a further increase can be expected for the month of November.

Fighting Canada's Battles In Northern Manitoba And Saskatchewan Bushlands

(By J. F. De Wet, Secretary, Manitoba Chamber of Mines)

IN the greatest of all the wars in man's history, in which the application and the products of science are a vital factor, the adequate and continuous supply of metals is essential to the winning of battles.

Take the matter of copper as an example of a familiar and lowly metal whose usefulness to mankind first becomes known to us in early childhood in the form of pennies to buy sent suckers at the store. Today, copper is an indispensable element to the soldier, the sailor and the airman in a variety of capacities ranging from the brass cartridge case of the rifleman to the wire that carries the electric current from the generator to the motors of trucks, tanks and aircraft. A bomber aeroplane uses copper wire by the mile, and tons of it go into a battleship. The important detection device called radar, which helped Britain to beat off Hitler's air attacks and now aids the fighting men on land, on sea and in the air to detect the proximity of enemies, even in the murkiness in large measure

The Town Of Flin Flon

The strategic metal is produced in great tonnages amid a setting of forest and lake on the boundary line between Manitoba and Saskatchewan, a little south of latitude 55. Here in a town called Flin Flon, population between 8,000 and 9,000, men drawn largely from the towns and villages of the western prairie provinces and another earth over 6,000 tons of ore from which other men from the ends of the earth extract not only copper, but the equally vital metals zinc and cadmium, and in addition such important metals as gold, silver, selenium and tellurium, each of which has its place in the nation's war effort—silver in a variety of strategic uses almost as numerous as copper; cadmium as a protection against corrosion in submarines and useful as a self-lubricating metal; gold for the balancing of Canada's trade in war and in peace, and for the purchase of supplies and services in foreign battlefields; silver essential in currency and also as a substitute metal for tin in solder, copper and other metals; selenium and tellurium in improving the machinability of copper and copper alloys; selenium in the hardening of steel and in the electrical industry; and tellurium in the vulcanizing of rubber and lead and as an anti-corrosive for sea mines.

Two Creighton Found The Mine

The finding of the valuable ore body, destined to become one of Canada's major sources of supply of strategic war metals, at Flin Flon, by prospector Tom Creighton, and its subsequent development to the production stage many years later by Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Limited, who utilized for this purpose combined Canadian and U.S. capital, is one of the great stories of romance and practical business accomplishment of Western Canada's northlands.

Creighton, who combined prospecting with trapping, had left camp on New Year's Day, 1915, to see if he could find and shoot a moose, and on a high ridge near a small lake he had not seen before, spotted a little copper stain and some chalcopyrite (copper ore) exposed on a spot which had been blown clear of snow by the wind. He made a mental note of the location and then returned to his camp to continue his winter trapping, with the intention of examining it further in the spring.

Capital Became Interested

His spring examination confirmed his opinion that the find was one of interest, and the following mid-August a thorough examination by Creighton and Jack Mosher, a prospecting partner, definitely established its importance. Their financial backer, Jack Hammell of Toronto, was informed of the find, and subsequent exploration demonstrated its real importance.

After underground examination, both by diamond drilling and by a shaft and other workings, had disclosed an indicated ore body of 18,000,000 to 20,000,000 tons, American mining capital became interested and a decision was arrived at to find out what ailment could be in the way of separating the valuable metals from their close chemical and physical association with each other and the enclosing rock.

Selective Flotation Solved Problem

About that time ore mining men were over the world were beginning to recognize the remarkable efficiency of a new process called selective flotation in the treatment of complex ores. About a million dollars were spent by the United States mining investors in proving the adaptability of such a process to the ore from the Flin Flon mine, and after extensive tests the new process on a laboratory scale, and it worked. Then they built a small mill at the mine capable of treating 25 to 30 tons daily to test the process on a commercial scale, and again it worked after some modifications.

The outcome of these successful experiments was a momentous decision, made in 1927, which has had a far-reaching effect on the mining of Western Canada. The decision to spend $35,000,000 to $36,000,000 for the purpose of establishing an important industry employing hundreds of people in the northern Manitoba bushland, namely a mine equipped with metallurgical plants capable of treating 2,000 tons daily and a hydro-electric power plant to supply the necessary power.

Mill Finished And Mine Put Into Production

At this point a new link between two prairie provinces was forged, Canada as a whole became a partnership of nine provinces, and within that partnership is a subsidiary partnership of Manitoba and Saskatchewan in the possession of a new industry financed jointly by investors of the United States and of Canada. The dual interest of the two provinces in the one mine lies in the fact that the ore bodies cover within a very few between Manitoba and Saskatchewan. One opening into the mine, made in Manitoba, is within a few of the metallurgical plants and the town of Flin Flon are in Manitoba. The second opening, in South Main Shaft, is in Saskatchewan, just a mile south of the North Main shaft, and the hydro-electric power plant also is in that province. So Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co. Limited, employing men in both provinces and paying taxes to both provincial governments, as well as to the Dominion of Canada

If Or When Morale Of German People Will Crack

The Reich's situation is such that she can stand on the defensive for a long time and the morale of her people does not crack. We have no means of knowing whether it is likely to crack soon, says the Montreal Star. Lord Halifax who undoubtedly possesses more information than his questioners, refused to hazard a guess. He is confident that we are winning, but he is equally certain that we must not relax our efforts until Germany is defeated, completely and utterly. 2040

Escaped In Plane

Young Danish Aviator Reached Britain In Small Gypsy Moth

A young Danish aviator who escaped in a small Gypsy Moth plane from under the noses of the Germans and flew from Copenhagen to Britain a few weeks ago, it has been revealed.

For two years the young aviator had kept his plans secret from even though the Germans ordered all private planes dismantled in the summer of 1941. He managed to store up 22 gallons of gasoline for his flight across the North Sea. He had no idea exactly how long he was in the air, but it was more than five hours and he flew by compass all the way.

TRUTHFULNESS AT ALL TIMES

Golden text: Wherefore, putting away falsehood, speak ye truth each one with his neighbor: for we are members one of another. Ephesians 4: 25.

Lesson: Exodus 20:16; 23:1, 7; Matthew 5:33-37; John 8:43-45.

Devotional Reading: Revelation 22: 10-17.

Explanations and Comments

The Law of Truthfulness. Exodus 20:16. This law refers primarily to the giving of false testimony in a court of justice, and then, naturally, to any false testimony about another given under any circumstance.

"Any damaging statement against a neighbor's character is a most deadly weapon. It is your business to know whether it is true or false before you touch it. Indeed, true or false, you have no right to poison yourself with a thing so deadly. Unless there is some good and sufficient reason, you must not bear even true witness against your neighbor. The rule is: Keep still, as long as you possibly can."—William R. Richards.

An Extension of the Ninth Commandment. Exodus 23:1, 7. Thou shalt not take up a false report. Whatever has been spitefully circulated to discredit money, which people who would never be the first to take it up, the first to circulate it, do not hesitate to pass along when it comes into their hands. "False bearers are as bad as false makers."

For lack of wood the fire goeth out: and where there is no whisper, contention ceaseth. . . The words of a whisperer are as dainty morsels, and they go down into the innermost part (Proverbs 26:12, 28).

Keep thee far from the false matter. "Literally 'a justified matter,' a falsehood arrayed in glowing colors. The word suggests what is artificially colored, as by paint, and is dainty and deceptive. So understood, it teaches a solemn lesson. In all literature, and in real life, nothing deceptive disguises, robbing themselves in garments of truth and righteousness. We have been warned against false witnesses and false reports, and now are warned against all painted imitations or gilded shows" (A. T. Pierson).

Jesus Extended the Law Against Perjury to Every Vain and Unnecessary Oath, Matthew 5:33-37. Again ye have heard that it was said to them of old thru (see verses 20 and 21). Thou shalt not forswear thyself. Thou shalt not swear falsely. Levi. 19:12. Thou shalt perform unto the Lord thy oaths Num. 30:2; Dt. 23.21. But I say unto you, Swear not at all

Czechoslovak Officer Writes A Letter Of Thanks To The Lord Mayor

I have been living in England for just over three years. During these three years, in the streets of London, of Britain, in trains and on roads, in parks and streets, in shops and shelters, pubs and clubs, in drawing rooms and in factories, so many faces smiled at me, so many eyes greeted me, so many friendly hands shook mine, and so many lips spoke a kindly welcome to me. They all belong to friends whose names are known and unknown to me. This letter to you, Sir, is the only way I can say good-bye to your people, whom I found to be the kindest people in the world.

Madame Tussaud's Waxworks Still Big Attraction For London Visitors

The death of J. T. Tussaud came at a moment when the famous waxworks exhibition which bears his name was experiencing a sort of revival. Not only is it still as popular as ever with London youngsters and provincial visitors, but it is about the first place for which American warriors on leave in London make a bee-line. The popularity of Madame Tussaud's seems, in fact, to be as perennial as the detective thriller. It was J. T. Tussaud's great-grandfather who went to London after the French Revolution, who founded the famous waxworks show-place in Marylebone Road. The legend was that she had been compelled to make models in wax of the more famous heads that fell on the guillotine. During his lifetime the late Mr. Tussaud added more than a thousand models to the show, which is perhaps now the only survivor of its kind in Britain. The Chamber of Horrors was the only part of the exhibition that survived a disastrous fire some years ago.

WAR BREAD IS TOPS!

Beau Jonathan

by J. B. Ryan

CHAPTER III!

FARQUHAR balanced his rapier on the table and removed his clubbier, ate velvet waistcoat. The doublet followed, then the stock about his throat and, finally, even the long curled wig. Then Farquhar took up his weapon and instructed toward Jonathan. Tools polaris touched with a metallic ringing sound.

A few cautious testings of the guards, then Lord Farquhar conayed the first attack. But in mid-thrust his sobsleeve slipped on the smooth floor. Jonathan, checking his parry and about to step back to allow his enemy to recover, caught the set of Farquhar's eye sorely in time. His stilled sword swept into life, deflecting the lunge flashing up at him from his lordship's stumbling position. Farquhar's rapier slid smptly between Jonathan's arm and ribs but the latter's blade sliced through the sleeve and flesh of his lordship's left shoulder.

"First blood to my lord Farquhar!" he reminded grimly.

"A moment's rest, Master Hale!" Farquhar begged. "I find my breath growing a bit short."

Jonathan lowered his acceptance of the recess. Farquhar said, "You gain nothing if you slay me, Hale. Remember the letter that is to be opened when I am found dead——"

"I have not forgotten," said Jonathan, bluntly. "Nor do I forget that you have sworn to avenge Denys. Mine enemy must be punished, Farquhar."

FARQUHAR'S big breath recovered. He lifted his sword, slid his left hand the length of the blade and flexed his wrist. "Then, he lung as we must, en garde, Hale," he smiled. "let us finish it."

With that he took his stance and instead of advancing as Jonathan expected, the fellow raced backward swiftly toward the door. The sword hummed in a terrible arc, lashing sideways and across the face of Matt Tucker.

The chimney sweep was caught wholly unaware. The rapier whipped across his forehead, causing him to duck both pistols and tumble to the floor.

"Outside, David!" cried Farquhar, leaping forward to meet the charge of Jonathan. "Summon help! Hurry —before it is too late——"

The servant hurled himself over the fallen Tucker, jerked open the door and fled into the hall. Jonathan was helpless to prevent him, for Farquhar, aware now that victory was his if he could stay on his feet a bit longer, was fighting like a madman, forcing Jonathan to give ground for the first time.

"Aaee-" Jonathan shouted. "Beware, Farquhar! Let no one in until I have finished with this devil!"

THE girl darted forward, slamming the door shut and turning the key. Tucker, blood streaming into his eyes, managed to his feet to help her plant into place the heavy chain dangling from an iron staple in the frame of the doorway. A moment later Denys hammered on the panels and the thud of steel against wood echoed throughout the room to blend with the ring and rasp of duelers.

The furious onslaught of Farquhar's rapier was the extreme test of Jonathan's swordmanship. Jonathan's sword was everywhere but, even so, he was unable to block entirely that hope-inspired blade. Farquhar's point whipped in, raking and burning like fire along Jonathan's ribs.

The dergest eyes flashed at that success. But Farquhar had shot his bolt.

The swords met like sledge and anvil. His deadening arm could not hold up any longer. His point dipped, and Jonathan was in, his sword sinking into Farquhar's sweat-stained, bloody shirt above the heart, then out, red to half its length.

For an instant his lordship's rapier waved blindly, questioningly. Then it tinkled to the floor. The tautness dissolved from the bony face and Farquhar, after a stumbling step that was no pretense, collapsed into a heap beside his fallen sword.

Jonathan turned away, needing no examination or waiting to assure himself that Farquhar was through.

"Usher the door, Tucker," he said, sheathing his sword.

Because of the battering weight against it, Tucker unbolted the chain with difficulty. The door flew open, tearing the chain from the sweep's hand, and men surged into the room like the waters of a broken dam.

The first to enter was Sir Maurice Blaine. Jonathan bowed ironically. "Sorry to have kept you waiting, Blaine," he smiled.

Blaine stopped, staring at the body of Farquhar. There were at least a score of men in the hall, the flur of Chelsea, others from the house on Pall Mall, and the servants of Farquhar. Most prominent were Denys and the servants and also the remainder of the trio that had been with his lordship that night at Winnset.

"Farquhar is dead," said Jonathan "it should be evident, I believe, that he died in fair fight." He smiled again at Sir Maurice. "Will you accept a sincere apology for that unfortunate incident, Blaine? I had the honor of a lady was involved and I was beside my self with anxiety."

Sir Maurice nodded briefly, glad perhaps to satisfy the demands of honor so easily.

THE various-faced Earl of Chelsea stepped forward. "Egad!" he muttered. "Would you believe it, gentlemen, it hardly more than an hour since Farquhar entrusted me with a letter to be opened when he failed to leave it with me." His hand dipped into his pocket, emerging with the sealed document Farquhar had prepared in Jonathan's behalf.

"Ah, yes, that paper" Jonathan advanced with extended hand.

But the subterfuge did not work. Chelsea retreated, thrusting the letter behind him. Farquhar warned me not to give this paper up. On the contrary, he commanded me to show it to no one before I read it myself——"

"Yes, I know." Jonathan paused, not wishing to alarm Chelsea further. The Earl, he saw, was determined to open the letter on the spot. "It does not matter. Farquhar's intention to realize what a great strain would have been placed on a woman herself and on Alfred shipping if these two had had to be fed and equipped over a considerable period of time from France to America. Britain is providing them this year with 450,000,000 lbs. of food stuffs mostly from overseas, and 50,000 tons of fresh vegetables, fruit and cereals. Britain's ships are hard worked enough for the sea transport of the United States troops, not only of Britain, but from Britain to battlefields overseas. Most ships are under charge to Americans in Britain for transport and rail transport when they are on military business.

The repair and servicing of American ships in British ports fill every dock in the world is another charge which goes down to Lend-Lease in reverse.

Spare-Time Munitioneers

Members of Britain's National Fire Service in the London region alone are now putting in 25,000 hours a week to produce arms and equipment for the fighting services. In their standing-by hours during periods of fire duty these men are now making anti-aircraft gun sights, fire setting gadgets for tanks, containers for dropping supplies by parachute, padded for airmen's dinghies, and scores of parts for aircraft and submarines.

It is calculated that half-a-million man-hours have been put in since the inception of this spare-time work in London alone, and the work is now valued at more than £50,000. These firemen undertake to do this work voluntarily.

London's Civil Defence workers are going to help the Post Office by handling the Christmas mails.

Fire guards, air raid shelter assistants and office workers are now doing rye flour for work at week-ends, and after dawn every Sunday morning 1,000 men and women of the Kent End of London leave by train and motor coach for farms in Essex, where they put in a full day's work.

A Thought For Hitler And Tojo

The spirit of Lend-Lease and friendly co-operation between the Allies crops up in unexpected ways. The Dutch motor mineweeper "Amelander" Capt. Lieut. Wagenaar, by the Ravenswerk Central School, Mr. J. de Meijman in South East London. This mineweeper, which was built in Britain was bought by the Dutch Government and is manned entirely by a Dutch crew

Lieut. Wagenaar, the ship's cook's pet in Britain members of the crew visit every week to have their clothes mended their life at sea about themselves and their families. Mrs. de Meijman exchange the children write regular letters to the Dutch seamen while they are abroad, giving them the latest news about Britain

Such friendships struck up between the peoples are the seeds from which will grow the lasting friendship that the nations will grow. Some day Hitler and Tojo might make war will come to full fruition. This is a thought that Hitler and Tojo might do well to ponder.

Record Shows The Calibre Of The Men Of The R.C.A.F.

The communique announcing that

Twenty-seven enemy aircraft over Britain knocked down nine Messerschmitts and two Focke-Wulf (Wes in a single day over the continent fills the people of the Dominion with pride.

The record bag speaks well and only for the calibre of the men in the R.C.A.F., but indicates that the training they receive under the Empire air training scheme here in Canada makes them more than a match for the best the enemy has to offer Winnipeg Tribune.

Britain Devotes Substantial Proportion Of Her Productive Power To Maintenance Of Her Allies—Concealing Lasting Friendships

(By Sidney Hornibrow)

In Britain today nearly 25,000 civilians are working as clerks and secretaries to the United States forces. In spite of acute manpower shortage, they have been specially drafted for this work and what is more, Britain pays their salaries

This is just one small item illustrating how Britain is devoting much of her productive power to the assistance of her allies—in the spirit of Lend-Lease in reverse.

Among other examples, consider the fact that between June, 1942 and April, 1943, Britain provided for the American Forces some 1,362,000 shiploads of articles and equipment, in addition to 2,177,000 ship-tons of constructive materials.

From Lemon-Squash to Locomotives

This contribution embraces almost every war need imaginable from lemon-squash to locomotives, from mocks to cooking stoves, to say nothing of barbed wire, parachutes, bicycles and Spitfire fighter aircraft.

American Forces have been sent to the United Kingdom in large numbers. It does not need much imagination to realize what a great strain would have been placed on America herself and on Allied shipping if these had had to be fed and equipped over a considerable period of time from America. Instead Britain is providing them this year with 450,000,000 lbs. of food stuffs mostly from overseas, and 50,000 tons of fresh vegetables, fruit and cereals. Britain's ships are hard worked enough for the sea transport of the United States troops, not only of Britain, but from Britain to battlefields overseas. It is calculated that half-a-million man-hours have been put in since the inception of this spare-time work in London alone, and the work is now valued at more than £50,000. These firemen undertake to do this work voluntarily.

London's Civil Defence workers are going to help the Post Office by handling the Christmas mails.

Fire guards, air raid shelter assistants and office workers are now doing rye flour for work at week-ends, and after dawn every Sunday morning 1,000 men and women of the Kent End of London leave by train and motor coach for farms in Essex, where they put in a full day's work.

A Thought For Hitler And Tojo

The spirit of Lend-Lease and friendly co-operation between the Allies crops up in unexpected ways. The Dutch motor mineweeper "Amelander" Capt. Lieut. Wagenaar, by the Ravenswerk Central School, Mr. J. de Meijman in South East London. This mineweeper, which was built in Britain was bought by the Dutch Government and is manned entirely by a Dutch crew

Lieut. Wagenaar, the ship's cook's pet in Britain members of the crew visit every week to have their clothes mended their life at sea about themselves and their families. Mrs. de Meijman exchange the children write regular letters to the Dutch seamen while they are abroad, giving them the latest news about Britain

Such friendships struck up between the peoples are the seeds from which will grow the lasting friendship that the nations will grow. Some day Hitler and Tojo might make war will come to full fruition. This is a thought that Hitler and Tojo might do well to ponder.

Our Gallant Airmen

Record Shows The Calibre Of The Men Of The R.C.A.F.

The communique announcing that

Twenty-seven enemy aircraft over Britain knocked down nine Messerschmitts and two Focke-Wulf (Wes in a single day over the continent fills the people of the Dominion with pride.

The planes destroyed are of the type which the German command counted their first line strength and which, in the face of the terrific bombing attacks now made by day and night they can ill afford to lose.

The record bag speaks well and only for the calibre of the men in the R.C.A.F., but indicates that the training they receive under the Empire air training scheme here in Canada makes them more than a match for the best the enemy has to offer Winnipeg Tribune.

Surgeon Of Royal Canadian Navy Risked Life For Others

Award of the D.S.C. to Surgeon Lieut. Maurice John Hood, of the Royal Navy disclosed the story of his heroism in leaping from the low-covered deck of a destroyer to a convoy escort ship to attend 21 wounded men last winter

He made the jump safely when the two ships were locked together as it was possible to bring them in the wild seas running at the time. A slip in taking off or landing meant instant death

For 30 hours without a break after getting aboard the escort ship, Hood operated on the wounded men who had been picked up from the destroyer Achates. Using a seaman's mess-deck table as an operating table and supported by two ratings against the ship's rolling and pitching, Hood saved every one of the 21 wounded.

FIGHTING VERSUS

Practically every prisoner of war who has escaped from an enemy prison camp in Europe has reported that the Canadian Red Cross food parcels they received while imprisoned, made the difference between ruined health, and their ability to escape, and to good physical condition, ready to take their places in the community

BACKACHE? Look out for Trouble With your KIDNEYS

If your back aches or if you have disturbed sleep, burning or smarting, look out for trouble in the kidneys. This is a sign that your kidneys are not fully healthy and need help of common diuretics and waters. When the kidneys slow up, wastes collect. Backache, nagging pain, puffy eyes and rheumatic pains may follow.

Your kidneys need help—and there is a time-tested proven way to help them known as GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. These are pure, unadulterated fully measured quantities of that widely known diuretic called Dutch Drops. They will find their action fast and effective. Be sure you get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules, the genuine and original Dutch Drops—packed in Canada. Get a 60c package from your druggist.

Board of Trade Notes

The board of trade extended an invitation to Mr. C. H. Patterson, president Canadian Aeronautical Institute of Canada, to address the meeting two weeks hence, namely Wednesday, Dec. 8th. Mr. Patterson comes from Toronto and is at present on tour of the west. He is chiefly interested in post-war plans for aviation.

There were 29 at the board meeting Wednesday and Albert M. West acted as chairman. Guests present were Mr. S. Crawford formerly of the Alberta Government Telephones branch here and now at Grande Prairie, and Wm. Gunn of Calgary manager of Metropolitan Stores' film office Roy Walker reported the farming fraternity and Whitey Wilson made a re-appearance after a long sojourn in the north country.

H. W. Brown gave a further report on the proposed long-distance telephone situation and stated that latest reports are that two units will be formed in the area in question providing the councillors of No. 24 in the involved can agree on that point. Meetings are being held at Lloydminster and Vermilion this Saturday by the councillors to see if such concerted opinion can be obtained.

A report on the activities of the Post-War Reconstruction committee was given by Jas. Reid and trade representative on that body, Ashley Cooper, and the projects as outlined were received with interest by the members.

The secretary reported within numerous letters regarding the lifting of grain quotas in certain untouched areas in this vicinity, and also in regard to the establishing of a customs office in Vermilion.

Providing that arrangements can be made by the executive delegates will be sent to the convention of the Alberta Board of Trade and Agriculture being held in Red Deer on Dec. 2.

Regular meeting of the board of trade will be held on Wednesday at 12:10 noon.

PACKAGE BEES FOR 1944

Beekeepers expecting to receive packages for next year's honey crop are advised to place their order at once, Mr. G. L. de Malatre, that arrangements should be made as soon as possible to have their orders booked. Many bookings are already being made with United States breeders and the supply of packages is not likely to be sufficient for all needs.

Present indications are that next year prices may be even higher than they were this year. The April packages are usually the best and the cheapest. It is therefore recommended that delivery be requested for April. A 2 lb. package of bees received in April properly fed and installed will produce better results than a 3 lb package received in May.

The first detachment of the Canadian Women's Army Corps to be sent to Northern Alberta celebrated their first year of service there.

staying in town with Mrs. Nash.

We hear a tinkle of wedding bells ringing in the Dunwood district for a young farmer there—and a new house is in the making.

The Auburndale church board and the ladies' aid are contemplating our field in Wildmere, met with Mr. Hedge on Saturday to discuss matters concerning these places of worship. Mrs. Hedge and her husband attended from Auburndale. Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Wallington at this board, as Mrs. Jen ness was unable to come owing to her baby's illness. John Green also came but too late for the meeting. However, he got an outline of what had been done. Mr. Hedge—it was stated that no car would be furnished for a student. It he had no bicycle one would be purchased if possible. Mrs. Hedge acted as secretary and Mr. Rohde as chairman of the meeting.

Don't forget the whist drive, banner and dance to be held at our school on Friday Dec. 3. Good prizes for whist. The Hogo chest will also be raffled off that night.

Visited around: Mr and Mrs J. Isley and Mildred of Triangle at the Burke home Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith and family of Dunwood at the Smith home in Wildmere the same day. Mrs. Garnett at the Wallington home. Mrs. Jos Cooper of Triangle was an Edmonton visitor last week. J. Wallington and Bobby Gra ham at Mr Debord's, Bardsdale on Monday. Mr. Debord shot a coyote with a shot gun while they were there, and on their way home they saw a fine bush deer; Lots of ducks still here on the lake; Some Dunwood folks attending the dance at Thorsmith on Friday night last

WILDMERE WINKS

The Wildmere Pool sponsored a picture show at Dunwood school on Thursday last week. Not a very large crowd attended but it was worth while seeing and was greatly enjoyed by those who did go. Mr Stewart and Mr Duffy gave interesting talks, with pool discussion taking place afterward. Ladies attending served lunch and coffee following the program.

Ladders have come more visited the Gillies chicken coop killing several birds, among them old Limpy, a hen almost twelve years old. When days made the clean up a few years ago this hen was left without feathers and a badly torn leg. Even so badly mauled she cared for nine little chickens and five small turkeys. We hear of bows and heroines among humans but they also can happen among fowl and animals. For this good deed this hen was given a life's lease to spend the rest of her days on the Wallington farm.

One more weather still prevails and threshing is going ahead. First oats and barley were done, now people are doing their wheat. It could be grand to see it all cleaned up before winter really sets in.

Mrs. G. Crothers who has been ill for the past two weeks is slowly improving. She is at time of writing

Parity Prices for Farm Products

The principal aim of Canadian farmers is to secure parity prices for farm products. All the farm organizations in Western Canada have continually urged the necessity of gaining such an objective. The Canadian Federation of Agriculture has given strong support to the idea. So have many other organizations not directly connected with agriculture.

The question is: can the speculative system of marketing farm products provide parity price? The experience of the past dozen years in particular suggests that speculative marketing cannot be depended upon to provide a decent level of prices for farm products. Under such a system there must be scarcity in order to get a decent price.

If the peoples of the world are to be adequately fed, farm production must be increased substantially. There has never been enough food in the world to satisfy the hungry millions of human beings.

But some better method of marketing must be devised. Farmers should not be pauperized merely because they produce abundance. They should be rewarded in proportion to their increased production. —Wheat Pool Budget.

YOUNG IDEAS

"Only by giving all youth the opportunity to develop just, generous and good neighborly thoughts can we hope to make it a peaceful world." This was the opinion expressed Tuesday evening by Dr. Robert Newton, President of the University of Alberta, in a broadcast over CKUA. Hitler warped the minds of German youth, said the speaker, and while leading them back to saner habits of thought will be one of our greatest post-war problems. The solution of all such problems, he continued, begins at home, and the sub committee on education, of which he is chairman, is studying ways of improving and widening the educational opportunities for all our people. Dr. Newton believed "too, that facilities for adult education should also be expanded, because "an informed citizenry is the only sound basis for a working democracy".

This was the third in a series of addresses being conducted by members of the Post-War Reconstruction committee. Next speaker to be heard next Tuesday at 8.15 is Hon. Alf. Hooke, Provincial Secretary and chairman of the sub-committee on finance.

Ration Trade Ban is Lifted

OTTAWA. — Mrs. Jones can now borrow extra rations from Mrs. Smith, in a pinch, since the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has lifted the ban on exchange of rationed commodities across the back fence.

"There was no intention at any time to restrict neighborly practises such as loans and exchanges of rationed commodities in small quantities and no steps were taken to restrict them. But under terms of the swiss order when loans, gifts or such exchange were prohibited it was considered necessary in order to minimize deliberate abuses." a Board spokesman pointed out.

A new magazine for Boy Scout Patrol leaders, "The Junior Leader" has been launched in Ottawa.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

The weather remains really wonderful for this time of year with frosty nights and sunshiny days. The past few days there has been a blue haze in the distance like that which we experience in Indian Summer. We noticed a large flock of ducks an over yesterday (Sun. Nov. 21) and muck rats are keeping open channels in the lakes

Several threshing outfits have been going most of the past week and it is expected (if present weather holds) that even late standard grain will be ready. Jim Panter has finished at Harry Good's and on his home place and is now on the Langenhahn place.

Keith Fooks spent Remembrance week-end at Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Thompson's. Jimmie remained in town to take part in the Remembrance Day parade as he is now an air cadet. And very nice he looks in his uniform too!

Mrs. J. K. Thompson spent Monday and Tuesday 15th and 16th, in town visiting Mrs W. J. Fooks and Jim Thompson is in town this week.

Chatsworth must have a new pool now, little six-year-old Berenice Bauer

Hugh Cobbledick, who has been in Edmonton, is back home again, but only returned last Tuesday

Michael Farkash is now working at Vancouver Island

Quite a few folks enjoyed skating on Thompson's lake last Friday night

On Sunday also a number of hobbies and a few grown-ups were there. Not able to be able to enjoy this pastime, without having to shovel snow on, really cold putting on your skating outfits. There is no fuel or coupons either this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Farkas motored to Edmonton last week-end.

Miss Anne Alwood teacher at the Windermere school, spent the week-end with Miss Cantell at Mrs Hodgins's. Mr. and Mrs. Alwood motored up this past week-end from Clandonald where Mr Wood is stationed with the R.C.A.F. to visit Mr and Mrs Archie Wood

We extend congratulations and best wishes to Mr and Mrs Glen Hutchinson (nee Betty Tovell) on their recent marriage. Kitty was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower the Saturday before the wedding.

Bill Castel, Miss Edna Hutchinson and Mrs Fiske, attended the Teachers' convention at Vermilion last week

DANGER OF HEATED GRAIN

Recent snow and rain has made the surface layers of grains stored in the many types of buildings now in use for this purpose. Damp or wet grain heats readily in bins and will seriously affect the germination of the seed. With a large acreage of oats in the frosted areas of the Province, the Field Crops Branch urges that every precaution be taken to insure safe storage of seed. Only recently a report came to the office in a granary full of good seed oats on the point of condition through excess moisture

When the grain is known to have been damp or tough when threshed or to have become damp through rain or snow shovelling over and spreading out in the usual satisfactory method of preventing heating is to should be made where any heating is suspected by inserting the arm to deep bins, a piece of board or a may be placed in the grain for a short period, then removed. Warm moisture of the board or hand will indicate where heating has taken place

P-spie like to talk about something ... to eat. It's not a bad idea, particularly if one is on a train and does-n something tasty. And talking about meals, in 1942 the Canadian National Railways served 2,502,105 of them to patrons of their dining and buffet cars, or an average of almost 10,000 a day for every day of that year.

THE IMPORTANCE OF PLANTING TREES IN ALBERTA

Trees Supplied Free by Government — Make Your Application Now

It is the season of the year when emphasis is laid by the Forestry Division of the Department of Lands and Mines on the importance of planting trees in Alberta, and the value of shelter belts to Alberta farms as a result. Since 1922 many hundreds of thousands of trees have been sent throughout the province for this purpose by the Alberta Forest Service.

This section of the Alberta Government's forestry work is now well known. Many agricultural areas have benefitted from it, and many more will do so.

The protection from adverse winds created by shelter belts works wonders in home life and gardens. Growth is quickly advanced as a result of such shelters, to say nothing of the beauty of protecting foliage created by the trees.

Preparation for next year's shipments is now underway and the following rules and regulations in connection with applying for trees are given.

Trees Distributed by Forest Service

Trees will be sent free of charge, excepting the express charge covering shipment, are to be given by the Forest Service in farmers in the province for the following purposes:

1. For planting within natural poplar or willow bluffs.
2. For replacements in established windbreaks or shelter belts.
3. For additions to established windbreaks or shelter belts, where the trees to be planted set out close enough to the old plantation that they receive protection against wind, and in the case of conifers, against the sun, by the established trees.

Applications for rural schools and cemeteries will be given consideration.

Trees are not available for beautification only, nor for the establishment of new windbreaks or shelter belts. Persons requiring trees for the former purpose should secure them from commercial nurseries, and for the latter apply to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Tree Planting Division, Indian Head, Sask.

Trees available for distribution in the spring of 1944 include the following:

White Spruce, Lodgepole Pine, Green Ash, Bur Oak, Siberian Larch, Douglas Fir, Yellow Pine (limit 10 to an applicant), Norway Spruce (limit 10), Red Pine (limit 10), Red Cedar (limit 10), Colorado Spruce (limit 5), American Elm (limit 5), Shell Bark Hickory (limit 4), Shag Bark Hickory (limit 4), Contorta Pine (limit 5), Scotch Pine (limit 5).

In addition to the above, cuttings of laurel leaf willow, golden willow and northwest poplar will be available.

In connection with each application it must be noted that a limit has been placed on the shipment of Yellow Pine, Norway Spruce, Red Pine, Red Oak, Colorado Spruce, American Elm, Shell Bark Hickory, Shag Bark Hickory, Contorta Pine and Scotch Pine.

The quantities of these species are very limited and it might be necessary to allot applicants smaller numbers, or entirely delete from some applications when a number of the first six are requested. In addition to the limitations of stocks available, the number of applications sometimes renders it impossible to send out all the trees for which applications are received.

All applications must be filled in and received in the office of the Director at Forestry, Administration Building, before January 31st, 1944, otherwise they will not be given consideration.

FEDERAL AID FOR HIGHWAY PROGRAMS

Federal assistance for provincial road development was advocated when a meeting of the executive of the Canadian Good Roads Association was held in Calgary recently.

The meeting was attended by highways or public works ministers from practically all the provinces, road engineers and other officials.

A resolution which was passed asked that the dominion government be requested to provide funds for a dominion-wide post-war highway construction program extending over a period of not less than five years from the termination of the present world conflict, as such earlier date as may be deemed advisable.

Such action in securing federal aid would tie in with demands that the Alberta Motor Association has made on the provincial government for earmarking of surplus motor funds for the development of a post-war road construction program.

Coupled with dominion aid, the funds would, or should, enable the province with an extensive road program and would play an important part in providing employment and rehabilitating men in the post-war period.

WARN MOTORISTS GAS FUMES

Advent of the fall season has brought in its wake the danger of car ban monoxide fumes from motor cars. Already some fatalities from this cause have been reported.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association point out that every car should be used to avoid the danger of these dangerous fumes. Now that many motor cars are in operation on the highways, dangers of carbon monoxide have been intensified.

Recently it was reported that three deaths occurred in one eastern city when the car occupants were overcome by gas fumes. In another, the occupants had a narrow escape with death.

When the car is started in a garage, make certain that doors and windows are open and that there is a free flow of fresh air. Carried watch also should be kept for the deadly fumes at other times.

Too much extra care cannot be taken at this time of the year when there is a tendency to keep garage and car doors closed, to avoid the dangers of carbon monoxide fumes.

TODAY — 16 YEARS AGO — 1927

Nov. 24, 1927

The vestry of St. Mary's Anglican church have purchased five lots in the village of Clandonald and the Anglican churches at Campbell Lake and Wolfsdale will be moved onto the lots and made into one church building immediately.

The mercury dropped to 36 below on Sunday night, continuing around 30 below the greater part of Monday before moderating.

A poll has been demanded by ratepayers on the question of erection of the proposed four room high school as passed upon by the school board.

Mayor Fallow declared Vermilion's big skating and hockey season officially open on Monday evening. The rink was gaily decorated with streamers and flags and over 1000 people crowded the spectator's stands and the ice. Music was rendered by the Vermilion Citizens' band.

Thirty-two Years Ago Today

Nov. 12, 1911

The weatherman got bit on the chin by a chinook and so far has failed to recover from the effects, which is giving general satisfaction all round.

The official population of the town is given at 815.

Fred Long was elected president of the curling club, S.R.P. Cooper, vice-president and an executive of C. H. Slater, H. P. Long, J. Walker, Jos McKone, J. Law, Bill Telford is honorary president. Indications point to 32 rinks of curlers.

Both curling and skating are scheduled to start in the rink on Monday night next.

AVOND FROZEN CREAM

Winter weather is not far off and a word of warning at this time might eliminate much frozen cream, states D. H. McCallum, Dairy Commissioner.

Frozen cream causes a loss to the producer and manufacturer, the fat becomes separated and produces a mealy textured butter causing the cream to be placed in second grade.

Butterfat tests on frozen cream are often inaccurate due to the difficulty in securing representative samples and there is also considerable delay in returning empty cans due to the necessity of thawing the cream gradually at the factory.

Cream should be cooled rapidly after separation and kept at a uniform low temperature below freezing to assure high quality butter an essential in these days of butter rationing.

Two Doukhobors Lose Licenses

OTTAWA.—Because they were repeated offenders against Wartime Prices and Trade Board maximum price regulations, two wholesale and retail meat dealers in Quebec lost their business licenses last week. One dealer had been convicted on 3 previous charges, and the other on 9 offences in two previous prosecutions.

Fines for prices offences during the week included the stiff $2400 in one case, $1200 in a second, and $1000 in a third. Altogether 32 prosecutions for prices violations were reported.

Prosecutions under Board regulations totalled 64, while there were 23 under Controllers' orders.

VICTORY LOAN APPLICATIONS LOST IN ITALY

The official forms were lost in transit, but thanks to fast staff work by a Windsor officer, Canadian soldiers who take time out from fighting in Italy to subscribe to the Dominion's latest Victory Loan campaign will fill out their applications on accurate reproductions of the blanks in use in Canada, according to a news dispatch from Ralph Allen, Globe & Mail correspondent.

With the fighting along the Canadian "axis" of advance already dotted with war-bond advertising, Major Lawrence A. (Larry) Daniel, former Windsor lawyer and officer in charge of sales to troops in his theatre, waited calmly for the anticipated shipment of forms from Canada.

Then he found a printing shop, secured a Canadian reinforcement depot unit he located six trained printers, hired six more of the same from the town's civilian population, and moved the entire detachment — bag, baggage, bedding and mimeograph — into the shop. He supplied a sample copy of the official blank and explained that several thousand more were needed in a hurry.

The printers worked day and night shifts to supply adequate paper ammunition for the campaign's first stages. Before they are through they expect to mess all continguencies, and if subscriptions from the Italian force triple the objective.

Anne Seymour and James Mock, two of radio's most talented and popular dramatic stars, play the leading roles in "A Woman of America", the new absorbing story of covered wagon days, heard Monday through Friday at 1.00 p.m. over CJCA. Anne is one of the busiest actresses along radio row. Not only is she busy with her acting chores, but she's also an air raid warden, member of the Stage Door Canteen, Red Cross driver, blood donor, and a regular volunteer for acting jobs in War Bond shows; in true life as in her radio role, she's truly a woman of America. Don't miss a single episode of this drama.

Films for Education

THERE ARE FEW COMMUNITIES in Canada which are without motion picture theatres, and this form of entertainment is an accepted part of the life of these times. Within the memory of most of us, the production of moving pictures has shown great development, and there is a vast difference between the early silent pictures, and the finished productions which we see today. While the screen is considered to be primarily a medium of entertainment, there has been, in recent years a growing realization of its value in education, and also for the spreading of propaganda. Many schools in Canada use motion pictures in their classes, and there are now fine libraries of educational films available for this purpose at various centres in the Dominion.

• • • •

Films Are Used For Propaganda

The war has given impetus to the use of films for propaganda purposes. The Germans were quick to seize on this method of spreading their doctrines abroad. They also used motion pictures in attempts to terrorize countries into submission in the early days of the war, by circulating films showing Nazi bombing and invasion tactics. Canada, Great Britain, the United States and Russia have used moving pictures to acquaint their people with the extent of their war efforts, and also for educating them in regard to the needs of their countries in wartime. In addition, motion picture photographers have been present on many of the battle fronts and they have made some interesting and remarkable films, some of which have been shown in the newsreels here. The National Film Board in Canada has expanded greatly in recent years and it has produced a number of fine motion pictures dealing with many aspects of life in Canada at this time.

• • • •

Germans Spread Ideas in Europe

It has been suggested that films might prove to be a powerful factor in counteracting the effect of Nazi propaganda on the minds of the people in Occupied Europe. For many months now these people have been bombarded with Germany's ideology and while it is known that their methods have been in no measure as effective as was intended, it will in many instances have left a distorted outlook which will have to be corrected. Mr Charles Francis Coe, an American motion picture executive, who visited Canada recently, expressed the opinion that films might be used successfully in this connection. He pointed out that motion pictures created for entertainment, but showing "that there is a spot where decency prevails, where the love of home is great, and where the valuable things of life flow from the man himself as an entity unto himself, not from a State welded by the grimy, bloodless hands of a few dictators," might prove of great value in dealing with this problem.

FIRST AID IN ONE JAR

Forgery Proof

Documents Written On Clay Tablets Is Early Step

In Mesopotamia, 5,000 years before Christ, official and legal rid tape was highly developed. Then as now people had to sign on the dotted line. Although the ancient Near East claims the earliest known systems of writing, its names remained illiterate. Documents were written on clay tablets by professional scribes and "cuneiform" signatures were personally imprinted on the soft clay by means of a seal. The seal was usually in the form of a small stone cylinder, free-runner of the rotary printing machine. It was owned and worn by the signer and was protected against forgery by the variety and intricacy of its design. The Royal Ontario Museum has recently put on display a fine collection of these ancient seals.

CAUSE OF FAMINE

Some of the reserve supplies of wheat in Britain will be shipped to India to relieve a famine raging in Bengal. The main cause of the famine was a shortage of rice. Bengal usually imports large quantities of rice from Burma, now in the hands of the Japanese army.

A grin on his face, this 21-year-old boy though still suffering, has on a hospital bed and says casually: "I guess you might say I just reached the end of my back." His had the lower part of both legs amputated when a 2,000-lb bomb ripped through the port bulkhead of the signal room on his ship, sliced his legs from under him, careened out of the starboard side and exploded at the water line. Once before he was torpedoed and clung to wreckage 12 hours before being picked up.

The Navy researchers have discovered a secret formula for seasickness which will help our sailors in rough weather. It is taken in the form of a pink pill by those about to sail, and lasts eight hours, when another can be taken if needed. Research also discovered that if you are seasick or very sick, lie down; don't read. As soon as you are better get into the fresh air and try to keep something on your stomach, in addition to your bed. Good hot food is recommended.

For Benefit Of Geebbels

As To Who Was "Bold Down" At The Munich Meeting Revealed

There seems to be doubt in the German mind about the quality and direction of the "boldness" displayed in the recent Moscow conference and four-power agreement among Russia, Britain, China and the United States. The doubt is apparent in Nazi propaganda.

For example, Berlin broadcasts beamed at Britain and the United States asserted that the Moscow agreement constituted an Anglo-American sell-out to Stalin. And Berlin broadcasts beamed at Russia called it a sell-out on the part of Stalin and Molotov to Britain and the United States.

The question of who sold out to whom seems to be bothering Joe Goebbels and his boys. For their benefit it might be suggested that the only selling incidental to the Moscow agreement was set "out-bold "down" and had to do with Hitler and Company and any river they care to name.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

HAVE BEANS FROZEN

Soybeans produced in Manitoba and Alberta under somewhat drier conditions appear to have a tendency for slightly higher protein and lower oil content than soybeans produced in other provinces where the moisture supply is normally more abundant.

Herd On Fishermen

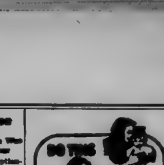
British Columbia's Embargo Ban Was Unfortunate Failure This Year

Last year, there was an exceptionally large run of Sockeye in the Fraser River, due to unusually favorable spawning conditions four years earlier. That run gave rise to the oft-repeated ideas in the minds of the public as to the earnings of fishermen and the profits of the canneries. This year, there is a different story. And in order that the public may see the picture in true perspective, they should be made aware of the facts.

As at October 2 the Sockeye caught in the Fraser this year amounted to 72,000 cases. This is about one-third of the total at the same date last year when the pack was 434,701 cases. The average pack from 1936 to 1942 inclusive was 301,000 cases. This year's pack therefore is only about one-third of the five-year average.

These cold facts mean many heartbreaks to fishermen and their families. They represent homes in which there will be actual shortage of the good things of life without a possibility to nearly all other classes of workers. They also represent serious losses to many canneries who have now raised their money in providing the fishermen with necessary equipment, and in providing the organization with the means of processing the fish caught. A bad season requires about the same number of boats, the same amount of fishing gear and the same advance preparations as a good year.

In fairness to one of British Columbia's leading industries, the public should better understand that fishing is not a gamble, it is a business gamble, but a gamble for all that.—Vancouver Province.



The Final Goal

Allies Will Not Stop Until They Have Reached Berlin

Where are we going? To Berlin. It is not for us to know by which route we shall travel. We may go through Italy or via the Balkans. We may land in southern France, in Norway, in Denmark, on the coastline which confronts our own shores.

We may do all these things. But these are only stepping stones to the final goal. It is in Berlin itself that we intend to smash the German war machine and purge the German race. Three years ago we stood alone, stripped by Goliath of all but the sling and the smooth, round stone. But we were enabled to endure.

We were inspired to feats deemed impossible. The sling and the stone were enough again enough. Now we attack, and the beast—apparently very strong, formidable and ferocious, yet possibly nearer the point of cracking than we think—is caged. —London Sunday Express.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

THERE ARE RICH FISHERIES

"They shall inherit the earth."

"Yes, we believe this, but first comes the primary need of keeping the heirlets alive to possess their own," says Otis Kolf in a powerful article given prominence in the November issue of Survey Graphic magazine.

"What have we done to the children of the world." Mr. Kolf asks. "What is it to become? Some of the thing has occurred that is beyond man's ability to grasp."

For about two years there has been a steadily growing movement to protect the lives of children, their health and their spiritual development, the author mentions, reviewing in particular the seeming awakening of the nations, in the breathing space between the wars, to the rights and needs of children everywhere. Then came the undoing. Bombs, gunfire, famine and slavery have broken the bodies of hundreds of thousands of children and youth lies crumpled with the noble resolutions of yesterday.

In their thankfulness that bombs and famine have not yet touched their children, Canadians are prone to overlook that there are other dangers that may yet child life.

It is estimated that since the present war began, 86,000 infants have died in Canada—thousands that need not have died. Canada has been prevented if their parents had protected them by simple, available methods.

"Throughout Canada last year there were nearly 8,000 cases of diphtheria and more than 18,000 cases of whooping cough," according to Dr. H. Couture, director of the Division of Child and Maternal Hygiene, Federal Department of Pensions and National Health.

"These two preventable diseases caused over 900 deaths. One marvels that parents are so slow and negligent in having their children safeguarded when the means are so harmless and so readily available."

The infant mortality rate for British Columbia in 1942 was 35 per 1,000 live births. The rate for Canada was 56. "If the national rate was 26 per 1,000 births, it would mean a saving of about 5,000 babies in one year," Dr. Couture points out.

Parents everywhere are urged to protect their children against whooping cough, smallpox, diphtheria and scarlet fever. It is said that "a nation marches forward on the feet of its little children." Surely, children are our most precious asset. Let us make sure that more of them will live to inherit Canada.

British Empire Way Of Life Is World Example

LONDON. — Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, prime minister of South Africa, in a speech here proclaimed "world unity, victory complete" for the Allies and recommended for "the dark days thereafter" the British Empire way of life as an example of how the world could live in peace.

The Empire's elder statesman made no guess on when the war will end when he spoke to the Royal Empire Society, his second speech since arriving in Britain Oct. 5. In his first address, at the London Guildhall Oct. 19, he predicted a grand assault on Europe in 1944.

Smuts disclosed he came to Britain at the special invitation of Prime Minister Churchill to take a hand in war work and post-war problems and said he is devoting all his time to the [illegible].

Smuts told his audience that: "I have no doubt of the end whenever it may come. I have no doubt that with our gun and unfaltering determination to spend ourselves to the uttermost and put our uttermost efforts into the struggle we shall win a colossal victory, victory complete.

After the war, he said, there will be "disrupting insanity, the world will be "disrupting insanity, the world milling around in suffering and destruction such as never was known before." It will be a "struggle for life, along with the Commonwealth's good feeling, comradeship and common outlook can be "a light to the other three-quarters of the world.

INDUSTRY SURVEY

To Ensure No Let-Up In Post-War Employment

LONDON. — Immediate steps to survey Canada's industry with a view to peacetime conversion were advocated by J. Gray Turgeon, Liberal member of the House of Commons for B.C., and chairman of the House of Commons committee on reconstruction and rehabilitation.

Mr. Turgeon told the Canadian club here that he was speaking for himself rather than for the committee when he said the whole future of capitalism and initiative in business affairs was at stake in the next few years. He said it was the nation's responsibility to ensure no let-up in post war employment.

Plan Finishing Campaign For War In Europe

LONDON.—Decisions of immense importance are believed to have been made recently by Allied leaders on the final plan for invasion of northwest Europe and preparations have undoubtedly been pushed forward for a gigantic assault that will dwarf every Allied military effort so far.

The day and hour of the grand offensive against Germany will probably be decided soon along with Germany's immediate future in defeat.

The allocation and organization of forces selected for the assault goes forward. The forces are assembling and training in Britain and elsewhere. Hundreds of families have been evacuated from southern England and in that part of the country invasion armies are hard at work.

Lt.-Gen. Jacob L. Devers, United States army commander in the European theatre, referred in a speech to a "master plan that will set into motion things huge, New, 37, 1939, were broadcast from London in a Czecho-Slovak transmission.

The list was headed by Baron Konstantin Neurath, "first protector" of Bohemia-Moravia, and included Deputy Fuehrer Martin Bormann, Frank and a number of Gestapo officials.

WAR CRIMINALS

To South Pacific

Lieut.-General Sir Herbert Lumsden, above, was named by Prime Minister Winston Churchill as his special representative to General Douglas MacArthur in the southwest Pacific.

awaited conferences of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin may be held shortly, perhaps before the end of the year.

The big three would put the finishing touches to the offensive plans for 1944 and their military staffs would link the detailed plans together. Close military planning is imperative to ensure that the Russian, British and American armies operate in concert in the attack that might well be the finishing campaign of the war in Europe.

Says Canada Can Support A Huge Population

NEW YORK.—Dr. Griffith Taylor head of the department of geography at the University of Toronto, said that industrial expansion based on fuel and metal resources, will account for settlement and development of the remaining sparsely populated areas of the world.

Addressing the Herald Tribune forums on current problems, he said the r a t e pioneer lands in this century "no longer outstanding, largely due to the drop in the birth rate in most civilized countries, Australia and Canada, he said, appear to offer the best opportunities for future settlement because of the large area of natural resources of their undeveloped areas.

Highway travel extension and development will provide useful employment for many thousands in the readjustment period following the war, Hon. A. T. Procter, minister of highways and transportation for Saskatchewan, president of the Canadian Good Roads Association, declared in his report to the annual meeting of the association here.

"Many plans are now being worked out so that our highways departments may be ready to go into immediate action if, as, and when it may be deemed advisable to do so during the reconstruction period." Hon. Mr. Procter said

"A survey of the road building programs being developed by our provincial governments shows them to be the most comprehensive ever planned in the history of Canadian road building.

"During the past three years road building in Canada has been more or less at a standstill and the deteriorating effects of inadequate maintenance are to be found in many sections of our country.

STORIES CENSORED

Churchill Disapproves Of Some Articles In The "8th Army News"

LONDON.—The Daily Mail in an Algiers despatch reported Prime Minister Churchill has ordered censorship of articles in the "8th Army News" in Italy as a result of its publication of stories of ill feeling between Czechs of Fields for what it called "letting down" the army by not developing the Czech resistance movement.

"The prime minister felt it unfair that these Fields should have been singled out for attack in a newspaper published for the troops," the Daily Mail despatch said, adding that other articles "dealing with Italy also met with his disapproval."

APPEAL FOR VOLUNTEERS FOR RED CROSS WORK

There can never be too much pre cured in Red Cross workrooms across the Dominion There COULD be too little. Appealing to Canadian women to stick with the job and see it through, Mrs. Gladys E. Campbell, Chairman of the National Women's War Work Committee said in a re cent Interview:

"There must be no slackening of effort now. Our troops are going for ward. They must be kept supplied with Red Cross comforts and hospital needs. We need women to knit and sew as we have never needed them before.

"If workrooms could be kept open in the evenings with a new 'shift' of workers it would help," said Mrs. Campbell.

"I have come to the place where volunteers must put preference be hind them and work at what happens to be the pressing need of the moment," no matter how mundane the task.

"We have come to a revival phase in Red Cross service. Let us stay with it, even as our men in the armed forces are staying with their job," said Mrs Campbell.

Check Car Brakes, Avoid Crashes

Careful check of car brakes and other car equipment at this season of the year is urged by the Alberta Mo tor Association. This will mean the elimination of many possible acci dents

Before winter comes, drivers should see that their car brakes are in proper condition It was recalled that a re cent car testing campaign in one Al berta centre showed that 50 per cent of the car brake were in poor con dition. Many were in a condition that was positively dangerous.

"Drivers seldom realize that a speed of 35 miles per hour means that they are rolling over the street or high way at about 50 feet per second. That means it takes well over 100 feet to stop a car at that speed, even with good brakes on a dry pavement as a rule," said an official of the A.M.A.

Loose play in checking up the car equipment, seeing that brakes, light ing, gear and other devices are in efficient condition for the winter period

WEDDING BELLS

OLDENBURG—COLEMAN

The marriage of Edna Charlotte, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Coleman of Paradise Valley, Alberta, to Corporal Clifford Maxwell Olden burg, second son of Mrs. R. Olden burg, and the late Mr. R. Oldenburg, ex Falstad, Alberta, took place in the Lloydminster Presbyterian manse on Wednesday, November 10th. The Rev. A. Walker officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a two-piece dress of pale blue crepe, with navy hat, and navy accessories. She carried a bou quet of pink and yellow chrysanthe mums.

Mrs. C. W. Blenkley attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore an afternoon dress of heirloom rose with contrasting hat and accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink chrys anthemums.

Mr. Roy Oldenburg attended his brother as the best man.

Miss V. Walker played "O Perfect Love" while the register was signed.

A reception was held following the ceremony. Mrs. E. J. Coleman re ceived in a navy sheer dress, with pink accessories, and a navy Lil. She wore a corsage of white carna tions.

Mrs. R. Oldenburg, mother of the groom, wore a cinnamon brown crepe dress, with contrasting hat and acces sories. She wore a corsage of white roses.

Among those present were Mr. R. Oldenburg, Mr. R. Oldenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Oldenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Blenkley, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Coleman, Mr. R. Coleman, Miss B. Free, all of Lloydminster; Mrs. C. Kohaut of Vawell and Mr. E. Drew of Landon ville.

Pink and white carnations decorated the bride's table which was centred with the wedding cake.

After a short honeymoon in Edmon ton and Calgary, the happy couple will make their home in Lodgy.

The community joins in wishing this popular young couple a long and happily married life.

ALBERTA BOARD OF TRADE AND AGRICULTURE MEETING

At Red Deer, December 3rd

Post-War Rehabilitation, the subject set as address to be delivered by E. J. Mr. Guss has recently come from St. John, N.B. to take over the Calgary office. While here he was a guest at the board of trade luncheon meeting and stated afterward to Mr. Pilkie that he had never met a more aggres sive body, or seen such co-operation among business men of a community as was demonstrated by the Vermilion board of trade meeting.

It seems quite fitting that Mr. Guss' home should be located but a short distance from the spot where Greer Garson, the great Canadian actress was born.

Commercial Work Extended In Vermilion High School

Fifth Teacher Is Added

This week saw the extension of the commercial work in the Vermilion high school and the addition of a fifth teacher, Mrs. Lucille Maltais, to the staff to handle this work.

The commercial work will now consist of typing, book-keeping and short hand. There are at present four classes of typing, one of shorthand, and two of book-keeping. The organi sation of the courses took place on Mon day. The school already has fifteen up - to - date typewriters. Twelve students started the Pitman short hand course which is being taught here for the first time.

The new commercial teacher, Mrs. Maltais (nee Lucille Irwin) is her self a graduate of the V.H.S., coming here from the Dewberry district. She subsequently taught school in the division and recently took her com mercial work at Alberta College, Ed monton.

The cost of the additional courses is being met proportionately by the Vermilion Centre S.D. and the Ver milion and Vegreville school divisions.

The Vermilion high school now has the largest enrollment, 142 students, of any between Edmonton and North Battleford.

D. U. McFadyen of Islay and C. H. Marfleet have volunteered for the Ca nadian active service forces.

FRANK BUCK DIES IN EDMONTON ON MONDAY

Former Vermilion Resident

Frank J. Buck, 19664 126 street, Ed monton, supervisor of blocks common for the Alberta department of health and public welfare, died in hospital early Monday morning. He was 56 years of age.

In his usual health Saturday, Mr. Buck was at his office in the Adminis tration Building, and had planned a trip into the country for Monday. He suffered a severe heart attack at mid night Sunday, and was rushed to hos pital.

Well known in northern Alberta, where seven Metis colonies are lo cated, Mr. Buck was a frequent visi tor there in connection with his ad ministrative duties.

He was born in London, England, and came to Western Canada as a young man. Enlisting in the 194th Battalion after the outbreak of the Great War, he went overseas with the rank of lieutenant. In France he be came a machine gun officer, and held that position at the end of the war. He was wounded while overseas.

After being demobilized in st, Buck took up residence with the U. I. C. Company as their representative in this district and remained with that company until he resigned to accept position with the Department of Na tional Health and Welfare, and was connection with the Public Relief branch in 1932.

Later, they went to Colonne after the Armistice and was one of the officers stationed at the bridge lead ing to that city and over which troops marched to take possession of the city. He told friends that the thrill of seeing Canadian regiments headed by their pipe bands coming up and marching across the bridge was an incident of the war that never could be forgotten.

It is not generally known that dur ing one of the engagements of the war that he performed an act of bravery which had it been reported at the time would have won for him a medal. He distinguished service. During the battle there was a nest of German machine gunners that was giving them a lot of trouble. Lieut Buck finally decided that he was going to do something about it. He worked his way into the vicinity, located the place, disposed of the men, and then brought the men, three in number back as prisoners. He said he felt no fear but that after he got back he trembled for some minutes and nearly collapsed

He leaves to mourn his loss his wid ow, his only son, Robert Buck, his sister Mrs. A. A. McKenzie of Ed monton; three brothers, H. R. Buck and W. H. Buck of Kitscoty, J. C. Davis of Lloydminster. Funeral ser vices were held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at Foster & McInerney's chapel. Rev. Murdock McKinnon offici ated and interment took place in the soldiers' Plot in the Edmonton ceme tery.

DEPENDENTS' LIVING BONUS IS INCREASED

OTTAWA —Cost of living bonuses for servicemen's dependents will be in creased, effective in December, to keep them in line with similar bonus es in industry which were boosted as Nov. 15th, defence headquarters said

The cost of living bonus for depend ents now will be $11.2 a month for wives with children and $2.20 a month for wives without children. The previous amounts were $2.00 and $1.50

"As dependents allowance and as signed pay is payable only in arrears the increased cost of living bonus will not be received until the end of De cember," said the department.

Everyone interested is invited to attend the annual meeting of the Ver million Agricultural Society which will be held Friday afternoon Dec. 3rd in the Memorial hall at 2:30.

A number of members of the Cana dian Forestry Corps have returned from Overseas to be employed in the Canadian woods.

JEAN ROBSON WINS GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S MEDAL

Obtains Highest Standing in Grade IX Examinations

Miss Jean Robson, fifteen year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. R. Rob son, has been awarded the Governor General's medal for obtaining the high est standing of any student in the Ver million school division, in the Grade IX examinations of last June.

Jean is an outstanding student and is now taking her grade X. She has been attending Vermilion schools since 1939 and this year is secretary of the Student Union. As well as being a scholar she excels in softball and basketball.

DEATH OF MRS. HIRAM EASTON AT SASKATOON

Friends here were shocked last week to learn of the death of Mrs. Hiram Easton in Saskatoon. It followed a short illness. Mrs. Easton during the summer and fall and death was caused by heart failure. Funeral services were held last Friday. She leaves her sorrowing husband and a family of eight children to mourn her loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Easton and family came to Vermilion in 1925, leaving here in the summer of 1942 to make their home in Saskatoon.

SALVAGE TIRES NOT WANTED AFTER THE END OF 1943

Ashley Cooper, secretary of the sal vage committee of the board of trade has been advised from the Salvage department of national war services committee that after the end of 1943 tubes are sufficient to meet all re quirements. Consequently salvage tires are advised to discontinue col lecting rubber unless they have a pri vate agreement for the sale of same. Until the middle of January is given to dispose of all unpaid-for tires.

Therefore the Vermilion Salvage Corps will no longer collect used tires and tubes after the end of the year. Anyone having salvage tires should bring them in immediately.

Power Plant Buildings, Equipment Repaired and Improved

Anyone who hasn't been inside of the Vermilion E.L. & P. plant building recently is due for a big surprise when they do pay a visit to this centre of Vermilion's activities. In the first place of that building has been undergoing some marked changes in the past two or three months. Walking through the door of the boiler room one meets a dark and gloomy place, the first improvement is being noted, and this is the cement floor that has been well laid and then painted, presenting a bright and shiny surface. The big new boilers too, have been painted a jet black and add a neat and business-like appearance when before anything would do

The instrument panel, whereby the engineers check on just what is going on has been moved to the other side of the room, a much more convenient spot that saves many steps. Another ar rangement which attracts the eye and prompts questions, is the stand by oil burning equipment. This has been the subject of much talk in the town since the new oil burner has been in use and residents will be pleased to know that it is all installed, ready for in stalling of the new oil burner and all which is to be delivered some time this week by the Prince Public Service, new gas company. The oil storage tanks and the pipes running to the boilers are underground with only the fuel pump and a valve or two visible, making a very tidy set-up

People in the west end particularly were glad when Superintendent Jack Wiebe changed the blow-off system removing a source of annoyance that had persisted for some time. Previously, during periods when it was necessary to blow off steam, it always takes place in the early hours of the morning, when most people are in bed. This is the case.

The automatic stoker installed several years ago has been found to be a very satisfactory machine and that if all coal used in future it would be well left with the stoker.

In fact to the numerous letters of complaint received during the past week regarding the removal of grass meadow on the quarter in this area to allow for the installation of immediate ship ment of coal to Vermilion, the manager of the Great Lakes Power Corporation, Mr. Hall, is reported to have written in the opinion that he does not think the engineering and other obstacles in the plan could be overcome unless better road were provided. Apparently the Corporation is not interested in transportation of coal by horse team.

Mr. Cushman on Jan. 1 will leave Edmonton was present and was intro duced by Mr. Nestor, while Mr. Fred Hall, manager of the Vermilion Power Corporation was also welcomed. There were 25 members in all in attendance and the president, Ashley Cooper was in the chair.

Mr. R. E. Patterson of Toronto will be the guest speaker at the Board of Trade meeting on Wednesday noon next week, and will deal with "Post War Aviation." A good attendance is re quested.

Two Three-Day Holiday Periods During Xmas Season

AVIATOR GUEST SPEAKER AT BOARD OF TRADE ON WEDNESDAY NEXT

Will Speak on 'Post-War Aviation'

C. H. Patterson of Toronto presi dent of the Aeronautical Institute of Canada, will be the guest speaker at the Vermilion board of trade luncheon meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 8th at 12:15 noon. The meeting will be held as usual in George's Lunch Room.

Mr. Patterson is at present on a speaking tour of the West and is ad dressing meetings in the interests of post-war aviation at the larger centres Mr. Patterson is himself a licensed transport pilot having flown approxi mately 3200 hours. He has personally assisted in the training of 127 instruc tors for the R.C.A.F and his school and factory have trained scores of others now serving in the R.C.A.F.

One of the most important prob lems confronting Boards of Trade Ser vice Clubs, and Civic organizations in the re-employment of Canadians now serving in our armed forces and the vast number of employees in aircraft and munitions factories, in civilian occupations after the war has been won. The members of the R.C.A.F. offer a spec al problem inasmuch as these men are receiving the equivalent of a university education in Avia tion, under a cost to our government of in the neighborhood of $25,000 per airman and in the neighborhood of $15, 000 per ground crew man.

Th Hon. C. G. Power, in an address to Save the House of Commons, made the clear that a vast majority of these men are young men under the age of 26 and practically all of them who have so far returned from overseas service have indicated that they do not wish to remain on ground jobs. The Aeronautical Institute was formed to help these same young men and women to secure post-war employment in industry in Canada and, at the present time the Institute is there are of ad vice on industrial matters and assistance in the widespread develop ment of airports and landing fields and the immediate setting up of a system of courses for the education of instructors

The address will prove an interest ing one and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Board of Trade Notes

Considerable discussion was heard at the Board of Trade meeting last week largely about the [illegible] school buildings at [illegible] Vermilion. The matter was [illegible] being before the Board of Trade [illegible] last August and action will be pressed for disposal of the property at convention in Red Deer on December. Under consideration by the Board at the meeting was the question of additional accommoda tion for school children from the [illegible] Vermilion area. The [illegible] school district now has a school [illegible] and that if [illegible] were [illegible] would be well left with the district.

In reply to the numerous letters of complaint received during the past week regarding the removal of grass meadow on the quarter in this area to allow for the installation of immediate ship ment of coal to Vermilion, the manager of the Great Lakes Power Corporation, Mr. Hall, is reported to have written in the opinion that he does not think the engineering and other obstacles in the plan could be overcome unless better road were provided. Fighting Canada's Battles In Northern Manitoba And Saskatchewan Bushlands

(By J. P. De Wet, Secretary, Manitoba Chamber of Mines)

An interesting story of the great Flin Flon Mine.

To understand the difficulties of processing the ore to recover the seven metals contained therein, one should first have a knowledge of the composition of the Flin Flon ore. The metals, in general, are not contained in pure form, but appear as compounds intimately mixed and finely divided in the same rock. The copper occurs as a combination of copper, iron and sulphur, a sulphide known to the miner as chalcopyrite. The zinc also occurs as a sulphide with the name sphalerite. Another mineral in the ore is the sulphide pyrite, a combination of iron and sulphur. The other metals in the ore such as gold, silver, cadmium, selenium and tellurium are in much smaller quantities as compounds, although some of the gold occurs in a pure state but in extremely fine particles in close combination with other minerals. The cadmium is most intimately associated with the zinc sulphide, while the selenium and tellurium in combination with gold and silver associate mostly with the copper sulphide.

6,000 Tons Of Ore Handled Every Day

Although the mine and metallurgical plants were originally designed to handle and treat 3,000 tons of ore per day, the tonnage increased. It can be maintained only if sufficient labor is available.

After the ore is hoisted to the surface it is ground to a fine powder. To get an idea of how fine the Flin Flon ore is ground, take a piece of woven silk one square inch in size, and with the finest needle you can procure poke 225 separate and distinct holes in it. The greater portion of the Flin Flon ore is ground fine enough to pass through those tiny holes. Water is added during grinding.

Frothy Bubbles Float Minerals

The next step is selective flotation. In this process a froth like soap bubbles is created by adding oils to the water carrying the finely ground ore and mechanically agitating it while air is being blown in. By the use of different chemicals added to this mixture, the copper sulphide mineral particles will attach themselves to the bubbles to be floated off as a copper concentrate and by changing the chemicals added, the zinc sulphide particles can be floated off as a zinc concentrate. This ability to select by a change of chemicals the minerals to be floated explains the phrase selective flotation. It not mined and treated has been raised to the present figure of 6,000 tons in direct response to requests from the Canadian Government that maximum production be achieved in order to help the country's war effort. It may be pointed out, in passing, that this remarkable feat has been accomplished in spite of many difficulties and regardless of the fact that the Company's tax burden is tremendously only segregates the minerals from one another for further treatment but also results in large part of the material of no commercial value from the ore, known as gangue.

This is Hitchiver School at Flin Flon. Very modern.

How Copper Is Refined

The copper concentrates go to smelters which burn off most of the excess sulphur, and next to the reverberatory furnaces where they are melted; the lighter waste material called "slag" is skimmed off. The remaining portion called "matte" containing the copper is then processed through converters where air is blown through the mass and the remaining sulphur and iron removed. The material left in the converters is blister copper which is cast into bars and sent to a refinery in Montreal. The refinery separates the contained copper, gold, silver, selenium and tellurium, the final products being pure metals now ready to take their place in the Allied Nations munitions factories.

Method Of Refining Zinc

The zinc concentrates go first to roasters where the excess sulphur is burned off and the zinc changed to a zinc oxide. This product is next passed into tanks where the zinc is dissolved by acid treatment. The solution is purified in the purification section of the plant, and then from the purified solution the zinc is plated on to pure cathode sheet by passing an electric current through the solution. The zinc next is stripped from the cathodes by a simple method in a furnace, and cast into slabs to be shipped to the war factories. This zinc is marketed in the form of metal being 99.99% purity. This purity is essential when the zinc is to be alloyed with other metals for example the purpose of making die castings of aeroplane parts and other war equipment, which require little or no machining. The purity thus saved many hours of effort.

There Is No Wartime Profiteering In Metals

The prices received for strategic metals used for war purposes, and for certain civilian uses during war, are fixed by the Canadian Government. Consequently there can be no profiteering on the part of those who produce them. Compared with last year when the price of copper was as high as 25 cents per pound, the present agreed upon price is less than one-third, so that the mining companies can say with justice that they have contributed their share to the war effort.

During 1943 Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co., Limited, employed an average of 2,500 persons. This gives the reader an idea of the size of the operation.

Well Paid Men—Steady Work

The worker at Flin Flon has one of the best paid occupations in the land. He works an eight-hour day and a forty-eight hour week. For every hour over the 48 that he works, the rate is time and a half. Efficiency as well rewarded at Flin Flon, for the management is anxious to train and keep competent workers on the payroll. By absorbing some men, facility may start as an apprentice and, as explained later, is paid from the date of commencement. In the spring-like days of late June lies a job for the rest of his life with the chance of becoming a shift boss, or attaining to even higher positions, and retiring when he reaches later life on an annuity derived from equal contributions deposited by himself and the Company with the Annuities Branch of the Dominion Government, where interest rates on the accumulating fund are figured at 4%, compounded annually.

Annuities And Retirement Plans

The Company instituted the annuity plan in 1940 as part of a "Welfare Plan" to provide against the following contingencies: insecurity in old age, death, and loss of pay through non-occupational sickness and accidents. The first contingency is covered by the old age retirement annuity plan, to which the Company contributes one half of the premium, the second by a group life insurance plan, the cost of which the Company pays in full; and the third by group sick, illness and non occupational accident insurance, to which Company and employee pay an equal amount. Accidents that occur while at work are covered by the Workmen's Compensation Boards of Manitoba and [illegible]

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

On direct orders from Prime Minister Churchill, Britain's street lighting systems, run down from lack of use because of the blackout, are being overhauled in preparation for the first night of victory.

It is stated that 10,000 Norwegians have escaped to Britain since their country was occupied by the Germans. Seventy-five per cent. of the Norwegian air force consists of escapes.

Heat was not turned on at Buckingham Palace until Nov. 1, ten days after the date set for the rest of Great Britain.

Moscow has opened a new subway, a four-mile line running under the Moscow river and linking the centre of the city with the eastern industrial section.

In the 12 months to Aug. 31, nearly 8,000 men and 1,600 women were prosecuted in Britain for being absent or being persistently late for work without reasonable excuse.

During the present war, 13,880 churches and other ecclesiastical buildings in Britain have been destroyed or damaged.

Germany now has nearly 2,000 day and night fighter planes manned to protect her centres of production, R.A.F. Squadron Leader John Strachey said in a BBC war commentary.

The British Ministry of Supply has gone into the ragsticking business. Helpers have collected and recondi tioned more than 1,000,000 men's garments from the army, air force and women's services.

Oliver Stapleton, British Minister of Production, said that Britain is studying equipment and transport needed "to bring the maximum impact to bear on the Japanese."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 5

THE SIN OF COVETOUSNESS

Golden text: Thou shalt not covet . . . anything that is thy neighbor's. Exodus 20:17.

Lesson: Exodus 20:17; Luke 12: 13-34.

Devotional Reading: Luke 18:18-27.

Explanations and Comments

The Commandment Against Coveting. Exodus 20:17. There is sin in the desire of something that belongs to another. The Tenth Commandment differs from all the others in that it has to do with a man's relation to himself, his inmost thoughts. Rather than being a law against acts, it directs man to control impulses which may lead to acts. It legislates for the control of thoughts and desires. Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life, Proverbs 4:23.

The commandment specifies objects which in those early days a man might covet—his neighbor's house, wife, man-servant, maid-servant, ox, ass, anything that was his neighbor's. "To wish for a house in which to live, to desire a wife to grace it, or the agents necessary to manage it, or materialize visions in addition: these are helpful spurs to all heights of industry, harmful to none—not even the possessor. Desire passes into evil when it becomes envious of what others hold; when it would—were the power possessed—grind itself to pieces in gratification of another's cost." (Allan Poole).

Sinner Warning Against Covetousness. Luke 12:13-15. "Teacher, bid my brother divide the inheritance with me." A man in the crowd who followed Jesus one day cried out, interrupting Jesus' talk. "Man," sternly Jesus asked, "who made me a judge or a divider over you?" thus refusing to take upon himself the duties of a judge in the civil courts. The man's interruption showed that he was too much concerned with possessions, and Jesus made use of the incident to warn his hearers against covetousness. "Covetousness" comes from a Greek word which means "grasping at more". It has been defined as the fatal temper of never being content with what one has, but always seeking a little more, according to the saying that "Enough is just a little more than what one has." "Take heed, and keep yourselves from all covetousness," said Jesus; "for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." Thy true life, the spiritual life, does not depend upon riches.

ALL ON SAME BASIS

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth was unable to make a purchase recently because she had forgotten to take along her ration book. Many a woman of lesser degree does know exactly how she felt. Incidentally it proves that this war has placed Royalty on the same basis as the humblest citizen. We doubt if such a democratic spirit can be displayed in any other country but British.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

WHOOPING COUGH—KILLER

In the past 10 years whooping cough has killed 6,853 persons—mostly children—in Canada. A total of almost 175,000 persons are known to have suffered the disease in that period. Of these many will have recovered with impaired health.

These are the tragic facts which prompt the present campaign for immunization of children against the disease, which is much more serious than most parents appreciate. In recent years the incidence and the virulence of whooping cough have increased. It has become one of the menacing enemies of childhood.

Not only whooping cough, but diphtheria, scarlet fever and small-pox are diseases which take a pitiful toll of Canadian child life every year, although easily preventable.

One health authority has gone so far as to suggest that when a child dies of one of these unnecessary, preventable diseases, the parents or guardians who failed to protect it by immunization should be charged with neglect.

There is no excuse for these diseases. Physicians have access to free supplies of sera and vaccines. In the majority of Canadian communities there are public health officers who conduct free clinics. Parents should avail themselves of the simple means to protect their children.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—"WATER"

By FRANK BENNETT

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

THE motor quit with terrifying abruptness, and the only sound left was the whistling of the wind through the struts of the plane. But Peggy was too good a pilot to lose her head. She tightened her safety belt and looked below. The vast sweep of shimmering desert was rushing toward her with surprising swiftness. She banked the plane and hoped she'd get over the ridge of white rocks.

The wind was soft. The plane soared. The Lat lifted, then settled back with a splintering crash. For a moment everything went black. Then she opened her eyes. Blue eyes flinged with terror, for smoke was curling up from the nose of the plane. As she fought to get out of her belt a shaft of fire shot upward. Then strong arms were about her, dragging her from the blazing wreck.

Peggy looked at the man towering above her. His face was lean and brown and covered with several days' growth of beard. His eyes frightened her a little. They were gray, deep-set and red-rimmed.

"Thanks," she said weakly, and sank on the hot sand.

He bent beside her and holding a flask to her lips. It was water—plain, warm. She took a mouthful and spat it out. The man's eyes blazed.

"You idiot!" he said. "All the water between life and death for us—and you waste it!"

Peggy was suddenly angry. No one had ever spoken to her like this. "Do you know who I am?" she demanded.

"It doesn't matter—out here," he said flatly.

"I'm Peggy Lane Henderson. My father is J. P. ——"

"I know—J. P. Henderson, millionaire miner. You're the girl that squanders his money on planes, clothes and horses. Jim Mercer—he bowed mockingly "two years out of Stanford; jobless prospector, a darned fool for pulling you out of that wreck. My pack horse went over a cliff—and so did all my food and water, except what's in this flask." He pointed to the east. "See that purple ridge of mountains? That's the nearest water. If you feel like walking, we'll be on our way."

Peggy stood up, looking into the haggard face. There was a flash of wildness in the sunken eyes. "How long has it been," she asked, "since you've eaten?"

Jim laughed too loudly. "Eaten? Let me see—for breakfast I had ham and eggs, hot rolls with lots of butter and great glasses of ice water. For lunch——"

"Shut up!" she blazed. "You're losing your mind."

"It's a long way to those mountains, sister," he said quietly. He took off his battered hat and clamped it over her yellow curls. "You'll need this." His head was a mishmash from dried brush and that it on his head with a bandkerchief.

"Come—he slipped his arm through hers — "let's go."

He pulled away. "Thanks, I'm perfectly fit."

He shrugged and struck out toward the east. Peggy followed. The man was weak. It was easy to keep up with him—at first.

She broke the long silence between them with, "I'm thirsty."

"Sorry," he threw back at her. "You've had your share."

The sun burned through the girl's thin dress. Sand worked into her shoes. Brush ripped the silk hose from her slender legs, leaving scratches and red welts. The man stumbled on. She realized that he had been doing this day after day. Her anger changed to admiration.

The sun dipped below the sand. Stars came out, millions of them, bright, blazing, but the heat continued. At last the man stopped, sank to the sand. "We'd better rest," he panted.

He held out the flask and allowed her to swallow twice. Then he took two swallows. When he stretched out to sleep he covered the flask with his body, guarding it from her. Peggy suddenly hated Jim Mercer—hated him for his strength and her own weakness.

It was the next night that they came upon the water hole. Peggy saw it first. A coarse cry broke from her cracked lips, and she stumbled forward. Water! She fell on her hands and knees, crawled over the sharp rocks. As her lips touched the water Jim pulled her away, pointing mutely to a crude sign—"POISON WATER".

"I don't care," she said hoarsely. "I'm going to drink!" The next instant she was bending over the pool. He caught her by the hair and pulled her back.

"You brute!" she sobbed. "You great big——"

She got his revolver then—it was easy, for it hung loosely in the holster at his side. She leveled the gun and began barking toward the pool. "Don't touch me," she panted. "Don't—I'll kill you!" He laughed and stumbled toward her. She meant to shoot him. She hated him. "Stop!" she choked. "Stop!"

His came on, lunging harshly, took the gun away from her. "You little fool," he rasped. "You——"

She saw the blow coming—a long, sweeping, open-handed blow. It caught her on the left cheek and knocked her to her knees. He slapped her again.

Then Peggy sobbed brokenly, all the fight gone from her. She felt Jim's arm about her shoulders, lifting her from the sand. He put the flask to her dry lips and let her drink the last of the water. Then he carried her, staggering on and on, always eastward. Only twice did Peggy open her eyes to the blazing sky above.

They reached the mountains some time the next morning. Here was water, crystal clear! And Jim shot a rabbit, and there was food. And the grass was soft, the shade cool—

When Peggy awoke she saw Jim by the little stream, his head back toward her. She went over to him. He looked at her, level gray eyes searching her face. "I'm sorry," he said. "But when you took my gun, you——"

"I had it coming to me—and, oh, Jim, I loved it!"

He found her hands and crushed them against his rough face. Somewhere above in the cool shade, a bird sang.

New Equipment

Will Be Provided To Aid Man Admit At Sea

Life's promises soon to be much more interesting for fliers down on the ocean in rubber boats. They will have equipment designed to attract aid, to go places and to keep themselves alive.

The new equipment is the job of the emergency rescue equipment section, under the Office of Co-ordinator of Research and Development of the United States Navy. It is a new echelon, set up by the joint chiefs of staff.

One aid is a small mirror. There is a half-inch cross cut in the middle, which is both a viewer and a sighting device, like the crosshairs of a bomb sight.

The boatsman holds the mirror with its back a few inches from one eye and, through the cross, sights a sea gull. He can see a flyer up to 10 miles away on a clear, sunny day.

The purpose is to flash reflected sunlight into the eyes of the distant aviator. The difficulty is not in making a visible flash; the trick is to get the little pocket of reflection directly on the plane. The sighting cross makes this feasible.

EVER TASTED PHILADELPHIA SCRAPPLE?

This delicious pride of Philadelphia makes a grand entree for winter days or nights. It's a meat dish that's easy on war coupons—only one pound of sausage for eight servings.

The meat fried crisply is added to a rich corn meal and bran cereal mixture and packed into loaf form. The scrapple is cut into slices and browned in sausage fat on a hot griddle.

You'll probably try scrapple first as a novelty but you'll soon be adding it because of favorite meal "fats."

ALL-BRAN SCRAPPLE

1 pound fresh pork sausage
2 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon powdered sage
1 cup bran cereal
½ cup cornmeal
½ cup All-Bran

Fry sausage in heavy frying pan, stirring occasionally, pour off and save fat. Bring water to a boil, add salt, pepper, sage and cornmeal. Stir in cornmeal gradually, cook until thickened stirring constantly. Add All-Bran and sausage and cook slightly. Pour into dampened loaf pan and chill until firm. Unmold cut in half inch slices and brown in sausage fat in hot griddle. Serve with syrup or apple butter.

Yield: Eight servings (3½ inch slices).

Note: Loaf may be stored in refrigerator for a week or longer.

One reason why wire is short in the stores is made plain in a news story in the press. Every Lancaster bombing plane carries sixteen miles of it.

DUNKERLEY GIRL IS MARRIED IN EDMONTON

Marriage of Beatrice Allen, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Allen, of Dunkerly, to Mr. Cecil Ball, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ball, of South Edmonton, took place Saturday last in the rectory of St. Joseph's (ukrainian) The Rev. W. A. Reynolds officiated

The bride wore an afternoon dress of dusty blue, with tiny veiled hat to match and shoulder corsage of Talisman roses. Her only piece of jewelry was a gold locket, a gift from the groom.

Matron of honor, Mrs. James Baillie, a sister of the bride, wore a frock of shell pink, complemented by a small powder-blue hat, with shoulder corsage of yellow roses. LAC. Edgar Maynard of Calgary, was best man.

Mrs. Allen, the bride's mother, wore black crepe, with corsage of yellow baby chrysanthemums. Mrs. Ball, the groom's mother, was in burgundy crepe, with corsage of white baby chrysanthemums.

A small reception in the form of a luncheon was served after the ceremony at the home of Mrs. C. Tracey, with 35 guests.

The bride's table, laid in fruit inclusive decorated with pink and white chrysanthemums and centred with a tiered wedding cake

Mrs. Fileen Ball, here from Santa Barbara, Calif., assisted Mrs. and Miss Margaret Wilmot, Mrs. Betty Maltier, Mrs. Edith Seabolt and Mrs. Edna Tracey served.

Mr and Mrs. Ball left later for a short honeymoon trip to Calgary and Banff. On their return they will take up residence at their home in South Edmonton.

WILDMERE WINKS

Threshing has been going ahead and not nearly so many stooks will be left out, even if this slow cold is a halt until spring. Hills finish is now at Geo. Wilson's. George was one of those who did not get threshed last fall.

The writer in company with Mrs. Harold Connolly, was invited to a nice cup of tea with Mrs. George White at her home in town on Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. White are now comfortably settled in the Winters' residence.

The stores in town are again looking like Xmas, and it is surprising how many toys are on sale, also many on display for children. Makes one think that the war has not come very close to us. Outside of missing our friends, we are not wanting for many things.

We were indeed sorry to hear of Mrs. Carvell's accident on the ice lately. We wish her also a speedy recovery. She was always such an active lady in town, we doubly hard to sit now with folded arms.

Sgt. Norman Smith of Edmonton spent the week end at his home here on furlough.

Remember folks, the Friday Dec. 3 is the B.W.R.'s banner, white dried and dance. Plan to attend.

Mrs. Tom Sharp of Vermilion left last week, via Wainwright to join her husband in eastern Canada where he is in training in the Air Force. Mr. Arthur Redman and her father accompanied her to Wainwright.

We would like to end this with a short poem if one kind editor will reprint it

"A Letter From Home"
Please remind the people who know me
Tho I left our country to roam,
That there is nothing money could bring me.
As good as a letter from home
I watch every day for the mail man;
I hope Cupid's a letter today.
If he passes my name without pausing
I'll solemnly walk away
So have them send me a letter
A word from across the foam;
There is nothing a soldier so prays for
As much as a letter from home

RED CROSS PACK SEVEN MILLION FOOD PARCELS

For Prisoners of War

Mr. Norman C. Urquhart, chairman, prisoners of war parcels committee, told delegates to the Dominion-wide meeting of the Central Council, Canadian Red Cross Society, in Toronto, Nov. 24 and 25, that just under 7,000,000 food parcels for prisoners-of-war had been packed at the five Red Cross packing plants (Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, Winnipeg) since the commencement of packing in January 1941 up to October 31, 1942.

Report by Dr. J. T. Phair, chairman, national blood donor committee, showed that 117,665 blood donations had been received at Red Cross clinics from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31, 1942. Contributions during September numbered 52,196, during October 69,115. Dr. Phair stated that the week of Oct. 25 set a Dominion record with a total of 16,297. He reported also that Serum Separation Centres had been opened at the University of Montreal and the University of Alberta in Edmonton, and were now forwarding serum to the Connaught Laboratories. When the University of Montreal centre is completely equipped, he said, they will possess the serum line its final dried form, as is now being done in the Connaught Laboratories, Toronto.

Mrs. H. P. Plumptre, honorary director of the Red Cross Enquiry Bureau, Ottawa, stated that since the beginning of Canada participation in the action in Sicily and Italy, the daily lists of enquiry to the society's overseas office has increased considerably and included many enquiries for wounded and missing men of the Canadian Army. Full details as received in the reply lists, he said, were forwarded by air mail to the next-of-kin with any appropriate advice or information.

Reporting on the release of prisoners from Italian camps, Mrs. Plumptre advised that the names of Canadian prisoners who have been transferred from Italian prisons to German camps are coming in slowly, either by official cables from Geneva or by cards sent by the prisoners themselves to their next-of-kin, but that it is impossible at present to give information as to the number who have escaped to join the Allied Armies or to find refuge in neutral territory. To add to the confusion, names of Canadian prisoners newly captured in the fighting in Italy while others are being taken to Germany where new camps are being opened and extensive transfers of prisoners are taking place. This several re-distribution in progress in Europe entails constant revision of our records and correction of our cards, and consequent correspondence with next-of-kin, Mrs. Plumptre declared.

Mrs. W. R. Campbell, chairman, national women's war work committee, reported that 9,741,376 articles of supplies and comforts had been dispatched during the five nine months of 1943, bringing the total distributed since the beginning of the war to 29,078,498. This year's distribution included 6,566,772 shipped overseas, 1,622,318 to local units in Canada and 501,286 to Newfoundland.

Report on the Canadian Red Cross Corps by Mrs. Burnham Tuffall, the national commandant, showed that there were now 3,289 members of the Corps, representing an increase of 139 since the beginning of the year.

Presenting an interim progress report on the making of jam and honey by Red Cross affiliated with the Women's Institutes and other organizations, Lt.-Col. John A. Cooper stated that, while unusual weather conditions and other difficulties would likely lessen the annual sent to Britain this year, it was expected that the total would reach approximately 2,000,000 lbs.

SUCCESSFUL WAR STAMPS DRIVE BY DRUGGISTS

Double Quota Set

OTTAWA — Druggists of Canada sold $650,413 worth of War Savings Stamps during the month of September. Announcing the result of the drive, the National War Finance Committee reports that the drug store industry set out with an objective of $300,000 and so obtained 217 percent of the quota.

Results by provinces are as follows: Ontario, $219,785.50; Nova Scotia, $27,500; New Brunswick, $26,061; Prince Edward Island, $2,160.50; Manitoba, $45,291; Alberta, $32,088; Saskatchewan, $11,219; British Columbia, $100,821; Quebec, $75,071.

In a letter to the provincial offices of the Pharmaceutical Assoc., the Minister of Finance said:

"Your total sales of $650,413 against an objective of $300,000 have more than justified the confidence that I voiced in my address to your industry on June 17th when I predicted that you would make sales of $500,000 or more.

"I assure you that drives such as you have conducted are a real help to our War Finance program. The dollars that you have obtained are perhaps the most difficult to borrow. Moreover, campaigns such as yours serve an important function in keeping the need for saving before the Canadian people.

Please accept my thanks and congratulations both for yourself and for those who worked with you to make the drive such a success."

Prices Set for Work Clothing

OTTAWA. — Manufacturers' prices for work clothing have been set in varieties of work clothing from dungarees to wind breakers have been brought under control of the Division of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board by new order now effective. Manufacturers must now have approval in writing, from the administration for prices charged for new work clothing.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

Sorry, folks, our news did not get mislaid last week so some of these items may be a little old.

The ladies completed another quilt at Mrs. Cecil Cannon's on Thursday. Another quilt will be put in the frames this week at the home of Mrs. Rapp.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Robinson spent the past week end visiting the latter's sister at Marshall, Sask.

The writer would like to thank Mrs. Perkins for her very kind help during threshing.

Don't forget the Busy Bee meeting on Dec 9th at the home of Mrs. Dodds.

A large crowd attended the dance on Friday. The draw resulted in the following: Smoking the prize; Goose, won by Mr. Walker, whom we were very pleased to have present that evening; Duck, won by C. Isley; Hens, won by Lady Fry. Mr. Kerr-ish kindly donated a pure bred rooster and this was into auction-2. With the proceeds of this auction and the sale of tickets by the children over $70 was realized $17 was taken at the door on the night. Miss Smith, wishes to thank each and everyone for making the affair the success it was. Mr Bert Fry was away on Tom Sherwood took the chair. C. Isebird was floor manager and sale and announcer.

Mr and Mrs. George Shepherd returned home on Thursday but are sorry to report that George's uncle is very ill in Calgary

Thanks are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Sample for their kind donation of $1 to the Holiday Xmas tree fund.

The writer overlooked mentioning that the rooster that was auctioned off was purchased by Lieut. Jim Lunn!

Harry Ketchum had the misfortune to have a cave in with his shoe and suffered a badly cut arm which required medical attention.

Mrs. Perrie is in hospital at time of writing and will undergo an operation this week. A quick recovery is wished her.

Mrs. Isebelly and baby Perkins were visitors on Monday at the home of Mrs F. Jones.

Mrs. Fry and Pearl helped out at the Walker home during the recent threshing there

Roy Monaghan has apparently declared war on skunks having caught six recently

DON'T PILE ON THE COAL

CLIMB INTO WARMER CLOTHES

COAL IS SCARCE!—Wasting fuel by overheating your home is unpatriotic. It has long been recognized that moderate temperatures are better for the health. To ensure comfort, get into warmer clothes rather than pile on more fuel.

Tests show that for every degree over 68° coal consumption is increased 3%. Keeping your home at 68° instead of 70° may save almost a quarter of your fuel.

Ask your local fuel dealer for your free copy of the booklet "33 WAYS TO SAVE ONE TON IN FIVE" today.

WOODVALE

On the 22nd of November almost every threshing outfit started to work again and have been busy all week, the prospects of at least another week's work, if weather conditions stay favorable. Progress is slow, as the days are so short and the sheaves quite damp. Mostly barley and oats are being threshed for feeding purposes and some wheat, but the farmers who have some wheat to sell, are preferring to wait as the grain is damp and will be hard to keep, if not shipped immediately. Greenfeed is being stacked in small heaps, so it looks as if very few people will have to ship their sheaves out of townships this winter. One year of that is enough for anybody.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. H. Brown, to whom a second daughter was born on the 20th of November.

Emily Young, accompanied by Mildred, left for Stettler and Donalda to visit their sisters Georgette, Gladys and Marjorie.

Bernard Portsmith spent a two weeks' furlough at his parent's home in the Hindville district. He looks fit and well and left on the 22nd for London, Ont., his mother went east with him and will visit her daughter Betty in Toronto and her aged parents and other relatives in different parts of Ontario. She will probably not return until February and everyone is wishing her a pleasant trip. Mary Watson is keeping house for Mr. Portsmith and Miss Gillies during Mrs. Portsmith's absence.

Skating is possible on almost any stretch of water, big or small at the present time and the young folks of the district are making the best of this opportunity to enjoy themselves now that the weather is so mild.

The dance at Woodvale school on the 26th was well attended and the Red Cross auxiliary bazaar there that evening sold over $30 worth of articles which was a most gratifying amount for a country sale. Thanks go to the Glee club for putting the dance on and to Charlie Sweeney, who kindly acted as auctioneer after supper.

Audrey Pickles of Kitscoty stayed the week end at the home of her friend Kay van Wageningen.

Hughie Potter miraculously escaped injuries when his heavy truck ran off the highway into the ditch and overturned, but the truck itself and the water tank on it got rather badly damaged.

Mrs. Potter plans to leave for place on Dec. 1st either to live in Edmonton or Vermilion, wherever the family can find the best living accommodations.

The Tofield Farm Forum group has resumed its winter meetings with Mrs. Wolters as secretary. The meeting on Dec. 8th will be held at the home of F. Van Wageningen in Woodvale at 8.30 o'clock. Anyone interested is cordially invited to come and take part in the discussion.

MORRISON

It is a pleasant surprise to see Russel Miller home for a few days.

A very miserable afternoon was spent Wednesday of last week at the W.M.S. meeting held at Mrs. McLellan's. Eight members were present and a very tasty lunch was enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Playne's on Dec. 8th.

Albert Dupuis is noticed driving a swell looking car these days and now Bob Minard has a two-ton truck. It looks as if Morrison is waking up.

Threshing seems to be in full swing again. Seems strange with Xmas only a month off. One never knows what they can do nowadays or which season to expect first.

Mrs. Giles, Betty and Doris motored to Edmonton last week. Other city visitors were Fred Gould and Albert Dupuis.

Miss Lila Bowyer left last week for the warmer climate of the coast. Everyone wishes her a fine time and look forward to seeing her again in the spring.

Mrs H. Van Dendekker expects to leave soon to spend some time with her son in Vancouver.

Mrs. Bert Gould is still ill and best wishes are extended to her for a quick recovery.

Skating is being enjoyed by the young people boroughouts, particularly Doris Giles and Betty Giles. The ice in the fall has never been better.

A GOOD INVESTMENT

In 1942 the Canadian National Railways exp ided $683,000 to guard its vast prop ies from coast to coast against possible sabotage. On the National System's mileage basis, this protection so essential to the lives of thousands of members of the armed forces and millions of dollars worth of war material in transit cost the almost negligible amount of one and one third cents per mile per hour.

Local News of Interest

Mr. J. Wener has purchased a fine residence in the University area of Edmonton and Mrs. Wener and daughter Shirley intend to move in the city shortly where they will make their home. Jake will continue to operate the store here spending an odd week end in the city. He is now offering his residence in Vermilion for sale.

LAC. Leonard Harper now connected to the R.C.A.F. repair depot at Shepard, spent a 48 hour leave in Vermilion during the past week, a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Bergard. Mr. Harper who formerly taught high school here, is looking and feeling fine so the air force life must agree with him.

Stoker Wilfred Etherington, R.C.N. V.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Etherington of the Landonville district, recently spent a 21-day furlough at his home on his return from Eastern Canada. He has now left to carry on his duties on the West coast.

Mrs. J. B. Burke returned on Monday evening from several days spent visiting her mother at the old family home at Port Saskatchewan.

Friends here will be sorry to hear that Charlie Smith who is now in Seattle is not enjoying the best of health and had to spend some time in hospital. He is now out again but is under the doctor's care. However Charlie is very optimistic and says that he is getting along fine and will soon be as well as ever. Seattle is an exceptionally busy spot with traffic very heavy and pedestrians have to step lively or come out second best. Apparently there is plenty of everything in the food line including candy and nuts, with turkeys selling from 65c to 85c a pound. Charlie sends his best regards to all of his old friends and acquaintances here.

The names of Mrs. H. R. Parker and Mrs. C. L. Whitby were unintentionally omitted from the list of those donating jams and jellies to the Red Cross.

To correct a local which appeared in last week's Standard, it was Pte. Jack Dwyer from Camp Borden, Ont., who was home on leave. Jack is a son of Mr. Wm. Dwyer.

Hart Barnes formerly of Islay, has been removing a quantimeres around Vermilion this week after visiting his old home district for a few days. He is now engaged in construction out north of Edmonton.

Mrs. S. K. Dutter and little daughter Peggy are visiting the former's parents, Sgt. and Mrs. Brimbuth in Edmonton for two weeks.

LAC Jack Brimbuth from Penhold, Alberta, spent a few days with his wife and family at Islay.

Mrs. George Hembeck was in Edmonton from Monday to Thursday of last week visiting her daughter Enid.

The Editor received a welcome letter from George W. Whitwell this week. He is still at Lake Forest, Ill., enjoying, but intended to leave there soon for Stuart, Florida. Weather at Lake Forest was stated to be damp and chilly with very little sunshine.

Young Raymond Messier picked up an airman's purse on the street a short time ago, said purse containing a quantity of cash. Raymond boarded the purse into the standard office and returned it. The thankful owner was found and Raymond's honesty earned him a nice reward.

Five carloads of Elks and their ladies made the trip to Vegreville on Thursday evening of last week where they were the guests of Vegreville Lodge B. P. O. E. at a sumptuous banquet, followed later in the evening by a most enjoyable dance. Some 150 Elks and ladies sat down to the supper in the Elks hall. GRAIN FOR RABBITS

Rabbits eat more at night than in the day so that it is a good plan to make the feeding most of the two daily meals with corn, oats or barley in the evening. Rabbits should not be expected to live on greens only. The supplies of grain at all times of the year, and gardens, such as carrot tops, beets and cabbage, should form no small part of the ration.

The Importance Of Research

"SECRET WEAPONS" have attracted attention from time to time as they have figured either as threatened or real obstacles to the progress of the war. When one has been produced by the enemy, we have taken immediate action to discover means of destroying its effectiveness, and in this part of the war, the work of scientists and engineers has been important, but has necessarily received very little publicity. In the same manner, the secret weapons discovered here bring no fame at the present time, to those who have worked to perfect them. In the peacefully planned, however, that scientific research is playing an important part in the winning of the war, and in plans for post-war reconstruction. This war is being fought for the preservation of the four freedoms, as set down by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt in the Atlantic Charter, but we are told that scientists are carrying on a fight for many thousands of freedoms, all of which are connected with the security and well-being of mankind.

New Ways Of Saving Life

War is necessarily associated in our thoughts with death and destruction, but while hostilities are going on, scientists are continually seeking means of preserving life, of finding new uses for old materials, and of creating new and useful substances. We are told that the efforts made at this time to find ways of fighting disease and of saving human life, will result in benefits which will greatly outweigh the terrific losses which the war entails. Because of the widespread nature of the present conflict, and the great numbers of lives which are involved, medical science has been mobilized as never before to combat suffering and disease. Many new and wonderful developments have taken place in this field, which are of great benefit now and will be of lasting value in the realm of medicine. Related to this is the intensive study of nutrition which has been undertaken at this time. The results of this work, done primarily for the protection of the people of Western Canada, have already been found of great value in connection with the new and useful knowledge which will be of no less value when peace is restored.

Many Uses For Farm Products

Much has been written of the many new materials which are now used entirely for fighting equipment, but which will be available to the civilian population when peace returns, as the result of wartime chemical and important mechanical developments. In the search for new materials, farm products are playing an important part and it is said that in the future there will likely to be an unprecedented demand for them in industry. Much research has already been done in this field and uses have been found for the processed form of many farm products. This is a subject of great interest to the people of Western Canada, as the discovery of new uses for agricultural products for industrial purposes could open up many possibilities. Considerable research has been done in this connection and it is frequently stated that this is another instance where wartime research has in the past been responsible for great improvements in living conditions, and it is possible that it may be instrumental in opening up a new era of prosperity in this part of Canada.

New Nazi Decree

Parents To Death Penalty For Young Children

The Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet said it had learned that a new German decree permits the death penalty for children as young as 13. TIME

A law of 1939 stipulated that only persons more than 18 could be executed by court order but the new decree, the newspaper said, declared children are maturing faster.

A TRUE KNIGHT

The question of whether to straighten the sword in the hand of Richard the Lion-Hearted, in the equestrian statue in the Palace Yard of Westminster, hast by a bomb fragment during the blitz, has brought the overwhelmingly supportive that a sword, bent but not broken, is truly symbolic of what Great Britain has become in her darkest days of the war and should be left as it is.

Party From A British Cruiser Copes With Epidemic In Arabia

Recently, a medical party from a British cruiser was put ashore at a town in southeastern Arabia to cope with an epidemic of small-pox. During the party's first day ashore, 2,000 people were vaccinated, and a temporary hospital was built. One of the surgeons had to remove one eye from a injured child in order to save the sight of the other eye. Soon afterwards, a group of blind men appeared and asked to have their sight restored in a similar way. The surgeon told them that Allah alone could cure the blind, and the Arabs departed satisfied.

Hungarian Artist

Designed The 1942 Chemin des Dames For Axis Propaganda

Designer of the 1942 Anti-Tuberculosis Christmas seals is Andre Dugo, who lives in U.S.A. and whose birthplace is in Hungary. The seal will be recognized almost all round the world for the same one is being used in Canada, U.S.A., Britain, Jamaica, British Guiana and British West Indies. A writer in London, Ont., Free Press tells of Elnar Holbein, a humble Danish postmaster, being cited to think of using Christmas seals to help prevent spread of tuberculosis. This was 40 years ago. The writer goes on to say that Elnar Holbein would be happy if he could today know what his little seal has accomplished in those 40 years. In 1900 when records were first started, the death rate per 100,000 of our population was 200; today it is but 31.

Andre Dugo, an internationally known artist, is the designer of this year's seal. Mr. Dugo was born in Szolnok, Hungary, and commenced drawing when he was but two years old. His ambition was to become an artist, but his father opposed art as a profession, and he studied engineering at Technology in Budapest to study architecture, an excellent groundwork he soon found. For nine years, for 8 gave him a background and training in craftsmanship so art school would have provided.

Dugo did not practice architecture but began to paint and had his first showing in Budapest in 1936. Then he spent several years in Paris where he married an American lady, later coming to the United States where he soon became an American citizen. Mr. Dugo's son is an ensign in the United States navy.

The 1943 seal depicts a small girl looking out of a window and seeing Santa driving across the sky. Mr. Dugo, in telling of his design, said, "I wanted to show the spirit of Christmas and to represent at the same time the universal woes of tuberculosis sanatoria. So I decided to paint a happy, healthy child in a world where it is possible to cure children to believe in goodness and the spirit of Christmas, in Santa, in miracles, and in fairies."

NOT MUCH CHANCE

In a report on Utrecht, Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Reich Commissar for the Netherlands is reported to have told the Dutch that if Germany could only trust them and the victims in other occupied countries to fight against Allied invasion they would remove the occupation forces and send them to the Russian front. It was made plain to the drowning man if he will promise to fight his

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By J. G.)

ARE you wondering what to get for your daughter (or best girl) in the Wrens? Well, Wren P. Elliott at H.Q. in Ottawa gives us a hint and it's passed on to you. There are 4,000 of them in the service now, and any one would be thrilled to get a white broadcloth shirt in her own size; with stiff, detachable collars, if you can find them, points turned down. Off duty she is allowed to wear sheer, black stockings—for nylons, worse! A black tie, black leather walking shoe gloves, plain, will be welcomed. If you get lingerie, keep it tailored for easy laundering; black, half length slip; bodyrons and any pyjamas. They like gifts of toiletries, also, being most feminine, even if in the navy. Or an identification bracelet, leather writing kits, pen and pencil sets. That makes just a few suggestions. Hope it helps. Oh, did I forget. If you can get one, a little clock is invaluable in a cabin, if she wants to get up in time for breakfast.

Back up a point for the Auxiliary Services Mobile Canteens, that are boosting diversions in the army. Our boys in the Mediterranean area are getting entertainment between battles. For instance one supervisor brought up an Italian band one night for the payment of one pound of cigarettes, while the boys listened to bits of biscuits and ten cigarettes. Quite a party and as good for the purpose, too.

Here's a story you possibly haven't heard about Major-General Pearkes, V.C., C.B., D.S.O., M.C., commanding the Pacific Command now. He came home from the last war with five wound stripes. One of these, however, came from a basketball game. During it, playing with a team of officers, they had the old shell as home plate, and players used to slap it with their bats. It had been lapped many times before, but this time when Pearkes slapped, killing two officers and wounding General Pearkes.

Sweet Potato Cereal

May Soon Be Seen On Breakfast Table In Addition

By a new process which includes dehydration, the sweet potato, stripped of its moisture, but with its sugar, minerals and vitamins intact, is ready to play a new role in the nation's diet, says the National Geographic Society.

Long a standby in the diets of the South—a frequenter of dinner tables but seldom seen on breakfast menus—the luscious "sweet" may soon come to America's breakfast tables as a crisp and highly nutritious "cereal" carrying its own natural sugar.

Breakfast food is only one of many contributions made by the versatile sweet potato. Its products include candy bars or "caramel chews", ice cream powders, flour for pies and tasty sandwich spreads.

Sweet potatoes are easy to grow and require little soil food. Such yard gardens and scattered areas in the United States produced a 1942 crop of well over 70,000,000 bushels. The creeping vine-like plant thrives as far north as New Jersey and west as far as Southern California, but Georgia is the top producer. 3544

Glycerine Substitute

Scientists Believe They Have Found It In Apple Syrup

Bombs for killing bugs soon be made out of left-over apples, scientists report. Allied scientists have experimented with using the apple bombs for some time and said they believed they have found an excellent, inexpensive substitute in apple syrup. If the experiments prove as successful as scientists hope, it will mean a great saving in destruction of tonnage of apples that fail to reach markets each year. Further experiments revealed that apple syrup also had possibilities in bakery products, cosmetics, and as a syrup base for drugs.

Earning Power On Farm

Most Find Solution For A Prosperous Rural Existence

The agricultural problem is so vital, so tremendous, that the consumers and the industrialists of Canada must appreciate the farmers' true position and intelligently assist through the Governments and in every way to find the permanent solution to a prosperous rural existence. It is true that leading business men realize that the producers of Canada's foodstuffs are paying income taxes in small numbers but of their own choice but for the simple reason that the earning power of farm income on the average farm, even with the free labour of wife and children thrown in, is little more than that which industry and Government pay to a Grade 1 stenographer—Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director, Dominion Experimental Farms Service.

Experts Have Made Study Of Food Problems

OTTAWA.—The international conference on food consumption levels, attended by statistical and food experts from Britain, the United States and Canada, has concluded several weeks of study here, it was announced by H. F. Angus of the external affairs department, the chairman.

The conference report, after further studies by some of its committees, will be submitted to the combined food board at Washington.

The object of the session was to reach an accurate basis for compiling the food consumption levels of different nations having different customs, different types of production and different methods of distribution with a view to assisting in allocation of food supplies for the benefit of the war and post-war periods.

"It is, therefore, hoped that a basis has been prepared for continuing work which will have considerable influence on projects of social security after the war as well as for policy during the war," said a statement from the conference.

The conference, the statement said, replaced the former rough-and-ready method of comparisons between official ration allowances, which had the fault of not taking into account the amount of unrationed food consumed and the amount of rationed foods eaten in public places.

The method chosen was to estimate the whole food supply available to a country. But such estimates presented difficulties in taking into account home-consumed fish and game and food produced in factory and other home gardens which never appears in public statistics.

The total food supply before being used for comparison was translated into its equivalent in calories and vitamins and allowance were made for inefficiency and waste in consumption and distribution.

The statistical work of the food and d e manner in which it was presented v es also taken into account for the ch...ference acted on the view that with a monotonous diet people tend to eat less than enough and if the diet is particularly attractive waste results from excessive consumption by some persons.

GIANT BIRDS

Whooping Cranes Reported In Several Points In Western Canada

WINNIPEG. — Whooping cranes, the flying fortresses of North American bird life, have been reported in several parts of western Canada it is believed there are enough of them to save their species from extinction.

Jack Wilson, of Winnipeg, a bird bander for Ducks Unlimited, and eight of giant birds have been reported on the company's project at Last Mountain lake near Simpson, Sask. Authorities believe there are than 100 of the birds are in existence today.

GRANTED ENTRY

Girl Stowaway In Lancaster Bomber Will Stay In Canada

OTTAWA.—Margaret Drury, 24-year-old Lancashire girl and first seat-to-west Atlantic air stowaway, has been granted entry to Canada for six months to work with the R.A.F. transport command.

The announcement, made by A. L. Jolliffe, commissioner of immigration, said M.m Drury has expressed a wish to accept such employment. Her case will be reviewed again at the end of the six-month period.

DEVASTATED CITIES

Canada Governor Of Stores Wrought In Germany

BERLIN.—A German woman who lives in Switzerland, gave a graphic description of a journey through devastated cities of western Germany, telling of women who broke into tears at the sight of the ruins and of old men who muttered bitterly that they had had enough.

The story was told in the Berne weekly, Die Nation.

"The horror begins at Mannheim, Ludwigshafen and Mainz—to the right and the left of the railroad line are ruins, terrible ruins," it quoted the woman as saying.

"A man opposite me suddenly burst into tears. She had been in the Black forest several weeks after she was bombed out, but the sight of the ruins brought back the horror.

"A man opposite me said 'I am from Cologne. You must see Cologne —it cannot be described'.

"We arrived at Cologne in rain and darkness. We tried to telephone, but all the booths were destroyed. I saw brave men go white and shaking to air raid shelters, taking their naked, wailed possessions in small suitcases.

"Clouds of smoke, pitiful ruins, heaps of rubble, and stench—that was Cologne. Beautiful churches were destroyed. The cathedral was damaged, but the spires were still standing. At the railroad station the first and second platforms were a pile of ruins. Even through Cologne was a penance . . . the old city was a heap of rubble.

"During the heavy raids, clouds of smoke lay over the city and shut out the sun. Gas fumes and decaying corpses putrified the air. Even Cologne stinks with fumes and filth."

Russian Pilots Fly Planes From Base in Alaska

EDMONTON. — Russian women pilots have played and are playing a prominent role in the United Nations lease-land scheme by piloting planes from Alaska to the Russian front after they have been flown to the far north from United States factories.

While not all the pilots are women, they have been acting as ferry pilots for the Russian government after the U.S. manufactured military aircraft are turned over to the Russians for combat duty against the Germans on the war front.

Planes bearing the Soviet insignia, a plain red star, have been seen by Albertans in Edmonton and along the Alaska highway for some time. They are flown via Edmonton and the string of Alaska highway airports, to Fairbanks where the Russians take them over

None of the Russian women pilots has been seen on Edmonton streets although Russian male pilots have been seen in public places here. On occasions they have attended sports events. Three Russian male pilots witnessed the Castilloux-Lust fight when the Canadian airman defeated the soldier and on another occasion took in a baseball game here. They were in uniform from the spectators on each occasion.

Existence of a northwestern Canadian air ferry route from the United States to Russia was disclosed in Washington by Robert P. Patterson, United States under-secretary of war.

NEW YORK. — The German-controlled Czech radio reported that Vaclav Benda, 59-year-old manager of the Skoda munitions works, had died in Prague.

NEW SESSION

The King Reviews War At Opening Of British Parliament

LONDON.—The King opened a new session of parliament—the ninth since the present House of Commons was elected in 1935—reading the speech from the throne which confidently said: "In the fourth year of the war the forces of the United Nations have been effective in all theatres of war . . . and in the coming year we shall with God's help be able to bring to bear upon the enemy a still greater weight of attack."

The King, wearing the uniform of admiral of the fleet, was accompanied by the Queen as he personally opened the new session of parliament. At the same time it was disclosed that the prorogation speech of the old session was read.

Reviewing the Allies' forward strides during the last year, the speech recalled:

"The enemy has been cast out of Africa; freedom has been restored to the Italy, Sardinia and Corsica, and in Italy our forces and those of our American ally now are engaging the enemy on the mainland of Europe."

"With this growing help of our Great American ally and together with the other United Nations we shall go forward with confidence in our cause until we have delivered the peoples of the world from fear of the aggressor," the speech said.

Of Russia, it said:

"On his eastern front the enemy has given ground before the massive, unrelenting advance of the Russian armies, whose magnificent achievements we have watched with ever-deepening admiration."

Turning to the conquered nations of Europe, the speech declared that they "are everywhere preparing to throw off the yoke of the oppressor and to await confidence to afford them such help and encouragement as lies in our power."

The opening ceremony was held in the King's robing room in which the House of Lords has met since the House of Commons chamber was demolished by German bombs in 1941.

Commons, which by ancient tradition the King may never visit, now meets in the original House of Lords chamber.

Allied Chiefs Meet In Conference

Present at a conference of Allied chiefs of staff in North Africa were these ranking men on land, on sea and in the air. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of Allied forces in that theatre and Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder.

GRIM SATISFACTION

How People Of London View The Destruction Of Berlin

LONDON.—There is a feeling of grim satisfaction among Londoners, who look the thundering bombardment the Nazis grotiingly delivered through the black winter and spring of 1940-41, that Berlin now is getting it back many-fold.

But although belated runs deep for the Germans who blasted, burned and broke businesses, homes, bodies and lives of hundreds of thousands of British people, the Londoners feel rather sorry for them. At the same time, they accept the necessity for grinding the Nazi capital and its leaders into dust. The Germans asked for it, is the general unemotional reaction.

The great raids are taken in characteristic British fashion as a planned, expectable part of the methodical campaign to beat the Germans. There is little undue optimism about its bringing a sudden German collapse.

Tempering all thoughts is the recognition that London's turn may come again at any time. While the Germans are short of bombers in which to attack, nobody is so foolish as not to recognize they might quickly assemble a sufficient force from other bases to give London a 500-plane raid.

New Mosquito Bomber Proves Most Successful

LONT JN.—Development of a new super-Mosquito combining both the armament of the fighter version of the versatile 400-miles-an-hour plywood plane and half the bombload of the stripped-down bomber without sacrificing speed was disclosed by the manufacturers, the De Havilland Aircraft company.

This means intruder squadrons now can add bombs to the hail of metal from cannon which plaster shower on Nazi airfields, ships and other important facilities.

The new version of the Mosquito has four 20-millimetre cannon, four .303 machine guns—the same armament as the fighter—plus 1,000 pounds of bombs. The straight bomber version can carry four 500-pound bombs.

The night fighter version with unspecified equipment was recently disclosed and has been coping comfortably with the German air fleet that hit and-run raiders. Some Canadians fly these night fighters.

There also are special transport, super-high altitude and super-long range versions of the Mosquito.

TORONTO — An engineer for De Havilland Aircraft of Canada said the new super-Mosquito fighter bomber will be used in Canada also. "We are pushing ahead with bomber production," said the spokesman.

MUST BE PLANNED

No Speedy Settlement Of Northern Areas Should Be Expected

EDMONTON - It's an error to expect a great rush of population to the north" Dr Charles Camsell, deputy minister of mines and resources told provincial and civic officials at a luncheon address here.

Chairman of the North Pacific planning project Dr Camsell said it is necessary to establish the economic value of the area before any population rush is started and that is one of the main aims of the commission.

Much of the area potentially is a coming region and it is on the phase the region must depend for its initial development

EXPENDITURE LOW

In Connection With Sale Of Fifth Victory Loan Bonds

OTTAWA.—Finance Minister Ilsley said he has "very good expectations" that the cost of selling Fifth Victory loan bonds will not exceed 87 cents for each $100 of the amount issued.

This figure compares with about 90 cents for the Fourth Victory loan last spring and an average of about $1 for each $100 worth of bonds sold in all five victory loans. The $1 includes full expenditures for preparation and delivery of the bonds, advertising and publicity, salesmen's commissions and all payments for financial firms and institutions, organization expenses, etc."

NEEDED AFTER WAR

TORONTO - Lord Woolton, Britain's food minister, has asked that shipments of powdered milk, sent overseas by Canadian Kinsmen's clubs, be continued after the war, a club spokesman said here. It would be directed, in the reconstruction period, to hungry peoples of Europe.

Cannot Depend On Bombing For Final Victory

LONDON.—The bombers's showdown bid for out and out victory in the battle of Berlin found ground officers pulling as hard as anyone for the world's first major victory through air power—but these men who must plan and lead an invasion from the west are keeping their fingers firmly crossed.

"Bombing, plus Russia's magnificent victories, may crush Germany before any great battle in the west," said one highly-ranked American officer. "But it would be criminal if these hopes led me to relax for one moment on the job that's been given to me in preparing for invasion, and it would be tragic if they led to any further over-confidence on the home front."

There is divergence of opinion among ground force leaders on the airmen's claims to crush Germany sufficiently to bring surrender, but those who think first in terms of land battles seem agreed that:

1. If such an economical victory is won it must be won by smashing the German will to fight and not by physical destruction of the means to make war, because the latter cannot prevent great enough to break the German army in the time remaining before the invasion deadline.

2. That the definite danger that the immediate value of these unprecedented, spectacular blows deep inside Nazidom is being exaggerated in the public mind and breed overconfidence which would react badly on the war effort.

An important British officer who knew the German heavy attacks on Britain in the winter of 1940-41 was inclined to discount the chances of smashing morale so that the German would revolt and sue for peace. He said:

"Unless that will to fight were broken, it would not have any decisive effect even if Berlin were bombed so badly it had to be abandoned.

"There would be dislocations of records and communications, of course. Men's pay and pensions and promotion might get mixed up; but it wouldn't paralyse operations, particularly since the German high command must have made extensive preparations to meet just such an emergency."

OBITUARY

MRS. MARY ARMSTRONG

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Armstrong, who passed away in the Vermilion hospital on Monday Nov. 22, was held on Friday Nov. 26 at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon at the United church. Interment took place in the family plot in the Vermilion cemetery. The Rev. C. S. Roshe conducted the service.

In the passing of Mrs. Armstrong the district lost one of its true pioneers. She came to Vermilion in the early days of 1907, and settled on the homestead five miles north-east of town, on what has since been the family home. She well knew what pioneering really meant. A devout Christian, she attended church service whenever possible and taught Sunday school at Island Hill for many years and also in the east before coming to the "New West". Of a quiet but courageous nature, it was while in the evening of her life that she faced unflinchingly two major operations in the Vermilion hospital, surviving both and enjoying this life a few years longer for her courage.

Born at Lancaster, Quebec, on January 1841 and receiving Remfrew as the family home she married Mr. Chas Mix, two sons from out of this and Norman of Vermilion, one sister Mrs Henry Clarke of Vermilion and five brothers. The pre-deceased by two children. The eldest son, Willie, was killed in 1917 at Vimy in the last world war.

The pall-bearers were Frank Baker, H. B. Evans, A. Searle, W. F. Venture, W. Mix, George Field.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from:

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange
Director, Public Relations Department, Bunge Grain Co., Ltd.

HAND LOOM WEAVING

Thirteen months are the Searle Grain Company started sponsoring weaving throughout the prairies. To date a total of 46 classes have been either completed or will shortly be completed. About 600 women and girls have been taught to weave at these classes. As each class finishes the women form themselves in to a weaving circle. These weaving circle, then carry on the good work, and have also in view the object of teaching their neighbors and other women and girls in their district. Many of the circles are now engaged in this worthy work.

150 looms have already been purchased by the weavers and more are being purchased week by week, and all these looms are in active use turning out the most useful and beautiful hand woven articles.

An estimate has been recently made that these prairie weavers have already woven the equivalent of 5,000 yards of material 45 inches wide, which fabrics have been made into bedspreads, blankets, curtains, tablecloths towels, hangings, rugs, scarves, handbags and clothes for men, women and children.

The prairie women who have learned to weave it seems, have become greatly interested in creating their own particular combinations of designs and colors, indicating that with all women there seems to be an instinctive desire to surround themselves in their homes with beautiful things.

A new service ribbon—the ribbon of the Canadian Volunteer Service medal will be awarded to volunteer members of Canada's Navy, Army and Air Force who have completed 18 months' voluntary service.

The bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy Taylor of Vermilion who wore a beige dress, with yellow rose for her flowers.

The best man was Mr. Herman Edich a friend of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Jusch, where many friends and relatives gathered to wish the young couple every happiness. Out of town guests present were Mrs. Stanley Calvert of Vermilion, mother of the bride and Mrs. R. Seaden of Mannville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jusch are now at home in Edmonton.

"SUFFER LITTLE CHILDREN . ."

Tenderness and innocence in children is the quality which brings out the best in those who are charged with their care. Men will work to support a family, expending them selves liberally, because they believe that through the children they will live again. Women surround a child with infinite love, endless patience, and the instinctive desire to protect and cherish.

What of the children whose advent into this world is unheralded by joy or love. What of the children whose mothers are ashamed because such children bear no name? Because their emotions have warped them, or their weakness is the source and bitterness surround the birth of an unwanted baby.

Every child has a right to an upright, honorable life in the eyes of The Salvation Army. Their belief is accomplished in a practical way by the establishment of rescue home for pregnant girls, so that they will have a healthy, quiet pre-natal period, from the critical gaze of curious relatives and friends. When their babe is born in one or another of the Salvation Army maternity hospitals both mother and baby return to the rescue home where the mother is taught to care for her young. Many girls, after being under the Army's wing for several months, learn a new sense of responsibility regarding their child, and make every effort to support and care for it; others disappear from the scene, leaving their child to be reared by others.

Height, happy homes are established in various Canadian centres where these children are brought up in love their fellow men, and to live a Christian way of life. Some children have one parent who contributes to their support, while others are the waifs and strays of humanity, tossed up on the shores of life.

A widow who works to make ends meet has no place to leave her small child during the day. Lack of supervision for the young one in either her into a desperate frame of mind. She takes her child to The Salvation Army home, and her worries are lessened. Perhaps she realizes a change for the better and she is ash to have her daughter home again. He is permitted to do so. Divorced or separated parents find a ready solution in the comforting, gentle atmosphere of an Army home for their child.

The last thing in the world a mother wants to do is to give up her child, but with the Army, it is not necessarily permanent. They will care for her baby until she is able to look after it herself. A widow, whose hands are clumsy when it comes to caring for his motherless brood, comes to the Army of mercy for help. They take a big load off his hands—and from his mind too. Many children stay in the homes until they are sixteen, after which they usually want to stand on their own feet. A number are adopted from the child dren's homes, and start life over with a real-life mother and father. But none of the children in the homes lack for love and kindness. They grow to love their foster-mother, and their little hearts beat happily to the tune of security and a regular home. Friendships are made, and the parents taught to help one another.

There are 26 boys in the London Ont., home, 23 girls in "The Nest" in Toronto; 100 boys and girls living in The Salvation Army home in Chatham—more than 150 children who will take their place in life as responsible citizens, with a sound background of Christian training to start them off on the right road.

Summer camps existing from coast to coast in Canada, give a wonderful holiday to the children of the poor, as well as to many from the child ren's homes. For some of the children who have never savored the sheer joy of playing on a lakeside beach, or swimming in cool, clear water, this holiday leaves a lasting impression. Many who otherwise would never leave the hot, dry pavement of the city in summer, experience a real happy holiday, thanks to The Salvation Army. Well over a thousand children were cared for in this way during 1942.

Stagette Notes

On Nov. 16th the Stagette meeting took the form of a social evening at the home of Betty Caldwell, a bride-elect of the near future. Betty graciously displayed her gifts as well as her personal hope chest after which a very delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Caldwell, assisted by Mrs. Wiebe and Mrs. Gobeyn. The girls enjoyed the evening very much.

On the evening of Nov. 23rd the Stagettes went to work in earnest. Daily met us at the club room with a huge pile of wool, obtained from the ladies of the Red Shield. We set right to work winding. Then out came the knitting needles and before long needlenines were made on sweaters, socks and scarves. The Navy boys should have these garments for next winter. The meeting proved to be very informal but sociable.

Club pins were given to new members as a token of membership.

COMPLETE RE-ASSESSMENT UNDERWAY IN THE TOWN

Outside Assessor Engaged

Sidney Gee, a well known building contractor and land valuator of Edmonton, has been engaged by the Town council to carry out a quadrennial assessment of the Town of Vermilion. The work will include all lands and premises in the town. This will be the first general revision of the town's assessment in a number of years and is the first time an outsider with impartial judgment has been called in for this purpose. It is provided in the Town Act that such assessment shall be made every four years. Mr. Gee has been engaged at his work for the past few days. It will take five or six weeks, and all property owners are asked to give him every assistance possible in the course of his revision.

FINAL PICTURES RELEASED ON HOME FRONT DRIVE

The recent Salvation Army Red Shield Victory Drive campaign for the Vermilion-Vegreville district has now been finalized, with a total return of $1121.81 being turned in to Campaign Headquarters.

A hearty "thank you" is extended by the officers concerned, to all who have given of time and interest in canvassing and promoting this effort, not forgetting all others who have so willingly contributed to this worthy cause.

S. C. HECKBERT PRESENTS BRIEF TO GOVERNMENT

S. Carl Heckbert, president of the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, headed a delegation at Legion officials which submitted a brief to the Alberta government committee on post-war reconstruction.

Mr. Heckbert pressed for the reduction of a number of specific proposals relating to veterans' welfare including housing, the placement of physically handicapped men in light industries, the establishment of veterans' guards and the establishment of veterans' homes in attractive premises such as the former government house in Edmonton, which he said was reported as becoming vacant.

The Legion president also sought co-operation of the provincial government in the effective carrying out of dominion measures.

Mr. Heckbert has addressed meetings at Edmonton and Red Deer this week in connection with the Legion drive for increased membership. He is accompanied by Mr. Alex Walker C.B.E., Calgary, Dominion President of the Legion.

Marketing of Damp Grain Now Allowed

Canadian Wheat Board Acts on Vermilion Board of Trade Resolution

DAMP GRAIN QUOTAS SET AT 14 AND 20 BUSHELS

Quick action was taken by the Canadian Wheat Board following receipt of a resolution passed by the Vermilion board of trade drawing their attention to the unsatisfactory condition prevailing regarding unthreshed and damp grain. The board of trade resolution was introduced by J. B. Robson and read as follows: "Whereas at the present moisture content of unthreshed grain in certain areas in east-central Alberta make it impossible to thresh for farm storage and whereas existing quotas do not allow for shipment of any but small quantities of grain, therefore be it resolved that we request the Canadian Wheat Board to remove restriction quotas in areas where present weather will prevent threshing to be removed so that grain now threshed will be permitted to go forward to terminal elevators for drying plants." This resolution was passed at the board of trade meeting on Nov. 18th and copies forwarded to the Canadian Wheat Board as well as to Ottawa and Edmonton.

On Monday the board of trade secretary received the following communication from the Wheat Board:

Mr. P. J. Richardson,
Secretary-Treasurer,
Vermilion Board of Trade,
Vermilion, Alberta

Dear Sir:

Since writing you on Nov. 19th, we have prepared and issued attached circular in connection with the delivery of damp grain.

We are in hopes that this will help the situation to a great extent.

Yours truly,
R. M. Mahoney,
Supervisor Delivery Quotas.

Re: Deliveries and shipments of damp wheat, oats, barley and rye.

In view of the possibility of damp grain going out of condition, the Board is anxious, as cars become available, to facilitate the movement of such damp grain, that is, running to over 17% of moisture. Producers are therefore urged to arrange delivery of such grain as soon as the crop is ripe.

The following procedure has been arranged for the delivery of such grain:

WHEAT — Producers having wheat with a moisture content of over 17% may make application to P.G. Elevators West Board, Winnipeg, for permission to deliver wheat up to 20 bushels per authorized acre that is present damp deliveries plus private deliveries for this year, may equal but may not exceed 14 bushels per authorized acre.

OATS, BARLEY & RYE—Producers having oats, barley or rye containing more than 17% of moisture may make application to The Canadian Wheat Board, Winnipeg, for permission to deliver up to 20 bushels per authorized acre of oats or any of these grains.

These applications must be supported by an affidavit from the producer embodying the following information:

1. Name and delivery point or points.
2. Producer's permit number
3. Quantity and kind of grain to be delivered.
4. Moisture content of the grain.
5. Name of company by whom such moisture test was made.
6. Name of company to whom grain will be delivered.
7. Definite assurance that only grain as represented by the sample test will be delivered.

Affidavit forms will be supplied by the Board upon request.

If the producer uses this privilege and delivers such wheat up to 14 bushels per authorized acre, but not the deliveries of ordinary grading wheat can be made as long as the wheat quota at his delivery point is 14 bushels or less per authorized acre.

If these deliveries constitute a delivery over and above the established quota at the producer's delivery point, then an additional 4c handling fee will be charged. The Board will clearly show that the delivery covered damp grain, and opposite this delivery will appear the notation, "Figure No 58".

The following procedure has been arranged for the shipment of this grain:

1. Upon application supported by an affidavit completed by the agent of the elevator company to which the damp grains have been delivered, approved by an official of the company, the Board will issue permits to ship the railway company less to points cars for the shipment of such grain as covered by the affidavit, such cars to be placed in preference over all other shipments. The affidavit with the permit must show bushels, estimated grade and moisture content of the grain and must be submitted to the Board's Traffic Department.

2. Only grain containing authorized moisture to be shipped from the inspection Department will be authorized for shipment on these special instructions.

3. All such permits authorizing shipments will be closely checked by the Board and if it is found that any shipments of damp grain have been overloaded, the net grade of the grain shipped, in accordance with the delivery quotas, will be changed to the grade next below actual.

School Holidays Dec. 23 to Jan. 4

The regular monthly meeting of the trustees of Vermilion Centre S.D. No. 1166 was held in the council chamber, town hall, on Thursday, Dec. 2 at 8 p.m. with the chairman Donald Bayley and trustees Andrew Bross, Adam and Reid present.

Messrs. L. H. Bussard and Frank H. Walker, principals of the high school, public schools resp attended with written reports on attendance promotions and general conditions prevailing in the respective schools for the month of November.

Mr. Bussard asked that now that the 5th room was in operation for five periods a day, teaching commercial subjects, and a focused attendance keeping, filing, etc., that some shorthand be erected to the school office and that a filing cabinet be provided for the classes on filing.

Mr. Walker reported an epidemic of measles and a lowered attendance as a result and submitted test grade for each individual pupil. These will follow the pupils through public school so that a complete record of each pupil will be at hand at any time.

Messrs. Taylor and Andrew reported that their classes with the Vermilion S.D. No. 15 in the same group the private sch of the only salary had been increased and that same had been agreed to by the Vermilion S.D. No. 15.

Tr. Andrew that the Secretary be instructed to write to the secretary of Isley village school Two Hills and Peace River S.D. asking them to agree to pay an attributive share of new teacher's salary.

Tr. Reid that shelving be erected as required by Mr. Bussard and that a drum of Lacol be purchased for the floors in the high school.

Letter was read from Mrs. Noonan asking that she be allowed to close her room on Jan. 22 as she will otherwise unable to get to Edmonton for Xmas Cr.

Tr. Adam That schools close on Dec. 23, 1943 and reopen on Jan. 4, 1944 C.S.

The Board discussed the advisability of selling the frame school now located on the grounds of the high school in view of the shortage of houses in the town.

A Bond Of Empire

THE STABILITY OF THE STRUCTURE of the British Empire has been a subject of discussion and conjecture among certain groups for some time. These groups are made up largely of people not living within the Empire, and doubtless their views are influenced to some extent by wishful thinking. They have, nevertheless, received some publicity which has led to considerable thought and discussion on the subject. Events of the past four years have shown beyond doubt that the ties which join together the various parts of the Empire have never been stronger than they are today. The most recent assurance of this fact has come in the appointment of His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester, the King's brother, as the Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia. This appointment is seen by many as an emphatic reply to those who have sought to show that there is disunity within the Empire, for it was made at the request of Prime Minister Curtin, the head of Australia's Labour government.

• • • • •

Duke Followed Army Career

The Duke of Gloucester, who is forty-three years old, rose to follow a military career and studied at the cavalry school at Sandhurst after leaving Eton. He was appointed chief liaison officer to the British field forces shortly after the outbreak of the war, and he served in France and Belgium before the fall of those countries in the spring of 1940. He has since served as chief liaison officer to Home Forces' Headquarters in that capacity he is well known to many members of the Canadian Army. Although he has always been interested in his career in the army, he has not let it interfere with his public obligations as a member of the Royal Family. It is felt that in accepting the exacting post of Governor-General of Australia he is once again displaying his willingness to serve the Empire. The Duchess of Gloucester, who has been active in war work in Britain, and is honorary chief commandant of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force, is held in high esteem by the British people, and is said to be exceptionally well fitted to fill the role of chatelaine of Australia's Government House at Canberra.

• • • • •

Bethelaan Is Shown By Press

It has been known for some time that the Australian public would have favored the choice of one of their own people for the post of Governor-General. It is considered deeply significant, therefore, that the Labor government of Premier John Curtin requested the appointment of a member of the British royal family at this time. The Australian press welcomed the announcement with enthusiasm and the Sydney Morning Herald carried an editorial in which it said, in part: "King George has honored Australia by designating his younger brother, the Duke of Gloucester to represent him in the Commonwealth For the first time a brother of the reigning King will become Governor-General of the Dominion and the significance of this development will not be lost upon the outside world." Prime Minister Churchill has said on more than one occasion that he did not intend to preside over the disintegration of the British Empire, and events are bearing out the wisdom of his statement.

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

COOKING VEGETABLES FOR VITAMIN PRESERVATION

Now know that the method of cooking vegetables is just as important as the choice, in obtaining a maximum amount of vitamins and minerals. Baking is the best method as the least amount of vitamins are lost, but not every vegetable can be baked satisfactorily But we can steam practically all vegetables and as they are not in the water, only the vitamins destroyed, by heat (about 10% is). Are lost. If we boil the vegetables and throw the water away, as most of us do, vitamin C and members of the vitamin B complex are lost because they are water soluble. Most of us cook vegetables in too much water, but science tells us they need be just covered with water In the case of leafy vegetables just the water that clings to the leaves after washing is necessary

We should divide vegetables into the following groups:

1. The leafy vegetables, chard, spinach, cabbage, broccoli and strong flavoured vegetables such as onions, turnips and Kohlrabi are cooked without a cover.

2. The other ones, beets, carrots, corn, parsnips, peas, potatoes, salsify, squash, string beans are cooked in a covered pot.

If you follow these few rules in cooking you will be getting the maximum food value from your vegetables.

1. Use raw vegetables
2. Bake or steam them frequently.
3. Boil vegetables in skins if possible, in little water and only until they are done.
4. Wash, peel or cut vegetables just before cooking.
5. Use the cooking water for soups, sauces, etc.
6. Serve immediately.

A post card request to the Western Division Health League of Canada, 311 Bloomfield Road, Toronto, will bring you a free copy of its authoritative Vitamin Chart.

He is well known in Winnipeg legal circles and as a graduate of the University of Manitoba takes a keen interest in the work of the U.A.T.C. At present, he is commanding officer of No. 9 Squadron, U.A.T.C., with the rank of Squadron Leader. He is a veteran of the Royal Air Force in World War I.

Mr. MacMillan, who was born in Hracebridge, Ont., is also a graduate of the University of Manitoba and Osgoode Hall, legal department in September, 1937.

Ancient Bible

Soldier Brings Home To Canada Valuable Souvenir

A soldier home on leave has brought with him a 324-year-old Bible as one of the war's most unusual souvenirs. The huge leather-bound volume, nearly four inches thick, was hidden in the chimney of an old manor house in North Devon during England's civil war (1642-49), and the Bible lay forgotten for 300 years, until German bombers, in the blight of their blitzkrieg on England, uncovered its hid ng place. The aged Bible, containing several thousand pages of fine, handset type, is considered in a remarkable state of preservation. Its wood-cut illustrations and contents are as clear and legible as they were three centuries ago. Only part of two heavy brass clasps are missing.—Charlottetown Guardian.

I FOUND A "BETTER WAY" TO CORRECT MY CONSTIPATION!

● We mean better work for most of us. It's certainly no time to be handicapped by that common type of constipation caused by lack of "bulk" in the diet. If you have that trouble, here's a simple, enjoyable method that so many people use to correct the cause—they eat ALL-BRAN regularly! Avoid resorting to purgatives that give only temporary relief.

This delicious cereal—it's grand toasting in endless ways—helps thousands regularly, and most people like their trouble "before it starts". Try two tablespoonfuls of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day . . . drink plenty of water . . . and see why it's called a "better way". Your favorite grocer has ALL-BRAN in two convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

INFANT WELFARE CLINICS

Infant welfare clinics have been greatly extended in Britain since 1940, despite the nation's pre-occupation with war, Dr. Dorothy Taylor, chief medical officer of the Division of Maternal and Child Welfare, British Ministry of Health, told a meeting at Toronto. But more important than the clinics themselves, Dr. Taylor said, was the follow-up work done by the health visitor or public health nurse. When a child is born in Britain, she explained, the medical officer of health is notified, and as soon as possible after the 14th day, when the average mother ceases to be under the doctor's care, a health visitor visits the home to advise the mother on the care of the infant. The mother is encouraged to visit the infant Welfare Clinic at stated intervals, but any unexpected health problems of each case are helped by the home visits until the child reaches school age. These social services are free to all mothers.

England and Wales now have 2,555 Infant Welfare Clinics provided by local authorities, and 813 maintained by voluntary organizations, the Health League of Canada was told by Dr. Taylor. Attendance at these centres had increased largely since the beginning of the war, said Dr. Taylor, and in large communities such as the industrial city of Birmingham, 90 per cent. of expectant mothers attend the pre-natal clinics, while 70 per cent. of the babies were regularly brought to the Infant Welfare Centres.

Roman Cemetery

Ancient Graveyard Was Unearthed In Britain

W. Percival Westell, 69, curator of Letchworth museum in Hertfordshire, and supervisor of excavating work in 1925 which unearthed a Roman cemetery at Baldock, died recently.

The cemetery, covering nearly 1,000 square yards, yielded 320 graves groups, including one with a curse—a leaden tablet pierced with nine holes. In five of the holes iron nails had been inserted. The piercing was stated to indicate the "fixing" power of the curse, which paralyzes its victim, depriving him of the strength of life.

Smallest War Factory

In An English Cottage, Elderly Couple Produce Munitions

Up a winding path, on the edge of the forest in one of the Home counties of England is hidden away one of Britain's smallest war factories.

In this cottage an elderly middle-class couple do an important job—the assembly of supply—they make gauges, accurate to a ten-thousandth of an inch for rifles, Brens, Stens and anti-tank guns.

Working as a partnership, on machinery much of which was invented by the craftsman himself, they have produced 1,000 of the very essential gauges. The man, who is known simply as "Mr. Smith", has been an inventor all his working century. He built and designed a special munitions car for use by Prince Olaf of Norway.

Plan To Utilize Farm Products In Industries

OTTAWA.— Community co-operative through which farmers will supply local plants with raw materials may be an important factor in the development of rural industry in Canada, two agricultural scientists told the House of Commons recently.

Dr. W. H. Cook, director of applied biology, national research council, and Prof. W. D. McFarlane, department of chemistry, Macdonald college, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., discussed the possible development of rural industries making use of surplus crops and some residue products such as straw.

They agreed that farmers should be interested in such developments, which would ensure that raw materials would be supplied the plants continuously.

Dr. McFarlane said alcohol production might be attained in rural plants, although sometimes there might be a question for the excise department as to the consumption of some of the product.

The committee expects to hear evidence from Premiers A. S. MacMillan of Nova Scotia and J. B. McNair of New Brunswick. The recommendation of premiers of Manitoba and Alberta already have been heard.

Dr. McFarlane said there was need of investigation of the costs of raw materials which might be used for making alcohol and other products in rural industry. This could be done by establishing a small distillery in a local area with the assistance of farmers who might have money in the project.

Dr. Cook said about two gallons of alcohol could be obtained from a bushel of wheat. The conversion costs, including labor, fuel, capital charges and overhead, would differ in various parts of the country.

If coal, water and labor costs were counted in it would perhaps be possible in some areas to produce alcohol for from 18 to 14 cents a gallon, to which have to be added distribution and other expenses. In general, a distillery would do well if it kept the conversion cost to 18 cents a gallon, while other expenses would have to be added.

Dr. McFarlane said western Canada in particular would benefit greatly from the development of rural industries so that farm products would be largely processed in a processed or semi-processed state. The utilization of straw, which might be used for building materials, fuel, cigarette papers and other purposes, should be an early subject of study.

The burning of straw piles represented "a terrible waste," said Dr. Cook.

Dr. McFarlane said that if a research institute on agriculture were established the location was not vital, but other things being equal it should be near the area where raw materials were produced.

If research were concentrated in the prairie provinces it should not be divorced from the universities there and should work closely with them, Dr. Cook said the difficulty in using western straw was in gathering it to one central point for processing. A solution might be rural industries, and the use of straw for insulation and fuel. Development of a binder for straw to make straw possible for fuel was necessary.

Empire Council Is Urged For Our Security

EDMONTON.—Establishment of an Empire council which "might well deal with such matters as defence, shipping, aviation, migration of people and reciprocal social security," was urged by J. G. Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Lake Centre, Sask.

In an address to members of the Canadian Club, Mr. Diefenbaker said that "the members of the British Commonwealth we have the right to be consulted. The other nations of the Empire have the right to expect to be consulted by us for we have learned we cannot move separately in our respective ways.
